BIG POLITICAL GAME IN TONNAGE TAX BILL

Governor Eberhart's Boss Wants Iniquitous Measure to Pass Both Houses.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY HONOR INVOLVED IN BOTH PLANS

Reapportionment Also Considered in Scheme to Get Control of State Senate.

Special Correspondence.
By W. E. McEwen.)

ST. PAUL, Mar. 16.—Today is a big day for St. Louis county. In the house the tonnage tax bill is up on a special order, and re-apportionment claims the attention of the senate. At this writing the outcome seems uncertain in either case.

Strange stories of two well studied political schemes are going the rounds of the Capitol building. It is common talk that both bills are to be used to boost the personal interests of Governor Eberhardt. If the tonnage tax passes both houses and is put up to the governor, political scheme No. 1, will be used. If the tonnage tax bill should fail to reach the governor, and in the event of the defeat of re-apportionment, political scheme No. 2 will be worked.

Political Dopsters.
The political dopsters down here have it studied out pretty well. There are still a few of the old school of politicians left, and they seem to play the game in the same old fashioned way, with just a few slight variations.

Edward E. Smith, Governor Eberhardt's political manager, astute at times, and just like any of the rest of us at other times, is not always mute. Mr. Smith has never liked the way St. Louis county treated the candidacy of Governor Eberhardt last fall. But that is not all. While disappointed in not receiving the usually Republican majority for his candidate, he is more than vexed to think that the ranges are represented in the senate by such a free lance as Jimmie Boyle, and the city of Duluth by such a consistent Democrat as Harry Cheadle.

"It is the limit of ingratitude," thinks Smith and his allies. So the big leader became talkative one night last week. "The St. Louis county fellows will have to come to me before the session is ended," he is reported to have said. That was all, but it was sufficient, for a few words from Mr. Smith have a world of meaning.

Scheme No. 1.
This is scheme No. 1. Ed Smith wants the tonnage tax bill to reach Governor Eberhardt. As a matter of fact the people of southern Minnesota care nothing about a tonnage tax. Only the politicians down there talk about it, and they use it largely for political effect, not because a tonnage tax is popular, but for the reason that a trust is unpopular.

The effect of a tonnage tax on the people of St. Louis county receives little attention in any discussion of the question, but the fact is made much of that the tax is to be paid by the greatest industrial organization in the world.

Because of this condition Gov. Johnson was not condemned by the people of the southern portion of the state when he vetoed the tonnage tax bill of two years ago. As a matter of fact no one seemed to care anything about it, while the people of the north lauded our lamented governor to the skies.

Ed. Smith well knows that Governor Eberhardt can follow the example of his illustrious predecessor without politically injuring himself in any portion of the state. For this reason he hopes the legislature will pass the tonnage tax bill.

Of course it will be just as easy for the governor to sign the bill as it will be for him to veto it, and this is where he will be strong. Delegates will pour down upon him, but he will maintain a sphinx-like silence, save to say that he will be pleased "to give the plea of the citizens of St. Louis his most earnest consideration." Then will come down Lee Willcuts, Eb Hawkins, Odin Halden and the rest of the big guns. These experienced political war horses will know better than lose any time on the governor. They will go further up, a council will be held with Ed Smith and he will be urged to "use his influence" with the governor to veto the tonnage tax bill.

I can see the big fellow now sitting back in his chair waiting to turn the trick. Last fall's campaign will be reviewed, and a promise will be exacted that St. Louis county will be for Eberhardt two years hence and Senators Boyle and Cheadle are to be supplanted by men who will help to restore Smith's lost power in the senate.

Scheme No. 2.
Scheme No. 2: Re-apportionment stands a very poor show of passing the senate today. Two or three St. Louis county citizens about here are accusing me of defeating re-apportionment, for no other reason than that the Labor World has exposed the iniquitous method of the politicians up north in gerrymandering St. Louis county to continue themselves in power. I am not worrying about such a charge. When the legislature shall have adjourned the true story of this attempted re-apportionment will be known to every citizen of Minnesota.

Should the re-apportionment bill fail to pass the senate, the governor will be called upon to make good the promise he made at Brainerd last fall to the effect, that if the legislature did not pass an honest re-apportionment bill he would convene it in special session, and keep it in session until a bill was passed giving to the northern portion of the state its full representation in the legislature. Here again will Ed Smith be in a position to demand terms of the interests in St. Louis county. This is his program, and we might as well make our plans to meet it. What have the people to say about such scheming at the expense of the state?

AT THE THEATERS.

AL. H. (METZ) WILSON.

Al. H. Wilson, the German dialect comedian, is scheduled to appear at the Lyceum on Friday and Saturday March 24-25 in his latest success, a new singing comedy entitled "A German Prince." Mr. Wilson requires no lengthy press notices couched in flowery language to inform the public of this city as to who and what he is. They are well acquainted both with him and his capabilities as a comedian and singer, for he long since won his way into the ir favor with his melodious voice and tuneful ballads ever breathing of love and heart interest. It can be said, however, that to lend atmosphere to the pro-

With Bingo are a number of other animals and a trained elephant, "Little Hip," that is the wonder of the age, and which, like Bingo, was brought to this country by the management, at a great expense. For "Polly of the Circus" also the Barlow Pony circus is one of the features, with clowns, acrobats, bareback riders and ringmasters. Miss Effie Dutton; the greatest bareback rider in the world, does stunts from the back of a horse that are unheard of, and to think of it, all on the stage of a theater.

RAYMOND HITCHCOCK.

"The Man Who Owns Broadway," the masterpiece of Geo. M. Cohan which he wrote especially for Raymond Hitchcock, is one of the big shows announced for an early presentation in this city. It comes with a duction the clever touch of the scenic artist's brush will be augmented with mechanical and electrical effects that render the stage pictures true to nature. As indicated by the title the scenes are laid in Germany—along the river Rhine and in the Austrian Tyrol—and the story is told in picturesque surroundings and among a people known for their quaint habits and everlasting friendships. During the performance Mr. Wilson will sing several new songs composed by him especially for this production. As a usual thing Wilson's new songs prelude his advent, and the delightful refrain of his "My Queen of Dreams" is already being hummed and whistled by every urchin who can carry a tune.

"POLLY OF THE CIRCUS."

In the company appearing in Frederic Thompson's "Polly of the Circus," with pretty Georgie Olp in the little role, which comes to the Lyceum on March 26-27 are, in addition to a score or more of well known actors, a number of circus people, and circus acts which contribute not a little to the success of the play.

The big third act sawdust scene represents a three ring circus in actual operation—one of the most realistic stage pictures ever shown on a stage of a theater. Among the many features of "Polly of the Circus" is a trained horse called "Bingo," a thoroughbred Arabian animal that was brought to this country by Barnum and Bailey's circus and afterwards sold to the New York Hippodrome when Frederic Thompson was the managing director. During the summer months Bingo is one of the features of that amusement place, Luna Park, Coney Island, New York City. Miss Olp and Bingo are great friends. That little actress says that her horse "can do almost anything but talk."

great cast of eighty people and special orchestra, and with a scenic and costume equipment which is said to be massive and as beautiful as it is possible for modern stage masters to devise.

Mr. Hitchcock enjoys an almost unparalleled record of success throughout the country and his appearance here may be looked forward to with more than ordinary anticipation of enjoyment. It is said that the comedy situations are uproariously funny and the characters are rational and skillfully drawn. Mr. Hitchcock will be supported by a company of eight people, including Miss Flora Zabell (Mrs. Raymond Hitchcock), whose winning personality and sympathetic voice of velvet richness makes her especially suited for the leading feminine role.

The company is booked to appear at the Lyceum on April 9 and 10.

"What Happened to Jones." That's the name of the play, and just what did happen to Jones has made the people of several continents laugh. This screamingly funny farce was written by George H. Broadhurst, a man with a sense of humor as broad as it is keen and satirical, and so successful was his play that it will be presented by the Mack-Leones next week with Willard Mack as Jones, incorrigible, unpharable, Jones, the man to whom happened a multitude of things.

Miss Maude Leone will play the part of "Cissy," who falls in love with Jones, believing that he is the bishop. What happened when "Cissy" learns the true identity of Jones, who generally succeeds in upsetting the professor's house, will be left to the amusement of the theater-goers. The part of Professor Goodly will fall into the hands of Mr. Nelson,

"P. & W." Specially Tailored

Spring Suits $25

WOMEN'S suits to sell at $25 have long been a strong special feature of this store. For many seasons we have studied the popular priced suit question, and have developed an enormous trade upon such garments.

We go to a foremost maker, who buys his materials direct from the mills, and get choicest patterns at a very considerable saving. This insures better materials in our $25 suits.

This maker is very particular in the tailoring of these suits. They must be designed with care, cut to fit, tailored to retain their individual style—not merely pressed into a temporary shape as most popular priced suits are.

The representative showing planned for today presents latest innovations in the jaunty short coats and narrow skirts, fashioned from serge, worsteds and mannish mixtures. Their equal is to be had nowhere at $25.

and Mrs. Annie Adams will play the part of the professor's wife.

James Rennie will have the part of Richard Weatherly, the son-in-law to be who is directly responsible for the complications that follow the raid of the police on the livery stable where the fight is held.

"What Happened to Jones" will be the bill starting Sunday matinee and will continue throughout the week with matinees on Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday.

of even the happiest marriage. There is some excuse outside of the home wherein no thought is given to social pleasure, while the wife is apt to grow petty and personal, and so less attractive as she shuts herself away from intercourse with others, says Woman's Life. This dropping out is very easy, but even when prosperity comes, and large social functions are possible, it is too late to gain that most valuable possession, friendship, which is entirely independent of financial success. To have and to hold a place in the social life of the world is not only the right but the duty of the young wife who desires to have a home in its truest and best sense.

The Value of Being Sociable.
