THE DAILY CLARION.

☞The New York Tribune was lately vilifying the women of the South, and endeavoring to establish invidious comparisons between them and the Northern women. The following extract from the Tribune will give some idea of that class which Greely fancies to be superior to the mothers and sisters of Southern men:

We remember the great meeting called at Cooper Institute to which women were entreated to come, and lay their love of dress, a costly sacrifice, on the altar of patriotism. The long line of showy equipages invaded the neighboring streets. Fair dames in stiff brocades and priceless laces swept down the dim staircase, and, with hands that flashed with jewels, voted to buy no foreign articles with which they felt they could dispense. Then the shopmen enlarged their phylacteries, and greatly magnified their office, and sold French fabrics as never before.

Any dress reform, dear damsels, must come from the rich, and from the tasteful and from the young. For poor women, and dowdy women, and fading women will not broaden the line which they bitterly feel to be dividing them from their more fortunate neighbors. In this country, where we have no assumed upper classes, a costly wardrobe is the only superficial and external token of position, and a priceless silk, or a superb shawl is to many women what an old name, for a coat of arms on the carriage panel, is to an English dame. How absurd and valueless such a criterion of social standing must be the experience of every day declares. Loitering yesterday at a fashionable jeweler's, a gorgeous lady entered to give orders for a silver breakfast service. In a speech of one minute in length, she made six deadly assaults on the President's English, and closed the conversation by a request that the "letter-date" set might be sent to her carriage, which splendid equipage waited at the door. Her robe was shining silk; the flounce on her cloak was real lace and priceless, and the clustered diamonds of her brooch [Greely probably means brooch] tremulously flashed hints of untold revenue in the purse that bought them. It is probable that that glittering lady had kept the decalogue from her youth up, and loved her neighbor as herself. But one could not help a dreadful suspicion that she ate with her knife and audibly sipped her soup, and a censorious world might hint that a little less grandeur and a little more grammar would be a fitter entrance fee at the portals of really good society.

TO CAPITALISTS

AND MANUFACTURERS SEEKING

SAFE INVESTMENTS.

We call your attention to the little, simple article of a Broom, known as

POWERS' PATENT PERPETUAL BROOM,

Every one knows the unlimited demand for this useful article, and if you once understand its merits, and the advantages of securing its monopoly in the manufacturing and sale, there is scarcely one man in a thousand that would not, after due investigation, give it hearty support. We speak from experience and practical knowledge when we say that this Broom is superceding all others, and is fast coming into general use; and we defy capitalists to find a field of labor that will pay as large a per centage as Power's Patent Broom.

It is true, we sell the right to manufacture and sell this article, and some narrow minded persons might doubt how and when they would see their money coming back, but as a general thing capitalists are satisfied to loan their money at 10 per cent; but if we cannot satisfy the most incredulous that Powers' Patent Perpetual Broom will guarantee 100 per cent. on all capital invested, then we say, in all candor, don't invest your money with us in the Broom, and, on the other hand, if, after investigation, you find we have underrated instead of overrated the advantages, then give it your support. We feel confident that we can convince any sober, sane and reasonable man that the Broom is all we claim for it, and if we can't show this, if you come from a distance, we will pay your expenses both ways and bills while in the city. [Remember this if you please.]

If you are not satisfied that it is even a greater success than we represent it, we are making them here where any one can see the process, and you can do the same. It does not require that a man should spend a number of years to learn what a child can do in a minute, and herein lies the great success of POWERS' PATENT PERPETUAL BROOM.

For terms and circulars, address, with stamp,

DE WITT & PIPER,

504 Olive Street. Office, Room No. 5,

POWERS' PATENT PERPETUAL BROOM.

Patented June 27th, 1865

BY G. H. POWERS.

If the newest Broom the cleanest sweeps, Then this the greatest credit reaps. And if the best the rest entombs, Powers has buried the world in Brooms.

If Powers with this the premium has taken, Then in this your faith should not be shaken. And if with this the golden harvest reap, With this your house should ever be swept.

ALL ORDERS MUST BE ACCOMPANIED WITH THE CASH.

DESCRIPTION OF THE BROOM.

A light cone of brass receives the corn which is held fast by a double row of teeth made of malleable iron, inserted between the two rows of corn, and drawn into the cone by means of a screw entering an iron nut in the handle. A brass ferule covers the nut and gives a bearing to the shoulder of the cone. Two small brass wires, about an inch and a quarter in length, extend from the two angles of the center-piece, within the cone, to the edges of the broom when filled, leaving on each side a small hook to connect a narrow brass band that flattens and stiffens the broom instead of sewing. The difference in weight between this and the ordinary broom is no more than two or three ounces and not perceptible. This is the only patent in which the amount of corn can be varied at pleasure, according as you may wish a light or heavy broom. They wear much longer than the ordinary brooms, from the fact that they are not injured by alternate wetting and drying, and cannot work or shake loose at the handle.

It would be superfluous to tell housekeepers that the vast majority of brooms would last twice as long if some measure could be introduced that would secure the corn to the handle till it could be worn out. In our broom this end is effectually accomplished.

SOME OF ITS MERITS.

Among the many advantages which we claim for this broom, the principal are its durability and the cheapness, ease and dispatch with which it may, at any time, be renewed, and therefore is practical economy.

Any man or woman, and almost any child of ten years, can make a perfect broom without any machinery in ten minutes, and renew it as often as it wears out. Farmers can raise a few hills of broom corn each year, and having purchased one broom for $2.00, can make their own without the expense of a shilling or labor. And in cities people may renew their brooms at pleasure, for the simple price of the corn, now not more than five or eight cents, instead of paying as they now do, fifty cents for a broom that will not wear half so long. We know of no reason why a handle and fixtures may not last a life time.

Whenever a demand is created for any article the country produces, some one stands ready to respond. For instance—in the spring we want some delicacies that the season does not afford, but they have been preserved for us. In the summer we want vegetables that we could not raise, and we find that some one in the outskirts of the city has anticipated our wants and brought them to our door. And may we not believe that these same men will bring us corn for our brooms, as soon as we create a demand for it?

The Classes that engage in it, and their Reasons for doing So.

1. Broom Makers, Because when they see it they know it will supercede all other brooms, and they conceive it to their interest to buy the right, rather than have it to go into the hands of any other person.

2. Capitalists, Because they know it is a success, and they cannot invest their money in a safer or more paying business.

3. Returned Soldiers, Because they want to engage in a profitable business, that can be taken up and dropped at any time, without loss or hazard.

4. Every man, that is out of business, because he wants to make money.

INDUCEMENTS TO PURCHASERS.

We will sell all the interest secured by the Letters Patent, (except the right to manufacture the metalic part,) in any specified territory. We will furnish the broom complete for $——— per dozen, or we will furnish the handle and metalic part for $——— per dozen, or the metalic part alone for $——— per dozen. You will sell them for $2.00 each. We make these different propositions so as to be able to suit all parties. Some may wish to fill their own brooms, others may prefer to furnish their own handles and fill them themselves.

We are now manufacturing the broom, and will be ready to fill all orders from those who have purchased rights. We do not wish to sell brooms except where we have disposed of Rights, yet as we desire none to engage in the business before seeing a broom, any party who may wish to buy Rights, can first send $4 to the undersigned, and get samples. Should the samples not fill your expectation, they can be returned at our expense, and the money will be refunded.

Now suppose you should buy a county having a population of 30,000, equal to about 6000 families. Suppose you should sell a broom to one half of these (and many will buy two.) Suppose you should make $1.00 on each one (and you will make more,) suppose it should require three months to canvass a county and supply it with brooms, and suppose you should pay us $300 for the right, you would still have a profit of $2,400 for three months, $9,600 for a year. All these estimates are low.

Out of hundreds of cases, we will give one, which is not more than an average, just to illustrate: Brown & Cook, of Warren, Ill., bought the Right for their county, (Jo. Daviess) at our usual rate of selling, (which, by the way, is a mere nominal figure, (sold it out in detachments, and realized a clear profit of $950.00. All this took place within a week. And yet the parties who bought the Towns are making from $10 to $30.00 a day canvassing with the Broom. Graham, who purchased nine of the Towns, makes the statement, and adds, that in canvassing three days, he saw but two families who refused to purchase a Broom.

W. W. Whiting of Cupage Co., Ills., bought one county for $250; cleared his county in the first two days canvassing.

George Hide, Ogle Co., Ill., purchased that county; after canvassing two days, his first order was five hundred brooms.

J. Lamiel, Kalamazoo Co., Mich., purchased that county for $230; the result of his first three days labor was $500 cash.

This fact we merely give as inference. Parties desirous of engaging in the above business, had better give us a call immediately.

For circular address the undersigned, with stamps, who have the sole control of the South Western States: also the Power of Attorney to sell in any part of the United States, not already sold.

DE WITT & PIPER.

Office: No. 5 Laclede Building South side of Olive Street, between Third and Fourth, entrance 50½ Olive Street.

Inducements to Capitalists and Manufacturers.

It is a conceded fact and admitted by every one, that if the Capitalist or Manufacturer can secure a monopoly of the sale and manufacture of any article of universal consumption, that they have laid the stepping stone to a permanent structure of wealth. The cause of so many failures with men of enterprise and small capital is the competition of business—the advantage of combined capital against the man of limited means, with no protection thrown around him. It is seldom that there is an article patented that is destined to come into general use, and can readily be sold to every family in the land. From time immemorial THE BROOM has been an indespensable article in every house, and may we not safely conclude that it always will continue so. If, then, the sale of this article is unlimited and there is no end to the demand while time last, can there be a shadow of risk in securing the sale and manufacture of one of the most complete and simple made Brooms that the world ever produced.

It has been the custom of our forefathers, from the days of the Roman Empire to the present time, to construct the Broom on the same plan, without even an effort to improvement; but ours is an age of progression—old things are being done away with, and more useful and simple machinery is fast taking their place, thus it is that we are advancing and keeping pace with the age in which our lot has been cast.

The success of this Broom is no longer a doubt! The certainty of it being universally introduced into every house is only a question of time. Wherever there have been men taking hold of it, and commenced manufacturing, the demand has no parallel in any article ever made. We have, by the sale of territory in several States, got in successful operation a number of factories, and this, too, all in the space of a few months, as the patent was not granted till June 27th, 1865. In Chicago, Ill., Mr. Charles E. Browne, the assignee of the patent, has the largest manufactory of the kind on the American continent, and it is not yet three months since it was put in motion in Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota. They are being manufactured by the quantity, and here, in the city of St. Louis, we are completing arrangements to enter extensively into the manufacture of the article, and may we not safely conclude that there are capitalists ready and willing to carry this same enterprise into every State in the Union.

We have more territory than we can control profitably, and will dispose of any of the States remaining unsold, at prices that can't fail to suit the purchasers; and to men of limited means, we will divide to you States by county to suit your convenience.

"A word to the wise is sufficient."

Directions for filling the Broom.

The top of the stirrup should be about two inches above the top of the cone; fill a row around the outer circle of the cone of your straitest and best corn, and then fill the inside with the inferior corn, if you wish to use it, after which turn the handle till the corn is as tight as you wish it to be, holding your hand on the brush at the same time to steady the broom, offer which put on your bend wire and insert the hook and stirrup wires and the broom is complete, all of which does not take much longer than reading the directions. Persons cannot be too careful in keeping the handle sufficiently tight to keep the corn secure, as many persons are apt to unscrew it in examining the broom and leavs it so: the next comes along, takes hold and shakes it, and by repeating it the broom will become loose, and lead some to think it was the fault of the broom, when in fact it is the carelessness of inexperienced persons. The broom is of itself so simple that the most stupid person cannot fail to understand it at a glance.

The State of Mississippi, or any of the Southern States, are for sale at the low figures of $4.00 per thousand inhabitants, taking the census of 1860

WILLCOX & GIBB'S

SILENT FAMILY

SEWING MACHINE,

WILL STITCH, HEM, FELL, TUCK, CORD, Bind, Braid, Quilt and Embroider beautifully. It will, with the finest needle and thread, run from perfect work on the finest Nainsook, over the heaviest beaver cloth and cowhide, with no change of needle, thread or tension.

WILLCOX & GIBBS' SEWING MACHINE

will use coarse cotton, linen, silk and twine. It runs easier, faster and stiller than any other machine. It forms a flat, even and elastic seam, differing from every other stitch, each loop, being twisted by means of the and drawing the twist into the goods, thus securely fastening every stitch, so that the seam will bear to be cut at frequent intervals, and in that case even, the seam is warranted not to rip in wear, and under all circumstances to 'survive the washtub.'

A patented device prevents the possibility of the machine being run in the wrong direction, or the balance wheel ever wearing or touching the dress. By another ingenious Patent improvement.

The Needle Cannot be Set Wrong.

Thus avoiding the great trouble of other machines. In this it is so easy that a child may set it in the dark with unerring correctness every time.

No Breaking of Needles.

The blade of the needle is less than three-fourths of an inch long, and is straight. It is less than half the length of other machine needles, many of which are curved, therefore more easily bent or broken—a great source of annoyance, expense and trouble.

THE HEMMER AND FELLER CAN NEVER BE PUT ON WRONG.

Any one may adjust them in the dark. The hem may be of any width. No other hemmer or feller is like this. It turns the hem on the right or under side, as you want it.

IT WILL NOT DROP STICHES.

As the needle is always set right, the blade short and straight, it does not vibrate, like longer ones.

WILLCOX & GIBBS' SEWING MACHINE

is run by steam at 4,000 stitches per minute—other machines only at 400 to 1,200, with safety.

They are manufactured with Mathematical Precision.

Hence each part is interchangeable, and can be readily replaced in case of accident.

THEY WILL NOT GET OUT OF ORDER.

We have known it intimately for several years, and so far as we know, not one in family use has ever cost a dime to repair, or even been out of order at all. They will last a generation, if properly cared for. None who have used it can be persuaded to use any other.

WILLCOX & GIBBS' SEWING MACHINE

works at an instant's notice, and never stops unaccountably. Not one operator in ten on the Willcox & Gibbs will break a needle or drop a stitch in a year. This Machine in the hands of any one, knows no skips, drops, jumps or misses. The roundness evenness, durability and beauty of its stitch

WERE NEVER EQUALED.

Its rapidity, absolute stillness, ease of motion, narrowness and neatness of its hem and fell were never approached by any other machine.

The Press universally pronounce this the best family sewing machine in the world.
