An interesting event of the day was the marriage of Miss Florence Moore and Dr. Harry B. Child, which took place at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moore on Seventh street S. The decorations were in the autumn colors and bright-hued leaves were mingled with the deep green of palms and smilax in the wide bow window. Yellow chrysanthemums, autumn's own flowers, were caught in the foliage and were used again on mantel and cabinets. The diningroom repeated the same flower scheme and the appointments were very appropriate to a fall wedding.

Miss Corabelle Ludwig played the "Lohengrin" bridal chorus as Miss Mary Childs, in a pink frock, and Donald Moore, in a white suit, stretched the white satin ribbons to make a way for the bride. The bridesmaids, Miss Isabelle Browne and Edna Wood of Milbank, S. D., were gowned alike in pink flowered organdie with yokes and berthas of lace, and carried pink roses. Miss Mabel Moore, the maid of honor, was in blue crepe de chine with a lace yoke in the plaited gown, and and her flowers were also pink roses. The bride entered alone and was met at the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of white crepe de chine with a lace yoke in the tucked skirt and blouse and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Dr. Child and his best man, Edmund Barnaby, were awaiting her in the leaf nook and the service was read by Rev. J. S. Montgomery. An informal reception followed and Dr. and Mrs. Child were assisted in receiving by their parents and grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Child, and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Child and Mrs. C. W. Warren.

Dr. Child and his bride will leave this evening for the east and Mrs. Child's traveling gown is of brown broadcloth with a hat to match.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Moore gave the bridal dinner for Miss Moore and Dr. Child and yellow flowers and tapers decked the table. The other guests were Misses Mabel Moore, Isabel Brown, Edna Wood, Corabelle Ludwig; Messrs. E. G. Barnaby, Jr., Howard W. Blackwell, W. P. Wood of Milbank and J. C. Moore.

The first of the fall card parties was given this afternoon when Mrs. George A. Rose entertained forty women at her home on Ninth street SE in honor of her sister, Mrs. W. T. Coghlan of New York, who has been her guest this summer. Mrs. Coghlan will leave early in the month for home, and a number of farewell affairs have been planned for her. Mrs. Rose used garden flowers for her decorations, and blossoms in all the varying shades of white, red and yellow were effectively placed thru the parlors and diningroom. The mantels were tangles of palms and ferns in which the brilliant blossoms were held captive. Euchre was played and the score cards repeated the color notes of the flowers, and the same scheme was carried out as far as possible in the dainty luncheon which was served after the games.

Miss Marion Colby has chosen Tuesday, Oct. 11, as the day for her marriage to Clinton Hancock Miller of Philadelphia.

The wedding of Miss Mae Abrams and Harry W. Giles has been set for Tuesday evening, Sept. 27, when it will take place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Abrams, 1807 Third avenue S. Miss Abrams will have Miss Bertha Lowy for her maid of honor, and Sidney Abrams will act as best man.

Mrs. Charles H. Hood will entertain at luncheon tomorrow for Mrs. George Price Case. Mr. and Mrs. Case are still at the lake, and when they come to the city they will occupy an apartment in the Imperial. Mrs. Case, it will be remembered, was Miss Elizabeth Calderwood, and her marriage to Mr. Case took place early in the summer in New York.

Lafayette Lamb's houseboat, the Idler, with the steam tender, the Wanderer, arrived at the dock in St. Paul last evening after a week's cruise on the Mississippi between St. Louis and St. Paul. A most delightful outing was enjoyed by Mr. Lamb's guests for the Idler is a palatial houseboat with everything conducive to the comfort and pleasure of its guests. The party included Judge M. B. Koon, James S. Bell, Louis K. Hull, Eugene J. Carpenter, Rufus R. Rand, all of Minneapolis; James Bingham of Chicago, and Frank Hixon of La Crosse.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Ireland gave a dinner last evening at their home on Clifton avenue for Miss Irene Dean and Walter Browne Barr of Denver, Col., whose wedding is one of the events of this evening. Covers were placed for fourteen and a basket of pink dahlias in the center of the table had a large tulle bow on the handle. One long loop was caught in the handle of a smaller basket at Miss Dean's place. The name cards were embellished with water color miniatures.

Ralph Mitchell gave a theater party last evening at the Metropolitan to see "The Forbidden Land" and Miss Alga Fawcett and John H. Cragie of Chicago, whose wedding takes place this evening, were the honor guests. Mr. Cragie came up from Chicago Monday.

American Beauty roses in a great Japanese basket decked the table at the bridal dinner of Miss Katheryn Irwin and Harris Gagnon which was given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Irwin. The guests were the members of the bridal party.

Mrs. Anton Strand entertained thirty women yesterday at her home on Second avenue S, in honor of Miss Eugene Girling of Iowa. Asters in lavender and white were used in the parlors and a basket of yellow flowers with yellow tapers were in the diningroom.

Mrs. Russell Dibble left last evening for Franklin, Pa., to attend the wedding of Miss Jane Mitchell and Rev. Theodore Payne Thurston, which will take place next Wednesday. Mrs. Dibble will go on to New York after the wedding and will not return until the last of October. Mr. Thurston and his mother will leave tomorrow evening for Franklin and Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Strong went Monday evening.

Among the Clubs.

The Wisconsin State Federation of Women's Clubs will meet in Marinette Oct. 26-28. Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker, president of the general federation, will be present with several prominent clubwomen from Chicago.

The clubwomen of Michigan have followed the example of the Minnesota woman and will have an exhibit at the West Michigan state fair, to be held in Grand Rapids. The exhibit will be under the direction of the Grand Rapids federation, and will include club yearbooks and literature.

The Thursday Musical club has been organized in Bemidji, Minn., with the following officers: Mrs. R. B. Foster, president; Mrs. Andrew Warfield, vice president; Miss Halderman, secretary; Mrs. French, librarian, and Miss Rose Dickinson, treasurer. The club has a membership of eighteen, and its programs will be a pleasant feature of the winter.

The Society for the Protection of Native Plants, one of the allies of the Floral Emblem society and of the American Park and Outdoor Art association, has now 627 active members and seventy-five sustaining members. During the last year the society has distributed over forty thousand leaflets, calling attention to the society and pointing out what plants need especial attention. The society does not desire to discourage unnecessarily the gathering of wild flowers and ferns for decorative purposes, but asks that they be picked with care and discrimination.

Guests of the Y. W. C. A.

Miss Abbie Mayhew will be the guest of honor at the opening reception at the Young Women's Christian association building this evening. Miss Mayhew was the first physical director of the Y. W. C. A., and is now connected with the Wisconsin university. She is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Joseph Chapman, for a few days.

Miss Elizabeth Taylor, the new state secretary, arrived in Minneapolis this week and will share the honors with Miss Mayhew this evening. Miss Taylor is a graduate of Wellesley college and has been with the association house in Chicago as one of the secretaries. She will act as secretary of Minnesota, Colorado and Wyoming, and for the next six weeks will travel thru the state visiting all of the college associations. Then she will go to Colorado for four months and later spend the same length of time in Wyoming, and return to Minnesota in the spring.

WHAT WOMEN WANT TO KNOW

BY MARION ALCOTT PRENTICE.

Undesirable Acquaintances.—I cannot go to all the evening parties with my daughter, nor does she want me to, but if I let her go alone how can I protect her from undesirable acquaintances?—Worried.

There is a world of truth in the trite old saying, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." Parents who are distressed for fear their daughters will meet undesirable acquaintances among men have the matter largely or entirely in their own hands to control if they will exercise the recognized forms of well-bred society and thus make such happenings practically impossible. For example: The common practice of allowing young girls to attend places of amusement, parties and the like, without proper escort, cannot be too strongly condemned, for it exposes the girl to all manner of criticism and, sometimes, insult. The girl makes mistakes because of her immature judgment and inexperience, which may be bitterly regretted in after years, mistakes which could not have occurred had an older person acted as chaperone. If undesirable escort is offered, she does not recognize it or, if she does, lacks the tact to avoid it and thus the acquaintance of an hour may force himself into her home. The wolf in sheep's clothing is found in all classes of society. I realize how tiresome it may seem to the "stay-at-home" mother to bestir herself and chaperon young people, but if she is unwilling to do this herself she should find some capable person to take her place. It is a duty she owes to her daughter and to the dignity of the family. Again, people who observe the canons of well ordered society are often sorely perplexed to provide escorts for several unattended young girls at the end of a social evening and especially so when they reside in different parts of the city. A prudent hostess shrinks from allowing a young guest to go home alone, and yet it becomes nothing short of martyrdom if the husband or son of a household must hold himself in readiness to escort habitually unprotected guests. There is but one way to avoid friction and embarrassing social complications, and that is by living up to the requirements of society.

Question for Tomorrow.

Dressing Women With Auburn Hair.—I send you a sample of my hair in the hope that you will be able to tell me what colors to wear. I get so discouraged sometimes I would like to dye my red head.—Discontented.

The Plymouth

Fall and Winter

Millinery Opening

A cordial invitation to you all.

Today opens auspiciously for the first showing of fall and early winter millinery. Our large section on the second floor, devoted exclusively to this one thing, is fairly ablaze with rich autumnal tints, both in the foliage and flowers used in the decorations and in the trimmings on the hats themselves.

Perhaps the most noticeable features of this season's display are the great picturesque shapes, with high imposing crowns, the abundance of elegant plumes, and the bewildering masses of sweeping aigrettes.

Aside from the exquisite models from across the water furnished by Crozet, Georgette, Virot, Heitz Boyer, Feurby and other well-known artists, we display some very dainty creations from New York, and again from our own workshop at half the cost. Once more we invite you all to come and see this gathering of the world's finest millinery.
