CLIMBERS ALMOST LOST BY STORY-BOOK FINISH

Had Tommy Leach Hit Just Trifle Harder Rochester Would Have Tied It Up.

CAME TO BAT WITH THREE ON

Two Out in Ninth, but Old-Timer Poled Out Single Instead of Double and Next Man Fanned—Was Red-Blooded Game.

When old Tommy Leach strode majestically to the plate in the ninth inning yesterday it looked like the Hustlers were going to treat Richmond fans to one of those baseball story finishes made popular by the writings of one Christy Mathewson. Three men were hugging the sacks. Two were down and only three runs were needed to tie the count, and four to win.

Tommy looked dangerous and Billy Smith wore a worried look. Motioning Jarman to the bench, Billy sent Ross to the mound. Tommy continued to look them over carefully. He fouled one, and then came the sound of bat smacking the ball soundly. The runners started around the paths. Tommy had produced the Mathewson blow, but fortunately for the local supporters of the Billsmiths, it was not quite long enough to register all three runners. Two did cross the pan, but as Ross then proceeded to fan Hale, Richmond took the game by the slight margin of 9 to 8. Needless to say, none of the fans left the grounds until the last man was out.

Rochester put up a better game than its record against Newark and Providence would lead one to believe possible. The Hustlers hit like demons, gathering seventeen safe blows. They fielded cleanly and as speedily as could be expected. The one miscue was a bobble by Sherman, who was unable to handle a grounder laid down by Jarman. Richmond hit with slightly less power than the visitors, but the clouts came when men occupied the sacks. The locals also fielded in grand style, Arragon making the only error, and that he redeemed almost in time to get the runner at the bag.

Both teams worked nicely in the feld and some apparently good hits were made into outs. Each team put across a couple of double plays. Bankston took one fly with his back on the right-field fence. Siglin robbed O'Donnell of a sure two-bagger when he made a flying leap and one-hand stab at a line drive that looked good for a trip to the fence. All in all, the work of the fielders was of tip-top order.

Was Red-Blooded Game.

It was a game for red-blooded men and women. The hits were many, but nevertheless the play was good. Runs were made, but the majority were earned, and that kind of baseball fills more seats than the scorcless brand.

Both pitchers were hit hard. Jarman had to be taken out in the ninth with three on the bases. Sherman, a former Federal League twirler, went until the end of the seventh, when he was taken out to let a pinch hitter get in a good lick. The latter individual was named Casey, and with two on the bases, he, like the more celebrated Casey of the poem, failed to deliver. Our Casey, however, did not fan. He grounded out, after forcing a man ahead of him.

Richmond registered a couple in the first frame after blanking the visitors. Hendryx was passed, and McDermott was singed by a foul strike ball. After Clemens had been called out on strikes and Bankston had grounded, Arragon hit to short, and both runners scored on the play to get the Cuban at first. Arragon went out trying to steal.

The Hustlers annexed one in the second inning. Siglin and McAuley each singled. Hale fanned, and the bases were filled when Arragon bungled a grounder from the bat of Sherman. Farrell lifted an a sacrifice fly that brought in Siglin. Babbington then struck out.

In the fifth the locals developed a batting streak which counted for three runs. Bankston opened with a single to right. Arragon laid down a bunt and beat it out. Elbel followed suit, and reached first in safety, filling the bases. Nye sent a long fly to center, and Bankston scored on the sacrifice. O'Donnell singled to center, scoring Arragon and Elbel. Jarman sacrificed, but was safe on an error by Sherman. Hendryx forced Jarman and O'Donnell went to third. Hendryx stole second, but McDermott went out on a grounder to McAuley.

A single by Farrell, double by Jacobson and wild pitch gave Rochester its second run in the fifth. Great fielding, with McDermott, Nye and Elbel as chief performers, blanked the visitors in the sixth and seventh.

Scored With Two Out.

After two were down in the sixth, Richmond lung up three counters. Hendryx singled to left. McDermott hit over third bag after Hendryx had stolen second and Tommy went to third. McDermott and Hendryx executed a double steal, with the former scoring. Clemens hit to left, scoring McDermott, and Bankston counted Clemens with a hit to left, after Bobby had annexed a base. Bankston went out trying to steal.

In the eighth Rochester got to Jarman good and plenty. Jacobson singled to center. Sloan beat out an infield hit. Hoelke flew out, but Siglin scored both men with a triple to deep center. He registered on a safety by McAuley. Hale got on by singling to center. With two on base and one out, Casey went to bat, but he hit to Arragon, who threw to Nye, cutting Hale off at second, and Nye relayed the ball to Elbel, getting Casey.

A double play in the eighth kept Richmond scoreless. Rochester came to bat in the ninth trailing four runs. Farrell led off with a three-bagger to center. Babbington grounded out, as did Jacobson. Farrell counted on a single by Sloan. Hoelke hit to left for one bag, and Jarman passed Siglin, who had already smacked out four hits in as many times at bat. Ross then came to the rescue. Tommy Leach essayed the role of pinch-hitter, and he delivered a single which registered two. With two on the paths, Ross steadied and fanned the next man, ending the game.

Elbel and Siglin were the swatting heroes of the clash, each getting four hits in four times at bat. Arragon laid down three hits in four attempts, and Jacobson got the same number in five trials. Nye batted out one hit in two official attempts. Bankston landed two blows in three trips up.

Two new arbiters were on the job in the person of Chestnutt and Carpenter. Chestnutt has a decided burr, and his strike, with its accompanying gesture, which looks like a movie of a Western gunman taking potshots at the first-baseman, pitcher and catcher. His voice is also a diversion.

Bugs Hersche will be the star performer for the Hustlers this afternoon. Ross or Rhoades will work for Richmond. O'Donnell and Elbel will continue to fill their respective positions, as both are going strong in field and at bat.

ORIOLES TRIM BISONS

BALTIMORE, May 5.—Joe Sherman kept Buffalo's hits well apart here today, and Baltimore won the opening game of the series, 8 to 5. Cooper and Anderson, who toed the rubber for the Bisons, were hit at opportune times. In the ninth inning, Buffalo threatened to tie the score. With two out and one on, Lamar dropped Jackson's fly, and then Kepp followed with a circuit clout into the bleachers, scoring three runs. Channel, however, ended the rally by going out on an easy roller to Twombly. The score:

YANKEES BEAT CHAMPS IN THIRTEENTH INNING

New York Finally Takes Second Game of Series With Boston Red Sox.

BROWNIES DEFEAT DETROIT

Tygers Handed Another Licking by St. Louis—Sixth-Inning Rally by Cleveland Defeats Chicago—Rain Stops Griffmen.

BOSTON, May 5.—The Yankees won the second game of their series with the Red Sox in the thirteenth inning today, 8 to 4. Vean Gregg was found in the box when the inning opened, replacing Carl Mays for whom a pinch-hitter had been sent in during the twelfth. Gregg walked Hartsell and Magee, the first two men to face him, and was removed, Sam Jones taking the slab. Baker was intentionally passed, and Janvrin's wild throw on Gedeon's chance allowed Hartzell and Magee to score. Pipp's single scored Baker and Gedeon.

Ray Fisher started in the box for the Yanks, but lasted only one inning, three hits sending him to cover. George Mogridge replaced him and did well until the ninth, when a pinch-hitter was sent in to bat for him. In this inning the Yankees tied things up on a double, two singles and a base on balls.
