LEGISLATIVE WORK.

Proposition as to How Senators Shall Be Voted For.

THE FEE BILL HOBS UP AGAIN.

Memorial to Congress Asking for the Annexation of Certain Lands Near the Arizona Line.

The State Senate was called to order at 2 p. m. today. Prayer was offered by Senator Cardland after which half an hour was spent in disposing of the minutes of yesterday's session. After the reading of two or three unimportant communications from the House, the business of the day was proceeded with.

Sutherland offered the following to Senate joint resolution No. 2, which was referred to a special committee consisting of Senators Sutherland, Booth and Howe:

Joint resolution of the Senate and House of Representatives of the first Legislature of the State of Utah relating to the manner of voting for United States Senators.

Whereas, no provision has been made by act of Congress or by the Constitution of the state, as to whether the vote shall be for two United States senators at the same time or first on one one and then for the second, now, therefore, to prevent any confusion in the matter of taking the vote and in determining the choice of the members of the Legislature,

Be it resolved, That at the day and hour specified in the act of Congress, the second Tuesday after the organization of the Legislature, Jan. 21, 1895, the secretary of each house shall call the roll, and each member shall, by viva voce vote, cast his two votes for senators in Congress from the State of Utah. And in case no person receives a majority of all the votes of each house on the first day, then when both houses meet in joint assembly, the vote shall be taken in the manner, each member casting two persons for nominee until one or both shall be elected as provided by act of Congress.

The fee bill which has, up to date, caused more discussion, perhaps, than all others, came up on third reading and was again the signal for debate.

Senator Alcorn said that he was opposed to the passage of the bill without it first having been referred to a committee. The fee system had been in vogue in Utah ever since the organic act of the Territory was passed forty-six years ago. He was at a loss to understand why a measure that had been in effect so long should be set aside within two or three days after statehood. Officers had been elected all over Utah with the distinct understanding that they would be entitled to fees. He was in favor of the bill under discussion but didn't want it passed so soon.

Sutherland said he was entirely at a loss to understand why there was any opposition to the bill in question. There was ample provision for the payment of officers temporarily. To this view Senator Booth refused to concur and made an argument against it.

Senator Jones took the position that the Senate could not afford to pass a measure where the question of constitutional construction was involved. He believed the argument of Senator Allison was unanswerable. The bill should be referred to a committee for amendment.

Senator Cardland moved that the bill be referred to a "proper committee."

The case was still undisposed of when the NEWS report closed.

House Proceedings.

The House met in regular session this afternoon, being called to order at 2:15 by Speaker Denny, after which prayer was offered by Cephisa Lyman.

The minutes of yesterday's session were read and approved, when the reports of standing committees were called for.

The committee on Memorials reported having made two minor amendments to H. J. M. No. 1, which report was adopted.

The enrollment committee reported that H. B. No. 1 had been passed by the Senate and forwarded to the Governor for his approval. H. C. R. No. 4 had also been submitted to the Governor.

An invitation, signed by F. W. Mossell, superintendent of the school for the deaf, asking the members of the House to visit that institution on Friday evening, January 11th, was read.

ANNEXATION MEMORIAL.

Mr. Robinson, of Kane county, then presented the following memorial to Congress:

To the Congress of the United States:

Your memorialists, the Governor and Legislature of the State of Utah, would respectfully represent to your honorable body:

That those portions of Coconino and Mohave counties of Arizona Territory lying north of the Colorado river should properly belong to Utah for three reasons:

First—The Colorado river forms an impassable barrier between said portions of Coconino and Mohave counties and the main bodies of said counties and Arizona.

Second—The residents of said portions of Arizona herewith attach a petition asking for said annexation to Utah, because all their interests are in common with the people of Utah, being cut off from communication with the territory and courts of Arizona, except by a far, circuitous route through a wild and rough country, secluded by the Navajo and Apache Indians. That they live within four miles of Utah and derive her protection, as they receive none from Arizona.

Third—That the big payers of said taxes, who are prejudiced to Utah herewith attach a petition asking for said annexation for the reason that said lands are sparsely settled and are unprofitable for irrigation and suitable only for grazing purposes. That the lands and flocks thereon are owned in Utah. That owing to the wildness of said lands, it has become a place of refuge for desperate and lawless men. That Arizona affords the stock owners no protection and that the decree of their supreme court prohibiting of said lawless outlaws, has devolved upon Utah, to the detriment of those counties adjoining said territory and that they should have the benefits arising from the funds derived from taxation.

We therefore earnestly ask that those portions of Coconino and Mohave counties north of the Colorado river be attached to and made a part of the state of Utah and that the Colorado river be the dividing line.

The petition attached, referred to in the memorial, contained the signatures of thirty-six citizens residing in the portions of country referred to.

MAY RESTORE HIS WINGS.

Rumors With Reference to the Erstwhile Presidential Power of Cornelisan Newell.

The meeting of the City Council occurs tonight and if what members of that important municipal body stated in the corridors of the joint building this afternoon is to be relied upon the session will have a bigger temperature when taken any of the decidedly tropical ones that have preceded it. Just what will occur cannot be ascertained upon the theory but one story is that the power to appoint officers which was taken away from President Newell will be restored unless the "right thing is done" in the naming of committees. As an effect it is said it was stated with equal emphasis that Councilman Newell, public to the demands of his party colleagues would resign the presidency altogether, being their conclusion that he was "outrageously insulted" when deprived of powers that have heretofore always belonged to the office to which he was elevated. In the event that President Newell should do what his party associates hope he does O'Meara will again become a candidate for the office.

Supreme Court Library.

The Supreme Court library, including books, documents and furniture, was moved from the Dooly block to the joint building today.

Clothes Line Stripped.

Mrs. O. D. Ramsey's clothes line, corner of D and Third streets, was robbed early this morning, a considerable quantity of clothing being carried off. The thief went back the clothes pole.

For An Administrator.

The estate in question is composed of $275 in money in the National Bank of the Republic. The hearing on letters of administration was set for the 25th inst.

Hearing of Cases.

Beginning tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, Judge LeGrand Young will commence the hearing of equity cases while Judges Hiles and Howat will take up the law and motion calendar. The prospects are that from this time forth the court machinery will run continuously.

Quiet at the Sheriff's Office.

Inquiry at the office of Sheriff Hardy today for some matter of public importance, resulted as all such queries have at late, in the answer that there was "nothing going on." Mr. Clark, the sheriff's right hand man, however, intimated that there will be plenty of business just as soon as the courts get down to business again.

Question of Jurisdiction.

Only one case was set for hearing in the probate court this week. It was in the estate of Morris Goldberg, deceased. The expectation was to have the matter disposed of last week but it went over until 10 a.m. today. At that hour another postponement was announced pending a determination of the question of Judge McNally having jurisdiction. It is not certain now just when the case will be heard.

AMUSEMENTS.

Commencement of the 1492 Engagement at the Theater—At the Other Play Houses.

It is no exaggeration to say the entertainment at the Theater last night was one of the best offered by the managers during the season, so far, and yet that is saying a good deal, considering the excellent attractions that have succeeded one another during the fall and winter. In 1492 a piece is presented which, notwithstanding its light character, captivates all on account of the artistic skill with which its component parts have been arranged. It is no wonder that it has had a long and profitable career. It is one of the few pieces which one can see several times with pleasure, just as the beauties of nature are ever new, though familiar. It presents such a bewilderment of pleasant features that to realize a material image of it all from one performance is hardly possible.

In 1492 Columbus, after a pretty little courtship, is sent out to discover the new world. He has a wonderful crew with him and discovers wonderful things, the lines bringing together and completely mixing up 15th and 19th century characters. It can therefore not be called surprising to see in the last act a whole royal family in the kitchen, the Spanish King of long ago feeding Tilly and his queen handling over a modern wash tub.

Among the numerous high class series of the company two stand out most prominently. Mr. Harlow and Miss Essie Schmidt. Her difficult to decide to whom of the two to give the laurel. Mr. Harlow as Isabella, queen of Spain, is a novelty. It would be hard to believe that not the sex, but even the age of the character, had been changed, that such an imitation of feminine grace could be possible by one at the opposite sex their appeared with such marked beauty. In other surprise equally great is Miss Schmidt's impersonations of various male figures. She equivalent the authors conceptions. Her manly bearing, her speech, suffered from a severe cold which caused medical men to shake their heads significantly. Miss Schmidt's exhibition was certainly more beautiful as a man than Mr. Harlow as a woman, but both gained their artistic abilities.

Neal, Mr. Snow as the New York tramp musical comedienne. He sings the ballad in a style of inimitable laughter and was recalled again and again until he had to ask to be excused.

There were numerous other features. The newsboys' brigade was particularly taking. It was realistic to the highest degree and the young pieces were received with enthusiastic appreciation, as were the performances of the dancing dozenne, Florentie. The whole show is worth nearly all of more than ordinary merit.

The piece will be presented again tonight and tomorrow evening, and will undoubtedly fill the Theater again to its utmost capacity.

MAY IRWIN.

May Irwin, be a the brightest of comedienne, well known and well liked by [illegible] and a special favorite with California theatergoers, appeared in the Widow Jones when come to the Theater on Friday and Saturday next. Miss Irwin's reputation is widespread, and her capacity for making her audience, and her magnetic personality are part of the history of the comedy stage. It may be mentioned that Miss Irwin has indeed in the Widow Jones two Gilbert outlined The new Baby and I Want Yer, Mr. Haney, which are said to have created in the East and San Francisco, something like a vocal epidemic. May Irwin will be surrounded by a company which includes John C. Rice, Jacques Kruger, Joseph McKenna, George H. Batson, Roland Carter, Richard J. Jones, Ada Lewis, Anne Sutherland, Belle Cohan, Katherine Warren, Lillian Herlein, Agnes Milton, Mabel Power and Margery Tait.

AT THE GRAND.

Queens was presented to an average Sire night house last night. The play is from the pen of the author of Lyrtwood, E. H. Tellstone. It is a strong play somewhat after the style of Monte, and Young Mrs. Winthrop, and deals with a young American girl who secretly marries a titled Englishman who is uncanny called home on account of his father's illness. Queens imagining herself deserted causes the report of her death to be circulated. The second act after an elapse of six years opens on a reception at the Attrilean embassy in Paris where Queens, who has become an operatic tenette, meets her now blind husband. Act two and three are replete with emotional scenes which finally terminate in a mutual affair in the last act. Wm. Inscroll as Lord Huntington gives a finished interpretation which may be ranked with the best efforts of the season. Clarence St. Claire in the hands of Walter Edwards, was a good sketch not calculated to arouse any sympathies. Miss Ida Hilgard, Miss Warren started those who are familiar with her capabilities, by her portrayal of Queens especially in the second and third acts. She was enthusiastically received. She is endowed with a charming individuality at the same time each week developes talent that is surprising in a young actress. Hugh Ward and Miss Cook were assigned the task of relieving the tension by a jubilee introduction of Lizzie Comedy element, which they did well. Within the defined limits, and Florence Fletcher a spritlye splasier lady, is matched against a formidable match. Harry Hathaway's Frank Hartlor varied from acceptable to fair acting in the last act he was somewhat stiffy on his lines. William Tucker as the Earl of Chandos made the most of a part that is not so little. The remainder of the cast was portrayed by Alice Carter as Mrs. Montrose, and Irving Jacobs Conrad as Queens's child, Mr. Edesson and Mrs. Jones do not appear this week. Queens is a style of play made popular by the present Grand Stock company and goes for the balance of the week.

AT THE LYCEUM.

Uncle Tom's Cabin is the attraction at the Lyceum this week. It drew a fair house last night, and was played well. Miss Lytton as Topsy created a fine impression. Miss Bissell as Eva was exceptionally good, and Mr. Hayes filled the role of Uncle Tom in his usually excellent style. The play is being played large audiences during the week.

TRADING QUITE BRISK.

The Men in the Pit of the Stock Exchange Made Active Today—Deals in Little Pittsburg Stock.

Trading in the pit of the Salt Lake mining stock exchange was quite active today and holding on the favorite of unlisted stocks—Little Pittsburg—was marked with a good degree of excitement.
