Miss Schurmeier the Bride of Harry J. Price.

NUMEROUS JUNE WEDDINGS

Month of Roses, as Usual, Has Its Quota of Marriages—Washington Playground Association Will Hold Meeting To-morrow in Chamber of Commerce Rooms to Raise Money.

A pretty wedding took place last evening in the McKendree Methodist Episcopal Church, when Miss Wilhelmina Schurmeier, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Henry S. Hurter, became the bride of Mr. Harry J. Price, of Cincinnati.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. L. Wright, pastor of the church, at 6 o'clock, a large reception following in the home of the bride's parents, in the Van Cortlandt. The church was decorated with palms and potted plants, the pews reserved for the use of the family and out of town guests being marked with cone-shaped baskets of white flowers. Miss Kate Bowbeer was the organist. The "Lohengrin" wedding music was the signal for the entrance of the bridal party. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. She was attended by Mrs. Lewis P. Harris, of Cincinnati, sister of the bridegroom, matron of honor; Miss Edwina V. Cory, of Geneva, Ill., Miss Carrie Hastings, Miss Marjorie Topham, and Miss Vere Cory as bridesmaids. Little Miss Virginia Othmer and Miss Edith Graves were flower girls. The best man was Mr. Thomas Strack, and the ushers were Mr. Raymond Scully, of New York; Mr. Wilson Rucker, of Cincinnati, and Mr. Algernon Gardiner and Mr. Robert Dunner, both of this city. The bridal gown was a superb one, a creation of duchess lace over chiffon and taffeta, made princess, slightly empire, with a rounded train. Her tulle veil enveloped her figure and was held with a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor wore a gown of white satin messaline, trimmed with point lace, a large white picture hat, with long ostrich plumes. The two first named maids were in white point d'esprit over pink taffeta, and the last two wore white point d'esprit over Nile green taffeta. All wore large hats, trimmed with the color of the silk slips under their gowns, and carried showers of pink sweet peas. The little flower girls wore gowns of fluffy white, cascaded with pink roses and carried baskets of pink and white sweet peas.

For the reception two large apartments in the Van Cortlandt were thrown together, and decorated with branches of spring foliage, tall palms, ferns, and pink and white blossoms.

Assisting the bride's parents in receiving were Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Price, of Cincinnati, parents of the bridegroom. Mrs. F. Heitmuller and Mrs. Murphy assisted in the dining-room. Mrs. Hurter, mother of the bride, wore a gown of chiffon, with a broad border of black and white, over Nile green silk, and a picture hat. Mrs. Price, sr., was in a black chiffon robe over turquoise blue taffeta, with hat to match.

The music was furnished by a harp and two violins, the players stationed upon the balcony, which was flag-draped and covered with an awning, Japanese lanterns lending a subdued light. After the reception and supper, the bride and bridegroom left for their wedding trip, the bride wearing a costume of striped Panama cloth, with a Panama hat, with touches of light blue. After August 1, they will be at home on Price Hill, Cincinnati.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis P. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Price, of Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. George Mayer and son, of St. Paul, Minn.; Mr. Julius Hurter, of St. Louis, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Othmer, of Chicago.

The Washington Playgrounds Association, in which scores of the society women are interested, will make a further effort to increase their finances, and will hold a meeting to-morrow at 11 o'clock in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, Twelfth and F streets. Mrs. Wallace Radcliffe, Mrs. Truman H. Newberry, and Mrs. Wendell P. Stafford, who have been deeply interested in the work from its inception, hope to make arrangements for some means of raising money to meet their present emergency caused by the failure of Congress to make an appropriation such as they have had before. The ladies urge every one interested in the work to meet with and co-operate with them in this effort for the good of the children of Washington.

The bride wore a suit of mauve silk, with a large white chip hat, trimmed with orchids, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Wallace gave her daughter, who was unattended, in marriage. The wedding music was furnished by Mrs. Henry Hunt McKee. Following the ceremony was a breakfast and reception. Mr. Eugene Taylor, uncle of the bride, was best man.

The bride was prettily gowned in white silk net over white satin, trimmed with rose point lace. She wore a diamond and emerald necklace, the gift of the bridegroom. Miss Leila Steiner, of Alexandria, played the wedding music.

A reception followed the ceremony, after which Signor Tuccimei and his bride left for New York, where they will make a short visit before sailing for Italy, where they will make their future home.

Charles Holmead, jr., of St. Paul's Church, an intimate friend, in the home of the bride's parents, in Oregon avenue, before a company of immediate relatives and a few close friends. This was followed by a reception, when a large company was present. The decorations of the house were in a color scheme of pink, white and green, palms, ferns, and spring foliage, with quantities of roses being used. A mandolin orchestra played throughout the evening behind a screen of green vines and foliage. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Dorothy Dalrymple, maid of honor, and her cousin, Miss Eleanor Pritchard, flower girl. Mr. William W. Lemmond was the best man. The bride was escorted by her father, and met the bridegroom and his best man before the improvised altar of green foliage and white blossoms, and the prieu-dieu of white satin erected in the drawing room. Her gown was an imported empire robe of princess lace over white chiffon and satin, and her veil of tulle was held with orange blossoms. She carried a shower of lilies of the valley and white sweet peas.

The maid of honor wore yellow messaline over yellow silk, made princess, and trimmed with filet lace. She carried Bridesmaid roses, and the flower girl wore white mousseline, with sash, hair ribbons, shoes and stockings of pale pink. She carried a basket of pink sweet peas. After the reception and supper, the bride and bridegroom left for a fortnight's trip, the bride wearing a modish gown of Copenhagen blue cloth, with hat to match.
