Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

MESABA ORE PRICES

An Advance Is Advocated and May Be Made.

THREAT OF MORE LABOR TROUBLE

Bessemer and Basic Iron Scarce—The Metal Trade in an Unsettled State.

New York, Jan. 9.—The Iron Age in its current issue will say:

Hardly have the first signs appeared that there may be an improvement in the supply of coke, when the news comes of possible labor trouble in the Wallston coal district, which would seriously embarrass a number of blast furnaces, the majority of which run on foundry iron. So far as the Connellsville and West Virginia districts are concerned, there seems to be a probability that shipments soon will become better. As yet the prices of ore have not been settled. It seems, however, that an advance ranging from 8 to 10 per cent on certain Mesaba ores is urgently advocated and may be accepted. The buying of foundry pig continues on a good scale and is widely distributed. The price of southern iron, which has been held at $12 for No. 2 Birmingham by the majority of the sellers, is now established for all of them. In the Chicago district the makers of malleable iron castings and other founders have been turning to charcoal to relieve the scarcity of coke iron, and as a result of the sale made, the price of charcoal iron has advanced.

The scarcity of Bessemer and basic iron in the central west continues. Further purchases of basic have been made outside of that territory for delivery here. Some little business has been done in imported Bessemer pig. An interesting transaction is the sale of 24,000 tons of Spiegelein at about $24, duty paid. Little is doing in the steel market. We hear of occasional small lots of billets, but the movement does not possess significance. Domestic wire rods are firmer, owing to scarcity. In the wire trade there is a growing probability that the outside makers of wire nails will get together and put an end to the cutting of prices which has been going on for some time. In other branches of the industry the new mills are becoming more aggressive. Indications of this are appearing in the sheet and pipe trades.

The outlook for structural iron continues excellent. Large requirements are constantly making their appearance in all parts of the country. The makers of bars, notably in the west, are crowded with inquiries and are selling freely. There has been, moreover, less trouble about securing prompt delivery. Reports are current that the Mexican rail orders have been taken by German makers. It is likely, however, that at least a part of them will be secured by American and English producers.

The metal trade is generally in an unsettled state. The "official" copper prices are being cut by outside producers and the trade seems still convinced that the last of the cuts have not yet come. Tin has had a further drop and is not particularly firm.

FULL OF POWDER AND MATCHES

Attempt to Blow Up the Office of Master Mechanic of Milwaukee Road.

Milwaukee, Jan. 9.—Detectives in the employ of the Milwaukee railroad have been engaged for several days in efforts to ferret out what is believed to have been an attempt to blow up the office of Master Mechanic J. C. Miller at the West Milwaukee shops.

On New Year's day Mr. Miller received a parcel which he supposed to be a box of cigars.

When he started to open it his attention was attracted by a grating noise as of matches rubbing against a hard surface and he laid the parcel down. As he did so a small quantity of powder sifted through a crevice. He became suspicious and placed the mysterious box outside the office. Invesigation demonstrated that Mr. Miller was the recipient of what was undoubtedly an infernal machine.

INDIAN SYSTEM WRONG

FRANK EDDY WOULD CHANGE IT

Congressman Says Indians Should Be Kept in Constant Touch With Civilization.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Congressman Frank Eddy has some ideas about dealing with the red man. He has come to the conclusion that the present system is fundamentally wrong. Mr. Eddy says:

I do not know whether it is too late to change or not, but I am inclined to think a change might still be made to advantage. Up to this time the whole idea of the government seems to have been to drive the Indians together on reservations which were kept separate from the rest of the world. For educational purposes, certain Indians are taken from these aggregations at times and put into schools. They are taught civilization; then they are taken back and put with their fellow tribesmen, as if with the idea that they would leaven the whole lump and uplift their people. Instead of this happening, they themselves go back and revert to barbarism. So the race as a whole has remained uncivilized, and the only solution of the Indian problem seems to be in extinction.

Now, this is all wrong. It is clearly demonstrated that the Indian may be civilized. When he is brought in contact with civilization he contracts it and becomes a decent, industrious, educated citizen. Therefore he should be brought and kept in contact with civilization. He should not be sequestered. Instead of setting aside reservations from which the white man is excluded, as if by a high, impassable wall, the Indian should be forced to dwell alongside of whites.

If I had my way, Indian reservations would be divided into alternate sections; every other section would be opened to settlement for homesteaders. Thus the Indian would be brought into close and constant touch with civilization. He would see how things are done. He would be employed on the farms and in the mines and factories of the settlers, and would learn to go and do likewise on his land. The Indian will work; but at present he will not work continuously. He will make a stake and then go off and spend it. He is not regarded as the equal of white labor; but the Indian is largely the creature of his environment. If supported he will not work and will not try to learn. Neither can he learn in a minute to overcome all the faults of his ancestry and breeding; but when brought into a proper environment he is capable of making a good citizen, and it is the fault of the government if he is not one.

HOME FOR CRIPPLES

THE BONE-SETTER'S GREATEST WORK OF ALL.

Take the whole tenure of the Bone-Setter's practice, covering, as it does, a period of over twenty-seven years of undivided attention, close study, deep research, and active practice in the cure of cripples, in every way crippled, and deformities of all kinds, men, women and children. Take his phenomenal work in Spinal Curvature and all Spine Affections, bordering on Locomotor Ataxia or resulting in partial paralysis, where he has completely restored hundreds who had long since deferred all hope; children with every form of spine trouble, rendering them unable to sit up, walk or talk, where he has by a few swift manipulations with his bare hands upon the spine, quickly righted the wrong, to the joy and delight of their fond parents; take all manner of deformed feet, where he has in many hundred instances made them perfect; rheumatic subjects, where their joints are enlarged and stiff, in many cases unable to walk, or not having walked for years, are made to walk and given the full use of their limbs; men, women and children born with a dislocated hip; old fractures that were improperly set; stiff arms, dislocations, fractures, every conceivable irregular condition of the bony structure of the human body, lapped bones, crossed bones, crooked bones, bent bones, irregular bones and diseased bones; cripples by accident, disease and from birth, including the hundreds of all kinds of cripples, no two just alike, that he operates upon with marvelous success, giving results that are little less than miraculous, and in no case giving the least pain, yet taking all of the wonderful things he has done or may ever do, the Bone-Setter's greatest and grandest work of all is where he makes an examination of a patient and finds that he cannot render any help, he frankly and candidly tells the patient so. It is his honor, honesty and frankness with the poor cripple that stands out in such bold relief, in the grand picture of his noble work. It is this common, every-day honesty that gives character to his practice. It is this honor that gives individuality to his work. It is this unfeigned truthfulness, open frankness and unreserved candor that has laid the foundation upon which his practice is built. Hundreds of people have said to the Bone-Setter, "You told me the truth," when he would reply, "There is not enough money in the world to buy a lie out of this office." The same vein of truthfulness, honesty, honor, candor and frankness runs through all of the correspondence which is sent to all who write to inquire if anything can be done for them. If the description of their trouble is such that he knows that he cannot do anything for them, he says so, and that ends all correspondence. He says there are so many whom he can help, relieve, restore and cure, that he will not take something from any one and give them nothing in return. If this is the kind of a man whom you would like to consult, write him at once and fully describe your trouble and enclose stamp for postage.
