CIVIC BODY MEMBERS TO DINE AT JEFFERSON

Preparations Are Being Made for Attendance of More Than 1,000 on Wednesday Night.

HOLD ROUND-TABLE MEETING

No Formal Program Is Being Arranged — Every Person Present Expected to "Speak His Mind." Plan for 1922 Exposition.

Final plans were completed last night for the business session of the entire membership of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce to be held at the Jefferson Hotel Wednesday night. The meeting, which is the first called since the annual election of officers in January, will be preceded by a plate dinner to be served at 7:30 o'clock. More than 1,000 members are expected to be present.

Matters of vital interest will be discussed at the meeting. These include subjects such as improvement of the Shockoe Creek district, continuance of government work on the James River, and the development of vacant farm lands surrounding Richmond.

There will be no set speaker. The meeting will be more in the form of a round-table discussion of matters of vital importance to the present and future welfare of Richmond. Members present will be expected to enter heartily in the discussion and to speak sincerely and frankly about any matter that comes up for consideration.

Members contemplating attending are urged to notify the Chamber of Commerce officials of the fact.

E. T. Harrison was at the head of the committee which formulated plans for the 1922 Madison Diamond Exposition, in a spirited session of the advertising and exposition committees yesterday afternoon. Members of the joint committees are Ralph P. Harrison, E. A. Dietrich, Harry H. Cohen, James H. Cheek, E. T. Harrison, T. Norman L. G. Shearin, George C. Ridgeon, Hunter, C. W. Saunders, R. C. Laird, Evans Bowden, H. S. Winston, J. Ambler Johnston and W. T. Dabney, secretary.

The committee discussed proposals for a large exposition in 1922. Provisions will be made for at least 50 exhibitors, and will probably continue for ten days or two weeks on account of the inability of so many to gain entrance at this year's exhibit.

CADETS WILL PARADE IN PLAYGROUND DRIVE

Campaign for Recreation Association Gets Under Full Swing at Luncheon Yesterday.

The John Marshall High School cadets and band will head the parade which the Community Recreation Association has arranged for this afternoon. The object of the parade is to arouse more interest in the drive which the association is advancing at this time.

In addition to the cadets, there will be many school children dressed in various colors and several floats which will compose the long line. The children from Jefferson school will wear costumes of many European nations which is supposed to represent their home country. In many of the schools the pupils have made large placards advertising the recreation movement.

The procession will leave the John Marshall High School in the afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and will march up Broad Street to the Masonic Temple and from there to Main Street, down Main to Twelfth and then back to Marshall Street.

The Community Recreation Association campaign started yesterday. Mrs. W. A. Burrows, honorary president of the Federal of Mothers' Clubs, and Parent-Teacher Association of Richmond, brought the first contribution of $2.50 from her organization. Colonel John A. Cutchins was the principal speaker at a luncheon held at headquarters.

J. Scott Parrish addressed the meeting and announced his intention of taking over the headquarters team. Morgan Allis informed the team captains and workers of the proposed action of the Common Council in apportioning a sum of money for the Community Recreation Association.

TRINKLE OUTLINES PLAN OF STATE EXPENDITURE

Candidate for Governor Promises Business Administration in Address at Ashland Last Night.

Promising the people of Virginia an improved school system and the judicious expenditure of all road funds, Democratic Governor-elect Westmoreland Trinkle last night outlined his plan for the business administration of the affairs of the Commonwealth at a meeting held in the high school auditorium at Ashland.

The Senator departed from the usual political speech and appealed to the reason and judgment rather than to the emotions. He gave facts about the expenditures of the State funds and emphasized the need for a careful, practical, well-trained business man at the helm at every two years' change of the chair when making up the budget.

Samuel R. Carter, of the House of Delegates from Hanover County, presided and introduced Henry T. Wickham, former State Senator from Hanover who introduced Senator Trinkle. The committees in charge of arrangements were Henry T. Nicholas, S. R. Carter, James Hewlett, Samuel Hatcher, Mrs. J. W. Jordan and Mrs. Laurie Smith.

COMMITTEE MAY FINISH BUDGET WORK TONIGHT

Practically completing consideration of the budget estimates, the Department of Public Works yesterday adjourned to meet this afternoon, adjourning to meet in regular hour tonight, the time being scheduled for the meeting. The docket will be taken up at the meeting tonight and wiped as far as possible. Tomorrow afternoon the same consideration will be given with the hope of completing one or two additional sittings.

The Utilities Committee will meet tonight at 8 o'clock. It was stated yesterday that the subcommittee on city farm would not be able to make its recommendation as there were several matters to be adjusted.

The Committee on Claims is scheduled to meet at 8 o'clock. The docket of this committee is about bare.

No other committee meetings are scheduled for the week many of the Councilmen taking part in the campaign for subscriptions being held all this week throughout the city.

Miss Hale Will Speak.

At a meeting to be held Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock in the John Marshall High School, Miss Beatrice Forbes Robinson Hale will deliver an address, "Evolution or Revolution." Miss Fannie Nelson Robins will introduce the speaker. The public is invited.

Who's Who in Our City Government

HENRY C. COFER, Comptroller.

By Harry Tucker.

When Henry Cofer was Very Young he used to be the Treasurer of his Gang and carry all the marbles, and tops, and pennies. If three boys started out to buy a bag of peanuts they Always Got Henry to divide them, for he was better at Arithmetic than any of the Others. So he got to be a Fine Mathematician. He knew little about Botany, Latin and Chemistry, and knew less about History and Geography. But he could figure things out better than any of the boys, and always had a Good Excuse—on account of his figuring. He knew that six from fifteen left nine without the use of pencil and paper. He could tell the Age of Ann in a Flash. He could tell the length of a Cat's Tail because it was Fur to the End, and he could answer the question, "Why does a mouse when it spins?" And if you ask him to this day to Pick Out your Order of Eggs, he could tell you their age by merely Blowing the Shell.

He got interested in a bank, and Figured so Well that the Depositors made More Money at that bank than any other, and then Father Byrd got interested. And when Father Byrd wants Anything or Anybody he simply reaches out his hand and grabs it. So Henry was grabbed, and he is now figuring how the city can buy Seven Million Dollars' worth of things with Six Millions without making the poor old plebes dig down into their jeans.

TUCKER WILL SPEAK IN ALEXANDRIA TODAY

Lexington Gubernatorial Candidate to Outline Plan for Compensating Firemen and Policemen.

Announcement was made at the headquarters of Harry St. George Tucker last night that Mr. Tucker would today speak in Alexandria, and that he would address a gathering of firemen at Cherrydale, explaining his stand in advocacy of employees obtaining a fireman and policemen who may be injured in the transaction of their duties.

Manager Leake stated at headquarters last night that expressions from the sections of Virginia through which Mr. Tucker had recently passed were as enthusiastic as ever over the bright prospects of the candidate.

Mr. Tucker is expected in Richmond later in the week, probably on Thursday. He will remain in the city a day or two and then resume his tour.

"Information received in this office," said Manager Leake, "from observers and prominent citizens, is to the effect that eight out of every ten men spoken to in Richmond, favor the candidacy of Mr. Tucker. Judge B. Carter Scott and Harry M. Smith, Jr., representative men, say they can see nothing but a big majority for the Lexington man here."

Mr. Tucker has recently visited Orange, and reports that he finds the sentiment there overwhelmingly for him.

DIRECTOR SAVILLE WILL SPEAK TO ROTARIANS

Musicians, Singers and Dancers to Entertain Club at Richmond Hotel Tonight.

President F. T. McFaden, of the Rotary Club, stated last night that the meeting at the Richmond Hotel tomorrow promises to be one of the most interesting in a long time. Director Allen J. Saville, of the Department of Public Works will make the principal address, telling of the work of his department and the outlook for many improvements in the immediate future.

The lighter portion of the program will be presented by Manager Finlay, of the Broadway Theater, who will introduce the Hawaiian Revue, a troupe of singers, musicians and dancers from the Pacific Isles.

Besides the Rotary Club's own entertainers, including Peter Dowe and his singers, Henry Schwarzenfeld and his dancers, and Tom Palmatary and his monologists, will contribute their share toward a successful meeting.

It is believed the remainder of the funds needed for the boys' home will be subscribed at this meeting. Alvin Duke stated last night that it would take only half an hour to raise the amount, for every member wants a boy.

The meeting will start promptly at 12 o'clock and will be over in time for the Rotarians to hear Adams and Billy Wortham, who will be in the City Hall to conduct a meeting of the Finance Committee.

Building Permits Issued.

Director Hatler yesterday issued permits to J. Weatherley to build brick garage, in rear of 2007 West Street, to cost $600; to Mrs. Virginia Wilson, to build steel garage, in rear of 1120 Bryan Avenue, to cost $200; to Nelle Harrison, to repair residence 943 Norton Street, to cost $150, and to Walter E. Lester to repair dwelling 2212 O Street, to cost $150.

Verdict for Defendant.

In a replevin suit of Frank C. O. Alley against George C. Fitzhugh, a jury in Circuit Court yesterday, a verdict for the defendant was returned. The suit of John Hardy against Pee Dee Farm for $1,000, set for hearing today, has been indefinitely postponed, on the grounds that there is a possibility of a settlement out of court.

GOVERNOR DAVIS GIVES HIS SUPPORT TO REVIVAL

Virginia Executive Is Interested Attendant at Second Baptist Church—City-Wide Evangelistic Movement Gets Into Full Swing—Night Meetings.

Governor Davis last night lent his support to the simultaneous evangelistic services being held this week in ninety-nine Protestant churches by worshiping at the Second Baptist Church. The Governor seemed deeply impressed with a discussion of the question, "Is the Bible Really Inspired?" by Dr. Douglas S. Freeman, who is chairman of the general committee in charge of the spiritual drive. Dr. Freeman will speak each night this week at the Second Baptist Church.

A revised list of the participating churches, made yesterday by the executive committee, showed that ninety-nine, instead of ninety-two churches, are taking part in the movement.

Movement Gets Under Way.

The movement got into full swing yesterday. Mid-day services were held at industrial plants, and appropriate services were held at public institutions.

At night, nine street meetings, which attracted large gatherings, were held at convenient points throughout the city. These meetings, which were short, were followed by evangelistic services in the churches, and many of those who had gathered on the street followed the Bible students to houses of worship.

Most of the churches reported unexpectedly large congregations, indicating the widespread interest being displayed in the great spiritual drive, which is primarily intended to further interest men in the church and church work.

Program Will Be Repeated.

The program followed yesterday will be repeated again today, and each day this week through Friday, when the street services and institutional and industrial plant meetings will end. However, church services will continue, culminating on Easter Sunday.

Last night's street meetings were conducted at these points and by the following denominations:

Seventeenth and Main Streets—Lutheran, E. W. Schwegmann, of the First Church spoke.

Ninth and Broad Streets—Christian. Rev. G. H. Steed, of the Highland Park Church, spoke.

Brook Avenue and Broad Streets—Baptist.

Washington Park, South Richmond—Methodist. Judge E. H. Wells, spoke.

Bible Students to Conduct Meetings.

Twenty-fifth Street and Church Hill Avenue—Episcopal. Services were conducted by Bible students of Christ, St. John's and the Church of the Epiphany.

Williamsburg Avenue and Louisiana Street, Fulton—Episcopal. Services were conducted by Bible students of the Weddell Memorial and Monumental churches.

Sixth and Broad Streets—Presbyterian. Lardner Moore, of the Union Theological Seminary, and John S. Harvie and J. E. Finney, spoke. R. E. McClure lead the singing.

Second and Leigh Streets—Colored Baptist. Judge J. Hoge Ricks, spoke.

Twenty-ninth and P. Streets—Colored Baptist. Rev. A. D. Daly, colored, spoke.

Music Is Feature.

Music was an interesting feature of the street meetings, just as it is in the churches, where special programs are being rendered. Many of the larger churches have trained chorus choirs.

Street meetings will be repeated tonight at the same points, although the services will be in charge of different denominations.

Holy Week Being Observed.

Episcopal and Catholic Churches are observing Holy Week this week. Communicants of these churches are gathering daily for worship in accordance with the regular church calendar.

Services were conducted at St. Paul's Church last night by the Rev. W. Russell Bowie. There will also be services tonight and tomorrow night. On Thursday night a celebration of the Holy Communion will be held in every Episcopal Church. W. Meade Addison will speak at the services at Grace Episcopal Church tonight.

Good Friday will be observed in all Episcopal Churches, except St. Paul's at 11 o'clock Friday. St. Paul's will observe the three-hour service beginning at 12 and continuing until 3 o'clock.

The great day for the baptism of children, Easter Eve, will be observed Saturday. Easter Day will be initiated by a celebration of the Holy Communion at either 7:30 or 7:45 o'clock, followed by morning prayer, litany, sermon and another celebration of the communion at 11 o'clock.

HYSTERIA CAUSES MANY FALSE POLICE ALARMS

Aftermath of Recent Crime Wave Sends Officers on Foolish Errands, Declares Director of Public Safety. Gives Warning to Householders Against Burglars.

Director Myers, of the Department of Public Safety, said last night, that the police department practically has the crime situation in hand.

"The splendid co-operation the people of the city are giving us," said the Director, "has helped wonderfully. Now, if the general public, and particularly that portion of it that projects itself toward hysteria, will just sit still in the boat, and use a little more judgment, we will soon have the petty thieves, the sneak thieves, the dishonest servants and the real things locked up in the calaboose.

"There are a few things I might suggest to these people. Many women, and a lot of men, too, are prone to exaggerate little things. Small matters are enlarged, and little incidents are made great events. As a matter of fact, more than 50 per cent of the reports which are received at police headquarters, are purely imaginative. I may illustrate:

Imagination Causes Fright.

"Several nights ago, a rainy night, when we had Church Hill looking like a beehive of policemen and volunteer citizens, four calls came. They came in the shape of women calling for help and the police. It took a moment to answer each call. In not a single instant was there anything suspicious around the premises. Not a footprint, nor an open door or window. Pure imagination, caused by noise made by some prowling tabby of the creaking of the roof or window blind.

"Another instance: A window blind swings too with a bang; a man gets up from his bed and shoots out the window. Police appear almost immediately. Nothing in sight. The bullet might have struck a policeman, so thick were they in that neighborhood.

Cat Causes Alarm.

"In the West End, a lady went visiting a neighbor, early in the evening. Upon her return, she glanced in the window, and horrors! the rocker was in motion. Some one must have touched that rocker in the search for valuables. She screamed. A kindly-disposed neighbor ran out with a pistol in his hand. Bang! The bullet flew through the window, and a black cat jumped out of the chair and made for a place of safety.

"Cats, window-shutters and loose tin roofs cause most of the alarms. In the old days these noises would have been attributed to ghosts. But ghosts have gone, like many other pre-war things, and now every slight noise is blamed on the thug, the yeggman and the burglar.

"I am certain there are no professional burglars in this section. Professional outlaws go after big game. All our trouble, what there is of it, comes from the sneak thief, the hall thief, who slips into the house when the door or windows are left open.

Keep Doors Locked.

"The safest plan for every householder is to keep his doors locked, and his windows fastened. Keep cool, when a little noise starts up, and keep the lights burning when the house is temporarily vacant. When a thief makes a noise in a house, he generally gets out quicker than he got in. There are many false reports being sent in. Some of them are made in good faith, some maliciously.

"With our small force, we believe we are holding down real crime, as much as any police force in the country. The City Council may find some way to give us relief. We will be thankful for small favors.

"The main thing is—keep cool, don't get excited, and where there is real trouble call the police at once. A policeman cannot be in front of your house all the time. Use judgment, and give the department all the assistance and co-operation you can, give it cheerfully. Don't howl out the cop, he is human, and wants to catch the burglar more than you do."

Power of Imagination.

"The power of imagination and the impulse of suggestion are responsible, for many a faux pas," said Major A. Sperry, Chief of Police, last night. Last Saturday a man, accompanied by a year-old boy, came into headquarters and told a weird tale of robbery. According to the lad, a negro man, dressed as a woman, had invegled him from a store, and got him behind the corner, and then and there robbed him of $10, which, he said, his father had given him to purchase glasses for his eyes. The boy told a straight story, up to the point when he was asked why he suspected the person to be a man posing as a woman. He said he wore a dress, a woman's hat and small shoes.

"How did you know he was a woman?" asked the Chief.

"By his hair."

"What did he look like?"

Chief Is "Stunned."

"His face was painted red on one side and black on the other."

"I threw up my hands at this," said the Chief, "and asked him if he had ever lost money before, and what did his father do with him, if he did?"

"He whipped me," said the boy.

"Now if you tell the truth about this, I will see your father and get him to let up on the whipping."

"The boy brightened up and said:

"I wasn't robbed, Mister I lost the money."

"We felt sorry for him and started to take up a collection to make good the loss. Captain Wright was willing to give $1, I was ready to give another, and the boys around the office said they would chip in. But as we were about to take up the collection, it occurred to me we had better get in touch with the boys father. The lad stated that he lived about twenty miles the other side of Seven Pines, but we found that he lived this side of that place. He did not lose any money, for his father had given him but 45 cents.

Had Read Singular Story.

"We asked the boy how he happened to concoct such a story. He replied that he heard his mother read in a newspaper that a man disguised as a woman had been seen in the West End, and that it had occurred to him that he might spend the money for candy and cigarettes, and tell the tale of being robbed. The father said the boy had recently disappeared from home, and was found telling a similar story.

"So you see that suggestion, coupled with imagination, leads to many a faux pas."

PROF. CRENSHAW WILL BE BURIED AT ASHLAND

Funeral services of W. Asa Crenshaw, principal of Ruffner School, who died Sunday night in a local sanitarium after an illness of two weeks, will be conducted in Ashland this morning at 10 o'clock.

The Ruffner School will be closed today and the teachers of that school will attend the funeral. Superintendent Albert H. Hill appointed J. H. Binford, assistant superintendent, and three principals, W. G. Jones, of Madison School; H. G. Carlton, of Moore School, and H. E. Cox, of Stonewall School, to represent the school officials at the funeral and act as pallbearers.

Mr. Crenshaw has served many years in the Richmond school system and has always taken a great interest in the promotion of this work. He received the degree of master of arts at the Randolph-Macon College and has taught in several Western schools.

Issues Call for Singers.

Miss Jean Trigg, conductor of the Wednesday Club Chorus, has sent out a call for all the singers in Richmond to appear at the Club House Rehearsal tonight at Stieff Hall, as the list will be closed after today. This is done to prevent any stragglers coming in at the last minute and breaking in upon the perfect ensemble of the chorus.

DELIVERY TRUCK PLUNGES DOWN CHIMBORAZO HILL

An automobile delivery truck of J. E. Eubank, grocer at Twenty-seventh and Broad Streets, ran over a high embankment on Chimborazo Park yesterday shortly afternoon and landed a complete wreck against trees on the bottom.

Witnesses of the accident say the trouble was due to the chauffeur's leaving the machine in gear just as soon as the engine started revolving, the automobile pitched forward.

Although running down a hill of about a ninety degree angle, the automobile kept on its wheels and would probably not have been wrecked had it not collided with trees on the bottom of the hill.

Police Arrest 164.

Continuing the drive against all violations of the law, the Richmond police broke all previous records, in making 164 arrests between Saturday morning and Monday morning. Of this number eighty-one were made in the Second District; sixty-three were made in the First, and twenty in the Third.

The arrests include the capture of several stills and a quantity of cocaine, the breaking up of four gambling games and a general round-up of truck-beds and vagrants.

RICHMOND GIRL CHOSEN FOR COLLEGE DEBATE

Miss Anna Kosslow Is Alternate in Discussion by Freshmen of Mount Holyoke Tonight.

Miss Anna L. Kosslow, of 609 North Thirty-fourth Street, a graduate of the John Marshall High School, is an alternate for the negative side in the freshman debate at Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., tonight.

The class of 1924 is the fourth successive class to hold a freshman debate. It is arranged by the English department as part of the required English course. Only those students who wish to enter the contest and who show some talent for the work are given permission to take it. This year thirty girls were selected from the ten divisions in freshman English. By oral and written tests, occupying about three weeks, the number was reduced to twelve, who have been substituting intensive study of the subject chosen for their regular work in the English course since midyears.

The subject of the debate tonight is, "Resolved, That Congress Should Pass the Smith-Towner Educational Bill." It is a subject demanding a study of the relation between the State governments and the Federal government of the system of public education throughout the country and of such unsolved problems as the Americanization of immigrants.

In Hotel Lobbies

Delegate A. L. Pitts, of Scottsville, was at Murphy's yesterday, and dropped into Gilpin headquarters. The news he deposited with the campaign manager brought cheer, for it was to the effect that Mr. Gilpin, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, has everything his own way in Charlottesville and the Counties of Albemarle, Nelson, Buckingham and Fluvanna.

Manager George Cease stated last night that Candidate Gilpin is expected to reach Richmond early this week to complete arrangements for the organization of a Gilpin club here.

A visitor from a far country across the seas, Harold W. Hudson, of Auckland, New Zealand, was registered at the Jefferson Hotel yesterday. Mr. Hudson is a world traveler and has visited the most important places on the globe. He was particularly struck with the progress and neatness of Richmond. He said that Richmond-made goods are noted in New Zealand. "Particularly is this so," he said, "concerning Richmond-made cigarettes."

More than 100 attended the meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Hotel Richmond yesterday. The Kiwanians enjoyed the meal spread for them by the hotel chefs. Holona's Hawaiian orchestra, featuring Anna Akler, dancer, is proving a big attraction at the Richmond.
