PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

A meeting was held in Atlanta Monday to discuss the situation in view of the recent decision of the attorney-general declaring the nine million lease of the State road void. The sentiment of the meeting was that no idea of abandoning the lease will be entertained, and any effort to set it aside by the State will be strenuously resisted.

Mr. J. S. Roberts, contractor on the Ohlewah and Red Clay extension of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, states that work is progressing finely on the extension. Mr. Roberts has the contract for furnishing about 30,000 crossties for the line. He has already 20,000 of them cotton out, and will finish up by the 1st of May if nothing happens.

An Atlanta special states: "Just now extraordinary sparring is going on in railroad and railroad commission circles. The State of Georgia advanced to the front ranks in dealing with railroad corporations when it established a Board of Railroad Commissioners, with power to regulate freight and passenger rates, and other States of the Union are copying the Georgia law on the subject. Recently a suit was instituted by the Georgia railroad against the commission testing the constitutionality of the law creating the board, notwithstanding the fact that such cases have already been adversely decided in the United States Court. It now transpires that the railroad commission has ascertained that the Georgia Railroad and Banking Company has forfeited its charter. It is said that the lease of the Georgia railroad is in direct violation of the charter, and the pressing of their suit against the railroad commission may result in measures being taken to have the charter of the Georgia Railroad and Banking Company declared forfeited. The injunction of the Georgia railroad against the commission, to have been tried at Macon today, has been postponed until the 21st. A suit was brought to restrain the commission from enforcing Circular No. 20, which reduces freight on flour and grain."
