PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

An accident to a locomotive on the Memphis and Charleston railway Tuesday morning delayed the east-bound train 5 hours. Nobody hurt.

A CONTRACTOR on the New Orleans, Memphis and Vicksburg railroad passed through Chattanooga Tuesday with a squad of 50 colored laborers to work on the road.

In another column will be found the announcement of the marriage of Mr. J. B. Bennett, the popular day telegrapher at the depot of the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern railway in the South. The bride is Miss B. Thomas, a charming young lady from the best circles of Gallaway Station. The "roll" will be APPEAL joins their hosts of friends in congratulations and well wishes.

RAILROAD COMMISSIONER TURLEY has been investigating freight rates in Middle Tennessee. In some places he found considerable direr situation, but the railroad companies very readily reduced the rates when asked by the commissioner. The full Board will visit Chattanooga in August for the purpose of adjusting any improper rates. He is highly pleased with the kindness and respect which they have been shown by the railroad companies.

RACCOON trestle on the Georgia division of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad seems to be ill-fated. Since the construction of the road it has figured conspicuously in accidents, in which 6 men have lost their lives, and now it is again before the public by burning partially down. The fire was discovered Monday about noon, after the south-bound passenger train passed over the trestle. It caught fire near the south end and was one-third destroyed. It will be at once replaced.

THE railway builders in the southern part of the city and suburbs are pushing work during the present favorable weather. The connecting link between the Memphis and Kansas City and the Memphis and Charleston will be completed in a few days, and the decline of the river will soon admit of the resumption of work on the Memphis and Kansas City "bottoms" on both sides of the river. The street through which the roads run in the Tenth ward are crowded with railway material, and construction trains are running in every direction.

The New York "L" Suits.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The Metropolitan Elevated Railroad Company's suit against the Manhattan and New York Company to enjoin the October agreement of 1881, is now pending in the Court of Common Pleas. A temporary injunction was granted restraining the defendants from carrying out these agreements, and recently the defendant companies moved to set aside this injunction upon their giving bond to indemnify the plaintiff company against any loss which they might sustain upon the vacating of the injunction. Chief Justice Daly decided that he would accept bond in the sum of $196,000 and vacate the injunction. The injunction has been vacated, but the bond has been increased to $292,500. The bond sets forth that the Manhattan Railway Company, the New York Elevated Railway Company, Cyrus W. Field, Jay Gould and Russell Sage, do severally undertake in the sum of $292,500 that they will pay plaintiff any loss not exceeding this sum by reason of vacating this injunction. Field, Gould and Sage each say for themselves that they are worth $600,000 over and above all debt liabilities.

Bonds—State bonds quiet. Railway bonds lower. Governments unchanged, except for 3s, which were ¼ better, 103¼@103⅝.

Stocks—The market was less active and fluctuations comparatively slight. A firm tone characterized early dealings, and the general list advanced ½ to ¾, although there were several slight reactions. The market continued firm until about 2 o'clock, when the highest quotations generally were attained. The improvement was due chiefly to more favorable crop advices from the Northwest, especially the Red River Valley District, where needed rains generally were reported. After 2 o'clock a raid was made upon Lackawanna and Reading, which declined 1¼ and 1 respectively (the remainder of the list yielded only ½@¾), and closed steady at some recovery. Compared with last night's closing changes are slight and as a rule ½ to 1 higher, Wabash preferred, Central Pacific, Rock Island, Missouri Pacific, Kansas and Texas and Omaha showing the greatest improvement. Lackawanna and Reading however, were lower. In specialties Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Indianapolis rose 1 to 7¾, Oregon Improvement ¾, Rochester and Pittsburg ¾, Ohio and Mississippi ¾, Illinois Central, based lines, fell off 1 to ¾, Manhattan 1¼, Manhattan, new, 2, Oregon Navigation 1¼, St. Louis and San Francisco preferred 1, Virginia Midland 1.
