WATTERSON, HILL AND SILVER.

The Kentucky Editor Advises His Party and Causes a Sensation at Albany.

HE SAYS DEMOCRATS MUST STICK TO THE TARIFF ISSUE AND KEEP CLEAR OF SILVER—GOV. HILL'S FRIENDS DECLARE THAT THE KENTUCKIAN IS ENGAGED IN A PLOT.

A Louisville dispatch to the New York Herald today says: In a long editorial in the Courier-Journal Mr. Watterson protests against sending the tariff question to the rear and the advocacy of free silver by the democrats. He predicts defeat if this is done.

Mr. Watterson also says that if New York furnishes the presidential candidate she must come to the national convention united on Cleveland.

"In the midst of the rejoicing which followed the November elections and the democratic ground swell they brought us, one dissonant note was heard," says Mr. Watterson, "one discouraging word was spoken, and to this effect, that the victory was too great to last and that before the presidential campaign of 1892 we could be relied on to perpetrate some folly setting it all at naught. Four short months have passed away and already signs are not wanting that point to the verification of this sinister prophecy."

"Two points of disturbance," he continues, "are being advanced to mar our counsel. One of these relate to the renomination of Mr. Cleveland, the other to the adoption of some as yet undefined but altered policy as to silver coinage. Touching the first of these the reflection ought to lessen the anxiety of those opposed to it—that it depends largely, if not wholly, upon the action of the democrats of New York. If New York comes to the next national democratic convention resisting the nomination of Mr. Cleveland or seriously divided upon it his nomination would be suicidal. In that event the party will be compelled to quit New York altogether and to seek for a nominee elsewhere; for nothing could be more absurd than the suggestion of setting aside Mr. Cleveland and substituting Gov. Hill or any other New Yorker in his place. When we leave New York, in the interval, however, the ex-President should be treated with the respectful consideration alike commanded by his public services and the obligation we owe to the single democratic President we have had in thirty years.

MUST STICK TO TARIFF REFORM.

"Touching silver this is to be said: All of us in the west and south are bimetalists, all of us are friends of the double enemies of the single standard, all of us believe that the expanding needs of the country require and that the country will assimilate a still larger circulating medium and look largely to silver as the basis of the currency which is to succeed the retiring national bank notes, but as to conclusions, this is the extent of it. In the matter of legislative detail as the best fiscal means of reaching these ends, there is no agreement, because there has been no adequate discussion and there is no general knowledge. The people of the west and south are sorely distressed and perplexed. Twenty-five years of class distinction of the government have done their perfect work. Excessive and unjust taxation is the original, the fruitful source of our ills. We have expended ten years in getting together on this paramount issue; at last we are together. We stand upon high, upon solid ground. Victory, if not within our grasp, is yet within our sight. Is it possible that any sane democrat anywhere can believe it good or wise to abandon this position of advantage, reached after so much travel and outlay, and to advance through a mile or more of country upon the rifle pits and masked batteries of an enemy, who laughs in his sleeve as he waits to welcome us with bloody hands to hospitable graves? Thinking democrats will never consent to this, nor will they be diverted by any specious arguments born of the fears of those among us who are moved by an unwholesome terror of the alliance. The democratic party is all that stands between the people and anarchy on the one hand and oligarchism on the other. It has always shown itself equal to the emergency."

COMMENT OF HILL'S FRIENDS.

The declarations made by Mr. Watterson in the editorial referred to has, says an Albany special to the New York World today, caused a sensation in that city. "News of New York politics by way of Louisville," says the World's correspondent, has come to be looked upon of late as picturesquely inaccurate.

Gov. Hill will not speak of the matter for publication, but his intimate friends and those who are known to have his confidence do not hesitate to say that this is only another manifestation of a conspiracy by the friends of Cleveland to destroy Hill. They are now more than ever convinced that the famous Watterson letter was not only never sent to the governor but was not written until after the head of the dispatch in which it was published. The declaration in Mr. Watterson's newspaper today, following immediately after the long interview with him published this morning in the chief republican organ of this state, shows beyond a doubt, they say, that the plot is now being carried out. But they say further that it is not being carried out with skill because the various published utterances of the chief plotter are self-contradictory.

DISSECTING MR. WATTERSON'S STATEMENTS.

In support of this they quote from this morning's interview this statement by Mr. Watterson, in regard to his letter: "As the only official representative in this state (Kentucky) of the democratic party, I had a right to send it." Further on he says: "It was written after consultation with people in New York and Washington."

The facts are that Henry Watterson did not become "the only official representative of the democratic party" in Kentucky until at least two weeks after December 17, and probably not until the beginning of this year. On that date Henry D. McHenry, the state's member of the national democratic committee, died and subsequently the state committee elected Henry Watterson to take his place. It was not until he was so elected that Henry became "the only official representative of the democratic party" in Kentucky, and if he did not send his letter until he based the right of doing so upon his election he must have had the strongest reasons for knowing that the stories of fraternal harmony between Mr. Hill and Mr. Cleveland were, to say the least, greatly exaggerated. Friends of the former gentleman say that Mr. Watterson wrote the letter then in anger because of the failure of a scheme of Mr. Cleveland's followers to have it generally believed that the governor had decided to help the ex-President to a renomination and to content himself with the senatorship until 1896.

THE QUESTION OF DATE.

It is strange that this famous letter has no date. It bears no internal or external evidence to show when it was written. So the newspapers have been guessing at the probable time that Watterson believes he thought he dropped it in the mail. The New York Tribune says it was written November 2, but the mugwump Times gives it a date ten days later, as do the Albany Express, Union and Journal. The other Albany newspapers say that it was not written until November 21, so that, as a matter of fact, following the usual rules of evidence, one is forced to the conclusion that it was not written at any of those times, but after the date when Watterson says he had implied authority to write as "the only official representative" of the democracy of his state—that is, after he was elected a national committeeman by his own state committee in the last days of 1890 or the early days of 1891.

The editorial today, Gov. Hill's friends declare, completes the proof of the existence of this conspiracy. They say that so far every scheme has failed to retard the governor's progress. The stories that he has entered into an agreement with Cleveland fell flat; the letter itself has had no influence with the party, and now the alarm is to be spread that the democracy of the state is split up by the contentions of the two leaders, when every one with the least political information well knows that the party was never so united nor so strong as now.

The declaration that on account of this supposed lack of harmony Cleveland must not be nominated in 1892 is looked upon merely as the preface to more advice that Hill also must not be thought of; in fact, that both men must be declared out of the race to the end that at the last moment Cleveland must be suddenly sprung on the convention with the announcement that Gov. Hill has consented to the nomination.

INDIGNATION IN ALBANY.

There is much indignation here at the course of Mr. Watterson and he has come in for many a hearty objurgation. Many say that the plot will be further exposed in the course of a few days. It is certain that the conviction is growing here that the Watterson letter was never mailed and that a demand will be made from all parts of the country for the dates when and the names of the people with whom Mr. Watterson says he conversed on the expediency of writing the letter.

Gov. Hill feels deeply the manner in which the opposition is working against him. So far it has been entirely underground, and his mail is daily filled with letters, especially from the south, telling of similar underground wires that are being prepared. He will say nothing, however, but his friends say that he is confident that his success in solidifying the party in this state and his brilliant campaign in New England and the west last November cannot be whistled down the wind by any amount of scheming or Kentucky rhetoric.
