DR. ALEXANDER GRAHAM ON HOW TO BE HEALTHY

"How To Be Healthy," is my theme for this article, with special emphasis upon the "How." This message of truth concerns healthy folks as well as sick ones.

Strange but true, it is just as natural to be sick as it is to be healthy. Sickness is a result and so is health. Whenever people persist in abusing themselves beyond the point of bodily resistance, sickness and ill health will result as a natural consequence of their own acts. And on the other hand, when people live up to and practice those virtues that are in their very nature calculated to contribute to healthfulness of body and mind, good health will be theirs as a natural result of such a procedure.

For centuries the lay public have been crying out to the medical profession for a knowledge as to how to be healthy and how to avoid disease, and the answer has been a vaccination, a hypodermic, a latin prescription, and informed that the subject was too difficult for laymen to understand, that such was only for medical men to know.

The lay public will never come to its own until they weigh some of their own problems upon the health question. It seems to be human nature to pursue the course of least resistance, and that course usually leads the victim to his own destruction.

How to be healthy means the giving up of all disease producing habits. Go to some doctor who is cold blooded and unsympathetic enough to tell you your faults, he will explain to you in no uncertain terms just what you need, he will tell you what is necessary for you to do, because

In most cases the patient must help himself to some extent in order to accomplish the desired results.

If you are interested in your health, investigate my record in restoring health to the ailing. You may receive the names and addresses of many prominent Duluthians whom I have restored to health and who are today enjoying the very best of health, by applying at my office.

CHARLES BEUM SENDS CHEER FROM U. S. JAIL

A large number of Duluth working men sent Christmas greetings to Charles Beum, the Minneapolis iron worker who is a prisoner at the Leavenworth prison, having been convicted in connection with the Indianapolis dynamite cases.

Mr. Beum in a letter to the Minneapolis Labor Review acknowledges the receipt of the greetings. On account of the rules of the prison he can not answer every letter received, but he has expressed a desire to hear from his Duluth friends as often as they will write to him.

Charles Beum is a martyr to organized labor. He is the most innocent of the innocent. His imprisonment is more of a crime than the act he was charged with committing, which was more a sin of omission than commission, if at all. But it was neither.

HALL WILL TALK AT BIG FARMERS' MEET

President State Federation of Labor Has Busy Work Before Him.

E. G. Hall, president of the State Federation of Labor, who has been spending the past week or ten days in Duluth visiting local trade unions in the interest of the Labor Forward Movement to be inaugurated here in the spring, will leave the city tonight for LeSeuer Center, where he will attend Saturday a meeting of the LeSeuer Center County Farmers' union.

On Monday Mr. Hall will attend a meeting of representatives from all the building trade unions in St. Paul, and Minneapolis at which meeting a constitution and by-laws will be drafted for the State building trade section of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor.

All of the building trade unions in the larger cities will join in a statewide movement to organize the building mechanics of every city and village in Minnesota. Where there are not a sufficient number of mechanics in one trade to form a local union they will be expected to become jurisdiction members of the nearest local union of their trade.

On Tuesday President Hall will attend a convention on Industrial Education to be held in St. Paul. He and secretary-treasurer George W. Lawson have been chosen as delegates to this convention representing the State Federation of Labor.

Mr. Hall expects to return to Duluth the latter part of next week to renew his work in connection with the Labor Forward Movement.

SHYLOCK CLAMORING FOR HATTERS' FLESH; LABOR ALONE CAN AID

There is only one thing that can save the homes of the Danbury hatters, under foreclosure for the $300,000 damages imposed on them following the infamous prosecution of labor under the provisions of the Sherman Anti-Trust law because of an alleged boycott of Loewe & Co.'s products in Danbury. And that is the national assessment that the American Federation of Labor is levying on all local unions on January 27.

Martin Lawler, secretary of the United Hatters of North America, says in a letter to Duluth labor organizations, that it is hoped a large part of the money demanded as damages will be raised by the assessment. Nothing else could save the homes of the Danbury hatters, he said:

There 180 homes that are in danger of foreclosure. This would have happened a month ago, but a postponement was secured until January 14.

The action to assess every union man in the country was taken at the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor in San Francisco. The levy is to be voluntary, each local getting an appeal from headquarters. The members are to donate the wage of one hour in any shift on January 27 to the relief of Danbury. There are 186 of the original defendants left, most of them dependents and workmen unitted for further toll, and their whole property, including their savings, has been taken over to satisfy the Loewe judgment.

Mr. Lawler expresses the hope that every labor agency and sentiment would be united to bring a hearty response to the appeal on behalf of the Danbury hatters, who fought a battle in which the American Federation of Labor was the real contender with the Loewe Manufacturing company, backed by the National Manufacturers' Association and the Anti-Boycott League, also a manufacturers' association.

I. W. W. ORGANIZERS AMONG LUMBERJACKS

strike-breakers do not scab on the I. W. W., and in your struggle you will have the I. W. W. behind you.

"We could concentrate 10,000 tried and true fighters here within one week if it were necessary, veterans of other lumber strikes, with a knowledge of tactics and methods that would assure victory."

They'll Like Our Weather.

Messrs. Boose and McDonald penned their letter before the week-end at Medicine Hat swung its arrow southward, and sent a chilling message to Minnesota at the rate of 50 miles an hour forcing the mercury down near the forties.

It will take more than "Mulligan stew" to induce those 10,000 veterans of a warmer atmosphere to suffer in northern Minnesota. During these frigid days of stoveless box cars. But this is not all; the strike is coming in earnest. This is how they plan it in their appeal to the lumberjacks:

"The bosses know the power of the lumberjack better than the lumberjack himself or as well. You are all in our favor. You all know we can get results. Get into the fight now as the sooner we start the more we can achieve this winter. We are holding back men in some of the camps from striking now till the others have come into line. As your servants in this fight which is the fight of every lumberjack write us the conditions in the camps surrounding Bemidji or Duluth. We have literature in five languages. If you want some of it on your job it is yours free by return mail. If you want help to get the men on your job fighting for themselves or think a speaker will help you out where you work, write the nearest office.

Just Plain Lumberjacks.

"Every one of the organizers are just plain lumberjacks, stiff as lime yourselves, and the more you work them the better they will like it. Every day we are getting letters asking about job conditions in various camps. Any job news we have is at the disposal of every lumberjack.

"Tell us the news of your job, it will help the lumberjack who wants to know. The other worker will give us information you may need. Don't think because you may be broke and not a member that we will not do everything in our power for you. If you are a fighter you will join anyway as soon as you get the money and meantime we draw no distinctions.

"Love Only No Class."

"We need you. You need us far more let's get together right away. There is only one class in society for which we have any use—the working class, the useful class.

"Let's get together right away. Collect the initiation fee and dues out of the boss in higher wages. When you have the money, join as every cent of it goes to build up a better and better fighting machine.

"Every one of our members is an organizer, a leader, a fighter, a worker. We want you. Lumberjack, this is your fight—your union."

Duluth Union Takes On New Life—Members Show Interest in Organization.

Duluth Painters' union, No. 106 held a most profitable and pleasant meeting last Tuesday evening at Brown's hall, and it already appears that the spirit of revival in the labor movement is manifest. Several bracing and refreshing speeches were made by members of the union.

President F. G. Hall of the State Federation of Labor was present and addressed the union on his plan for a labor forward movement to be inaugurated here in the spring. The local endorsed the idea and will elect a representative on the labor forward committee.

Samuel Hultrud, a member of the union, gave an enthusiastic speech on the necessity for legislation. He urged that all unions work together for their common uplift. The members appreciated his timely talk and he was given warm applause.

It was reported that two members, of the union, in the employ of A. Ringwood, Ole Ecker and John Lana, met with a severe accident while working on the Dickerman building. Ole Ecker suffers from several broken ribs, and John Lana received several bad bruises. They were working on a scaffold, which gave away.

WALSH WAGES LABOR TO ENDORSE REPORT

furnished to the central bodies for distribution on Industrial Relations Day. These have been prepared by Basil M. Manly and contain in condensed form the facts that every American should know. Manly was author of the Walsh report to congress and what he wrote in the government report is the result of impartial and scientific investigation. These pamphlets would convince any man or woman not hopelessly prejudiced of the necessity of organizing and acting together. It tells in a nut shell just what is wrong in American industry, just why there is industrial unrest and how it can be removed.

In a letter which Walsh asks to be read to the Federated Trades assembly tonight, the committee outlines its plans as follows:

"First—An active educational campaign, through bulletins, magazine and newspaper articles, to show how and why collective bargaining for justice, industrial stability and individual development.

"Second—The maintenance of an organization to urge upon congress and the state legislatures a definite legislative program designed primarily to remove the obstacles which now prevent effective organization of employees and hamper their negotiations with employers.

"Third—The maintenance of a small staff of experienced investigators to secure the facts regarding labor conditions and industrial disputes, and an effective publicity organization to give the facts the widest possible circulation."

The committee's hope is that labor all over the country will co-operate to clinch the advantage won by the work of the federal commission by aiding the new committee to keep up an aggressive agitation.

CANADIAN NORTHERN ROAD COMES ACROSS

TORONTO, Ontario, Jan. 13.—The necessity for organization among wage workers is shown in the Canadian Northern railway's announcement that it will accept the decision of the government's conciliation board that higher wages must be paid the company's engineers and firemen.

The company at first refused to accept the decision. A strike vote by the interested workers showed an almost unanimous opinion in favor of suspending work. Then the company accepted the decision.

The award was made under the Canadian industrial disputes act, which makes it illegal to inaugurate a public utility strike or lockout until after a government appointed board investigates and reports on the issue. The law is based on the belief that neither side will refuse to accept a decision thus made. The present case, however, proves again that effective organization among workers is still necessary.
