OHIO POLITICS.

Names Suggested for the Democratic Gubernatorial Nomination.

Special Correspondence of The Evening Star.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, June 15, 1893.

While from Washington comes the report that Ohio democrats there are talking of ex-Congressman Frank Hurd of Toledo, the free trade champion, as candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, a boom for John H. Farley of Cleveland is being vigorously worked in the northern part of the state. Farley was chairman of the democratic state executive committee last year and is now one of the city directors of Cleveland. He is a shrewd politician and but for the fact that he was elected state chairman by the anti-Cleveland element of the party would probably be credited with securing the practical democratic victory in this state last fall. He conducted a quiet campaign and the administration democrats claim that he took little interest in the campaign, let matters drift along as they would and that the result came in spite of the inactivity of his committee rather than as the result of his management.

For one and the same reason, however, neither Hurd nor Farley is likely to be nominated this year. They are both Catholics, or members of Catholic families, and with the present strong organization of the anti-Catholic secret society in the state for either party to nominate a person of that religion would be to invite certain defeat. No matter how this organization may be viewed the fact of its existence and its strength has been repeatedly proved in recent elections, and a prominent democratic politician here, who is himself a Catholic, said to THE STAR correspondent today that it would be sheer folly to place a Catholic at the head of the ticket. "We may deprecate the fact," said he, "but we must not ignore it."

GOV. M'KINLEY MORE POPULAR.

By the manner in which he met the question of corruption in the office of his appointee, State Shop Inspector W. Z. McDonald, Gov. McKinley has no doubt increased his strength with the people of the state. He refused to accept McDonald's resignation, even after he had restored to the treasury the $4,661.31 which the investigation showed had been unlawfully taken from it, and removed him from office, saying in his letter that he did so because on investigation he was "convinced that he (McDonald) had used the office corruptly."

The Foraker faction seems to be losing strength rapidly, if the part they took in the state convention last week may be taken as an indication. Before the convention they claimed that they would secure a majority of the new state central committee and thus have charge of the campaign, but it turned out that the state administration, Gov. McKinley and his friends, secured fifteen out of the twenty-one members, and easily control the campaign committee. It is understood from this that Maj. C. W. F. Dick of Akron and John R. Malloy of this city, chairman and secretary respectively of the executive committee last year, will again be chosen to conduct the campaign this year.

Captain J. C. Donaldson, who always represents Senator Sherman here when the Senator cannot come in person to attend to political matters, has been here since before the convention and will probably remain away from Washington until after the campaign committee is organized.

FORAKER MEN PREDICTING DEFEAT.

Some of the more radical Foraker republicans are predicting the deafeat of Gov. McKinley. Ex-Senator A. D. Fassett of Toledo, who was state labor commissioner under Gov. Foraker, said to THE STAR correspondent last week that he did not see how it would be possible to elect him, and W. S. Cappeller of Mansfield, Foraker's railway commissioner, has been known to express the same views of the case.

An important meeting of the town council was held on Wednesday night. The annual report of the financial transactions of the town was submitted by the clerk, Geo. W. At 12 m. the conference will take a recess, during which a collation will be served on the lawn at the residence of Mr. A. P. Eastman. The afternoon session will be taken up with devotional services, the administering of the Lord's supper and discussion of church topics. At night the new pastor, Rev. J. H. Jenkins, will be installed with appropriate ceremonies, the installation sermon being preached by Rev. S. M. Newman, D.D., of the First Church, Washington. Rev. Edward A. Lawrence of Baltimore will deliver the charge to the pastor. The exercises will be in charge of Messrs. G. A. L. Merrifield, W. W. Kinsley and George F. Rollins. Each church in the conference is entitled to representation in the council by pastor, assistant pastor and one delegate. Among other prominent ministers from a distance other than those mentioned who will be present are Rev. T. W. Jones, D.D., of Philadelphia, superintendent of the Home Missionary Society; Rev. J. T. Root of Baltimore, Rev. J. K. Mason of Readon, Rev. C. H. Small, Rev. B. H. Seymour and Rev. S. M. Brown of Washington, who will take part in the exercises.

Cannot Build Composite Gunboats.

The Attorney General has dashed the hopes of the construction corps of the navy by ruling that the department cannot build the new gunboats of composite type. The question was submitted to him by Secretary Herbert whether he could lawfully contract for the construction of one or more of the light-draught gunboats authorized by the act of March 3, 1893, on what is called the composite plan, the hull frames being of steel covered by wood planking and sheathed with copper.

The Attorney General says: "In my judgment the act contemplates the construction of light-draught protected gunboats of steel and does not authorize the building of such gunboats of the composite plan."

So it appears that the new boats will have to be built of steel throughout and without sheathing to protect them from the growth of marine vegetation, which involves frequent docking at great expense. The decision, however, will not delay the completion of the plans for the boats to any considerable extent, for the construction bureau had already prepared rough designs for vessels of all-steel type to meet the contingency.

Through Green Fields to Bay Ridge.

Trains leave Baltimore and Ohio station week days at 9:15 a. m., 1:30 and 4:28 p. m. Sundays at 9:35 a. m., 1:30 and 3:15 p. m. Round trip $1.—Adv.
