Weather Conditions.

The pressure continues high in the Ohio valley and lake region, but somewhat reduced in energy. The low pressure area in the southwest continues, but the Alberta low area has moved to a position north of Minnesota, the two causing higher temperature in the lake region and the western portions of the Mississippi basin. These low areas have been attended by rains during the past twenty-four hours in the southwest, western Nebraska, South Dakota, Minnesota and the Canadian provinces. The north Pacific high pressure area has pushed into eastern Montana and is accompanied by sharp drops in temperature in the Rocky mountain region, while it is being closely followed by rapidly falling temperature to the westward with its attendant higher temperature. This high pressure area will continue its rapid eastward movement, and generally fair weather may be expected in this vicinity tonight and Saturday, with colder tonight.

Weather Now and Then.

Today, maximum 46, minimum 38 degrees; a year ago, maximum 44, minimum 24 degrees.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation of the kindness and consolation of friends during our recent bereavement.
—J. N. Barnecard and Family.

We, the relatives and friends of Porter L. Adams, do want to express our heartfelt gratitude to the neighbors and friends, and especially to Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Fletcher, who so kindly threw open their home to us; also to the noble-hearted boys of the L. F. lodge No. 82, who did so much to lessen our sorrow in the time of our great bereavement.
—His Mother.

M. D. Munn, attorney for the street railway company, appeared before the committee on streets of the St. Paul board of aldermen with a request that the council hurry up with its action on a six months' extension of the original time given the company for completing its new Hill-town line. Under the original terms the new line is to be in operation March 5, 1907. The committee seemed in no hurry to grant Mr. Munn's request for a special meeting of the council to consider the matter, and laid action over two weeks.

GANG REAPED BY STEALING JOURNAL

TWO BOYS CONFESS ORGANIZED GANG WAS AT WORK.

Prisoners Given Long Sentences in Workhouse, and Other Members of Gang, Whose Names Are Now Known, Will Be Arrested and Sent to Cells.

Stealing copies of The Journal has become so serious an offense that Sam Pearlman and Charles Lindgren were given straight sentences in the workhouse today.

Pearlman was sentenced to seventy-five days and Lindgren to sixty-five days. Both have a stay of sentence until tomorrow.

The arrest and conviction is the result of hard work on the part of detectives. For several weeks carriers and newsdealers have been systematically robbed of their Sunday Journals. The delivery wagons leave the papers at the street corners for the carriers and in front of the news stores, early in the morning. Before the owners could get them they would be gone. Acting on information furnished by The Journal, detectives began an investigation and Pearlman and Lindgren were caught in the act of theft. Hundreds of papers have been stolen each Sunday, and when confronted with the evidence, both boys confessed their guilt.

It was an easy way to make money, they said, for the papers could easily be sold to dealers and newsboys who ran short.

Under pressure, the two boys gave the names of several others who have been doing the same kind of work. There is an organized gang at work and the police now have all the names. Warrants will be issued for arrests as soon as they are found.

Pearlman and Lindgren are members of the "Young Greener" gang, and both have bad records. The Journal and police have been troubled so much recently with thefts of Journals that a double watch is to be instituted, and every offender will be promptly arrested. From now on it is thought that every carrier's papers will be safe if he gets to them in a reasonable time.

Judge C. L. Smith, in passing sentence, said that such stealing would not be tolerated, and as both the convicted boys had bad records, long sentences would have to be imposed.

BUTTER PRIZES AWARDED

STATE BUTTER AND CHEESE-MAKERS' ASSOCIATION IS ADJOURNED AFTER ANNOUNCING WINNERS.

The awarding of prizes on the 247 exhibits of butter and cheese in competition closed the thirteenth annual convention of the Minnesota State Butter and Cheesemakers' association in the memorial hall of the courthouse yesterday.

First prize in the butter competition, a gold medal, went to J. J. Borke, Morgan; second, silver medal, E. O. Quinvold, Hutchinson; third, $10, W. J. Prohm, Kimball. Louis Flagle of Erskine took the cup in the hand separator class without competition. In the cheesemakers' contest, A. Audrest, West Concord, was first; H. Clement, Terrebone, second, and A. Bringold, Paddock, third. The prizes were the same as in the butter competition.

Discussing the use of paraffine in butter, H. D. White of Washington said, 'In advocating the use of paraffine we are simply aiding John D., but he needs the money.' The applause showed that the members of the association were in hearty accord with Mr. White's sentiments.

L. A. Sweet, Fairmont, read a paper on "The Use of Silos." The discussion which followed, turned on the practicability of the plan. The butter, which was exhibited, was auctioned off, going to C. H. Weaver of Chicago, who bid 24½ cents a pound.

THEATER HANDS ORGANIZE

Benevolent and Social Club Will Affiliate with National Body.

Theatrical employees in any capacity who have been in the theatrical business six months, or who have worked around a theater that length of time are eligible to membership in the Tehatrical Mechanical association, formed last night at Alexander's hall, with seventy-five present. The association will incorporate and will secure a charter from the international association. The character of the organization is to be benevolent and social.

Officers of the temporary organization were elected as follows: President, Jermaine Quinn, grip at the Metropolitan; vice president, F. J. McDowell, engineer at the Orpheum; recording secretary, Harry Edwards, advertiser at the Orpheum; financial secretary, E. C. Geesaman, electrician at the Orpheum; trustees, Sam Ackerman, electrician at the Bijou; J. M. Hodgeman, property man at the Orpheum; E. Hosmer, bass viol at the Orpheum.

In other cities it is customary for managers and other high officers to take membership. At least 500 persons are eligible in Minneapolis.

BIG "C" WILL SHUT DOWN

Lack of Cars for Moving Wheat In or Flour Out.

The big "C" mill of the Washburn-Crosby company, which has been in operation without a break for a long time, was closed down last night. The company is unable to get cars to load out flour, or to get in wheat. This will make six idle mills, and the closing of the "C" mill, which has a daily capacity of 8,500 barrels, will materially affect the output.

The Consolidated Milling company has three mills down and the Pillsbury-Washburn company two.

Henry L. Little of the latter company pronounces the situation extraordinary and without precedent. Nov. 1 is usually a period of great activity. Much more grain must be brought into Minneapolis before there can be a return to normal conditions.

Of the wheat supply in the country Mr. Little says his observation covers the operation of one company with ninety country stations, all of which are filled with wheat, thirty having been closed for a week thru inability to hold more. If cars were available a big movement to market would be on, but the railroads appear to be unable to furnish them.

ELWELL GETS $20,000

Jury Decides Against John G. Lund in Store Litigation.

The jury in the case of J. F. Elwell against John G. Lund has returned a verdict in favor of Mr. Elwell and has placed a valuation of $20,000 on the property involved in the suit. The suit grew out of the litigation over the New Store and the case has been on trial before Judge Dickinson.

Mr. Lund loaned Mr. Elwell $55,000. Afterward he assumed possession of the store and disposed of part of the stock. Mr. Elwell maintained that there was no partnership and that Lund simply had a lien on the goods. The jury agreed to this contention and found for the plaintiff.

WYMAN SHOWS UP HAYNES' BACKING

FORMER SENATOR URGES ELECTION OF MAYOR D. P. JONES.

Declares Haynes Could Not Keep the "Lid" on, if He Were Elected, Because of the Element Back of His Candidacy—Mayor Jones at Three Meetings.

James T. Wyman, former state senator from the state university district, a member of the board of regents of the university and for years a close personal friend and neighbor of James C. Haynes, democratic candidate for mayor, spoke last night at Wilson's hall, in the second ward. He spoke for Mayor David P. Jones, however, and not for Mr. Haynes.

In a vigorous manner he attacked the backing of the Haynes campaign and while he brought no charge against Mr. Haynes personally, he announced decisively his belief that Mr. Haynes could not by any means maintain the Sunday-closing policy of Mayor Jones, because of the nature of the interests supporting his campaign. He charged Mr. Haynes with having active saloon backing, a charge which, he pointed out, Mr. Haynes has not denied.

"Is there a man anywhere who believes that Mr. Haynes, if elected, can keep on the 'lid,' no matter how honestly he may be disposed to do so?" said Mr. Wyman. "If it were not for the desperate efforts put forth by the liquor interests of this city to defeat Mayor Jones because of his fearless course as mayor, his re-election would be almost undisputed. Do the people of Minneapolis propose to allow the organized liquor interests to dictate our government and particularly the policy of police administration?

Setback for City.

"I have known ex-Mayor Haynes many years, and have been a close neighbor and friend. Personally, I like him, but nothing would be a worse setback for the city of Minneapolis and the cause of good, decent municipal government than his election as mayor at this time. The issue is not between two individuals, but between the causes of honest, decent government and the domination of our city's affairs by the saloon. Can any man who has any regard for common decency and the well-being of himself, his family and his community hesitate in such a time? I hope to see David P. Jones re-elected mayor by such a rousing vote as will show the people of the entire country, whose eyes are upon Minneapolis at this time, that we stand for decency and enforcement of law."

Mr. Wyman also gave a strong indorsement of Benjamin C. Sheldon, republican candidate for alderman of the second ward.

Mayor Jones Speaks.

Mayor David P. Jones addressed three large meetings and a number of house gatherings last night. He is talking business in his campaign, and his direct and forcible manner is telling everywhere.

Briefly the mayor reviewed the events preceding the Haynes administration and the conditions in which he, as acting mayor, handed the city over to Mr. Haynes. He then asserted that after two years o fHaynes he found the city again in the same condition as it had been under the Ames regime. The events of his own administration were rapidly and forcibly reviewed and the mayor announced that he is willing to be judged by the things that have been accomplished.

He announced his positive stand on the four principles that have already made his administration famous thruout the country: Civil service in the police department; abolition of public gambling; the segregation and driving out of the social evil, and the continuance of the Sunday closing order.

Destructive Elements.

The mayor called attention to the great work and expenditure of every year to build up and prepare for the future. He asserted that the saloon is a destructive element that seeks to pull down, faster than it can be erected, the work of the constructive element of the community, and that it should therefore be confined strictly within its legal rights and allowed to go no further.

"Do not find fault with your executive for enforcing the laws as they are written," he said, "If you do not like the laws, change them, but it is dangerous to countenance or demand evasion of the law."

He again asked his audiences to consider the importance of the present contest and the effect it will have on the city and its reputation for years to come and urged all voters to decide the contest not on personalities but on the great principles involved. He spoke last night in the seventh ward at a rousing meeting of the Monitor league, at 813 Thirteenth avenue S., Labor Temple and several house meetings.

James C. Haynes, democratic candidate for mayor, spoke last night at 1 Central avenue, in the Commercial hotel, operated by R. J. Upton, president of the Retail Liquor Dealers' association. Mr. Upton kindly opened his hotel diningroom that Mr. Haynes and others might have an opportunity to address a meeting of voters. Mr. Haynes addressed five other meetings during the evening.

MUSICAL TREAT NEAR

First Symphony Orchestra Concert Will Be Given Next Friday Evening.

The first concert of the fourth season of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra will take place next Friday evening at the Auditorium. The soloists will be Mme. Hellstrom, the celebrated young prima donna of the Royal opera of Stockholm, whose debut in the United States was made at the Minneapolis sangerfest of the American Union of Swedish Singers in 1903, and whose great triumph at that time is well remembered by hundreds of local music lovers.

The single sale of seats for the first concert will open next Wednesday at the Metropolitan music store. Persons who desire season tickets, but have not yet secured them, should do so before next Wednesday, and thereby have a much better choice of seats than will be possible after the single sale opens.

ST. PAUL WANTS CONVENTION.

St. Paul desires to entertain the National Creamery Buttermakers' association next February. The matter will be decided soon at a meeting of the directors, two of whom are Minnesota men. The only other city asking for the convention is Chicago. Mayor R. A. Smith of St. Paul has asked the council to appropriate $2,500 for the entertainment of the convention.

CHRISTIAN DALE ASKS LEGAL NAME

MINNEAPOLIS BUSINESS MAN SURPRISES HIS FRIENDS.

Petition in District Court Reveals that Real Name of Petitioner is Knudson and that He Wishes to Be Naturalized Under His Adopted American Patronymic.

Adopting the name of Christian H. Dale upon his arrival in America in the early eighties, and carrying on a mercantile business at 333 Central avenue under his adopted name, Christian Knudson has applied to the district court for a decree legally changing his name to that by which he is commonly known. The case is unique in district court annals, and had not Knudson applied for a decree from the court the fact that the name Dale was not his by heredity would have been known to few Minneapolitans.

In his petition to the court Knudson asserts that he came to America from Norway, and, wishing to avoid confusion, adopted the name of Dale. In Norway, the petition alleges, it is common for a man to adopt the name of his homestead as a surname, and Knudson of Dale only followed a common custom.

Coming to Minneapolis, Knudson, or Dale, as he was universally known, applied for his first naturalization papers, and in 1883 these were granted under the name of Knudson. As Christian Dale, however, he has conducted his business and as Christian Dale he is universally known.

Dale has never taken out his second papers, for he did not wish to take them out in the name of Knudson, and it was impossible for him to become a citizen of the United States under his adopted name. The present action is the result of this fact, and he now asks that the name which he has borne for twenty-three years be legally conferred upon him, and that he be permitted to become a citizen of the United States as Christian H. Dale.

"COPS" IN AN AUTO GET BOY FUGITIVE

Mike Brown, an escaped prisoner from the Red Wing state training school, was run down and captured by an auto loaded with policemen yesterday and will be returned to serve his term.

Policeman John Long saw Brown in an alley near First avenue S and Fourth street, and started after him.

Brown ran down Fourth street to Hennepin avenue, closely followed by Long. Just as Brown began to take a long lead, a man drove an auto up to the policeman and offered to catch the prisoner.

Summoning Policeman Duffy, Long got into the car and the pursuers were soon at the heels of the fugitive.

Brown ran as far as Third avenue N and Fifth street, and seeing a bridge ahead with no chance of escape, he stopped and threw up his hands.

"I can beat any cop in town," said Brown, after he was caught, "but it's no use trying to beat one of those things."

SEEKS A LEAN WIFE

That nature follows closely the law of the attraction of opposites was strikingly shown today by a short, fat man who presented himself at the desk of Major A. Merriweather, provincial secretary of the Salvation Army, and demanded a wife, "and no fat woman need apply." He explained that he was the owner of a farm in North Dakota which, with other property, gave him an income of $145 a month. The scarcity of marriageable women of suitable age in his neighborhood was the reason he assigned for his quest of a bride in Minneapolis.

"The Army is not a matrimonial bureau, and never has been," said Major Merriweather.

Edward Bannon, a switchman in the transfer yards at Walker and Taylor streets, Hamline, St. Paul, dropped dead yesterday. The body was taken to the St. Paul morgue where an autopsy was performed. Bannon lived at 855 Walker avenue and was on his way home when he died.

It resulted as follows: For governor, Cole, 117; Johnson, 58; for mayor, Jones, 109; Haynes, 51. The vote was taken personally by Mr. Strong, and while it was in progress Mr. Cole, who had been visiting in the building, entered the elevator and was asked to vote. He smiled, but asked to be excused on the ground of personal interest.

FASTED FOUR YEARS

One of the strangest cases that have confronted the medical profession for some time is that of Mr. Henry Fred, of Oaklandon, Indiana.

Some years ago, according to his statement, Mr. Fred began to have trouble with his stomach. As time went on his condition grew worse and soon became so that he could not keep down his food.

Doctors were consulted and various remedies were tried in vain. When speaking of his strange case, Mr. Fred stated:

"Five different physicians treated me without the slightest benefit nor did the many medicines I took afford me any relief. I do not believe I have eaten a square meal in all the time I suffered from this dreadful affliction."

"A short time ago I heard of the wonderful results that were being effected with the new medicine sold by Cooper, the well-known philanthropist, and bought one bottle as a trial. I have only taken about two-thirds of it, and have received more benefit and relief in this short time than I did from five of the best doctors I could find and countless other remedies I have tried during the past four years."

"Now I can eat what I want with a relish and my digestion is perfect."

Cooper's New Discovery has done more for cases of stomach and kidney trouble, blood diseases, catarrh, and deafness than any other medicine ever introduced in this country, and sells for one dollar per bottle.

Cooper's Quick Relief, the assistant remedy, is fifty cents.

Both are sold only at Voegeli Bros.' drug store, and it is said some remarkable results have been reported by persons who have used them.
