ASK FOR PARKWAYS

Residents of N. E. Minneapolis Are Working for Boulevard System.

OLD QUARRIES USED FOR LAKES

The General Scheme Will Soon Be Submitted to the Park Board.

The Northeast Improvement association will inaugurate imediately in behalf of that section of the city a movement to bring to a head the long-projected plans for a system of park boulevards for the northeast community. Former Alderman M. B. Lloyd will present a resolution at the next meeting of the association, scheduled for Saturday evening, setting forth the objects desired and requesting the park board to take the matter up at once. The resolution will be presented to the park board at its next meeting.

If the park board has not the money in hand, the promoters hope it will at least go as far as formally to set aside the streets included in the proposed system and, having the general plans clearly in mind, make some progress on the work from year to year.

The scheme is a series of connecting boulevards embracing the University and Van Cleve parks in Southeast Minneapolis, Windom and Columbia parks in Northeast Minneapolis and Lyndale avenue in North Minneapolis. Stinson boulevard already covers most of the route between Van Cleve and Windom parks. The route from Windom park to Columbia park that they have chosen as possessing the best advantages is by way of Johnson street and Thirty-third or Thirty-fourth streets. From Columbia Heights the proposed route leads down Central avenue to Thirty-seventh avenue, thence by Thirty-seventh avenue to the new Northeast pumping station, and thence by Marshall street to Twenty-fifth avenue NE and the river bank, the east site of the proposed new bridge, and then connecting with Lyndale avenue by way of the bridge and Thirty-second avenue N.

The plans also call for the ultimate obliteration of the present unsightly stone quarry excavations in the ninth ward, converting them into artificial lakes, each the center of a pretty park.

It will be some years yet, they say, before the quarries will be exhausted and the plan available. But they purpose to keep it in mind as a part of the general scheme for the improvement of that section of the city.

ELKS ARE BUSY

They'll Talk Carnival To-night—Bigney, the Diver, Here.

Most of the Elks in the Minneapolis herd will attend the regular weekly lodge meeting this evening, as matters of great pith and moment to the order and the big June fair will come up for discussion. The meeting will resolve itself into a committee of the whole and go into executive session for the consideration of questions of vital significance to the success of the fair and carnival.

An added attraction is the announcement that seventy big vari-colored paper balloons will be given away this evening. The Elks will draw lots for the balloons and the holders of the lucky numbers will take the flyers away with instructions to send them on high at about 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. To each balloon will be attached free tickets of admission to the carnival. This will give small boys with sturdy limbs a fine chance to work their way into the big show.

Professor Charles A. Bigney, the Canadian high diver of the world, arrived in Minneapolis yesterday to prepare for his sensational daily performance at the carnival. Next to the "loop-the-loop" feature, this will one of the most thrilling spectacles in the long list of carnival attractions. Bigney dives head foremost from over 100 feet into a shallow tank but a few feet in diameter.

Among Bigney's high-diving feats are his leaps from the California bridge, 120 feet; high bridge, Brooklyn, 90 feet; Halsted street bridge, Chicago, 90 feet; North End bridge, Boston, 90 feet; Pikes tower, Boston, 134 feet. The Metropolitan police prevented him from getting the Brooklyn bridge on his list.

MORE MUSIC LESSONS

Music Teachers' Association on Preparation for Their Profession.

The Minnesota State Music Teachers' association will make an effort to secure greater attention to music in the state public schools. Public educational institutions will be petitioned to increase their facilities and give more time to the teaching of music. Greenleaf Clark, president of the board of regents of the state university, will be sent a recommendation in favor of making the study of public school music compulsory for those who are taking the teachers' course and the association will ask President Ankeny of the state normal board to increase the work in music in normal schools to sixty lessons for the elementary graduate classes and double that number for the graduate classes. The state high school board and the presidents of the graded school boards will also be impressed with the importance of the study of music.

Professor Harlow Gale spoke yesterday afternoon of music in the state university. He said that the students were indifferent to it. He believed that music should be taught in its broader sense, through lectures, literature and concerts, to all the pupils.

The closing feature of the convention was the concert given last evening by the Kneisel quartet. The convention has been a success and money was received from the sale of season tickets sufficient to pay all expenses and leave a balance in the treasury for next year.

A CHECK FOR ONE CENT

Its Receipt an Instance of Uncle Sam's Honesty.

F. M. Morgan, the Minneapolis custom house broker, has a curiosity. It is a check on the First National bank of St. Paul, a national depository, for 1 cent. It is signed by John Peterson, federal collector and disbursing agent. Some three months ago Mr. Morgan remitted a cent too much in payment of duties. In the course of time the honest government made restitution.

If Mr. Morgan chooses, he can make as much trouble for the government as has fallen to the lot of one of the roads running into Minneapolis.

Several years ago, perhaps a decade, a conductor overpaid the company 4 cents. To reimburse him a check for the amount was mailed back. The trouble is caused by the fact that the conductor won't cash the check. He holds it as a curiosity, consequently the auditing department has to carry the unpaid check over as a liability at the end of each year. Personal letters from the head of the road, solicitations by the auditor have no effect, and it is believed that if in probating the conductor's last testament it is found he has not willed the check to the road, some one will go crazy.

Something Doing—

LIBRARY FOR THE SICK

INSTALLED AT CITY HOSPITAL

Gift of J. C. Young—Books Are Standard Works and Excellently Bound.

The patients at the city hospital have been made happy by the installation of a library of 500 volumes, the gift of J. C. Young of this city. The books are all carefully selected and furnish an excellent lot of general reading to help afflicted ones to pass away dreary hours. The officials of the hospital say that the library is one of the best additions that have been been made to the institution for some time.

The books comprise most of the standard works and are all bound in excellent style. The works of Cooper, Dickens, and others of the best writers are found on the shelves. Another feature that has been taken into consideration by Mr. Young in selecting the library is the fact that a large number of the patients are foreigners and are unable to read the English language. In order to provide for them there are a great many Swedish, Danish, Norwegian and German books. Others are yet to be added.

The books which have already arrived, about 300 in number, have been carefully catalogued by an expert librarian and a system for handling the books has been adopted which will prevent theft or loss. Each book is given out to the nurse in charge of the patient and she is personally responsible for its return. The books are greatly appreciated by the patients and the number of vacant places on the shelves attests the popularity of the library.

It is expected that the movement which has been started by Mr. Young will prove only a beginning and that others will make donations of books until the library has reached large proportions.

SEMINARY REMOVAL

Commercial Club Issues Booklet Giving Reasons for Change.

The vigorous efforts now being made to secure the removal of the Lutheran Theological seminary from Red Wing to Minneapolis will in all probability result in removal. The Commercial club has recently issued an attractive booklet entitled "Some Reasons Why Minneapolis Is an Ideal Place for the Permanent Location of the Seminary of the Hauge Norwegian Evangelical Lutheran Synod," and this booklet has been scattered broadcast.

The plan outlined in the publication calls for the purchase of the building and grounds of the Minneapolis academy, on the East Side. Plans of the present building are given and its adaptability to seminary uses is touched upon. The fact of its proximity to the university is also advanced as an argument in its favor. An option on this property has already been secured.

The booklet contains also a general "write up" of Minneapolis, from an educational, business and historical standpoint. It is handsomely illustrated with half tone cuts of various buildings and localities within the city limits.
