The Poor Man's Jewels.

BY MRS. DENNISON.

My home it is a poor one
To all who pass it by;
They cannot see its beauty,
And neither faith, can I—
That is in paint and timber,
In door-way or in roof—
But that it has its beauties,
I'll quickly give you proof.

Come hither, young one, hither,
Your father's steps are near—
That's Bess with hair so yellow,
That's Sue with eyes so clear;
That's Will, with tawny trowsers,
Tucked in his stocking leg,
And yonder two wee darlings
Are bonny Jean and Meg.

A cluster of fair jewels,
Five in the rugged set;
I may man has brighter,
I have to learn it yet;
And Tom, when I am swinging
The arms with weary strain,
Their blessed faces cheer me,
And make me strong again.

I sometimes sit and wonder
"What will their futures be?"
If they must delve and putter
A tread mill round like me;
And scarcely at the year's end
Have half a groat to spare—
And see bad men put over them,
'Twill be too hard to bear

But then I think, as nations
Rise in the scale of might,
God puts the poor man forward,
And gives him power and light;
And learning, Tom will do it,
And Christian truth will show
That Heaven makes no distinction
Between the high and low.

So, though my home's a poor one,
To all who pass it by,
And none can see its beauty,
Save mother, God, and I
The future may be grander,
For some great glory won,
Some great set in the ages,
By even a poor man's son.

CONFEDERATE MONEY, AND CONTRACTS MADE IN REFERENCE TO IT.—In nearly all the courts of the commonwealth, questions in all the blended colors of the rainbow are coming up about Confederate money and contracts made in Confederate times. It was thought the act of the Legislature, scaling Confederate money to its value in specie at the time of the contract, would meet almost every case and adjust almost every difficulty. But it does not seem to have had the effect contemplated. New questions not embraced or covered by the provisions of the law, have arisen, which have neither been settled as yet by legislation and judicial investigation and decision. A most knotty and embarrassing inquiry among a large class of people is being made as to the responsibility of fiduciaries for investments made by them in Confederate and other securities during the war, which are now worthless. In some cases these investments were made under the direction of the courts; in others, upon individual judgment and responsibility, sanctioned by legislative authority. But as the acts of the Legislature during the war may not be considered legal or valid, it will be argued by those whose interests dictate such an arrangement, that they furnish no exoneration to the fiduciary from liability. No adjudication that we are aware of has yet been rendered on these novel questions, though looked for with great anxiety.—Richmond (Va.) Times.

Sensible Advice to the Religious Press.

We find the following in the Vicksburg Herald, which we cordially commend to the attention and observance of those for whom it is intended:

The Jackson Watchman (Baptist) and the Methodist, of the same town, are quarreling over the civil rights bill. The former had the bad taste to charge all other denominations with having dabbled in politics, and with favoring centralization of power, which culminated in the passage of the famous civil rights bill. The latter argues to controvert these assertions. Of all the abominations of the earth, which were most detested by Southerners, political preachers and political religious papers were the most accursed. We regret to see this vilest of Yankee notions creeping into Southern manners. It should be nipped in the bud, by religious leaders refusing to patronize papers that mix a little politics with their religion. We wish both our Jackson contemporaries great success in their appropriate sphere; they are deserving of the support of their respective denominations in spiritual matters, but politics and religion must be kept separate in this section. It makes no difference which journal started the controversy, it ought to stop, and the most forgiving is the best christian.

The Cincinnati Commercial taunts the State of Alabama with the murder of her paupers. This is generous. How came Alabama with so many paupers? The Commercial well knows that they were manufactured for her by the Northern hordes who marched through her borders, leaving long black trails of desolation behind them. Because the people of Alabama happened to believe with the Declaration of Independence that when a form of government becomes oppressive the people have a right to throw it off, their country was invaded, their men slaughtered, their women insulted, their houses fired, and their whole land devastated. Their misfortunes and not their faults have reduced them from opulence to penury. If they have not bread, it is because they have been robbed of the means to make it. If their lands are uncultivated, it is because their fences were taken to build camp fires, their horses and muls stolen, their agricultural implements destroyed with ruthless vandalism, and their lands laid waste. Yet those who incited these depredations now taunt those whom they have ruined with their penury. Could meanness find a lower depth than that?—Louisville Courier.

THE FIFTEENTH ANNUAL SESSION
Of this Institution
Begins on the 24th of Sept. Next.

THE first session after the war, 193 students were received. Dormitories will be repaired, so as to accommodate a greater number if necessary.

The Chemical and Philosophical Apparatus belonging to the Institution are new and embrace all the modern improvements, and in quality are not supposed to be excelled on the continent.

The magnificent collection of Shells and Minerals, excites the admiration of visitors, and perhaps has no equal in the South or West.

All the facilities for acquiring a thorough education are offered in this Institution. It is located in a healthy country—amidst a moral and intelligent community, and is accessible by railroad.

Actual expenses are supposed to be cheaper than at similar Institutions.

TERMS:

Tuition for the Annual Session, - - -	$50
Fuel " " " " - -	15
Board at the Steward's Hall, per month -	18
" in private families " from $20 to	25
If servants are furnished, a fee of - -	10

No charge for the use of rooms, but students will provide their own furniture.

Text books can be procured in Oxford.

The chairs of Chemistry and Law will be filled permanently early next fall. Applications are invited, well supported by testimonials.

The Preparatory Department will be continued for the present, but young men will receive instruction only in Mathematics, Latin and Greek, preparatory to entering the Freshman Class. The standard of admission into any of the classes, is not lowered, however.

The Trustees feel justified in recommending this Institution to parents and guardians—the Faculty being composed of men of ability, ripe in scholarship and of integrity of character.

We welcome to our columns again our old friend, Dr Humphreys, and his specific Homeopathic Remedies. We have known the Doctor for many years, and know him as a conscientious Christian gentleman, and an accomplished physician. We have used his Specific ourselves, and they are used extensively among our friends, and are free to say that they are all that they claim to be—invaluable Family Medicines. All who have the pleasure of Dr. H.'s acquaintance, knew that he would offer nothing to the public unless it was fully up to the standard of recommendation.

NEURALGIA COMPOUND!
This remedy, so extensively known, and so unqualifiedly endorsed by the Medical Faculty is offered to the public as unequalled by any other in the treatment of Rheumatism and Neuralgia, no matter of how long standing or how severe. Patients who had for years drawn a miserable existence, have by an occasional dose of this "Balm of Gilead," been restored to health and comfort after all the usual remedies and postrums had been tried and found useless. Its surprising effects have been experienced by thousands, and never known to fail. It requires no restraint from business or pleasure, and may be used by those of the most delicate constitutions as a strict purifier of the blood, which is so very essential in the foundation of good health.
