TUCKER STANDS FOR BUSINESS CONDUCT OF STATE'S AFFAIRS

all reasonable efforts to improve the public health, and that he was especially interested in the State's tuberculosis and typhoid work and that he was heartily in favor of a State research and bacteriological laboratory. "Public health work in the public schools," Mr. Tucker said, "is a sound economic as well as sanitary investment, and one of the most effective means of combating disease and conserving child-life, and deserves our fullest support."

Development of the State's natural and economic assets, and the improvement of industrial working conditions, Mr. Tucker said would receive his earnest support. He also advocated the conservation of our forests, and the protection and development of the State's valuable natural water power.

"Hampton Roads Development.

"The proper development of Hampton Roads with its contributary navigable waterways," Mr. Tucker said, "is the 'golden key' to the future industrial and commercial prosperity of Virginia. 'Develop Hampton Roads,' he said, 'and we will develop Virginia—its commerce, agriculture and industries.'

"Bearing in mind," Mr. Tucker said, "the unfortunate wards of the State in our hospitals for the insane, mentally ill and the feeble-minded, I am eager to further extend a helping service by providing to the fullest extent of the State's means for their tenderest care."

The development of elementary educational classes and vocational training courses at the penitentiary, Mr. Tucker said, would have his earnest support. He also said he favored reorganization of the whole State prison system so as to bring under one management all the institutions, plants and camps where convicts are confined, followed by a mental examination of prisoners and followed by a proper system of classification and segregation. Mr. Tucker said also he would receive liberal support. He stood, he said, for a prison system in Virginia that would be "reasonably reformative rather than merely punitive."

Stands With Majority.

"I have always said," Mr. Tucker said, "that my services, regardless of personal conviction on woman's suffrage and my opposition to the ratification of woman's suffrage by Federal amendment, was the expression of my conviction. That question, I regard as settled, and I, for one, shall cheerfully, the will of the majority and, if elected Governor of Virginia, I shall cheerfully welcome women to the full enjoyment of their rights of citizenship."

Hit Back to the Constitution.

Mr. Tucker explained the "forward-looking slogan" he will put forward as "back to the Constitution of the future." "I have said in many places," he said, "declaration of rights published, but I would direct rather the minds of my fellow citizens to the ideals of constitutional government promulgated by our forefathers as a basis for progress. I deplore the further concentration of power in the Federal government at the expense of the reserved powers of the States and would have our people consider seriously the dangers of over-extended Constitution of the future. In fact," he added, "Back to the Constitution and not Back of the Constitution' is my slogan."

Mr. Tucker said that if elected Governor he would try to live up to the standards he had set for a man eligible for the governorship of the Old Dominion. Such a man, he said, "should be of high ideals, industrious in the State's affairs, forward-looking, and with a vision to formulate wise policies and the courage to carry them out."

In conclusion Mr. Tucker said: "In offering my services to the State, I stand untrammeled by any factional ties or obligations, have made no combinations of any sort and am hampered by no promises, save those made to all the people of the State."

The object of the conference was to arrange for the establishment of a sleeping car service between Richmond and Clifton Forge, a change in the schedule on the James River Division, and alteration in the schedule between Richmond and Newport News.

Mr. Souder was injured while in the company's employ August 20, 1919, when his leg was badly mashed. Blood poison set in some time later, and his leg had to be amputated. He was in the hospital for nearly a year. The amount of damages asked was $40,000.

SHOT FROM BLUNDERBUS ALMOST KILLS SAM KEMP

Wife and Five Children Facing Starvation While Husband Is in Hospital.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., Jan. 15.—Sam Kemp, of this city, lies at the point of death in a local hospital, the whole left side of his body blown away as the result of an alleged self-inflicted wound with an old patched-up blunderbus. Kemp, who has a wife and five children, was despondent and is said to have tried to kill himself.

The gun had no trigger and the hammer would not lock back. So he placed the dining muzzle against his side, shoved the hammer back with his toe and let go. The load missed his heart a fraction of an inch, but took away a part of his lung.

Physicians say there is no hope for the wounded man. His wife says she does not know from where food is coming for herself and the small children.

NEWPORT NEWS WILL REVIVE GRAIN TRADE

Chamber of Commerce Will Go After Better Freight Rates by Railroads.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., Jan. 15.—Newport News will seek the aid of Norfolk and Baltimore in an attempt to revive the grain export trade through this city and other Hampton Roads ports. This statement was made today by Charles W. Hopkins, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Grain which formerly was shipped through Newport News, Norfolk and Baltimore, now goes to the Gulf ports. This is because the freight rate to the Gulf ports is 15 per cent lower than the Hampton Roads. The shippers themselves have called this matter to the attention of the Newport News chamber.

Time was when one or more ships left here every day with grain for foreign ports. In the rate readjustment the freight rate to the Southern ports was increased only 25 per cent, while the rate to Newport News and ports north was increased 40 per cent.

The Chamber of Commerce here conducts a grain inspection bureau. This bureau is governed by Federal regulations. The chamber has been paying two men a salary for the past several months and these men have not had any work to do. They are experts and if allowed to leave the chamber probably would be able to obtain no one to take their places when the time comes.

Mr. Hopkins says the situation grows graver daily. Neither one of the three cities mentioned above can do a great deal by itself, but the three of them working together may be able to accomplish something.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

DANVILLE, VA., Jan. 15.—It became known today that the executive committee of the Danville Tobacco Association is holding a series of sessions behind closed doors investigating alleged unfair practices on the part of "pinhookers" or small dealers in tobacco.

It is intimated that no expulsions from the organization will result unless deliberate irregularities are proved.

Large buyers of tobacco are said to have suffered from petty thefts which in the aggregate amount to a great deal. One of the members of the committee this evening said that an effort is being made to purge the association of undesirable dealers.

JUDGE HAAS REJECTS PLEA OF TAX BOARD

Would Increase Assessment of Deford Tanning Company, of Luray, by Suit in Court.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

LURAY, VA., Jan. 15.—Judge T. N. Haas, of the Page County Circuit Court, has just turned down the application of the State Tax Board to have the taxable assessments of the Deford Tanning Company, of Luray, with headquarters in Baltimore, increased, the object of the board being to collect back taxes of the firm, amounting to thousands of dollars.

Should the Page County Court have sustained the contention of the tax board, it would have made the Deford Tanning Company the largest taxpayer in Northern Virginia. It is alleged that the tax board is making preparations to again bring the matter up in a different form from the original.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Backache or Bladder trouble.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; make a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which every one should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.
