Nancy Wynne Speaks of the Events of the Week. She Tells of Miss Rodgers' Tea Yesterday and of the Opera Tonight

THIS week there will be a let-up in formal entertaining, but hardly a let-up from being busy, for, with Charity Ball rehearsals and the ball itself on Thursday night, and the Bazaar Boutique going on for four days at the Bellevue, almost every one will have a very full week.

A great many of the debutantes will dance in the Charity Ball, and a lot more will aid at the bazaar, though sub-debs, post-debs and the members of the younger married set will take the most active part in the fair. It is being held today, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 11 in the morning until 11 in the evening, and the aides will go off and on in shifts.

Mrs. Governeur Cadwalader is chairman of the fair, which is being given by the Junior Club of the Seamen's Church Institute for the benefit of the Institute. From all that I hear every one is planning to give parties at the bazaar, luncheons, teas and dinner-dances, which all sound very gay and which will take the place of more formal parties for the always festive debs.

THE only real social events so far this week are the opera tonight and a debutante tea yesterday afternoon.

At the opera supper-dance in the foyer of the Academy after the opera Mrs. John B. Townsend and Mrs. Thomas G. Ashton will be the hostesses, and they will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. Charles E. Coxe, Mrs. Clarence W. Dolan, Mrs. Trenchard E. Newbold, Mrs. Edward Browning and Mrs. J. Wilmer Biddle, most of whom will entertain dinner parties at the dance.

CONSTANCE RODGERS' tea yesterday afternoon was most attractive. It was held at the new house of the Colonial Dames, at 1630 Latimer street, where Elizabeth McElroy made her debut in October, and which is an interesting and pretty place.

Mrs. Joseph Leidy, Mrs. Frederick H. Shelton, Mrs. Ellis Jackson, Mrs. W. W. Porter and Mrs. Caleb Milne, Jr., presided at the tea table, and the receiving party included Mrs. Edward O. Shakespeare, who was Miss Henrietta Wilson before her marriage last spring; Barbara Clayton, Norma Grey, Helen Knight, Mary Falck, Constance Snow, Jeannette Willard and Isabel Gross.

Constance, who is tall and blonde, looked well in a French model of white georgette, trimmed with crystals, which was draped and caught at the left with a bunch of white feathers. Her mother, Mrs. Willard Rodgers, wore black velvet combined with silver cloth and Mrs. Agnew T. Dice, Jr., one of Constance's sisters, who also received, looked pretty in a frock of green taffeta with a girdle of roses made of lavender silver cloth.

Mrs. Rodgers and her daughter returned this fall from Paris, where they have been living for the last ten years, five of which Constance spent at school in a French convent. While there they must have had a most interesting time, and Mrs. Rodgers did some wonderful war work in connection with the Emergency War Relief of France. I hear that she was decorated four times for it by the French Government.

LAST night Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gillespie Dickson gave a small dance at Pinebrook, their country place at Paoli, for Mrs. Dickson's niece, Miss Emma Van Kleeck, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brent Van Kleeck, of New York. There were between twenty-five and fifty guests, and Miss Van Kleeck looked most attractive in a handsome dress of cloth of gold.

She and her parents, who have been abroad for the last few years, expect to be in Philadelphia this winter and have taken an apartment at the Aldine, I hear.

SEVERAL of the debs went down to Baltimore last night for the Bachelors' Cotillion. Elizabeth McElroy, who stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Mayo Thom, was the guest of honor at a dinner which the Thoms gave for her and their daughters, Anita and Ellen. The two Thom girls came up here for Elizabeth's tea two months ago and are very popular.

Florence Croxer, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Croxer's daughter, went with her cousin, Agnes Gross, of Bethlehem, and Mr. and Mrs. Spaulding Jenkins entertained at dinner in honor of Florence before the dance. I am sure it was lots of fun and that the girls had a wonderful time. Florence and Agnes will be the guests of honor at a ball which Mr. and Mrs. Croxer will give at the Ritz on December 12.
