STOCKS BOUGHT FREELY IN LAST HOUR OF SESSION

Big Interests Active Buyers Because They Feel Conditions Do Not Justify Break.

MANY ISSUES SUFFER HEAVILY

War Stocks Are Hit Hard, and Professionals Are Bit Frightened by Bold Tone of Wilson's Note to Germany.

BY BROADAN WALL.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Stocks were bought freely in the last hour to-day by the biggest interests in the Street because they felt that conditions in Washington did not justify the break in the market; that there would be no break with Germany, and, furthermore, because professional traders of light caliber are heavily short of stocks.

Professionals were short early last week, but covered up on Friday and Saturday, believing that Villa would be reported dead before Monday, when the report of his death went unconfirmed, they sold again, and continued selling this morning.

The big people did nothing to check the decline, feeling that a reaction would be good for the market. The so-called "war stocks" suffered heavily, and most of them closed at the lowest figures of the day. They broke in the first hour, rallied and were most active in the final break that came just at the close.

Professionals are really frightened a bit by President Wilson's bold message, but, banked on the feeling that Germany has too much at stake, and that some way will be found to avoid a break. One visible argument of some drastic change of program on the part of the German government is the tonnage of big ships in American harbors. These would not be confiscated because of a diplomatic rupture, but such a rupture being a fact, the exact step would be infinitely more easy to take. Bankers believe that Germany would go to almost any length rather than have the United States in the war.

The allies, so it was said to-day to the writer of this column by a financier of world-wide fame who has been active in negotiations between American manufacturers and the British government, would prefer to have the United States out of the war because of its good influence this country would have at the time of making a treaty. All the rules of naval warfare will have to be considered at that time, and there should be, so think this financier, some important neutral nation to act as referee. He feels that the ideals of the United States and those of Great Britain are identical.

President Wilson's message came to Wall Street as a complete surprise, because of its firm tone. It was also a surprise because no authentic forecast of it had been published. Usually State papers are peddled around Wall Street hours and sometimes days in advance of their being made public, and are therefore fully digested.

The speech of to-day however, was not appreciated until after it had all been printed on the tickers because the last paragraph was the strongest of all.

The market rallied for a time during the delivery of the message, but when it was finished trader abandoned all pretense of being optimistic and their only desire seemed to be to get out of the market before the close.

Some copper and United States Steel issues, railroad issues, were firm, and Reading was conspicuous for its gain. They rallied to a point or so, in the face of the heavy liquidation of war issues. Rumors of the standard issues attracted much attention. Steel declined only 1 1-8 to a new low, Central, 1 1-4; Lehigh Valley, 1; Union Pacific, 1; and so on. The "war" stocks led the decline, and the "light" stocks, which has been trying for months to get the public interested in standard issues that will really be the chief beneficiaries of the war in Europe, their earnings of the last or of the coming five years. What happened to-day will help the movement materially.

We feel that there will be two distinct markets on the Stock Exchange—one for munitions and one for standard issues. Motors qualified as munitions to-day.

Attention was also called after the close to the stability of the copper stocks. End of the war or entrance of this country into it would mean a market for vast quantities of them at home. Germany will have to stock up almost anew at the war's end. That country is cleaned out of copper, even copper cooking utensils having been melted down for war purposes.

The German situation was the reason given by leading bankers for making lower bids on the New York City bond issue omitted. The delay in this has cost the city many thousand dollars. Banking houses find that their clients who would buy such bonds normally have held their money ready to pick up bargains in the stock market on the break that is in progress.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Although specialties suffered general and severe reversals today's market, in the opinion of impartial observers, furnished striking proof of its inherent strength in the face of highly disconcerting conditions. President Wilson's decision to submit the question of a continuance of the country's diplomatic relations with Germany to a vote came as a great surprise, which was indicated in the weak tone of the opening and final hours.

During the intermediate stage and long before the President's address had gained general circulation, it marked evinced a disposition to restore some of its early losses. The impetus came at the basis, however, for fresh outburst of liquidation, lowest prices being registered in the later dealing and depressed the general average far below recent levels. Little evidence of support was seen at the juncture, especially in the war group. Total sales amounted to 1,694,900 shares. Bonds were irregular, represented the munitions and affiliated equipment, industrial and petroleum stocks.

The day's operations included to a greater extent than at any recent session offerings from out of town speculators, evidenced by the activity of commission houses whose connections embrace the more important sections of the country. There was little doubt, also, that many stop-loss orders were uncovered in the course of the decline provoking much enforced selling.

Aspects of the market were the more extreme features of the session. Baldwin Locomotives, 7 to 86¼; Studebaker, 6¾ to 131; Crucible Steel, 4¾ to 81, and United States Industrial Alcohol, 8½ to 146½. United States Steel was heavier of the investment industrials, losing 1⅝ to 82⅝. Rails averaged fractionally lower, but were freely offered.

Bonds were heavy, reflecting both the movement of stocks. Dealings in the Anglo-French issue and Erie convertibles were unusually large. Total sales per value, $4,950,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Mercantile paper, 3@3½. Sterling, sixty-day bills, $4.75; demand, $4.76½; cables, $4.77½. Bar silver, 64½. Mexican dollars, 49½. Government bonds, steady; railroad bonds, heavy. COTTON MARKETS.

NEW YORK, April 19—The cotton market was extremely nervous and unsettled to-day, with the trade's attention practically monopolized by political developments. Liquidation was quite active during the morning, and July contracts sold off to 11.94, or 11 points under last night's closing level, but the market rallied later on covering, and continued moderate demand from trade interests with July closing at 12.01c, and the general list closing stead yat a net loss of 5 to 8 points.

The opening was 4 to 7 points lower. Active months sold 12 to 14 points under last night's closing figures during the first few minutes, and after a rally the market developed renewed weakness under continued liquidation and little selling by brokers with Continental connections. Prices broke to 11.80c for May, 12.13c for October and 12.30c for December late in the morning, or about 12 to 14 points under last night's closing figures.

Liverpool selling here was less active than earlier in the week, however, while trade interests were continued buyers of new crop months, and, after the flurry of liquidation was spent, offerings were comparatively small. The weekly report of the Weather Bureau was considered rather less favorable than expected, and probably helped to steady the market a little, but failed to stimulate any immediate demand of consequence. The afternoon rally was attributed to covering and some further demand from spot houses. The close was 2 or 3 points off from the best, and sentiment still seemed to be more or less nervous over political affairs.

Spot cotton, quiet; middling, uplands, 12.60c. No sales.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Port movement—Middling, 12.60c. Receipts, 70 bales; exports, 1,200 bales; stock, 236,560 bales.

Total to-day at all ports—Net receipts, 15,476 bales; exports, 6,854 bales; stock, 1,540,470 bales.

Total for week—Net receipts, 91,490 bales; exports, 83,505 bales.

Total for season—Net receipts, 6,387,105 bales; exports, 4,206,210 bales.

NEW ORLEANS, April 19—The cotton market was adversely affected by the political situation to-day, but in the early afternoon it had a period of strength and went to a net advance of 1 to 3 points on increased trading in spots. Little real support was forthcoming at any time, and the market plainly was nervous under the developments in Washington. Considerable liquidation of long cotton was in evidence. One the first call May showed a rise of 8 points on the strength of the New York market on yesterday, but selling pressure gained headway before the call was ended, and May was the only position to show improvement. Immediately after the call the market lost 5 to 6 points and later in the session the decline was widened 6 to 8 points. After the posting of the spot quotations, which was unchanged, the market advanced on the transactions of approximately 8,000 bales. These returns included yesterday's sales, but even at that they were much larger than usual. It was reported that Brazil has been a buyer of late in this market.

Toward the close nervousness was again showed, and the market sagged, the prices for the day being unchanged to 3 points down compared with the close of Monday. The market closed steady. Closing bids: May, 11.71; July, 11.88; October, 11.96; December, 12.09; January, 12.18. Spot cotton, steady, unchanged. Sales on the spot, 3,950 bales, to arrive, 3,955 bales. Middling, 11.88c.

NEW YORK PRODUCE MARKET.

NEW YORK, April 19—Although partly a shade lower at the close, cottonseed oil was steady in view of heaviness in other markets, owing to covering of shorts and scattered local buying for long account. Offerings were light. Closing price were 2 points lower to 4 points net higher. There will be no session of this market on Friday or Saturday. Sales, 1,300 barrels. The market closed steady: spot, 10.60@11.25; April, 10.60@11.00; May, 10.59@10.71; June, 10.69@10.71; July, 10.73@10.76; August, 10.74@10.75; September, 10.63@10.65; October, 9.63@9.67; November, 9.85@9.85. Total sales, 10,300 barrels.

Raw sugar, firm; centrifugal, 6.08; molasses, 5.31; refined, firm. Spot coffee, quiet; Rio 7s, 9¾; Santos 4s, 10½. Butter, unsettled. Cheese, firm.
