FINANCIAL.

There is less ease, or rather there is more tightness, in money than since the fourth of the month, which is a probable consequence of the diminished quantity of cotton that has been selling owing to the holidays, obstructions to transit and other causes. Exchange is in small offering, the rates still remain unchanged. Gold is decidedly scarce, and though buyers are offering 112 little is to be obtained. In stocks and bonds nothing was doing; it was understood that some Arkansas levees could be had at 25c, but there is no money to spare for investment just now if there was a readiness to take at that figure. We hear of no offer above 21, but those who have advices from the knowing ones in Little Rock express the most decided confidence in the near future of these bonds.

COTTON.

The telegrams show no change since yesterday—New York dull at 20½c, Liverpool heavy at 9½d, New Orleans quiet at 19½c. The tone of the markets as expressed in the telegrams is unfavorable and full receipts repress buoyancy. In our market, while quotations remain unchanged lots were in several instances obtained at a concession where ready money was given. An immediate cheque was the most powerful of all influences to-day, consequently there was some irregularity. While some of the buyers reported purchases at rates below the market others found the asking stiffer than the day before. No cotton above low middling was reported and of that 150 bales were taken at 19c. A 230 bale lot of strict good ordinary was obtained at 17¾c, which will be understood from what we have said above. Most of the purchases were for spinners. Exporters are mostly awaiting the lower prices they expect to come when cotton begins to pour in from the small rivers and bayous. Buyers for spinners are finding difficulties from obstructed transportation. One house, after an infinitude of telegraphing backwards and forwards, has received word that the mills for which it buys has stopped running for want of cotton, although over 4000 bales are now on the road. Telegrams by letters proving vain a messenger has been sent express to take charge of a 750 bale lot at Evansville and accompany it night and day to its destination, to see that it does not get switched off and left on the way. Sales to-day aggregated 1100 bales. We repeat quotations:

GENERAL MARKET.

There were no additions to our nearly exhausted stocks to-day, consequently any operations of moment were impossible. A flatboat was offering Corn at 65c but the certainty that there will be arrivals by Monday prevented any purchase. For the less Oats offering 55c was the inside figure asked. Hay sold as high as $45 yesterday evening, and the only lot of choice in town was closed out at $50 this morning, the holder allowing a bale to one and two bales to others as personal favors. Bran is held at $25. Shipstuff was sold from flatboat at $24 50. Cornmeal was offered at $3 25 to arrive, but the City of Chester is due and a heavy shipment is expected on her which interfered with sales "to arrive." A lot of selected Butter sold at 30c, but 28c is the ordinary price for the best. Eggs are very scarce and sound sold at 35@38c; some old stock brought 32c. Small Game was in fair supply at moderate rates. Apples are dull and there is no advance in price. Potatoes showed some excitement, $3 50 is the asking price in store for thoroughly sound peachblows and russets were sold at $3 12½, 100 bbls early rose seed potatoes sold at $4 50. Onions appear to be exhausted. Cabbage is unchanged. Provisions exhibit excitement, spite of the immensity of the hog slaughter, and spite of the great weight of the animals, rates are strengthening and here there is some excitement with advancing rates. Coffee is very strong with an upward tendency.

There are railway and other interests possessing for attention which require the public action of our business men. The Legislature of the State is now sitting and Memphis business men ought to be on the alert to have all unjust and unwise burdens upon commerce removed. This will require united action, that action must come under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce or we shall not have it at all. If the Chamber of Commerce is to be as influential as it can be and ought to be, it must be well supported with money, and what is even more important, heartily strengthened by the influence of a numerous and earnest membership. In New Orleans, as we learn from the Picayune, a great many new members are joining the Chamber of Commerce. The following from that paper applies in all its force to Memphis: "Merchants are entirely too apathetic about public affairs, and notwithstanding that the Chamber of Commerce already has a large membership, its assemblies are very poorly attended, and it often happens a bare quroum is present at the regular monthly meeting. Business men in this city seem to have no conception of the value of co-operation. There is very little public spirit, and that sense of obligation to labor for the public good is lamentably deficient. A common bond of interest unites the members of the various branches of business. A commercial community guided by one impulse and showing a solid front must inevitably be prosperous. A great metropolis without a common purpose, in which there is no care for the common good, and no effective combination for the discussion and digestion of all public business affairs, is at the mercy of competing cities."

Quotations for feed are for round lots on the landing unless otherwise expressed.

Boston Insurance.

Boston (Jan. 16) Dispatch to the New York Tribune.]

In compliance with a resolution of the last Legislature, the Insurance Commissioner presented, this afternoon, to the present Legislature his report, showing "the standing and condition of the fire insurance corporations in the Commonwealth, insolvent or otherwise." Immediately after the fire, the Commissioner, Julius L. Clarke, undertook a special report on data furnished by several statements of companies. After the Legislative action an opportunity was given to companies to revise their reports, and the present tabulation is based on the latest information, though full returns have not been received from the California and foreign companies, and their Boston losses are accordingly derived from their local agencies. Of the fifty-seven mutual fire companies in Massachusetts, twenty-one suffered from the fire, while the joint stock companies, numbering thirty-one, were all, save one, involved. The report shows the condition of the one hundred and eighty-seven companies doing business in Massachusetts, of which one hundred and forty-seven reported losses ranging from $500 to $3,000,000, the Dedham Mutual being the smallest and the Merchants of Boston the largest loser, the latter's losses being $2,844,000. The whole amount of property insured throughout the burnt district is not reported, and probably cannot be fully ascertained, though the actual losses adjusted or nearly adjusted for payment show a close approximation. These, after deduction of salvages represent an aggregate amounting to nearly $56,500,000. What per centage of this large amount will be finally realized by the property losers cannot now be determined. They will be fortunate if the maximum should reach seventy per cent. Mr. Clarke thinks it is likely to be less.

The report, of course, gives officially only the losses sustained by the insurance companies, the aggregate of all losses by the fire being estimated at from $50,000,000 to $60,000,000. The estimate is about $5,000,000 in excess of the Assessor's estimate, $75,000,000, accepted by the Secretary of the Board of Trade in his report. The twenty-six home companies which have fallen include four mutuals and all but eleven of the joint stock companies of the State. The Faneuil Hall, of the latter class, was placed under temporary injunction, which will soon be removed, the company having made arrangements for the prompt settlement of the losses and the restoration of its capital. The New England, also a heavy loser, has been relieved by a special act of the Legislature, authorizing the issue of preferred stock, all of which has been promptly taken up. Of the one hundred and fifteen companies which survive their losses, more than thirty have been compelled to adopt measures for the restoration of their capital or assets, in most cases by assessments ranging from twenty to seventy-five per cent., and a few others by a reduction of capital. The Union, of San Francisco, has ceased writing in Massachusetts, and refused to the Eastern agent in the Liverpool and London and Globe, the latter promptly paying the losses of the former. Among the losses by the Boston fire are thirty-three insurance companies which were not authorized in Massachusetts, their losses amounting to $537,000. This insurance was in some cases effected outside the limits of the State, and in others clandestinely secreted within it. Thirty-one of the insurance companies represented in the State are now in the hands of receivers. Of these, twenty-six are Massachusetts companies. The total losses of Massachusetts companies as previously given in the Tribune are $35,700,000, of which the joint stock companies lose about $30,000,000. The only mutual fire marine company losing was the India, which lost $345,000. The distribution of losses outside the State is about as follows:

New York companies	$7,500,000
Pennsylvania companies	2,750,000
Connecticut companies, about	3,000,000
Rhode Island companies, little over	1,600,000
Foreign companies	4,600,000
Maine companies	500,000
Ohio companies	250,000

New Hampshire, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and California together lose less than $250,000, and New Hampshire gets off with $8500. Twenty-eight companies have been admitted to do business in the State since the fire. Under the general insurance law, recently enacted, twelve new companies have been organized and chartered, and nine have already begun business.
