COMMUNITY BOARD ASKS LABOR TO STICK TO JOBS

Editor of the Labor World] .
 In France an efficient fighting force, inside of six months the government is going to have a greater need of men to fill the ranks of its army of labor, for it is an essential part of the army, than it is to fill the ranks of the army itself.
 With this prospect in view, I want to send this message to the laboring men, both skilled and unskilled, in this vicinity: Stick to your job until some one in authority notifies you that you are needed more in some other place. The men at Washington know where you are needed most. If there is need for you in the trenches they can be depended upon to call you out. If they do not do so, you are performing a better and more patriotic service by remaining where you are. So long as you are engaged in increasing the production capacity of the country, you are not "slackers," but are a most vital and efficient part of the army itself, and if you are real patriots you will not surrender to, or be disturbed by, epithets, uttered by unthinking overzealous sentimentalists.

 Chairman Local Community Board.

CARSS' STRENGTH GROWS;
 LABOR WILL SUPPORT HIM

Union Labor Candidate For Congress Makes Big Hit At Virginia Meeting.

W. L. CARSS.

The splendid response that organized labor is giving to the candidacy of W. L. Carss for congress is well illustrated in the reception given him at Virginia last Sunday, when he addressed three meetings of unions in that city.
 With but a few hours' announcement of his arrival, invitations were extended to have him appear before the Maintenance of Way Employees' union, the Locomotive Firemen's division, consisting of men employed on engines operating in the range mines and before the Timber Workers' union which is being organized by the State Federation of Labor. At all of these meetings Mr. Carss received a splendid reception and delivered an impressive talk, urging labor to continue its hearty support of America in the war as well as to help blaze the way for a larger and grander world democracy when the war is over.
 Mr. Carss was cordially introduced at each meeting by President E. G. Hall of the State Federation of Labor, who urged the members present to vote 100 per cent strong for organized labor's candidate for congress in the coming election.
 Following the meetings an informal meeting was held with a number of the members of organized labor in the city of Virginia at which it was decided to hold a mass meeting for union men and their friends at Odd Fellows' hall next Sunday, at which time Mr. Carss would be the principal speaker. A number of other members of organized labor are also scheduled to address the meeting in furtherance of his candidacy.
 The union men of the village of Proctor held a large and enthusiastic meeting at that place last Thursday evening, while the union men of Two Harbors are getting up two meetings for Mr. Carss on Sunday, Sept. 1. One of these is expected to be for the railroad brotherhood members, while the other will be open to the general public.
 The circular letter sent out asking for contributions for the campaign funds of the campaign committee are being acted on by the unions and a number of favorable replies have already been received by the secretary. Others are expected as the unions only lack of sufficient funds can defeat labor's candidate at this election and every member of organized labor is urged to get in the game with a little contribution. If your union has not come through with a donation as yet, you should attend the next meeting and see that favorable action is taken. Organized workers should be able to contribute at least $1 per capita for this work and some have contributed as high as $7.
 Literature is being prepared by the committee, cards are being sent out, petitions are already being signed and in a very short period the campaign will be in full swing all over the district.

WOLFE ACCEPTS LABOR DAY CALL

National Labor Speaker Will Address Duluth People on Labor Day.

Frank E. Wolfe, the Labor day speaker for Duluth, is said to be one of the best orators in the labor movement. He is a member of the executive board of the Commercial Telegraphers' union and a personal friend of President Gompers.
 Robert Matesel, director of the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy, in a letter to the Labor day committee refers in glowing terms to Mr. Wolfe and praises him very highly. He states that Mr. Wolfe is a national speaker and is qualified to speak on labor and the war.
 Mr. Wolfe, in a letter to the Labor World, states that he will arrive here Sunday evening on the Twilight Limited from St. Paul. His home is in Chicago and he is associated with Clarence Darrow in much of his labor work.
 The speech will be delivered from the speaker's stand at Fairmount park early in the afternoon. If the weather is favorable it is expected that at least 10,000 people will attend the celebration.

MUST OVERCOME LABOR SHORTAGE

Duluth Employers Called Upon to Distribute Workers From Non-Essential Plants.

Labor shortage to the extent of 1,000,000 men in American war industries, and the consequent necessity of transferring men from nonessential employments to those auxiliary to the war, formed the topic of an address by Eugen V. Koch, director of the United States Employment bureau for Minnesota, Tuesday evening at the Commercial club. The speaker stressed the need of co-operation between employer and bureau as well as between employe and bureau. He directed attention to the seven points to be considered in the government plan of employment service: That the government war industries are in need of men; that there must be an equal division of the sources of supply of these men; that the plan is not compulsory on workmen; that as only fit men are wanted in war industries it is the duty of nonessential war industries to train unskilled labor for skilled work; that no labor will be taken from war industries, railroads or farms; that the government must have accurate information concerning the demands in the various sections of the country, and that the man and the job must be kept as close to the same part of the country as possible.
 Employment of Women.
 Mr. Koch also touched on the employment of women, saying that in this state alone employment of women had increased over 200 per cent during the first year of the war. In many parts of the country they are being used to drive five-ton trucks. He advocated the employment of boys over 16 in factory work, and insisted that the factories should train them, even though the war industries should claim them later.
 In discussing wages, he said that that question was being settled by the war labor policies board in Washington. The employment of men in war industries work by nonessential plants through inducement of wages or by advertising he declared prohibited. By essential industries are meant those which contribute directly to the winning of the war, and in Minnesota they are principally mining, lumbering and railroading.
 Other speakers last evening were L. C. Harris, chairman of the local advisory board; O. P. Briggs of Minneapolis and J. R. McGiffert and W. J. Dutcher of the Duluth advisory committee.
