New York, March 12.—Brock Pemberton, the new dramatic critic of the Times, comes from Emporia, Kans.—Will White's town—and before he got in the habit of going abroad each summer he used to return to "Our Town" for his vacations.

The last time he was there he stayed with an old friend on the edge of town, and after loafing with the boys in the old Gazette office—Pemberton used to be a cub reporter on teh paper—he started for his friend's home. Behind him came a team attached to a country wagon.

The night was dark, and a slight rain was falling. Out of the fog came a voice.

"I shay, mister, how much farther ish it to the top of this hill?"

"Hill?" said Pemberton. "Why, this is a level stretch of ground."

Then he struck a match and saw that the two rear wheels had fallen off the wagon which the man was driving.

One of the social lights of Central Park was speaking of a Boston grand dame who was nearing her 100th birthday. "She is looking forward to becoming a centurion," she said.

Rennold Wolf declares that when Calve made her vaudeville debut at a local theater J. Fred Zimmerman, jr., thought it was an animal act.

The passing of Chester Firkins, of the staff of the American, caused deep regret in newspaper circles. Firkins was a rewrite man and copy reader, and well known for his short stories and verse.

He was graduated from the University of Minnesota thirteen years ago, and began his newspaper career on the Minneapolis Times. A year later he went to the Ohio State Journal, and from there to the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

He came to New York in 1906, and was on the American since that time, with the exception of six months spent on the Herald. The last literary work he did was the writing of the book for the "Perils of Pauline," the motion picture serial. He supplied jobs for more than fifteen Minneapolis newspaper men in New York.

George S. Kauffman, the bright new paragrapher on the Evening Mail, has dug up an amusing series of newspaper absurdities—the kind found daily. Such, for instance, as "personal friends." Can friends be otherwise than personal? And following the same strain he discovers "absolute fact," "eyewitnesses," and a host of others.

More than 11,000 fewer men are at work on the subways than on February 1. This is due wholly to the sudden enforcement of the law against alien labor on public works. Opponents of the statute say that without the laborer to do the heavy work the skilled mechanics will also have to be laid off.

The melodrama, it seems, is leaving its impress on literature. Richard Washburn Child has a story in a current magazine telling about a judge's son who sits at the "deserted stenographer's desk."

Salvador Minister Named.

Rafael Zaldivar has been appointed by the government of Salvador to be Minister to the United States. He is expected to leave for this country the latter part of this month. The Salvador Legation here has been in the hands of a charge d'affaires for some time.

EPISCOPAL.

Services for the deaf, in the sign language, are held in the parish hall of Trinity Episcopal Church, Third street and Indiana avenue northwest, every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, and at such other times as may be announced.

The Episcopal Church has maintained a mission to the deaf in Washington for many years, and endeavors to reach and help all deaf persons in the city regardless of creed. Rev. H. C. Merrill, who is himself deaf, is in charge of the mission. At Bishop Harding's recent visitation to Trinity Church five deaf persons were among those presented for confirmation.

At the service next Sunday morning, March 14, Rev. C. Orvis Dantzer, pastor of All Souls' Church for the Deaf, Philadelphia, will preach the sermon.

In response to urgent requests from the Bishop of Washington and from the rector of Norwood prish, Maryland, and in accordance with the hearty desire of the congregation of the Chapel of the Redeemer, Glen Echo, Md., Rev. McKee, of the Cathedral Chapter, has decided to continue his services of preaching and administering the Holy Communion to that congregation on the second Sunday of each month, in addition to his other missionary work in the diocese.

Rev. J. Townsend Russell will give an illustrated lecture on "The National Cathedral" at St. Paul's parish hall, Twenty-third street and Washington circle, on Thursday, March 18, at 8 p. m. No charge is made, but a silver offering will be taken for the Cathedral fund. This lecture includes views of the Cathedral and of places connected with it, of Jerusalem, the river Jordan, Canterbury and Iona.

Tomorrow, mid-Lent Sunday, a guild service will be held at St. Mark's Church in the evening. Each organization will have a space reserved in the church, to be marked with a banner bearing the name of the guild. Every member of the societies of the church is expected to be present.

At the next meeting of the Social Service Conference of Washington Diocese, which will be held Tuesday, March 16, at 10:30 a. m., in St. John's Church, Sixteenth and H streets, Mrs. H. J. Patterson, wife of the president of Maryland Agricultural College, and B. H. Darrow, secretary of the College Y. M. C. A., will discuss "The Work of the Maryland Agricultural College."

Bishop Harding will administer confirmation and preach the sermon tomorrow morning at the Church of the Epiphany, in G street.

The Churchmen's League Lenten lecture Tuesday will be by Rev. James H. McIlvaine, D. D., rector of Calvary Church, Pittsburgh, Pa. His subject will be "Salvation: Is It Personal or Social?" The lecture will be given in St. John's Church, at H and Sixteenth streets, at 8 p. m.

ROMAN CATHOLIC.

The fourth Sunday of Lent, which is designated as "Laetare Sunday" by the Catholic church, will be observed tomorrow at St. Patrick's with masses at 7, 8, 9, 10 and a solemn high mass at 11 a. m. This last mass will be sung by Rev. John M. McNamara, assisting whom will be two priests connected with Holy Cross College, Brookland, D. C. The subject of the sermon at these devotions will be "How the Friendship of God is Lost by Man" and will be preached by Rev. James A. Smyth. Both the choirs affiliated with St. Patrick's, the mixed choir under Miss Jennie Glennan, and the sanctuary choir, directed by M. R. Mills Silby, will render the music.

The members of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin will assist at the 7 o'clock mass tomorrow and receive their regular monthly communion.

Mgr. William T. Russell will officiate at the Lenten devotions Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock and deliver the fourth sermon of his course on marriage. His topic for tomorrow night will be "How to Make Marriage a Failure." This will be followed by appropriate Lenten prayers and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Prayers for the Novenas now in progress in honor of St. Patrick and St. Joseph are being recited after all the daily masses which are celebrated each morning at 6:30, 7, 7:30, 8:15 and 9 o'clock. The Novena in honor of St. Patrick will close on Wednesday, the patronal feast day of this church, and that in honor of St. Joseph will conclude with his feast day which occurs on Friday.

During the week the usual Lenten devotions will be held each afternoon at 4:45 p. m. excepting Saturday. On Friday the devotions will begin at 4:30 o'clock and will assume the form of the "Holy Hour."

At Holy Trinity Church in Georgetown a special mass will be said tomorrow at 8 o'clock for members of the Holy Name Society, and President Doyle expects to have 500 members receive holy communion.

The Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary will resume its meetings on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, with chanting of the holy office, instructions by Rev. P. H. Brennan and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

On Wednesday evening Rev. Thomas Addis, emmett of the Society of Jesus, and prefect of discipline of Georgetown University, will deliver a panegyric on the life and doings of Saint Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland. Appropriate music will be sung by the choir and congregation.

UNIVERSALIST.

The pulpit of the Church of Our Father will be occupied tomorrow morning by Rev. W. H. McGlauflin, D. D., general superintendent of Universalist churches. The presence of Dr. McGlauflin in Washington at this time is rendered possible by his annual visitation of the Universalist churches in the Southern States. Among the most important of the churches to be thus visited, other than Washington, are Atlanta, Ga.; Birmingham, Ala.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; and Little Rock, Ark. The two first mentioned were established under the pastorate of Dr. McGlauflin before he was given his present position which may be described as that of missionary bishop of the Universalist churches.

Social Centers in Abeyance.

Until the Board of Education has studied the various clauses of the new bill, allowing the public schools of the District to be thrown open for social center purposes, and makes an investigation of the school buildings to decide upon those that are so arranged as to permit social center use, no action will be taken towards putting the law actively in force.

Will Talk Need of Postoffice.

The committee of business men who are attempting to have postal facilities re-established in the Postoffice Department Building, Eleventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, will meet at 11 o'clock Monday morning in the rooms of the Retail Merchants' Association.

DISCIPLES OF CHRIST.

Next week from Monday until Friday at the Ninth Street Christian Church there will be held a school of methods for Sunday school teachers and workers under the auspices of the Bible school department of the American Christian Missionary Society of Cincinnati, Ohio. The instructors are Prof. G. P. Coler, of Virginian Christian College, Lynchburg, Va., who will have charge of the Bible studies; Miss Hazel A. Lewis, elementary superintendent of the Bible school department of the American Christian Missionary Society, who will be instructor in elementary division and Missionary methods; Miss Cynthia Pearl Maus, secondary superintendent, who will be instructor in secondary division and pedagogy, and W. J. Clarke, adult superintendent of the same society, who will be instructor in adult division organization and management. Two sessions will be held each day from 4 to 6 and from 7 to 9. Dinner will be served at the church from 6 to 7. All interested are invited to attend.

The Ninth Street Bible school is one of the largest in the city, the average attendance for February having been 829. An attendance of 1,000 is expected for tomorrow morning, when Mr. Clarke will speak to the school.

"Poison in Pleasures" will be Rev. Earle Wilfley's subject at the Vermont Avenue Christian Church tomorrow evening. This will be the fourth of a series of special sermons on the general theme of poisons. The discourse will be addressed especially to young people, and the Christian Endeavor Society is taking special interest in the occasion.

METHODIST.

Dr. James Shera Montgomery will speak at the Metrpolitan Methodist Church tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock on the subject, "The Ideal What-soever Things;" in the evening at 8 o'clock he will give the second socialistic sermon-lecture, the special subject being "The Individual—The Secret of Social Progress." The quartet and chorus choirs, under direction of Anton Kasper, are preparing to give the cantata, "The Seven Last Words" (Dubois) on Thursday evening, April 1. Garber on "The Heathen Child's Home," by Mrs. M. E. O'Bannon on "The Immigrant Child's Home, and by Mrs. G. J. Ziegler on "The Negro Child's Home."

PRESBYTERIAN.

In New York Avenue Church tomorrow evening Rev. Dr. Wallace Radcliffe will speak on the unusual topic of "The Gospel According to Art." This is in continuation of his Sunday evening lectures upon "Pre-Reformation Studies," and is intended to show how largely the essential religious truths were preserved by the artists amid the prevailing corruption of doctrine and manners and largely prepared for the Reformation.

At the Gunton-Temple Memorial Presbyterian Church, Fourteenth and R streets northwest, the pastor, Rev. Dr. C. Everest Granger, will preach at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. tomorrow. The topic of the morning sermon will be "Excuse Me," the evening, "The Anti-drug Crusade." At the morning service Herman Hoffman, of the Marine Band, will play two violin selections. The evening service will be opened with a praise service, using "Winona Hymns" and the chorus choir will sing.

The annual meeting of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church and congregation will be held in the lecture room of the church on Thursday, March 18, at 8 o'clock.

CATCH-MY-PAL LEADER AT MASS MEETING

Young People's Organizations Bring Temperance Speaker to Washington.

Rev. Robert J. Patterson, a Presbyterian clergyman of Dublin, Ireland, will deliver a lecture on temperance before a joint mass meeting under the auspices of the young people's organizations in the District at the First Congregational Church Tenth and G streets northwest, tomorrow at 3 p. m. Mr. Patterson was born and educated in Dublin and is well known on both sides of the Atlantic as "Catch-my-pal" Patterson because of a unique temperance organization started by him, which has spread over Europe and part of this country. He has an international reputation as a lecturer on temperance and comes to Washington from the Central States, where he has been conducting a campaign for prohibition. It is said the speaker has an Irish wit and there is nothing "dry" about his lecture except the subject. At a meeting in New York last week he spoke from the same platform with William Jennings Bryan and Andrew Carnegie.

This is claimed to be the first serious attempt for all of the young people's organizations of the District to get together. The Y. M. C. A. has postponed its usual Sunday afternoon meeting.

The committee on arrangements is composed of a representative from each organization as follows: J. Ora Tolbert, Epworth League Union; Dr. A. C. Christie, Washington District Epworth League; George M. Kirk, Y. M. C. A.; Florence M. Brown, Y. W. C. A.; George E. Dement, Baptist Young People's Union, and H. F. Worley, Christian Endeavor Union. The latter will preside and introduce the speaker. Roy F. Carty will conduct the singing and Mrs. Mabel R. Frost will preside at the organ.

Iron can be made rust proof by heating it redhot and brushing it with linseed oil.

BAPTIST.

The congregation of Centennial Baptist Church will assemble tomorrow for the first time in their new church home, at the corner of Seventh and I streets northeast. There will be no formal dedicatory service, the pastor, Rev. E. Hez Swem, preaching as usual at the morning and evening services.

The new structure is of reinforced concrete, eighty-five feet square, and was erected at a cost of about $35,000. One-half of the floor space is given to the auditorium, the remainder to the Sunday school and class rooms. Speiden & Speiden were the architects of the new building and the building committee consisted of the pastor, Rev. E. Hez Swem; Newton Hare, and William H. Weber.

The former place of worship of the congregation at Eighth and I streets was sold to a Hebrew congregation and possession was given last September, since which time the meetings of Centennial Church have been held in Northeast Temple.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of Calvary Baptist Church is engaged in a campaign to obtain 100 new members in three months, the new officers of the society having been challenged to accomplish this result by the pastor, Rev. S. H. Greene, at the time of the annual meeting in January. Almost half of the required number are said to have been secured and the lookout committee is hustling to get the remainder before March 31.

The men of Immanuel Baptist Church to the number of eighty will make tomorrow afternoon an every-member canvass of the congregation for the purpose of securing an increased interest in all the activities of the church.

The pastor, Rev. John E. Briggs, will preach at Fifth Baptist Church at both services tomorrow. He has returned from Philadelphia, where he has been attending the Billy Sunday meetings and studying the tabernacle campaign at first hand. As a prelude to his evening sermon, he will speak on "Billy Sunday in Action."

There will be baptism at the beginning of the evening service. The sermon subject will be "A Woman's Conversion," which is the third of Sunday evening sermons on "Bible Conversions." On Wednesday night the Berea Bible Class will give its annual spring entertainment.

Escorted by Orient Commandery, Knights Templar, the Grand Commandery, together with Washington Centennial Lodge, F. A. A. M., will attend divine service at Metropolitan Baptist Church, Sixth and A streets northeast, tomorrow evening at 7:45 o'clock. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. John Compton Ball. The regular church choir, under the leadership of Chorister G. A. Clark, will render special music. At the morning service of Metropolitan Church the pastor will discuss Revelation, Chapters 13 and 14, under the theme, "The Mark of the Beast, or the Seal of the Lamb—Which?"

An honorary members' meeting will take the place of the young peoples' meeting at the Temple Baptist Church tomorrow evening. "Tests of My Christianity" will be the subject, and the leader will be Charles N. Richards. The chimes will be played at the opening of the meeting by Miss Louise Lewis.

Vespers at Women's Home.

Miss Enderle, synodical secretary of young peoples' work for the Southern Presbyterian Assembly, will address the vesper service of the Women's Christian Association at the home, 1719 Thirteenth street northwest, tommorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Miss Marion Green and Mrs. Norman F. Jenner will be the soloists.

GETTING A START

WHEN IT RAINS, LET IT RAIN.

By NATHANIEL C. FOWLER, Jr.

It was raining hard, and the wind was driving sheets of water against the window panes. The lecture room was filled. At the appointed hour the professor entered. Mounting the platform, he remarked dryly, "Gentlemen, when it rains, let it rain." Whereupon he immediately left the room.

In these few words were both a lecture and an object lesson, and the students never forgot the occurrence.

When it rains, let it rain. Why not? If it wants to rain, it will rain, and all the ingenuity of man cannot prevent the downfall. If it did not rain part of the time, the world would tire of sunshine. Contrasts are necessary to progress.

The good would not be good if it were not in competition with the bad. Continuous enjoyment breeds stagnation.

Suffering has its place, and so have worry and discouragement.

The great navigator, who, in the glory of his power, stands upon the bridge of the ocean greyhound and steers his ship through mountainous waves and the wind of the tornado, would not be happy or satisfied piloting a flat boat on a calm and placid river.

If the Road of Life were smooth and without handicaps, men would be like animals, without ambition and without incentive to master both themselves and the conditions in which they found themselves.

When it rains, let it rain. Do not be concerned in stopping the rain, but be ever anxious to meet the downpour and to devise means for protecting yourself against it.

The brave man, the man who wins in every kind of strife, does not try to get rid of trouble, but, rather, arms himself to meet it. He accepts the night as well as the day; he loves the storm as well as the calm; he uses disaster, if it must come, as an experience of extreme value in the race of his life. He has no patience with monotony. He is strenuous as well as cautious, and when he conquers trouble he is proud of his ability to win.

No success worth while ever occurred on a smooth road. Men of power reached their positions because their paths were strewn with disaster and they had opportunity to use the ability which Nature gave them and which they developed in danger as well as in safety.

When it rains, let it rain. Don't think of the wet of the rain, but concern yourself with meeting it, protecting yourself against it. Do not allow it to wet your ambition or to soak your energy.

When it rains, let it rain. When trouble comes, let it come. When disaster meets you, do not turn your back upon it, but face it like a man. If these things were not necessary for the development of the human race, the all-wise Creator would not have permitted them to exist.

Learn life's affirmatives by not avoiding its negatives. There would be no affirmative unless opposite it were a negative.

When it rains, let it rain. It will.

Your Home Needs This New Suction Sweeper

Just as the men in the office, store or factory, are surrounded by the best mechanical aids, of all kinds, so the women in the home should have at their command these helpful labor saving devices. Sweeping and cleaning is their most fatiguing and injurious work and is the only kind of labor that can not be done to her full satisfaction, without the aid of an efficient suction sweeper.

Ordinary cleaning methods remove only a small portion of the surface dirt and raise clouds of dangerous, destructive dust that poisons the air in the home and soon soils the wall coverings, draperies, furnishings, etc. Sanitation, economy and justice, demand the placing of a suction sweeper in every well regulated home.
