WINS BRIDE ON DARE

Naval Officer Weds Miss Joyce at Four in Morning.

KNOT IS TIED IN A CAFE

Lieut. James R. Combs, Assigned to Cruiser Washington, Takes Wife After Two Years of Courtship—No Ring, No Veil, and No Wedding Bells, but Usual Showers of Rice.

New York, May 24.—Lieut. James R. Combs, of the United States navy, now assigned to the cruiser Washington, in port here, made Miss Isabelle St. George Joyce, of Philadelphia, his bride in Jack's restaurant, Sixth avenue and Forty-third street, to-day so unexpectedly that he had not provided a wedding ring, and a gold band had to be purchased from an accommodating waiter.

Lieut. Combs, with Lieut. Oscar F. Cooper, entertained a number of friends at the Army and Navy Club last night. Among the guests were Lieut. McIntyre and Miss Eleanor Bennett, of Philadelphia.

Not until after midnight did the party break up. Then it was decided by the three lieutenants to take the two Philadelphia girls to Jack's, where they could see a bit of New York life.

Two Years in Love.

Lieut. Combs and Miss Joyce have been much together during the past two years. He made no secret of his devotion to her, but that she returned his affection was not known to him. He had told her in the early part of the night that he had been assigned to a post abroad which would keep him away from the States for two years at least.

"I don't want to go, either," he said. "I don't want to leave you."

She smiled and looked cute, but said nothing. However, it was remarked that for a time she was unusually quiet and thoughtful. Passing through the dining-room at Jack's, Miss Joyce spied a bunch of orange blossoms. They were fading and withered, but that mattered not. She seized the blooms and stuck them in her hair.

"See what I have?" she said. "Now, I only need a man, a ring, and a minister to make things complete."

"I'll be the man," Combs almost shouted.

"And I'll get the minister," volunteered a man who had heard the girl's speech and the lieutenant's reply. He was a stranger.

He Dares Her.

"Will you?" Combs asked, addressing the girl. "Will you? I'll dare you."

"I never took a dare in my life," she answered, "and I'll not take one now."

"Jack" Dunston, the restaurant proprietor, was communicated with.

"Can we get married here?" asked Combs.

"Sure," answered Jack.

The Rev. Dr. Henry Marsh Warren was called by 'phone. When he arrived Dunston had fitted up the red room for the wedding and was doing all in his power to keep quiet a score of Yale students, who were in the front dining-room. The students simply refused to be peaceful, and sang with all their lung power, "There'll be no wedding bells for me."

Amid this confusion Miss Joyce was led to the red room, followed by Miss Bennett on Lieut. Cooper's arm, and with Lieut. McIntyre bringing up the rear.

The knot was tied as the clocks sounded the hour of 4. Wife, husband, and friends sat down to a wedding feast, while the Yale men foraged for rice and old shoes.

When Lieut. Combs and his bride left for their carriage they were showered with rice, and as the carriage rolled up Sixth avenue a dozen old shoes rattled behind.

Next game, Monday—Commerce and Labor vs. Post-office.

Treasury had little trouble in defeating Navy yesterday, the score being 7 to 2.

It looked for a while as though Navy would be shut out, but the sailors managed to shove two over in the seventh on an error, two fielder's choices, and two outs.

Donaldson, the former War pitcher, was on the slab for Treasury, and held the Sailors down to four bingles.

Murray pitched for the Navy, and made a record of sixteen strike-outs. The official score:

First Methodist tightened its hold on first place in the Sunday School League when it took Bethany under its wing by 6 to 4.

Litchfield pitched a nice game for the winners, his team-mates giving him splendid support. On the other hand, Rider, on the firing line for Bethany, was accorded poor support. He should have won his game, as up to the fifth he allowed no hits.

A bunching of hits in the fifth sent Bethany in the air, and three runs were carried across the pan, thus tying the score. A clean two-bagger by Johnson in the eighth, a single, which advanced him to third, and an error by Shedd gave First their fifth run. Their last tally was made in the same inning, when Hoffman, who reached first on an error, stole second and third and scored on a long fly to right.

To-day's game—Aloysius vs. Atlantics, at First and M streets northeast, at 5:30 p. m.

With Jack Leonard pitching good ball all the way, the Southern Railway was unable to overcome the Columbia team, the latter winning by 3 to 0.

Neither team was able to tally until the fifth, when Ogle let down and three runs were shoved over the pan. Two of these came from bases on ball primarily, and Willie Keene lined a beautiful drive over the crowd, bringing in one of the men and was allowed only two bases on the hit. Hayden's catch of Zannelli's foul fly was the feature. Leonard allowed but two hits. The official score:

LEADS ROYAL BERLIN BAND.

Paul Zierold to Conduct Music at Luna Park.

In the year 1894 Paul Zierold entered a private conservatory of music in the city of Berlin. After a ceaseless course of study, he was appointed concert meister to the 104th Regiment Band, of Chemnitz. His skill as an arranger and composer soon became apparent. Eventually, he became the band's manager and director. He devoted much of his spare time to the study of the violoncello. He placed himself under the tuition of Hans Bruna and Prof. Mann. In a short while his services were solicited for all the grand concerts. Having succeeded with the violoncello, he turned his attention to the piano.

With the seasoned experience of an old master, he next devoted much of his time to composing, writing many characteristic pieces, military marches, &c. After three years' service with the 104th Regiment, he entered the Thirty-first Regiment of Hamburg, with which he remained two years. At the expiration of this period he returned to Chemnitz to become conductor of the famous Civil Turn Hall Orchestra. Thinking America offered better inducements, he migrated to this country. The late Fritz Scheel, recognizing in the 'cellist a man of ability, secured him for the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra. He remained with this embodiment two seasons. Upon the death of Herr Wilhelm Schmidt, conductor of the Royal Berlin Military Band, Zierold returned to Europe to assume entire charge.

At the expiration of its Washington engagement, the Royal Berlin Military Band goes to Atlantic City, where it will remain all summer under the Steel Pier Company's management.
