THE MAIL FROM HAWAII.

It Brings Tidings That Affairs on the Islands Are Quiet.

Mr. Carter, the sole representative of the Hawaiian annexation party now in Washington, had a conference with Secretary Gresham at the State Department today. He submitted copies of newspaper communications from members of the provisional government received by him last night in the mail from Hawaii. The tenor of his information was that affairs were quiet in Hawaii and that the sentiment in favor of annexation was increasing instead of diminishing, as had been represented by the royalist party. The treaty of annexation concluded with President Harrison met with special favor at Honolulu and was the sole topic of discussion among the people and in the newspapers. Mr. Carter said to a STAR reporter today that he was perfectly satisfied with the situation, and while he did not say so in so many words, intimated his belief in the final accomplishment of the mission of the annexation commission, of which he is a member.

A DISPATCH FROM MINISTER STEVENS.

Last night's mail also contained dispatches from Minister Stevens and Admiral Skerrett, commanding the naval forces at Honolulu, but nothing could be learned in regard to them beyond the diplomatic statement that they indicated "no special change in the situation in Hawaii."

AS OTHERS SEE IT.

An English Visitor Writes Enthusiastically About Washington.

It is a pleasure to note, says a London letter, that Englishmen who intend to visit Chicago will have the chance of purchasing one book which betrays nothing of the usual British prejudice or ignorance on matters American. It has nothing in common with that ridiculous pigeon-hole and spiritualistic compilation which Mr. Stead has just given to the British middle class public. It is entitled "Our American Cousins," is by W. E. Adams, and is published at Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Of Washington Mr. Adams says: "The capital of the republic is not unworthy of the great and prosperous country in which it occupies its first place. Washington is an absolute creation of the federal Congress. Other cities have grown, but Washington was made. The streets and avenues are all broad, all planted with trees and nearly all asphalted. Pennsylvania avenue seemed to me even finer than the Champs Elysees. Many of the public buildings are splendid specimens of architecture. The Capitol, however, overshadows them all. Situated on an elevation in the center of the city it commands a clean and unobstructed view on every side. Nothing can be finer than the prospect from the Capitol—the city, embosomed in trees, lying below; the broad waters of the Potomac beyond; and beyond the Potomac again the Heights of Arlington, where, around the ancestral home of the late Gen. Lee, 16,000 federal and confederate soldiers lie side by side in one common graveyard. From the Potomac, too, the city has a charming appearance, crowned as it is by the dome of the Capitol, which shines in the sun like a globe of polished silver. I have seen many of the capitals of Europe. I have seen London, Edinburgh and Dublin; I have seen Paris, Berlin and Brussels; I have seen Copenhagen, Christiania, Dresden and The Hague. But I have seen none that surpasses for effect the city of magnificent distances."

HEAVY FAILURE AT ELMIRA.

Sloat Fassett's Brother Hit Heavily, but the Ex-Senator Protected.

One of the heaviest failures Elmira, N. Y., has ever known has been that of Tompkins, Fassett & Crocker. The liabilities are variously estimated at from $200,000 to $300,000, with assets that will not reach beyond $100,000.

The firm is composed of young men. One of them, Henry L. Fassett, is a brother of ex-Senator J. Sloat Fassett. E. B. Crocker, the junior partner, is a brother of Mrs. Fassett. Ray Tompkins, the third, is a well-known young man. Ex-Senator Fassett is a heavy indorser on the firm's paper, but he is protected by two chattel mortgages aggregating $16,700, which were filed today.

About two years ago the firm erected a handsome block and were apparently sailing on the top wave of prosperity. The collapse was wholly unexpected. They have been doing business on borrowed capital to a large extent, and the discount on notes and several business losses, together with inability to collect promptly, precipitated the collapse.

Noah and His Ark Again.

To the Editor of The Evening Star:

I am usually very unwilling to appear in print with regard to statements in the daily press, but I was surprised that Mr. Dodge should assert that Noah was out only forty days in the Ark. J. H. B. is nearer the truth and I would like to call his attention to the recent work of Lieut. Totten upon the subject.

According to his calculations the saturnian ring of waters broke at 10 p.m. Saturday, the 17th day of the second lunar month (Gen. vii:11), 1656 A. M., and fell for twelve minutes and twenty-five seconds and struck the firmament at the instant of the autumnal equinox. Without alluding to the many intermediate dates, according to Genesis viii: 14, the earth was completely dried by Saturday, the 27th day of the second lunar month, 1657 A. M., and very early the next morning, the first day of the week, or Sunday, about one minute and sixteen seconds past 4 a.m., Noah and his family made their exit, the door being opened as well as closed from without. The time and event highly symbolical of that greater exit on Easter morn. Such exit, it will be observed, is eleven days over the length of year employed in the narrative in Genesis, which, being a lunar year and eleven days shorter than the solar, brings the exit at the moment of autumnal equinox and makes Noah's habitation of the ark 365¼ days, or exactly one year. S. W. TULLOCH.

Women as Bread Winners.

In New York over one hundred thousand of the sex which is "uncertain, coy and hard to please" are earning their living, and three-fifths of them support whole families. In a dry goods store recently it was decided to reduce the wages of the women in order that those of the married men might be raised; but investigation showed that the single women were supporting more people than the married men, and the proposed change did not take place.

A Bright Woman Dead.

Mary T. Seymour, a well-known business woman of New York, died yesterday of pneumonia at her home in that city. Miss Seymour first made her reputation as an expert stenographer and typewriter. Her specialty was law work. She had studied law and was one of the first women notaries in New York. About six years ago she established the Business Woman's Journal, which was devoted to all topics of interest to women, but especially to such as concerned business women. Miss Seymour was thirty-three years old and prominent in many societies.

Clemency for Carlyle Harris.

A petition praying for the clemency of Gov. Flower in the case of Carlyle Harris has been prepared and will be put in circulation in New York today. The office of Howe & Hummel will be the central distributing point for the petition, where signatures of it will be received and copies of it sent by mail to all who ask for it. It is said that many requests for the documents have already been received from non-residents of the state, but who desire to attest their belief in the innocence of Carlyle Harris.

Indians Denounce Senator Dawes.

Puyallup Indians had a war dance in their reservation the other day and denounced Senator Dawes for the bill which he had Congress pass providing for the opening of the reservation.

The terms of the bill do not suit the Indians. They declare that President Cleveland is their great white father, and that the Indians' enemies would find out that Cleveland was in again and that these foolish schemes of Dawes and his friends would be cut short and the offenders' heads cut off.

For Alumni Trustee at Cornell.

Graduates of Cornell University have the unique right to elect a member of the board of trustees each year. This year the term expires of Dr. D. E. Salmon of this city. Charles S. Francis, son of John M. Francis, publisher of the Troy Times and minister to Portugal, has been nominated. Mr. Francis was an enthusiastic oarsman, winning for Cornell the intercollegiate single-scull championship at Saratoga in 1876, making the best time on record, and gaining elsewhere victories for the Cornell navy.

The will of the late Catherine W. Myer, widow of General Myer, the father of the signal service, was filed for probate at Buffalo Monday. The estate is valued at half a million and is divided equally among the children.

PROPOSALS.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF THE District of Columbia, Washington, March 18, 1893.—Proposals for a site for the Contagious Diseases Hospital. Proposals will be received at this office until TWELVE O'CLOCK M. on the TWENTY-FIFTH DAY OF MARCH, 1893, to sell to the District of Columbia a site for a hospital for the treatment of persons suffering from contagious or infectious diseases. The appropriation limits the amount to be paid for such site to ten thousand dollars, and will not be available until July 1, 1893. A site as remote from the urban portions of the District as may be obtained with due regard to the character of access by roadway and surroundings is sought. As it is desirable to have as large an area as practicable the extent of the property will also have a material bearing in the consideration of the proposals offered. The Commissioners reserve the right to reject any and all bids or parts of bids tendered under this notice. J. W. ROSS, M. M. PARKER, W. T. ROSSELL, Commissioners, D.C. mh20-3t
