

PRETTY GIRLS MARRY THE UGLY MEN BECAUSE—

Did you ever ponder over the problem of why pretty girls marry plain men?

One woman has thought the matter a plain or even ugly mate is wise, London Tit-Bits says.

The wise girl, she asserts, is perfectly aware that the ugly man will make a far better husband than the Adonis who is adored by every feminine beholder of his charms.

The ugly man is so frequently accustomed to being ignored or slighted by the empty-headed but good-looking woman that the sensible girl who is able to see below the surface at once finds a faithful admirer and grateful slave.

Compliments from the plain man are of far more value than the easy flattery of the much-sought-after handsome male, who is seldom so sincere through reason of opportunity and adequate practice.

Plain men generally marry early in life, as soon as funds will permit, while the good-looking males prefer to enjoy the fun a little longer, and to bask in the admiring glances and pleased smiles of the maidens upon whom they bestow their patronage.

HOW TO LIVE LONG. A Paris contemporary has been instructing its readers how to live to a good age, drawing its conclusions from the lives and writings of distinguished men.

Michael Eugene Chevreul, the celebrated French chemist, who lived one hundred and three years, was always very frugal in regard to his diet, and considered a happy disposition to be an important factor contributing to his long life.

Victor Hugo had a tablet on the wall of his house with the following: "Rising at six, dining at ten, supping at six, retiring at ten make the life of man ten times ten." The secret of Mithras' health lies in his great moderation in all things.

Sir Benjamin Ward Richardson declared that those who wished to reach a century must neither smoke nor drink, eat sparingly of meat, work as little as possible by artificial light, trouble themselves little about making a fortune and never allow ambition to rule their lives.
