PECKINPAUGH'S SHOWING WITH STICK REMARKABLE

Normally a .260 Hitter, He Has Clouted His Way to Batting Leadership in America.

CRAVATH HITTING WELL ALSO

"Cactus" Admitted That He Was "All Done" Three Years Ago, but Was Lured Back Into Game and Won Out Over Youngsters.

BY JAMES J. CORBETT.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Nothing that the 1919 season has produced is more remarkable than the great batting feats of Roger Peckinpaugh, of the Yankees, and Cactus Cravath, of the Phillies.

Here we have a normal .260 hitter toppling the entire American League, and a veteran, supposedly a half dozen years beyond his prime, blazing the trail in the National.

It is hard to say which accomplishment is more remarkable, but the opinion seems to hold Cravath's batting in greater honor than that of Peckinpaugh.

On the border line of forty, and slowed down to a whisper in pedaling speed, Cravath is banging the ball beyond .400, a notch in excess of Cobb, Sisler, Speaker, Collins, Burns, Jackson, Young and all the other truly greats of the clouting world. Every hit that Cravath has made is a real blow, for no duke is listed among all his safeties.

Speed Would Aid Average.

If Cravath had the speed of Collins or Cobb instead of being perhaps the slowest runner in the circuits, he would be hanging for a mark well beyond .500. For Cravath with simulate legs, could beat out many infield taps that now go for outs.

The amazing thing about Cravath is that three seasons ago he was pronounced all in and he admitted it himself. He wanted to quit baseball and did quit. But the Phillies wouldn't let him. He was tremendous as he was, and slow as he was, they needed him. So they coaxed him back for 1917. And in 1918 when Cravath said that he never would play again, and meant it, they lured him once more into the fold.

"But I'll serve only as a pinch hitter," said Cravath. "I'm too old to play as a regular. It requires too much effort."

That was the promise but it never was kept. And the reason was that in the opening game of 1918 Cravath was sent in to do pinch hitting. He responded with a game-winning double. The next day he was jammed into the regular lineup and stayed there all year.

Better Than Younger Men.

When 1919 rolled around and all the youths came back from the army, Cravath insisted that he was through "for good this time." He figured the Phillies needed him no more. And for a time they thought so, too. They reckoned they could get a youngster to take his place. They tried a half dozen. All failed.

"Come back for just another season," they implored Old Wooden Shoes.

And back came Cravath at close to forty to rise to the most sublime heights of his long career in baseball.

Peckinpaugh's case is somewhat different. For years he has ranked as one of the greatest fielding shortstops in the game. His huge hands make it possible for him to snare the hardest-hit balls. His throwing arm is wonderful, and, withall, Peckinpaugh is about as brainy a youth as ever broke into the big show. And game, too, to the core.

"If he could only hit, he'd rank as one of the greatest all-around shortstops of all time," was the opinion.

Drives Now Falling Safely.

Peck used to hit the ball hard enough and often enough in the past, but he was unlucky with his drives. Most of them used to plunk into the waiting hands of a fielder. As a result, his swatting mark never was anything to provoke loud cheers. His five-year mark with the Yankees, from 1914 to 1918, inclusive, was .229, .220, .235, .240 and .231.

But this season Fortune has smiled upon Peck and the drives that used to be outs in other years are falling safe. Peck is banging at a rapid clip, and not so long ago, by steady advancing, topped the immortal Ty Cobb and went sweeping along merrily toward the .400 mark.

Maybe Peck will fold through midsummer and maybe he won't. If he doesn't, it doesn't seem a safe bet that this once-time weak hitter will be at the crest of the final American League averages as pushed in.

Peck, the [illegible] powder-puff hitter, and [illegible] the crumbling ruin, [illegible] league leaders. Certainly [illegible] a strange, strange game.

May Yet Run Marathon.

PARIS, July 11.—The International Olympic committee, at the request of the Belgian and British delegates to the meeting at Lausanne, authorized the Belgian committee to omit the marathon event from the Olympic games to be held at Antwerp in 1920. This decision has aroused such feeling that the bureau of the international committee has asked the Belgian committee to reconsider the question.

BENDER LOSES FIRST GAME

INDIANS FAIL TO HIT IN PINCH AND SUFFOLK WINS

After Winning Nine Straight "Chief" Bows in Defeat Before Rubes by Score of 5 to 4.

History once more repeated itself at Boulevard Field yesterday afternoon in the game between Richmond and Suffolk. It was the old, old story of inability to hit when safe taps would have transferred men on the bases to figures in the run column. The Indians fell short with the stick. The result—Suffolk won, 5 to 4.

The defeat amounted to really more than just one game lost. It marked the first downfall of "Chief" Bender since he became a pitcher in the Virginia League. Bender worked well yesterday on the mound. He pitched few curved balls, but that was not at all necessary. He had remarkable control, and he deserved to win, but his team would not hit, and now the "Chief's" record stands nine won and one lost.

In the seventh inning Bass was on third and Poole was on second. Pay was at the bat and two were out. Had Pay hit safely Bass would certainly have scored and tied the count, and Poole might have crossed the rubber with the winning run. But it could not be and Bass and Captain Jim died on the bags like hopless children rather hopelessly waiting to be rescued.

Rubes Get Flying Start.

Suffolk got off to a flying start in the second inning when three runs were scored on three hits and errors by Vinson and Bender. Oldring, first man up, led off with a beautiful single. Kraemer sacrificed and was safe on Benders error when he muffed the ball and could not get it to first in time and Crow poked a hot one at Vinson. Hill threw wild to first and Oldring and Kraemer scored. Maneas then brought in Crow with the third run.

Not to be outdone entirely, the Indians scored two in the second inning. Poole hit a single and Pay a double. The score came in on Abbott's sacrifice fly to center field and Pay was scored by Hill's slashing single. Blake, who followed Hill, was out on an attempted sacrifice and Bender stood very quietly and watched Gullman put over three beautiful strikes on him, retiring the side and leaving Hill hopelessly stranded on the paths.

Kept Always Slightly Ahead.

Always, it seemed, the Suffolk team was just a little too far ahead for the Indians to catch them although it was just a bare margin of one run. In the second Suffolk three runs and Richmond two. In the third and fifth Suffolk added one more each time but in the same fifth Richmond added two, but the winning margin still persisted to the end.

Whatever caused the defeat of the locals it was not because the "Chief" did not work nobly to hold the opponents while his club could garner a few runs. Bender seemed to have his whole heart in the game. One base on balls was all he gave. His hits he kept well scattered, the worst inning being the second when three safeties were made off his delivery. Two hits in the third, two in the fifth, one in the sixth, one in the seventh and one in the ninth, total of four. Not a showing with which the "Chief" himself can find fault in a game against the Suffolk Club, which has a reputation for slugging hard. He could truthfully say after it was all over that he had not lost his first game in the Virginia League but that he had lost it for him.

Ten Richmond players were left on base, two in the seventh and two in the eighth. Suffolk suffered less heavily, having only six left on the sacks, two of these in the ninth when they threatened to push over another run for good measure. Those ten men left high and dry spelled the downfall of Richmond, aided somewhat by Vinson's errors.

Gullman pitched a fine game, allowing but eight hits, three of them by Hill, one a two-bagger. He, too, kept his hits well scattered and was master of the situation. Three fast double plays, two by Suffolk and one by Richmond, give an indication of the speed of the contest and the generally clean fielding in spite of occasional bobbles in the infield.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., July 11.—Inability of the locals to hit when hits meant runs lost today's game to Norfolk, by the score of 2 to 0. The Tars gathered three hits, a base on balls and a sacrifice in the sixth, for a total of two runs.

Both Culloton and Harris pitched good ball, Harris being weak in the sixth, however. Manager Whitcraft was in the game for the first time in six weeks, and played the ball accepting seven chances and getting two of the locals' four hits.

Richmond and Suffolk to Stage Double Bill

Southpaw Bruner, latest addition to the pitching staff of the Richmond team, and Clyde Napier will probably get the call today and pitch the double-header against Rube Oldring's Suffolk club. Blake will catch both games for the Indians and Abbott will be in right field. Abbott's steady work behind the bat has worn him out and a berth in the outer garden will give him a little respite and time to regain his old-time pepper.

The first game of the two-ply card will begin at 2:30 o'clock and the second will follow close on the heels of the opener, perhaps about 4:20 o'clock unless the initial encounter goes into extra innings.

An even break in the four-game series is the best that the Indians can do against the Suffolk club, as they have dropped both games played in the series. The Rubes have a fast and lucky ball team and the locals will have to show speed to take both of the contests from them this afternoon. If the Suffolk club keeps up the pace it has set at the beginning of the second half of the season it will certainly have to be reckoned among the pennant contenders, close followers of the game prophesy.

The games between Richmond and Suffolk Thursday and Friday were undoubtedly the fastest and cleanest and most interesting played here this season. Appreciation of this fact by the fans will bring out the large crowd that the good work of the team now deserves.

EASTERN TEAM EVENS UP IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Wins Two Out of Three Matches in Intersectional Net Championship Play at Cincinnati.

(By Associated Press.)

CINCINNATI, July 11.—The Eastern team evened up matters with the Westerners by winning two out of three matches played in the intersectional tennis championship games here today. The Eastern players took both matches in the singles, while the Western contingent won the doubles. The score between the two now stands at 3 to 3, the Westerners having won two out of three matches at yesterday's play.

Wallace Johnson, of Philadelphia, defeated A. L. Green, of Chicago, in the first match of singles here today in the West-East sectional tennis championship matches by scores of 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

R. Lindley Murray, of Buffalo, national champion, beat Samuel Hardy, of Chicago, in the second singles.

Robert Kinsey and Axel Graven, both of California, defeated S. Howard Voshell and Wallace Johnson, both of Philadelphia, in the doubles match.

YALE DIRECTOR ARRIVES

Dr. Albert H. Sharpe Makes Preliminary Plans for Athletic Work Upon Reaching New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 11.—Dr. Albert H. Sharpe, Yale's new athletic director, has arrived in this city, and, although he will not close his formal connection with Cornell athletics till August 15, he will make his residence here and will be in constant touch with Yale athletics from the present time. He has already held a football conference, meeting Dr. Billy Bull, Dr. Arthur Brides, and Jack Owsley, who will compose Yale's resident coaching staff. Owsley resides here and Bull and Brides will take up their local residence beginning about September 1. The Yale squad will report about September 10.

It was announced today that George C. Moseley, end rush in 1916, would probably coach the Yale ends this Fall. Bull will direct the backs, Brides the linement, and Owsley will coach in strategy and backfield play. Besides, Herman P. Olcott, "Beau" Olcott, will be permanent director of freshman athletics at Yale, beginning this fall.

Word has been received that Herbert Kempton, the former Exeter star and Yale freshman quarter back will return this fall. He and Chester La Roche will battle for the quarter back position. As both are extremely valuable, one will be shifted to half back. Jim Braden, who will be one of the backs, will remain here all summer.

Expect Excellent Tourney.

CLEVELAND, OHIO, July 11.—This year's Western open golf championship tournament is expected to surpass any previously held. The tournament will be conducted at the Mayfield Country Club, Cleveland, July 23 and 25, and will consist of seventy-two holes. The title was last won by Long Jim Barnes, professional at the Sunset Hills Club, St. Louis, who led the field in the 1917 tournament at the Westmoreland Club, Chicago, with a score of 283. No tournament was held last year.

Difference of 56 Pounds.

TOLEDO, OHIO, July 11.—There was a difference of 56 pounds in the weight of Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey when they entered the ring for their heavyweight championship contest. This was revealed today when the camouflage was stripped from the Dempsey weight question. The new champion weighed 187 pounds, while Willard scaled 243 at ring time.

FIRST GAME GOES THIRTEEN FRAMES TO 4-TO-2 SCORE

Count Is Tied When Rariden's Hit Bounds Into Hole in Scoreboard for Home Run.

(By Associated Press.)

BOSTON, July 11.—Cincinnati took both games today from Boston, the first 4 to 2 in thirteen innings and the second 6 to 2. The visitors tied the first game in the eighth when, with one on base, Rariden's drive to left center bounded into a hole in the scoreboard for a home run. Daubert opened the thirteenth inning with a single and scored on Groh's home run to right. It was Reuther's ninth straight victory. Keating was hit hard and often in the second contest, while Eller held Boston to five hits.

"CHICK" HARLEY TO RETURN

Ohio State University Football Stock Takes Rise When Star Decides to Don Togs Again.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, July 11.—The football outlook at Ohio State University has taken a decided bound with the prospect of the return of Chick Harley, regarded as one of the best half backs developed in Western colleges since the days of Billy Heston.

Harley, a lieutenant in aviation, recently went to Camp Grant at Rockford, Ill., for his honorable discharge from the service. He plans to return to Ohio State in the fall and will be eligible for the gridiron eleven. When he played with the Buckeyes two years ago Harley was the most important factor on the team with his kicking, running, and forward passing. With Harley's return Ohio State is expected to make a strong bid to retrieve the lost Conference Championship.

HARPER HURLS GOOD BALL BEFORE RETIRING IN SIXTH

Love Gets in Difficulty Number of Times and Only Gilt Edge Support Saves Him.

(By Associated Press.)

DETROIT, July 11.—Detroit took the last game of the series from Washington today, 3 to 1. Harper, who was knocked out of the box Thursday, essayed to come back and pitched good ball until the sixth, when he gave way to a pinch hitter. Love was hit freely and found himself in difficulties a number of times, when only good support blocked Washington.
