Thinks Critics "Narrow-Minded"

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—In reference to the statements of Dr. B. C. Hirst, president of the Medical Club of Philadelphia; Dr. J. T. Hugh, Dr. W. W. Keen and Dr. Ernest LaPlace concerning hostility toward the famous Dr. Lorenz, we wish to say that though the above-mentioned men are great authorities in the medical world, they are very narrow-minded.

Why should they show hostility to a man who is here to ease the suffering of our sisters, our brothers and our children? These narrow-minded men answer, "He is a Teutonic." But was he the cause of the great World War? Did he in any way harm our citizens? The answer is "No!" The war to him meant nothing more than hard work and perilous privations upon the battlefields, trying to help those who were injured and crippled.

As to the remark, "He is a Teuton," were we not enemies of England in 1775 and 1812 and did not that wear off, so that now we have friendly relations with her?

The war is over. Things of the past must be forgotten. This great medical authority is here to aid us, and we should be glad to receive him with open arms. We would be committing a crime, for he is not a Teuton. In a great medical genius, here to aid the suffering of these four peoples.

HORACE OATES,
WALTER PYLE.

West Chester, Pa., November 23, 1921.

Deplores Attitude of Medical Men

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—I cannot understand the attitude that some of the Philadelphia medical men have taken in regard to the proposed visit of Prof. Adolf Lorenz to our city. I wish to say we should feel highly honored if he comes to us.

I assisted Prof. Lorenz in his clinics held in the Jefferson Hospital in 1902 and found him a gentleman and an excellent surgeon in his line of business.

He certainly did us a great service in regard to the treatment of hip joint disease, as he demonstrated which operations should not have been done and which should be done. Future, unless it was diagnostic, I regret to say I did not visit his clinic in Vienna, but I feel sure his visit would be a great benefit to us and assist him with the knowledge possible to be had from many a well-equipped clinic.

As far as his being a Teuton, I feel sure that a science like medicine, the two foundation of which are universal knowledge and service, should be above politics. We, as men, should entertain no ill will whatever to a fellow of other nationality and, as a man of such eminent ability, regardless of his birth or nationality.

I, for one, would be glad of the opportunity to again meet the man who is the possessor of such knowledge derived, but to the benefit of humankind in general.

Booze Argument Punctured

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—Some opponents of prohibition are seeking to attribute to prohibition the evils that arise and the danger to users of drinking poisonous bootleg liquor. The argument is that lives and health are endangered by reason of people drinking unadulterated prepared booze, because they are cut off from having "good, pure booze, such as the doctor would prescribe to a sick man. What a joke.

This only emphasizes the necessity of stopping the manufacture of a product that breeds the uncontrollable desire which causes the unfortunate victim to risk his life in consuming anything that will satisfy the awful craving.

Lest We Forget

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—Speaking of the anti-holiday for November 11, have we no regard for those who gave their lives in the late war for our cause? Some of the stories during the war took great pains along patriotic lines, but was it for patriotism? If so, much of it has dropped by the wayside now. As November 11 has been made a legal holiday, I think a business should come for a half day at least to pay tribute to those who made the great sacrifice. We the people have a mighty sound called public sentiment, which should another Armistice Day pass without due respect shall be used.

FORMER SERGEANT MAJ.

Philadelphia, November 22, 1921.

Why an "Outside" Name?

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—While I really think the name has been selected long ago for the 1926 Sesquicentennial, it is really amusing to read the many suggestions from your readers. I would add mine. Now since Philadelphia is to call our city, is the workshop of the world, why not give her credit and call it "Ef"? Ef for the good old Quaker City. When you live here all your life and when you have a reputation like this, why give it some outside name? Here is my suggestion—not too large to print—Philadelphia's 1926 International Exposition.

MARY K. BAUTZ.

Philadelphia, November 22, 1921.

Other names suggested for the title are:

Mrs. L. L. Stephan—Birthplace of Old Glory Fair.

Mrs. Charles Bell—Sohers a Amalgamated Bazaar of 1926.

Jennie V. Smith—Universal Justice and Peace Exposition.

Al Gamble—The World's Exposition.

Ella Corbridge—World's Eternal Peace Exposition.

John A. Fraser—Pennsylvania and Gloss Exposition.

George Hiatt—Pennsylvania Victor and White Elephant Exposition.

A Hopeless View

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—Who owns the city?

Why, 1,600,000 boobs down in, but they are running it on shares with eight "farmers" through City Council.

At the rate they are the boobs will get leases in, through each year of Councilmen. There is no hope for a change in the situation of self-government.

Philadelphia, November 21, 1921.

Opposed to Capital Punishment

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—I quite agree with Lewis E. Lawes in your Penal Problem. I am opposed to capital punishment. There are many reasons: First, capital punishment is barbarous and there isn't any punishment that can scare anyone. I believe it makes more convicts as it definitely puts a stop to human helpfulness to a fellow convict. Many of experienced prison officials say convicts are the best material for training to be good citizens, if handled by some one in the prison world who is the convict's friend in reality.

Even conditions are changed, instead of being strictly a punishment, they are guided to better things that, in the majority, he has been accustomed to, and are worthy of his friendship. Let us encourage him and we will be doing more for those who seem like a lost cause. The reason for the fact expressed in that everything he does is held against the ex-convict and makes it impossible for him against society and cause him to become another crime statistic. Therefore, I say let every section do its share, and with the proviso that justice will be given upon the convict, provided he does not again being a free ticket.

Referred to Readers

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—In a recent moving picture shown in Philadelphia the post humous work was taken by one of the poems which is represented schooner around the Horn to Frisco.

The writer has had some experience on vessels of this type and was under the impression that this hazardous trip has usually been undertaken only by sailing vessels of the square-rigged type. Will you, therefore, kindly advise me of any data you may have pertaining to such a trip made recently or in the past by a schooner-rigged vessel?

CHARLES H. WALD.

Let's Be Modest

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—My suggestion as to a name for the Sesquicentennial celebration is "The Fair."

As Philadelphia is now preparing for the Sesquicentennial celebration and is letting the rest of the world in on it, I know that it is going to be a great world's affair, so let us are going to do it, but let's be modest about it and let Philadelphia take care in the manner by calling it "The Fair."

Questions Answered

"This Body Is My House"

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—Please ask your readers for a poem containing this verse:

"This body is my house, it is not I;
Herein I sojourn till, in some far sky,
I lease a fairer dwelling built to last,
Till all the carpentry of time is past."

J. S. H.

Philadelphia, November 24, 1921.

"The Men of Harlech"

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—Can you give me any information regarding the "Men of Harlech," for whom the Welsh national song is written?

H. S. D.

Philadelphia, November 23, 1921.

Harlech was the ancient capital of Merionethshire, Wales, situated on the coast twenty-one miles south of Carnarvon. Its castle was captured by the Lancastrians in 1468. The national Campbell war song, "March of the Men of Harlech," is said to have originated during this siege.

False Teeth and Singing

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—Will you kindly decide as to who is right: Mr. A. says that a woman or man with artificial teeth can never be a good opera singer, while Mr. B. thinks that it would make no difference at all.

MRS. W. L. L.

Philadelphia, November 18, 1921.

If teeth are properly fitted and the plate is firmly held, we see no reason why a person with false teeth should not become a singer, if any has talent in that direction.

Laconia State

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—Was there ever an American State named Laconia?

H. H. D.

Philadelphia, November 17, 1921.

The pioneer state of New Hampshire was called Laconia before it was constituted a state.

Builders of the Titanic

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—When, where and by whom was the Titanic built? Was she ever in an American port?

G. B. D.

Philadelphia, November 20, 1921.

The Titanic was built by Harland & Wolff at Queen's Island, Belfast. The line was laid on March 31, 1909. The keel was laid from September 30, 1910. The maiden voyage from Southampton to New York was made April 10, 1912. She was sunk April 15, 1912.

Atlantic Fleet

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—Can you give me the number of the Atlantic Fleet and what are the ships in it?

Poems and Songs Desired

"Noble Republic!"

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—Please inform me if you can, or ask some one who can, the name of the poem beginning "Noble Republic! Glorious land of lands," the author of the poem, and the place in which it appeared.

MARY [illegible]

Philadelphia, November 21, 1921.

"Gay Fashion"

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—I would appreciate very much if a reader would kindly supply me with the poem, "The Gray Fashion" [illegible]

In Fair's every [illegible] to top
Depends upon
The team and driver, weather phaeton,
Landau or buggy.
To other the complaint these trees
[illegible] rains in thunder and dust,
Gay fashion weeds for to its leaches.

"Forget It"

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—Under date of September 19 W. L. Meredith requested a student of the following poem, which I hope you will publish for his or her benefit.

C. M.

Philadelphia, November 8, 1921.

FORGET IT

If you see a tall fellow ahead of a crowd
A leader of men, marching fearless and proud,
And you know of a take whose mere telling
Would cause his proud head in grief to be bowed,
It is a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a skeleton hidden away
In a closet and guarded and kept from the day
In the dark, and whose showing, whose sudden display
Would cause grief and sorrow and lifelong dismay,
It is a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a thing that will darken the life
Of a man or a woman, a girl or a boy,
That will wipe out a smile or leave a sad sorrow
A fellow, if cause and kindness to show,
It is a pretty good plan to forget it.

"Key of the Unknown"

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—The poem below was requested on Saturday's program in the Program of the Air, by "THE UNKNOWN."

MARY D. BABCOCK.

He holds the key of all unknown
And I am glad.
If other hands should hold the key,
Or if he trusted it to me,
I might be sad.

What if tomorrow's dares were here
Without its rest?
I'd rather He unlocked the day,
And as its hours swung open said,
"My will is best."

I cannot read His future plans
But this I know:
I have the smiling of His face
And all the refuge of His grace
While here below.

Enough, this covers all my needs
And so I rest;
For what I cannot He can see
And in His love I will abide be,
Forever blest.

MARY HALLENSTEIN.

Atlantic City, N. J., October 31, 1921.

The People's Forum will appear daily in the Evening Public Ledger, and also in the Sunday Public Ledger. Letters discussing timely topics will be printed, as well as requested poems, and questions of general interest will be answered.
