NIXON, GUEST OF CITY, IS AMAZED AT ITS GROWTH

Chairman of New York Public Service Commission Will Speak Here Tonight and Tomorrow.

Richmond's development in the last few years has been amazing, in the opinion of Lewis Nixon, chairman of the New York Public Service Commission, who returned to Virginia last night after an absence of some years, as the guest of the Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Nixon was met at the station by a committee of buiness men, who conducted him to the Jefferson Hotel. He expressed great astonishment at the wonderful beauty and growth of the city, especially the West End, which was countryside when he was last here.

Shortly after his arrival he was taken on a tour of the city, and commented favorably on the beaty of the suburban districts of the city. He was particularly impressed by the Byrd Park section of the city.

On the way to the Country club he was shown Westhampton and the district in that neighborhood. At the club he was entertained with old-fashioned Virginia hospitality.

Mr. Nixon will attend the "ladies' night" reception of the Kiwanis Club, at the Country Club tonight, and he has agreed to respond to the toast, "The Ladies." Mayor George Ainslie also will be a guest of the club at tonight's celebration, which will be followed by dancing and general merry making.

Edward Ragland, president of the Montague Manufacturing Company, has charge of arrangements for an address to be delivered by Mr. Nixon tomorrow night at the City Auditorium on "Industrial Problems of Today."

Invitations have been sent to as many persons as the building can accommodate, and practically all of them have been accepted. The address is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

Stern Visits Camp of Richmonders.

Adjutant-General Joe Lane Stern and Colonel William H. Gill, yesterday visited the camp of the Hugh Stockdell Machine Gun Company and the Fifth Company, First Provisional Regiment. Company A, Richmond Grays, who left Saturday afternoon with full equipment to stay until this afternoon. The two companies expect to break camp this afternoon about 3 o'clock and be back in Richmond by 5 o'clock.

General Stern and Colonel Gill both were pleased with the military air the camp bore and the neatness and cleanliness everywhere apparent. Many relatives and friends of the soldiers visited the camp after dinner and another party is expected to go this morning.

Council Committee Meetings.

Council Committees on Finance and Ordinance will meet tomorrow, the Finance Committee at 4:30 o'clock and the Ordinance Committee at 8. A number of large street appropriations will be acted on by the Finance Committee, while the most important piece of legislation to come before the Ordinance Committee will be the proposed laws with reference to the charging of excessive rents. Two important ordinances will come up for discussion and action. The pool-room ordinance allowing minors over 18 to enter poolrooms also will be acted on.

Use Antitoxin to Check Diphtheria.

City Health Officer Hudson is impressing on both patients and doctors the importance of taking the diphtheria antitoxin. Two deaths have resulted from this once dreaded disease with the last month, and this called forth the warning by Dr. Hudson. Diphtheria can be cured or prevented by the use of the antitoxin, and failure to use it is the only excuse for a death from the disease.

Property Transfers Smash Record.

Predictions that all records would be broken for the transfer of property recorded in the Chancery Court for the month of May, were made yesterday by real estate men who have been watching the sales for the month. Before closing time in the Chancery Court Saturday, the number of deeds recorded for the month had reached 1,240, and it is predicted that all records will be shattered when final figures are compiled.

Open American Trust's New Home.

Formal opening of the American Trust Company's new home, adjoining the American National Bank at Tenth and Main Streets, probably will be effected this week. Preparations are being made to occupy the building, which has been in course of construction for more than a year. The building, together with the lot on which it is located, will cost about $240,000.

Several members of the Richmond Real Estate Exchange left yesterday for Kansas City to attend the annual convention of the Real Estate Boards of America, which will be held there this week.

Stockton Street Baptist Church, which planned to raise $8,000 in cash toward erection of a new building in addition to the one it already occupies, last night reported $5,800, two-thirds of the entire amount wanted.

Offices in City Hall closed Saturday, and will not open again until tomorrow morning, on account of today being a legal holiday. A large number of City Hall employees took advantage of the holiday, and are on out-of-town trips.

Twenty-one Richmonders and five delegates from Norfolk to the annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World will leave Richmond Saturday over the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad for Indianapolis, Ind., the convention city. A special car will convey the delegates.

Members of the Kiwanis Club have passed a resolution indorsing the request of the post-office authorities for higher pay. The resolution was in response to a petition presented to the club local post-office employees in their fight for increased wages.

James C. Page, a Richmond attorney, will speak before the citizenship class conducted at Equal Suffrage League headquarters, 100 North Fourth Street, at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. "The Court System in Virginia" will be discussed, and enumeration of the various courts in the State, their functions and a description of court procedure will form part of the program.

Civil Service Examinations.

Announcement has been made by the United States Civil Service Commission that examinations in several branches of government work will be held at the various examination headquarters within the next few days. Included in the list of examinations, which all are free to take, are the following: senior cost accountant, junior cost accountant, clerk for accounting department, shop managers, aviation mechanics, inspectors of airplanes, lockmakers, library assistant, railway mail clerks and superintendents.

No Successor to Litchford.

For the present the position of vice-president of the Old Dominion Trust Company, which was vacated by Henry E. Litchford when he accepted the presidency of the Federal Trust Company, will not be filled, William M. Habliston, president of the company, stated last night. Mr. Habliston expressed the opinion that it might be some time before the company saw fit to elect another vice-president.

REV. CHENAULT PREACHES BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Addresses Graduating Class of Medical College of Virginia in Broad Street Methodist.

"No man who deals so intimately with men's lives and has such personal relationship with the most sacred of the family affairs of the family life can afford not to be a Christian."

This was the statement of Rev. Fred R. Chenault, pastor of Broad Street Methodist Church, in the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Medical College of Virginia last night in Broad Street Church.

"I believe," Mr. Chenault went on, "that while piety is no substitute for science, yet other things being equal, I would risk the man with piety every time with my life and with my family's welfare in preference to the man who does not believe in the unseen."

Mr. Chenault warned the young physicians and graduate nurses of the danger of scepticism in regard to spiritual things.

He called attention to the notable public service which the Medical College of Virginia gave to the people of Richmond through free treatment of the poor of the city.

"In Richmond last year," he said, "over 15,000 patients were treated free at the Medical College dispensary, and nearly 8,000 prescriptions were given."

The speaker pointed out that one of the most beautiful ministries of medicine was the blessing which it brought to the poor.

In his counsel to the graduates who are just entering upon their professional career, Mr. Chenault brought out a number of salient points to be remembered as guide-posts in their professional career.

The first guide-post, he said, was that a supreme purpose should dominate their lives. He held up Paul as an illustration of a man who, declaring "This one thing I do," subordinated everything minor to one supreme purpose and, because he did one thing so well, Paul lives anew every day.

"The love of a true woman makes impurity disgusting," declared the speaker. "The love of integrity makes all wrong-doing repulsive. So foul and mean, and the love of God makes all wrong-doing replsive. So, there comes into the life of one who has chosen rightly his profession a supreme interest and delight in one's work which drives out all the low, cheap, mean things that would hinder it."

"The second guide-post that you ought to have," said Mr. Chenault, "is an open mind to truth. Medicine is not a closed book; there are as many great discoveries to be made in the future as there have been made in the past. He who would make progress must have an open mind and be unfettered by tradition or dogma."

"The third guide-post that we ought to set before us," the speaker went on, "is intellectual honesty."

WHAT THOUGHTS does this day stir in you? What does it mean to you this year, and how much more does its recurrence mean now than a decade or so ago?

Does it not awaken in you a deeper reverence for those noble, valiant men whose fearlessness, honor and courage won for mankind greater security—reverence for those who sacrificed their lives and their futures in the storm of battle so that we who live may go on in peace?

This day we should commemorate their deeds—render to them all honor—solemnize the glory which is theirs.

The veterans, the heroes—all who took part—the Gray, the Blue, the Khaki—the living and the dead; we owe them more than words can tell.

And so, today, our purpose is to set aside business cares and whatever else might engross our attention that we may stand with bared heads and most humbly acknowledge the greatness of the sacrifice of those who so willingly laid their all upon the altar.
