MR. LANGLEY'S EXPLANATION

Thru Error His Airship Was Tied Down and So Could Not Fly.

Injury Done to the Machine Was Slight and Can Be Repaired Readily.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Speaking of yesterday's experiment at Widewater with his aerodrome, Professor Langley said to-day that he was not an eye witness of the experiment, having been detained in Washington by business, but he added that he was able, on the report of Mr. Manley, who was immediately in charge, to say that the latter's first impression that there had been defective balancing was corrected by a more minute examination when the clutch which held the aerodrome on the launching ways and which should have released it at the instant of the fall, was found to be injured.

Professor Langley continued: "The machinery was working perfectly and giving every reason to expect a successful flight, when this accident, due wholly to the launching ways, drew the aerodrome abruptly downward at the moment of release and cast it into the water near the houseboat. The statement that the machine failed for lack of power to fly was wholly a mistaken one.

"The engine, the frame and all the more important parts were practically uninjured. The engine is actually in good working order. The damage done was confined to the slighter portions like the canvas wings and propeller, and these can be replaced readily.

"The belief of those charged with the experiment in the ultimate successful working of the machine is in no way affected by this accident, which is one of the large chapter of accidents that usually beset the initial stage of experiments as novel as the present ones. It is chiefly unfortunate as coming near the end of the season when outdoor work of this sort is possible.

"Whether the experiments will be continued this year or not has not yet been determined.

IDAHO LIKES IT

A Defense of the Stone and Timber Law By an Idaho Lawyer.

To the Editor of The Journal.

I take pleasure in The Journal and often receive instruction from its able editorials, but I feel constrained to differ with you as to the editorial stand taken on the matter of the repeal of the stone and timber law. If you will allow me the space, I will briefly give you my views as those of one living in the portion of the United States most affected by the operations of that law, and reasons why such repeal, except with conditions which the forces back of the agitation for repeal will not permit, will work directly into the hands of the big syndicates and corporations operating in timber.

Idaho has the biggest and best body of standing white pine now within our borders. A large part of this has already passed into the possession of the timber syndicate but not thru the operation of the stone and timber act. Instead, their immense holdings have been largely acquired from the state at public auction under democratic officials for a very inadequate price, on the mistaken notion that such disposal of the state's forests would result in the settlement and building up of the country. In addition to such state purchases the syndicates have bought and are buying private holdings obtained by individuals under the stone and timber act. But not 1 per cent of such holdings of individuals have been obtained in collusion with timber companies and the syndicates are forced to pay to private holders an average of from twice to three times as much as it would cost them to place scrip on the lands.

Hundreds of thousands of acres of the choicest timber of Idaho, Oregon and Washington have been obtained by the railway and timber companies by scrip. Nearly all outstanding scrip is in their hands and they are using every means today to place as much of the scrip as possible on all unoccupied timber lands as soon as they are thrown open to entry. I have information that one timber company has offered squatters on unsurveyed lands in this state as high as $1,200 per quarter to refrain from filing when the land comes into market and permit the company to use scrip instead. Repeal the stone and timber law and what will be the result?

There is outstanding to-day in the hands of the big corporations about 600,000 acres of scrip. The moment the law is repealed, the individual settler will be eliminated and the scrip holders will have clear sailing to lay their scrip on all the timber at a price to them of about $5 per acre, while they now have to pay the settlers who get the land under the stone and timber act from $10 to $30 per acre and the price is increasing rapidly. Where will the benefit come in to the individual or the country at large? The timber will pass all the more surely into the hands of the corporations, with the exception that they will get it for a great deal less money than at present. We see the actual workings of the law out here, and cannot escape from the logic I have stated.

The railway companies and timber syndicates are back of this agitation. They are using their efforts to delay the filing of plats of surveys with the hope of getting the law repealed and the squatter eliminated. For this reason, if the repeal is made, they will see to it that no provision is inserted doing away with scrip or withdrawing all timber lands from entry, as will have to be done if the ostensible reason for such repeal is to be conserved.

The recent irrigation congress at Ogden voted down a proposed resolution in favor of such repeal. The gathering was a distinguished one of experts in irrigation problems, of statesmen and patriotic citizens from nearly every state in the union. The action of that congress was the result of much discussion and thought, and deserves to be given great weight in the settlement of the problem under discussion.

I was a delegate to the recent trans-Mississippi congress at Seattle which resolved in favor of repeal. The basis of representation to that gathering and the actual heavy representation from such states as Texas and Louisiana—states not confronted by the problems that face us here—made it possible for the delegations from the south to pass the resolution on the plea that the great floods of the Mississippi are caused by destruction of forests. How the repeal of these laws now, after the forests of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan have become a mere memory, will lessen the flood dangers in the south is hard to understand. No such conditions confront us in the northwest, even should the forests have to go. The immense areas at the headwaters of the Columbia, the Snake and other large streams are all protected from the lumbermen by enormous forest reserves sufficient to prevent for all time the happening of such contingencies as afflict the east and south.

Aside from this is the matter of government irrigation, little appreciated in the east but of vital importance in the semi-arid states. The repeal of these laws will destroy the income out of which such works of reclamation can be established. That will not affect Minnesota or Iowa, but it will blast the fairest hopes of development of states west of the mountains.

Under the circumstances I believe, therefore, that the repeal of these laws will be for the sole benefit of the corporations which to-day are loaded up with scrip which the individual settler keeps them from using. It will snatch a prospective competence out of the reach of thousands of men and women who for years have maintained residence on timber lands in order to avail themselves of the provisions of this law; it will retard the settlement and development of the northwestern states; it will result in a much more speedy absorption of timber lands by the timber syndicates. If you can devise some practicable way in which the theory advanced in behalf of repeal will become an actuality, then, possibly, the damage to the individual can be condoned for the public good, but until that is made a condition precedent so that the forests will be preserved as a national domain which the scrip holders cannot reach, your advocacy of repeal is founded on a fallacy. —Hans Bugge.

RECORD PRICE FOR PRINTS.

London Morning Post.

The record price for prints sold during July was obtained for a fine impression, with untrimmed margins, of "Mrs. Davenport," the mezzo-tint by J. Jones, after Romney, viz., £651. "Mrs. Carwardine and Child," by J. R. Smith, after Romney, brought in £451 10 s. and "Viscountess Crosbie," by W. Dickenson, after Sir J. Reynolds, £325 10c. By way of comparison, one notes that the following prices were obtained for Whistler etchings: "San Biagio, Venice," £26; "Old Putney Bridge," £17; the Thames set (16), in fine condition, £49, and an early slateof "The Doorway," £29.

TALL STRAW HATS.

Lionel Rothschild created mild excitement in the British house of commons some years ago by appearing in a tall hat made of black straw. Its main recommendation probably was its lightness; it was not beautiful, and at a distance it gave one the impression of a very seedy hat, such as millionaires can afford to wear. The latest tall straw hat of this description is of a very different style. It is made for the wear of liveried coachmen and is of yellow straw, with a low crown, a curly brim and a black band.

Cured of Asthma

After Years of Terrible Suffering.

Mary Josephine Bezy, Floyd Knob, Ind., writes: "After suffering untold agonies for 32 years from Asthma, I was cured by Schiffmann's Asthma Cure. I used to be so bad that I could not move without help, but I can now do all my own work." Another writes: "My little boy 7 years old has been a sufferer for several years, sometimes so bad off that we could not hold him in bed, expecting any moment for him to breathe his last. Doctors did him no good and we had almost given up in despair, when through accident we heard of Schiffmann's Asthma Cure, tried it and it almost instantly relieved him." Mrs. D. C. Harris, Elbow P. WE CURE IMPOTENCY

I WILL CURE YOU.

If you are a victim of Nervo-Sexual Debility, with all its distressing symptoms, you certainly do not intend to remain so. The fact that you have taken inferior remedies to no avail should not destroy your faith in all treatment, nor your hope of a radical cure. I have evolved a special treatment for Nervo-Sexual Debility that is uniformly successful in cases where success was before by other doctors deemed impossible. It does not stimulate temporarily, but restores permanently. It allays the irritation of the delicate tissues surrounding the lax and unduly expanded seminal ducts, contracting them to their normal condition, which stops night emissions, drys up day drains, and prevents prematureness. It tones up and strengthens the blood vessels that carry nourishment to the weakened parts, which regain full power, size and vigor. Meanwhile all other symptoms improve, and the patient realizes that a great blight has been lifted from his life. I cure quickly, safely and thoroughly.

LEECH LAKE INDIAN AGENCY, ONIGUM, Minn., Sept. 21, 1903.—Sealed bids will be received at the office of acting Indian agent, Leech Lake Agency, Minnesota, until 12 m., central time, Oct. 24, 1903, for the sale of the blown-down timber on the Red Lake diminished reservation, on the following described sections:

Section 36, township 151, range 30.
Sections 1, 2, 11, 12, 13 and 14, township 150, range 36.
Section 32, township 151, range 35.
Sections 5, 6, 7, 8, 16, 17, and 18, township 150, range 35.

The greater part of this timber was blown down on July 5, 1902, and is estimated at between five and ten million feet Norway and White Pine. No standing, green or live timber will be cut.

This comprises practically all the merchantable pine timber in the blown-down area.

Rules and regulations for sale and cutting of the timber can be obtained by prospective bidders on application to the undersigned.

The government reserves the right to reject any and all bids. G. L. SCOTT, Major Tenth Cavalry, Acting Indian Agent.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

Sealed bids will be opened in presence of bidders on October 24th, 1903, and contract awarded to highest and best bidder. A copy of advertisement and a certified check of 20 per cent of the amount bid based on estimate of five million must accompany bid.

The checks of unsuccessful bidders will be returned as soon as bid is rejected. That of successful bidder will be retained until bond is approved, and contract made, and then to be applied to purchase of timber. If successful bidder refuses or fails to enter into contract within a reasonable time, the money sent with bid will be forfeited to the United States. The usual bond will be required. Timber to be cut and paid for before April 15, 1904. The timber to remain the property of the United States until fully paid for, and will not be removed from the landing until that time. All expenses for the proper disposition of this timber will be paid by the contractor, except half the wages of the scalers employed by the government. Scaling will be done by scalers employed by the Indian agent and subject to his orders only.

All logs will be scaled by Scribner's rules. The contractor may and is requested to employ an inspector of scalers to be paid by him and subject to his orders only, to check the work of government scalers. Any complaint made by him relating to accuracy of scale will be investigated and adjusted at once. When work is completed the government scale must govern. Government scalers shall be paid not to exceed $100 per month.

The Red Lake band of Indians may appoint an inspector of scalers with the approval and subject to the orders of the Indian agent, to be paid wholly from the proceeds of sale of timber at not more than $100 per month.

The contractor will provide suitable accommodation for all employes and board same while employed on this work.

All timber shall be cut with a saw when practicable.

In cutting, no tree shall be cut higher than eighteen inches from the ground when standing.

All merchantable pine existing in each and every log above the diameter limit of six inches at the small end shall be utilized. Any such timber left, purposely or otherwise, shall be scaled double and charged to the purchaser and the regular stumpage rate paid for the timber.

Merchantable pine timber used for booms, skids, building camps, dams, bridges or for any other purpose shall be scaled and charged to the purchaser at the regular stumpage rate paid for the timber.

In cutting timber for booms, all trees shall be carefully measured before cutting and the length of the boom shall be graduated to such lengths as will allow the timber in the tops of the trees, which is too small for booms, to be cut into merchantable log lengths.

All trees shall be measured before cutting into logs, and the length of the logs so varied in even two-foot lengths that all merchantable timber in the tree shall be utilized to the prescribed top diameter limit of six inches, or as near thereto as possible, 16-foot logs being considered the maximum length. All longer logs will be scaled on this basis.

Pine boom timber shall be scaled at each 16-foot point to obviate loss of scale on account of taper.

All merchantable timber, fallen or dead within the blown down area will be cut, including trees broken off higher than fifteen feet from the ground.

No standing green or live timber shall be cut, except for necessary road-ways and landings the usual width and size.

Preference must be given Indians in hiring men to handle this timber in positions they are capable of filling, and the same rate of wages allowed them as white men for the same work.

White men may be employed when competent Indians are not available to do the work.

All expenses attending the sale and disposition of this timber, including advertising not specified as payable by the contractor, shall be paid out of the proceeds of the timber. The balance remaining to be credited to the Red Lake band of Chippewas only, and to be disposed of as the Indian department may direct.

These rules and regulations shall be made part of any contract awarded for the sale of the timber named in the advertisement.

No contract is valid unless approved by the honorable secretary of the interior.
