TREATY STRAIGHT-JACKET FOR WORLD, SAYS SENATOR

Hiram Johnson Tells Nebraska Throng It Throws Country Into Confederation.

DENIES RIGHTS TO PEOPLE

Refers to League of Nations Covenant as an Infamous Document and Discusses Order to Sign by President.

[By Associated Press.]

LINCOLN, NEB., Sept. 17.—In addressing a large gathering here tonight, Senator Hiram W. Johnson, of California, denounced the league of nations covenant as an infamous document, and declared that its adoption would result in throwing the country into an international confederation and deprive the republic of its future independence of action. It would, he said, substitute misty internationalism for Americanism.

Lieutenant-Colonel John G. Maher, a Democrat and president of the Nebraska branch of the American Legion, acted as chairman of the meeting and introduced the speaker. Governor McKelvie occupied a seat on the stage. Senator Johnson said:

"The President has made and asked the senate to approve a league covenant that is to be higher than our Constitution. Except the sovereign people, no power on earth is to change our Constitution or make it of no effect. None but the people should be permitted to throw this independent republic into an international confederation, where it must necessarily lose its independence of action. The people can do that, but no public servants or servants of those people should be permitted to do it. It is admitted by the President that we lose our independence in the league. Misty internationalism has been substituted for Americanism.

After enumerating the various burdens which the league part imposes on the United States, Senator Johnson declared:

"The great fundamental question which every American father and mother should answer is: Shall American boys police the world? Shall American blood uphold, maintain and preserve Old World government and the territorial integrity of the nations which have immensely increased their boundaries?

"At Omaha the President definitely announced himself against amendments to the league of nations or reservations of any sort. He says in effect to the American people: 'You must accept the following document which I present to you without modification, analysis, amendment or reservation.'

"Upon that theory does he thus limit the action of what is supposed to be the great democracy of the world? When did the President of the United States possess the power to say to its people and its Congress, 'You must?' Is this league of nations was discussed at Paris, Great Britain would not be a party, unless Great Britain was given six votes and in this fashion Great Britain amended it. France declined to subscribe to the league unless France was given an offensive and defensive alliance by the United States, and although the President had denounced, up to the very moment that he signed it, any special alliance or any separate agreement with any nation, he yielded to Clemenceau and brought back to us the special alliance against which he had so often declaimed. Thus France amended the league. Japan declined to sign the league unless given Shantung, with its 38,000,000 Chinese. The President whispered he would never consent and forthwith he yielded and consummated the Shantung infamy. Thus Japan amended the league.

U. S. Only Unprotected Nation.

"Just one country is denied the privilege by Mr. Wilson of protecting its life, its treasure, its sovereignty, its blood and its future, and that country is the United States.

"The Senate insists that the United States shall be protected, and that such reservations as are necessary for the preservation of our institutions and our rights shall be written into the instrument. The President denies this right to the American people and to the Senate, while according it to every other nation. The Senate may have all the faults which the President attributes to it, but today it stands the bulwark of American liberty, and between the American people and forever unholy attempt to fold upon them foreign domination.

"The league of nations comes to us after its principal members have besorged their territory with their boundaries and their limits increased beyond the wildest dreams, and with other immense tracts of the world's surface yet to be distributed among them. After these extraordinary accessions of territory, when each of the four nations possesses lands far greater than ever before, she the ruling government national, which alone can undertakes by Article X to guarantee these extraordinary territorial limits.

[Questions Article X.

"How can any man of liberal views agree to Article X? When I speak of men of liberal views I mean those whose hearts throb with humanity, those who believe government obligations are first to men and women and children. The section freezes the world into immutability. It arrogates to those of us who are here today a knowledge superior to that of all those who shall come after us. It makes the present generation decide the fate of all future generations. It takes no heed of new world events, of ever changing advances and progress. It assumes to be the end and that the men of today may write the history of tomorrow. It assumes to put the world in a strait jacket, when there can be no movement for betterment of progress of humanity. But beyond and above all this, the maintenance of this static condition can be accomplished by the blood of just one nation, and that is ours.

Members of the committee are Representatives Anthony, Kansas; Graham, Pennsylvania; Hull, Iowa; La Guardia, New York; Miller, Washington; Fields, Kentucky; Caldwell, New York; Harrison, Virginia, and Fisher, Tennessee. Representatives Goldwin and Robinson, North Carolina, will accompany the committee.

WOULD FINANCE EUROPE

Head of American Cotton Association Would Extend Credit on Purchases.

[By Associated Press.]

ATLANTA, GA., Sept. 17.—President Wilson has been asked by J. S. Wanamaker, president of the American Cotton Association, acting in behalf of that organization, to call a meeting of all the great business interests of the United States for the purpose of arranging financial credits to Europe. This became known this afternoon when Mr. Wanamaker delivered an address at the opening session of the conference of bankers, business men and cotton growers, called by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and the cotton association.

Babes Born During Storm.

CORPUS CHRISTI, TEX., Sept. 17.—Three women who sought refuge from the storm in the Federal building Sunday night, became mothers while the hurricane was at its height. They were attended by physicians who were among the hundred or so people who sought safety there. Reports today were that all were doing nicely at local hospitals.

Asserts America Now Controls Razor Trade

More Than 10,000,000 Made in 1918 and 200,000,000 Blades.

[By Universal Service.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Announcement was made today of one of the most important amalgamations of big business enterprises in recent years. It is the formation of a safety razor firm controlling 90 per cent of the dollar safety razor business of the world.

New York and Chicago brokers have underwritten 400,000 shares of the American Safety Razor Corporation, which is the new combination of many companies. Although the public offering of the securities is not scheduled for some days yet, private subscriptions, it is said, have been received for approximately 1,000,000 shares. The new company is a Delaware corporation.

Its capitalization is $20,000,000 divided into 800,000 shares with a par value of $25. The earnings of three companies for 1919, it is estimated, are in excess of 6 per cent on the $20,000,000 capitalization.

George L. Storm, a world figure in the tobacco products business, who rose from office boy to head of one of the largest tobacco firms in the United States, has been elected chairman of the directors of the new corporation, and Joseph Kaufman has been named president. He said:

"America is alone in this field. Last year we manufactured 10,000,000 razors and the number of blades was more than 200,000,000. The production is swiftly increasing.

"The razors are sent over the sands of the Sahara on backs of camels, through the thick jungles of Africa, across frozen fields of Iceland, and through the hidden wastes of China. In a commercial way the American safety razor has become to America what the mechanical toy meant to Germany. The razors' missionary value to American business and especially to all cutlery commodities is tremendous."

DR. ADKERSON SAYS DEAD GIRL WAS NOT HIS WIFE

Declares Miss Ruth Sandidge Caused Announcement of Marriage to Be Made in January.

APPEARS AT CORONER'S INQUEST

Lynchburg Physician, Officer in Medical Corps, Explains Relations With Young Woman Who Took Her Own Life Monday.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

LYNCHBURG, VA., Sept. 17.—A coroner's jury here today, inquiring into the death of a young woman here Monday in the residence of Mrs. L. L. Adkerson, developed the fact that she was Miss Ruth Sandidge, and not the wife of Dr. W. Clyde Adkerson, a lieutenant in the medical corps of the army, who stationed at Camp Mills, L. I., during the war, as she had previously caused to be announced. The inquest also developed finally that the case was a suicide.

The inquest not only caused a postponement in the death of Miss Sandidge, who was a member of a good family here, but it also resulted in the death certificate being changed from that of a married woman to single.

Dr. Adkerson Testifies.

The inquest evidence by Dr. Adkerson disclosed that Miss Sandige went to New York to see him last January, and that a few days later she had notified him from Washington, where she was in government service, that she had notified both their families that they had been married in New York January 25. She begged him not to correct the statement and he did not do so until within the last week.

During his stay at Camp Mills Miss Sandidge lived on Riverside Drive, New York, for a time, but later returned to Washington.

On Monday Carson Adkerson, of Woodstock, and Mrs. Ivan Martin brother and sister of Dr. Adkerson went to Washington; the evidence runs, to get the young woman to agree to a report being given out of a divorce on the grounds of a mismatch.

Agreed to Suggestion.

This seems to have been agreed to by Miss Sandidge, who suggested the mismatch, and she was to meet the brother and sister for lunch in Washington Monday. Instead she came here, went to the home of the mother of Dr. Adkerson, asked to be shown the toilet, and there, while talking to Mrs. Adkerson, through closed doors, Miss Sandidge sent a .32-caliber bullet from a revolver through her brain. She died at a hospital.

Dr. Nowlin Monday evening investigated the case and announced there would be no inquest, giving a death certificate as suicide. Later Dr. Nowlin took advice and changed his opinion, ordering an inquest.

Because of the doubt as to whether the dead woman was married or not, the case has been a sensational one since Tuesday.

WAR DEPARTMENT NOT TO SELL NEW SHOES

Only Renovated Footwear to Be Disposed of at Government Stores.

SALE BEGINS SEPTEMBER 25

Many Manufacturers Now Producing Goods for Commercial Use Made on Lasts Similar to Those of Army.

The War Department has no new army shoes for sale, and it is not anticipated that there will be any surplus of new shoes. Renovated shoes will be included from the stock offered for sale in the retail stores to be opened throughout the country by the War Department on September 25.

Rumor has become current among the general public that the War Department was selling to shoe dealers stocks of new shoes made according to army specifications and acquired by the War Department for the equipment of soldiers, and numerous inquiries have been directed to the War Department by members of the shoe trade who seek to acquire stocks of army shoes.

Publicity was recently given to a sale held by a Brooklyn, N. Y., shoe dealer, whose stock was advertised as army shoes. These shoes were commercial shoes, made on lasts similar to those used in the manufacture of War Department issue shoes, but they were not made by the War Department and no part of that stock was acquired from the War Department.

Both during and since the war shoe manufacturers have produced shoes made on lasts similar to the army lasts for commercial use, and since these shoes tend to keep the feet of the civilian population, the country's potential soldiers, in good condition, the War Department has no desire to discontinue the manufacture of that type of shoe.

Every shoe that was manufactured by the War Department during the period that the United States was at war was inspected by the War Department and returned for army use.
