THINK FOOTBALL REAL NECESSITY

NOTHING TO REPLACE IT, SAY ENTHUSIASTS.

Minneapolis Followers of Game Can See No Substitute for It as a College Sport and Declare that Clean Football, Played According to Rules, Is All Right.

Minneapolis football enthusiasts do not see any substitute for football nor will they admit that the present game if played in strict accord with the rules is in any way in need of reform. Columbia and other univerities may do as they see fit and may find such substitutes as they are able to make popular. It is even intimated that it is no wonder Columbia is willing to abandon football when the records of the past year or two are considered.

"No real football enthusiast wants to see any change," said one. "The present game is all right and most of the present objectors condemn themselves by their lack of knowledge of the game." In speaking of the proposed modifications all pointed to the experimental game played recently at Cornell under the proposed new rules. The game was played strictly under the new suggestions with regard to free kicking, abolishment of mass plays, and with the ten-yard limit in three downs. In spite of all these lady-like changes one man had his collarbone broken and another his elbow.

It is pointed out also by enthusiasts who are intimately acquainted with the game that the injuries in nine out of ten cases come in the open plays rather than in the mass plays. When two men come together at high speed, something is likely to happen and generally does. In mass plays the men are seldom hurt by the legitimate shoving and pushing and by the weight of others who fall on them.

Cannot See Substitute.

These opinions were voiced by Colonel F. M. Joyce,
