Nancy Wynne Tells of the Ball Given Last Evening by Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Yarnall for Their Debutante Daughter—Miss Heckscher Is Married Today

ONE of the largest balls so far this season was given last night by Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Yarnall at the Bellevue-Stratford for their daughter Agnes Yarnall. Agnes is the Yarnalls' youngest daughter and very much like her mother who was Miss Anna Sophia Coxe, a daughter of Mrs. Alexander Brinton Coxe. Agnes is a most lovely looking person, I think, so keen and bright and full of fun. She spent last winter at boarding school and after Easter went to Europe with her parents and Mrs. Harry Neilson, who was then Miss Alberta Reath. I saw Mrs. Neilson on Chestnut street just the other day, by the way. She looks so young it does not seem possible that she is married. She was wearing a top coat of leopard skin with a wide collar of skunk fur and her hat was of fawn colored felt trimmed with a wing. Her skirt was of the same color as her hat and was very smart.

TO GO back to the ball last night. There were about 600 guests, and the entire second floor of the Bellevue-Stratford was used for dancing and card playing. The decorations were exquisite. Cybodium ferns and smilax intertwined with pink roses. There were twelve beautiful Italian vases filled with roses, in fact roses were everywhere. Mrs. Yarnall and Agnes received the guests in the foyer at the entrance to the large ball room, Mrs. Yarnall wearing a gown of green and gold brocade with a train extending from the shoulders down the back. The train was edged with black fur. Agnes was in white brocade embroidered in pearls and rhinestones made long waisted and girdled with pearls and rhinestones. A train which fell in two panels from the shoulders reached to several inches on the ground and was fashioned of the brocade.

Mrs. Arthur Emlen Newbold, Jr., who was Miss Marjorie Yarnall and is Agnes' eldest sister chose a gown of lustrous rose brocade which was extremely becoming and Mrs. Alexander Coxe Yarnall, the former Miss Elise Hopkins, was in white brocade.

EMILY BARTOW wore an unusually lovely dress of jade green velvet made on long lines and finished about the waist with a rolled girdle of velvet and silver cloth. She carried an ostrich feather fan of the same shade of green as the gown, and in her hair was a Grecian bandeau of green leaves tipped with rhinestone dew drops.

Bunny Geary was in black velvet, the frock made on old fashioned lines and with a full skirt. Mary Carter chose a deep rose colored velvet frock with a full skirt and tight waist. The upper part of the bodice was cut in a heart shape and had no traps over the shoulders, being held on by invisible catches. Over her neck there was a flesh-colored tulle scarf. A lavender crepe dress embroidered in crystals was worn by Dot Valentine whose fair hair seemed fairer still with that color. Evelyn Martin who was having a beautiful time in the snow, sledding with her small brother yesterday afternoon arrived at the ball as fresh as a daisy in a French frock of green chiffon. There was a green lace panel down the back of the frock and two lace panels at the sides formed sleeves. There were green beads on the girdle and in her hair Evie had a band of gold.

Augusta Harrison wore a beautiful gown of white brocade trimmed with silver lace and Marie Louise Hepburn was in deep pink brocaded chiffon velvet. Jane Hepburn wore that French frock of hers she had on the opening opera night, a long waisted tight bodice of royal blue velvet and a skirt of black velvet. It was most becoming.

THERE were any number of dinners before the ball. The Ledyard Cuyler's entertained for Sally Franklin Doane, and the Livingston Gillies gave a party as did the King Cuyler rights, the Sydney Thayers and the William Dunners. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Flagg, Jr., gave a dinner for Beatrice Moeller-Bruck who is engaged to Beatrice's parent, as Mr. and Mrs. Flagg are in mourning for their little grandson who died a couple of weeks ago. And there were several other dinners, as well.

IT SEEMS remarkable there is no ball tonight, does it not? But there is, there is the Supper Club which is over Mrs. Hutchison Scott's way at the Bellevue-Stratford to go to for dancing and there are after theatre suppers at the Ritz and Bellevue both.

THE new year will start off with a large ball in the evening which the Jack White Gearys will give for their daughter Bunny, and there will be the Bill de Lacy dance, the Hatfield ball and the First Assembly next week, so I guess that will hold us for a while.

WE HEAR so much of the sporting girl these days, and yet when you see a wonderful ball of snow like yesterday's and you happen to spin out into the country a bit in your car you look almost in vain for sledding parties and tobogganing nuns. Time was when an inch of snow needed but to show itself and every one was out in it. But yesterday, though I spied Evie Martin at the Philadelphia Cricket Club and a group or two of boys, the countryside was not resounding with joyous shouts and snow balls were not in evidence. And what do you think the reason was? Well, most of the debutantes were resting up for the Yarnall ball, having been to several other balls already this week, and some were going to play bridge matinees afternoon, and some girls whisper were sick in bed with colds. Yes, it seems that worse than colds, and I think that may seem and foolish though it may seem and foolish also as well, some had nothing else to do but have MEASLES.

Caroline Ashton is pretty sick now, though I do not know if measles is her trouble, but I'm afraid it is, for Anne Gray recovered from them about a week ago. Dorothy Rodgers has had it, and several others. Then the cousins Frances Bischoff was taken under the blankets with a bad cold yesterday, and Dot Valentine is just over one, and Bunny Geary has a cough, and altogether our boys seem to be a bit tired out. All you have to do to catch a cold is get a little run down, and there you are. However, none of it is serious, and Dot and Bunny were able to go to the Yarnalls' last night.

THIS noon we have a very pretty wedding to witness, for Miss Gertrude Heckscher will make a lovely bride. She has such dark hair and pretty coloring. The wedding will take place in St. Mark's Church, at Sixteenth and Locust. You know the reception will be in the Hotel Barclay, Sixteenth and Spruce Streets. Gertrude's sister, Mrs. Ralph Jones, is expected home on January 1, and her husband will arrive on January 7, so he will be present. Mr. Esther will act as best man.
