DENY SCHOLARSHIP STORY

Art Academy Officials Say One Offered to Baltimore Is Taken

It may be that Baltimore is just as nearly the pivotal center of the art world as this city, according to how you look at it, and it may be that some Baltimoreans think that there is an opportunity to learn all they need to know about art in their home city.

It may also be that two Baltimoreans are under the impression that they refused two scholarships to the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts in this city. Officials at the Academy said that as an impression this news was interesting, but, to be strictly accurate, it sounded more like fiction than fact to them.

The plain, commonplace truth is, they say, that there is but one scholarship offered to Baltimore students and that he is enjoying that privilege to its full extent at the present time.
