Trio of the Nationals Are Under Weight

Ayers, Ainsmith, and Henry Need Building Up, According to Trainer Mike Martin at Charlottesville.

DRIVING THE MEN HARD

By JOHN A. DUGAN.

Charlottesville, Va., March 3.—It never rains but it pours, is the way Trainer Mike Martin puts it, and believe me, Mike is having his share of the pouring these days.

The little "Muldoon" with his healing oils, working under instructions from Manager Griffith and Coach Jack Ryan, is here to condition the boys for the big scrap which starts among eight of our big league cities on the 14th of April, but handicaps of all kinds are at present confronting the Nationals' trainer.

The job of knocking weight off of the athletes is easy for Mike, but when he found today that no less than a trio of the veterans in camp were under weight he scratched his head. Martin will make a strenuous effort to bring the boys up to the proper mark by putting on an extra force of cooks and waiters at Camp Griffith.

Dr. Wyatt Yancey Ayers, the Hillville moundsman, is the biggest offender, being at present in midseason playing form of 187 pounds. Ainsmith hits one pound above the mark, and John Henry three pounds under. This trio looks to be in the "pink," but Trainer Mike is not satisfied and intends to work overtime to bring them around.

Ayers Under Weight.

After one week of training at camp last season Doc Ayers weighed 207 pounds and the Nationals' trainer is more worried about the Virginia mountaineer than any of the others.

Ayers' mother died a short time before he reported, and the staying up at nights at the bedside of his parent, etc., is given by Martin as the reason for Ayers being under the margin.

John Henry does not believe the trip with the All-Americans did him any harm, for after returning he worked out doors, and claims to be feeling fine. Being so close to the margin does not seem to worry Ainsmith; that shrill whistle and "At-a-boy Walter" is the life and pep on Lambeth Field these days.

At the afternoon practice both Jack Bentley and "Moxie" Harper asked permission from Coach Ryan to let out another kink, and after the veteran gave them the once over they heaved the ball in midseason form. Each of the youthful southpaws curved a few and kept little Doug Neff on his toes catching the shoots.

The most important development at training camp today was when Jack Bentley showed his new delivery which Nick Altrock had been teaching him during the closing days of last season and the early workouts at the Naval Academy this year. Bentley has the cross-fire down perfectly and shoots the old Spalding toward the plate on an angle route.

Jack has also switched from the straight overarm delivery without a windup to a fast jerky windup in which he finishes up by throwing his left high in the air and out in front getting more stuff on the ball with less action to his arm.

No better day could be asked than what the weather man handed Charlottesville today and Coach Jack Ryan took advantage of the occasion to drive the boys at a harder pace.

The morning practice was cut a little short because of the strong Northern winds but at noon the North wind died down and the entire crew was hustled out to Lambeth Field. Real action allowed, Engle and Stevens were first to get started, and as both boys are fastly rounding into shape, the veteran guardian drove them to the shower early. Boehling was given but a short workout, John Henry doing the receiving, while Booth Hooper, who has been going at top speed during the past two days, also shut down by orders from Ryan and was only allowed to toss the ball and field bunts. Hooper claims his arm is ready but the veteran coach will not take any chances and the big Tennessee hurler has been put on the one-practice-a-day list.

Thormahlen Looks Good.

Young Herb Thormahlen looked better today in both practices than any of the other "rookies" and his free and easy motion kept the watchful eyes of Martin and Ryan in his direction all afternoon. Oscar Russell, the find of Mike Martin, has hit his stride at last. Russell was troubled with a kink in his shoulder but consistent work has taken this soreness away and the A. & M. collegian is using a natural delivery. Trainer Martin was more than pleased to see the short arm movement passed.

After the young hurlers were chased to the gymnasium Coach Ryan called on young John McCall, a candidate for the Virginia team, to fill in at third base, while Neff played short and Morgan second and Ainsmith shifted to the initial sack with John Henry working at the plate. This outfit just ripped things up, and a big noise started on Lambeth Field.

The weather looks favorable tonight, and it is the intention of Coach Ryan to drive the squad at a much faster pace tomorrow.

Shaw Springs New One; Calls It "Wrinkle Ball'

Charlottesville, Va., March 3.—Jim Shaw has a brand-new ball which is calculated to stand the American League batters on their heads this summer. Shaw calls it "the wrinkle ball."

Shaw's one fault last season was a tendency to issue free passes by handing up too many balls head high, and in order to break him of this fault Jack Ryan today gave him a few pointers on how to break the habit. Jim was forced to change his style a trifle, shooting the pill from a half-crouching position, but he made fine progress, and when the ball reached the batter it gave a wierd shoot.

"That's a new wrinkle on me," said Ryan, after handling Shaw's latest improved delivery this afternoon.

"Let's call it the wrinkle ball," said the big pitcher.

"All right," answered Ryan. "That settles it."

In Phillies' Camp For First Spring

EPPA RIXEY.

Eppa Rixey, the elongated pitcher of the Phillies, is in training camp for the first time since he broke into the big show, three years ago.

Rixey joined the Phils in the middle of the 1912 season, just after the close of the University of Virginia's season, and went like a house afire. He has refused to appear in training camp the past two years. However, after a bad season last year, Rixey is taking baseball seriously, and is taking his daily work-outs with the rest of his pals in St. Petersburg, Fla.

That Rixey is due for another good year in 1915 is the opinion of Manager Moran since he has shown up for preliminaries.

Clark Griffith liked the work of Rixey while with the University of Virginia ball club, but lost out in favor of the Philadelphia Nationals.

SEVEN PLAYERS LEAVE SUNDAY

Only Small Squad of Regulars Will Depart for Charlottesville Camp from Capital.

OTHER SPORT COMMENT

Frank Baker Says He Is Willing to Play with the New York Yankees.

By WILLIAM PEET.

When the main squad of the Nationals leaves for camp from the Capital next Sunday morning only seven players will make the trip according to present plans. This is the smallest bunch since Griffith has been in charge to report one week later than the young pitchers and catchers.

According to the present outlook Walter Johnson, Chick Gandil, George McBride, Eddie Foster, Howard Shanks, Danny Moeller, and Henri Rondeau are the athletes who will start for Charlottesville from Washington next Sunday morning. Seven in all, count 'em.

This bunch of seven players, however, does not include all the men who will spring train under the watchful eyes of Clark Griffith, for Infielders Seidle and Charley Pick, Outfielders Brown, Massey, and Acosta have been ordered to go direct to the Charlottesville camp from their homes.

* * * *

Frank Baker will play with the New York Yankees if Connie Mack agrees to accept Col. Ruppert's offer of $25,000 for the services of the former hard-hitting Athletic third sacker.

An interview over the long-distance phone with J. Franklin at his home in Trappe, Md., yesterday made this clear, for the "home run hero" made it known that he would willingly join the Ruppert clan if given a satisfactory contract.

"I will play with the New York Yankees if they offer a liberal enough salary," said Baker. "But, of course, I prefer to stay with the Athletics. If the report is true that Mack has been dickering with Col. Ruppert for my sale to that club I would certainly play with them. I want to play with the Athletics, and would do my best to again bring the pennant to Philadelphia for a much smaller salary than that for which I would play with the Yankees."

When asked what he called a satisfactory salary he refused to talk. Baker made it clear that he liked the game and would be back in harness soon if he were given the money.

"I am not trying a hold-up game," hastily explained the Trapper mauler "but if I return to the game it will be for a considerably increased salary. It is rather a surprise to me that Connie had talked of disposing of me to the New York Americans, but if he did and Ruppert came through with the money I would surely be enrolled as a Yankee."

Yesterday Mack, in Jacksonville, denied that he refused Ruppert's offer of $25,000. Ruppert is quoted as offering this amount, but was unable to procure Baker, as Mack held out for $50,000. Yesterday it was reported that Ruppert discredited Mack's statement and confirmed his own statement that Mack wanted $50,000 for the services of Baker.

"Talks to Men"

---According to Oliver Goldsmith

"OLD books, old wine, old friends are best," said Oliver Goldsmith. True enough, and this great man of by-gone days in London possessed the three.

BUT old business methods are not always best. The old days of trade and barter are passing rapidly. You would not patronize a store where one price prevailed for one man and another price for you.
—You do not expect a hat or suspenders "thrown in" when you buy a suit.
—And, thinking men do not take kindly to the old-time peddler offers telling them that they can buy an article for 1-7 of its value right at the beginning of a new season.

YOU DO expect straightforward methods—One hundred cents of value for your one dollar in coin—plus Service and a guarantee with what you buy.
—This is the Parker-Bridget way—the only way. One hundred point value in regular season and a safe and sane legitimate reduction to clear stocks at the end of a season.

THIS is a Nationally Known Store for Men and Little Men. It has held the confidence of the public for a quarter of a century.

"P-B" merits your confidence and patronage. "I. A. F. M." men are welcome. "I. A. F. M." means "I Am From Missouri."

"Court" Baseball Proves To Be Costly Luxury

EPIPHANY HANGS UP WIN OVER BUSINESS

Churchmen, with Steed in Line-up, Defeat Championship Aspirants. Stenographers Make Shift.

Considerably strengthened by the presence of "Pony" Steed, a former Technical star, the Epiphany basket-ball team came through with a win over Business yesterday.

Steed's work was the feature of the 30 to 21 victory, having led all, in the number of points scored. With seven baskets to his credit he was responsible in the main for the outcome. Marbury, his running mate, also played well.

Bill Culligan was the best performer for the losers. This fast forward shot six baskets and three from the foul line. A shift was made in the Business line-up whereby Buck Wise was sent to the forward position and Keech to center. Ray Wise was back to his old place at guard.

Line-up and summary:

Epiphany.	Position.	Business.
Steed	L. F.	Culligan
Marbury	L. F.	B. Wise
Dezendorf	Center	Keech
Hart	L. G.	Ray Wise
Selden	R. G.	Glessner

Substitutions—Kelly for Ray Wise, Ralph Wise for B. Wise. Goals from floor—Steed (7), Marbury (2), Dezendorf (5), Culligan (6), B. Wise (2); Ray Wise. Goals from foul—Marbury (2), Dezendorf (3), Steed, Culligan (3). Referee—Mark De Grange. Time of halves—20 minutes.

Plan Baseball Team.

Plans are being made by young men of Central Presbyterian Sunday school to get out a crack team of ball players. Those who came out at the first meeting are Harrison, McKelwar, Stroebecker, Ford, Codmore, Logan, Darling, Miller, Jones, Evans, Seabrook and others. H. A. Gillis and O. T. Wright are looking for a good team. J. T. Seabrook was elected manager, and will be glad to arrange dates, etc.

New Dispatches from the Training Camp

Gulfport, Miss., March 3.—Two strenuous workouts for the Tigers left them pretty muscle sore. Jennings, with his fungo stick, kept the fielders chasing flies for a couple of hours. Today's program will include some sprinting around the bases and a stiff workout for the pitchers.

Macon, Ga., March 3.—This important matter of spring practice with the champion Braves has settled into routine. Drills today until the season starts, two workout trials a day are on the program. James, Strand, Whitted and Loque are still missing.

Marlin, Tex., March 3.—The first note to strengthen where they were the weakest last summer—in the pitchers—was made today when Pol Perritt, of the Cardinals, became a member of McGraw's clan. McGraw will give St. Louis several Nayers in return for the young pitcher. McGraw again had his men out for a stiff workout today.

Savannah, Ga., March 3.—Manager Donovan, of the Yankees, today devoted his attention to the youngsters on the team and put them through some hard practice. Donovan is letting the veterans work themselves into condition slowly.

Daytona, Fla., March 3.—The Dodgers' spring training is being hampered by poor grounds, the rain putting the field in poor playing condition. The men, however, are being given batting practice and a scrub game will be played Saturday.

Paso Robles, Cal., March 3.—The Chicago White Sox were put through a stiff practice during the forenoon today, the last prior to the departure of the team for Los Angeles to begin daily games in a tour of Southern California. The first game will be with Los Angeles tomorrow. The second team rested in Oakland today and tomorrow begins a series with Oakland and San Francisco teams.

Hot Wells, Tex., March 3.—A four-mile hike along the roads to get the kinks out of stiffened muscles caused by the first day's workout, together with swimming, billiards and cards was the program for the second day in the camp of the Cardinals. It was raining today.

Report of National Commission Shows Large Sum Expended in Fighting Foes of Organized Ball.

The eleventh annual report of the National Baseball Commission, just issued, contains some very interesting information, and sheds some effulgent light on the high cost of "lawing." Court baseball has proved an expensive proposition for both the Feds and organized baseball.

The report of Secretary John E. Bruce shows the amounts paid out during 1914 for various reasons, and some of the items are as follows:

"Ellis G. Kinkead, services, April 4, $500; John Galvin, services, April 4, $500; Ellis G. Kinkead, expenses Hot Springs, April 7, $125; April 29, John Galvin, balance due on retainer, $1,000; Ellis G. Kinkead, balance due on retainer, $1,000; Ellis G. Kinkead, attorney's fees, first quarter, $375; John Galvin, attorney's fees, first quarter, $375; Ellis G. Kinkead, Camnitz case, $600; June 25, John Galvin and Ellis G. Kinkead, services, $2,185; August 29, Galvin and Kinkead, legal services, $1,500; October 3, Kinkead and Galvin, balance bill, $309.50; November 3, John Galvin, services, $375; Messrs. Galvin and Kinkead, Johnson case, $823.18; Ellis Kinkead, services, $275; Watson & Freeman, Johnson and Cullop cases, $1,061.21; R. B. Johnson, attorney's fees, $1,800.40," etc.

Totaling up the items in the report referring to expenditures for legal services, they reach the munificent sum of $14,544.27. However, they form only part of an enormous bill which is being paid by both sides in the baseball war.

This report closed last December, and it was after that time that the most expensive case of all—the Feds' anti-trust proceedings in Judge K. M. Landis' court in Chicago—had its inception. In this last case attorneys galore were employed by both sides, and thousands of dollars were expended in the preparation of the case. Thousands of pages of evidence were prepared by typiste, and these were in turn turned over to the printer for publication. The records of the case will fill several large-sized volumes when they are complete.

More lawsuits are bound to follow the announcement of Judge Landis' decision. If this verdict favors organized baseball, the Feds will have to see all their most valuable player assets slip away or fight for them in court. If the Feds win the case, a similar situation will face the forces of organized baseball. No matter what the outcome, there is litigation and more litigation in view.

Rose Knight Bought As Trotting Marvel

New York, March 3.—Trotting men looking for extreme speed settled on the two-year-old Rose Knight as the most attractive offering on the closing day of the midwinter auction in Madison Square Garden today. There was lively bidding before this bay daughter of Border Knight—Rose Manning was knocked down to George W. Leavitt, of Boston, for $3,000. The veteran horseman from the Hub indicated that other Bostonians besides himself were interested in the purchase, but their names could not be learned. That Bingen, sire of Uhlan, is the second sire of Rose Knight perhaps had some influence on the speculation over this young trotting marvel. Going further back, her pedigree embraces the blood of Peter the Great, but the actual work of the young filly was the main factor in producing the best price for the day. James Snell, who consigned this richly bred filly to the sale, stated that with little preparation as a yearling she worked a quarter in 32 1-2 seconds on the Lexington track and stepped to the half in 1:07. Rose Knight is engaged in many big stakes, including three futurities.

Good prices were realized for the Walnut Hall yearlings, though the figures did not rule quite as high as on Tuesday. The average for the Walnut Hall youngsters was $361. The best of the Walnut Hall lot was Merlyn, a daughter of San Francisco, which went to the Dover driver, Walter Cox, for $820. C. K. G. Billings re-enforced his Curles Neck farm by buying Nell Olcott, by Olcott Axworthy, for $800, and Brother Spier, by Directum—Speir, for $500.

Among the best sales were: Dalline, trotter, 7 years, by The Director General—Crystalline, W. D. Hunt, Brookline, Mass., $875; Brother Speir, 2:18 1-4, trotter, 8 years, by Directum Speir—Sister Alice, Curles Neck Farm, Richmond, Va., $700; Nell Olcott, trotter, 8 years, by Olcott Axworthy—Nell Worthy, Curles Neck Farm, $800; Rose Knight, trotter, 2 years, by Border Knight—Rose Manning, George W. Leavitt, Boston, $3,000; Merlin, trotter, 1 year, by San Francisco—Melisande, W. R. Cox, Dover, N. H., $320.

FEDS HAVE 'WAR FUND' FOR LEGAL BATTLES

Weeghman Announces that $100,000 Is Available to Fight Organized Baseball.

Chicago, March 3.—President Weeghman, of the Chicago Federal League team, made the statement late today that the Federals have a "war fund" of $100,000 to use in legal battles against organized baseball. This announcement was made when it became known that Manager McGraw, of the New York Giants, and others in organized baseball were picking up players recently signed by the Federals.

Indications point to another season of fighting in the courts, and if present promises are made good, the fans will be deprived of seeing Walter Johnson, Bill James, Frank Baker, Jimmy Austin, Ray Caldwell, Ed Konetchy, and other stars in action on the field. James, it was said, had wired Weeghman asking to be taken into the Federal League.

Charlottesville Training Camp Chatter

By THE HERALD MAN

With the completion of all arrangements in the Kappa Alpha Fraternity House by Trainer Martin, the veterans have moved into the new quarters.

Jack Bentley, Joe Engel, and Harry Harper are graduates from the ranks of the recruits and are tucked away snug in the fraternity house with the regulars.

Ray Morgan had not spent twenty-four hours in this little hamlet before he smashed the local duckpin record to smithereens. Ray is taking advantage of the up-to-date bowling alleys, and spends a few hours daily toppling the old maples as the finishing touches of his work-outs. Morgan was only compelled to beat a mark of 125 for the record. The watch-charm second-sacker's high score is 149, but he is certain to better even this mark before he leaves Charlottesville.

Allan Clarke, the youngster from Hartford County, Md., won the booby prize last night offered by the establishment. As a bowler Clarke is a sweet hurler.

Jack Bentley and Harry Harper were in receipt of a letter today from Nick Altrock. Altrock advised these two left-handers not to work too strenuously until he arrives next Sunday. As the result of their workouts in Annapolis, both are in better shape than any of the other pitchers with the possible exception of Hopper, who is showing remarkable form for so early in the season.

Quite a little humor developed through the contents of Nick's letter. Bentley exposed the contents of the missive to both Ryan and Martin. A portion brought out the following: "Be sure not to do much running if the wind is strong, as it will tend to tie up the muscles in your legs and will set you back and your arm will not get the proper work." Just to show who is boss in Camp Griffith, Ryan ordered both to circle the track three times to top off the morning practice.

Ray Morgan was the last to leave the field today and put up a big hollow when Coach Ryan ordered him to the showers.

Owing to the slight wind on Lambeth field, Joe Boehling was not permitted to workout today. The Richmond curver wanted to don the flannels but Ryan thought it best not.

That Booth Hopper will be ready to take to the hill when the main squad reaches camp, is the opinion of all those who have seen him workout today. The big Tennessee hurler let out today and showed a remarkable knuckle ball. This form of twirling is very apt to prove puzzling to the main squad.

A letter was received today from the Toronto club by the Athletic Association of the University of Virginia, asking permission to use the Lambeth Feild for spring training. Although no definite decision has yet been made, it is obvious that the same will not be granted while the Nationals are in Charlottesville. The fact that the teams in the various parts of the United States are desirous of using Lambeth Field speaks well of the facilities here.

There are an abundance of nicknames floating around the camp these days. Harper has been nicknamed "Moxie," while B
