MEMPHIS APPEAL.

From "Les Chansons des Rues et des Bois."

AN ALCOVE TO THE EAST.

BY VICTOR HUGO.

The lovely moon has lost of smiling;
Flowers hide the old trunk gay
Only, Sultana, to please thee, Night — to women
Everything seems vanged to-day.

At farther end an alcove despairing
No search nor spy, nor eye;
There dwelleth in I Oh, solemn guardine!
There a lady lies asleep.

So tiny, in Cardigouv corner!
Her long, in her cradle white,
A sighed sweating in the shadow,
Half at dust and half of light.

The coral on the ground has fallen;
Her eglatte held in disgrace calm,
The silver bell hangs over, as she
Lifts to Heaven her sinless palm.

How she sleeps! Of good, of evil,
Of danger and care she untaught to know!
Her dream is but the morning's pathway,
Where the angels come and go.

Her arms, each instant, lift and beats
Her, again, star shows thinge;
The air by her sweet breath hurrified
As the bee hummed by.

Around her now the sunlight broodeth;
All, it is God's look which lies
Resting, sacred and transpiranet,
On beauty sleeping, calm.

ARTEMUS WARD VISITS STEIN'S GOLD GIFT SALE.

Our Blessings Just Now Consist of Ile Weils and Gift Sales.

I far nit own yart am not as grate a stailsman as Andy Johnson or Seemor; nor am I so grate a profit as Guvernor Seward or Deacon Beecher; but one thing I kno as well as any other man, & that is the real awfiorious gold when I see it. So much on that affinitive," said the observant Samivel Veller might her sed, but he didn't.

I hev traveled enuf and visited jewelry bizniss in marbled halls, with alabaster shekelliers, but I pacuss of nad ideer of the splendor or marvelos, elegant of the Gold Gift Sail.

It was a hablund day when we first entered the open portles of that benivolant show; I sed we, for nil own Betsy Jane hung to mi wing, and sheltered by my coat sollur from the hoot leedih of any lady kinfolkers, she spread herself mildly, in her most languishin stile, clingin proudly to her protector.

We were akompanied by a towerist and artist, Sir Crontcutter, a fornin gentleman, who acted as mi friend in this is a guak, for he is not in a monetary of the kaes, but he merely treasures up the grate and little sayin that ockasionally drop from mi lips, and he reports them weekly to the Times newspaper—not the little villan's Times from New York, but the thunderin big one from London.

Sir Crontcutter is one of the hunkiest jenious and most habitual connesseurs English society once a while can afford to gair for the benefit of its benited or rather unkinited Yankee roosters.

When we first entered the festive shop mi Betsy Jane punched me softly. I turned to the left, where in a little niggin hev I seed the most exqueeite French lady settin. She had black eyes and looked real frisky. She had in frunt of her a post office full of letters. It reminded me of our Baldinvill post office, under old Bockanan's administration. I axed the young femail in mi most gushin manner, "Is there any letters for me?"

"Bress God, it this ain't Mass Jeff!"—A colored man, a true and faithful servant, now in the service of Capt. Thomas Jett, an old and esteemed citizen of this county, came into our office yesterday, to get Capt. Jett's papers. In looking around, he espied a picture of Col. Jeff. Davis, hanging on our walls. He walked up to it and exclaimed: "Bless God, if this ain't Mass Jeff!" Upon inquiry, we learned that the man had formerly belonged to Mr. Laughlin, a connection of the Davis family, and knew Mr. Davis well. He left our office with tears in his eyes. Will somebody show this to Mr. Greeley and Senator Sumner?—Vicksburg Herald.

FEMALE SUFFRAGE.—A woman in Pennsylvania has petitioned for a divorce, because she and her husband "do not agree on politics." What a nice time the courts will have of it as soon as Congress decides that white ladies have as much right to the elective franchise as plantation negroes. How many poor fellows will be not only led to the ballot box, but compelled to vote just as their wives dictate. An exchange is justly alarmed at the probable consequence of refusing to comply, and thus points them out: Will not the wife sue for a divorce, turn the husband out of doors, and then look for a more genial, plastic and political mate?

NEW SKIRT.

FOR 1866.

THE GREAT INVENTION OF THE AGE.

J. W. Bradley's

Celebrated Patent

DUPLEX ELLIPTIC

(Or double Hoed Spring)

SKIRT.

WEBB, BRADLEY & CARY,

Sole Proprietors and Manufacturers, 97 Chambers and 79 and 81 Reade Street,

NEW YORK.

This invention consists of Duplex for two Elliptic Fine Rolled Steel Springs, ingeniously braided lightly and firmly together, edge to edge, making the toughest, most flexible, elastic and durable spring ever used. They accommodate or bend, like the Steel Spring, and consequently preserve their perfect and beautiful shape more than twice as long as any Single Spring Skirt that ever is or can be made.

The wonderful flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be a perpetual surprise to all crowded assemblies, whether in cars, railroad cars, church pews, arm chairs, for promenade and horseback exercise, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a muslin dress.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day will never afterward willingly dispense with their use. For Children, misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

The hoops are covered with two ply double twisted thread, and will wear twice as long as the single yarn covering which is used on all single steel hoop skirts. The three bottom rolls on every skirt are warranted not to rust, tear or double crease to prevent the covering from wearing off the edge. The Duplex Elliptic Skirt, alone, stands, sits, rides, etc., which they are constantly worn, just as well as a hoop skirt.

All are made of the best and elegant corded tapes, and are the best quality in every part, giving to the wearer the most graceful and perfect shape possible, and are unquestionably the lightest, most durable, most desirable and economical skirt ever made.

For sale in all first class stores, Wholesale and Retail, in this city, and throughout the United States and Canadas, Havana de Cuba, Mexico, South America, and the West Indies.
