Guy "Rebel" Cooper, pitching his first game in two seasons, yesterday afternoon, blanked Mike Doolan's heavy clouting Hustlers through eight frames, and, although replaced by Adams during the latter part of the ninth, left Boulevard Field credited with the first Richmond victory of the year. The final score was 6 to 4, Rochester sending four runners over during a vicious ninth-inning rally that threatened to snatch the fourth contest of the series into their bag.

To Rebel Cooper is due most of the credit for the victory, for, not only did he succeed in holding the Hustlers well in hand up to the ninth, but he pounded out a couple of bingles and scored two of the runs made by the local team. Until the ninth, when the strain of the battle began making itself felt and his arm began to tire, Cooper had allowed but four hits, all in different frames and widely separated. His passes had placed men on the bags, but only twice had Doolan's players been able to make the third-quarter station.

Cooper came close to being pretty near the whole show from a Richmond standpoint, and yesterday gave a performance that made more than one fan remark that "Billy Smith has two or three pitchers at least." The fact that Rebel has not been working in two years, and that inclement weather during the spring training season affected his conditioning as much as that of the other players, makes his performance yesterday all the more unusual.

It was surprising that he was able to do into the ninth without giving indications of weakening. One was out when he finally was relieved, and Adams was substituted for him. Although the lanky hurler was not able to make the brakes clamp down tight all at once, he was able to bring the Rochester attempted avalanche to a dead stop before the score could be tied.

For the first time this season Richmond got away to a good start yesterday and was never headed. It was the second time that the local team had been leading their opponents. Rochester never for a minute let down in efforts to share the victory. Due to the pep which Mike Doolan put into the game and his constant urging that his men start something, the Hustlers kept steadily after Cooper, and he was forced to keep a tight rein upon them at all times.

Doolan's Urging Brought Rally.

That ninth-inning rally was a direct result of Doolan's urging, and although it appeared almost impossible for Rochester to take the game when the session started, it looked as though they had rather a good chance to do so before the frame had progressed very far. Fisher singled to left field, as an opener, and advanced when Josephson was passed. Doolan fanned, but Schepner was safe on a fielder's choice, Mooers handling his drive to Hartsell and retiring Josephson. Fisher took third on the play. Wendell was walked, after Schepner had pilfered second, and the bags were loaded. Huenke took first to run for Wendell.

Schacht then was up, but Mike Doolan called upon Sandberg to hit in the pinch, and the youngster banged one into center field that sent Fisher and Schepner across the pan. Farrell drew a pass and Rodriquez, landing for his third bingle, drove Huenke and Sandberg across and allowed Farrell to make third. Billy Smith, realizing that Cooper's strength was failing him after the hard work of the eight preceding innings, called Adams to the mound. He did not bring great joy to the fans at the start, for Simmons was given transportation and the sacks again were filled. However, the youngster then began getting his curves to work, and Fisher found it impossible to connect with the pellet in three attempts, retiring the side.

Young Mr. Stryker, who came to Mike Doolan from Jersey City sandlots, displayed a tendency to wildness at the start, and found it impossible to bring his benders anywhere near the pan. Clemens, first up for Richmond in the initial frame, was walked, and made second when McDermott beat out an infield hit to Stryker. Hanford got a life on a fielder's choice, by which Clemens was retired at third and Hack Eibel walked, filling the bases. Hartsell fanned, however, and Kohler flew out to Simmons.

Richmond Takes Early Lead.

The second produced two runs for Richmond. Mooers was walked and narrowly missed being doubled at first when Bruce popped to Stryker in an attempt to bunt. Cooper drew a walk and Clemens again was passed, filling the bags once more. Stryker then unloosened a wild one and Mooers romped home. Wendell threw to Stryker at

FIRST HOME CONTEST TO BRAVES IN FOURTEENTH

Pitchers' Battle Won When Former Columbia Hurler Weakens—Game Brilliantly Played.

NEW YORK, April 20.—The New York Nationals opened their home season here to-day with a defeat at the hands of Boston, which team won a brilliant fourteen-inning game, 4 to 2. It was a splendid pitchers' battle, first between the veteran Tesreau and Ragan and later between two youngsters, G. Smith and Nehf.

Smith, a former Columbia pitcher, weakened in the fourteenth inning when singles by Massey and Collins, and a pass to Konetchy filled the bases. J. Smith forced Massey at the plate, but Kelly's single sent in Collins and Konetchy with the winning runs. The score:
