ORPHEUM.

The week of July 25 will be known as "Knights of Columbus Week" and the receipts derived from the play "Peg O' My Heart" will be used toward the building of a new home for this organization. During the week the popular Orpheum players will present at the Orpheum theater J. Hartley Manner's comedy of youth, "Peg O' My Heart." When Mr. Manner first wrote "Peg O' My Heart," he had some difficulty in finding a manager willing to produce it. Mr. Moroso, a westerner in New York, Manhattan outlook on life, discovered that the play was "different"—that it was without discussion of the social evil, and the everlasting revamping of capital and labor, and likewise eliminates all references to the sexual sin, from all of which material for plays had been drawn to the great extent of late.

"Peg" is a selfish little human being with a child's outlook on life and a child's naive ways. The story concerns a little Irish girl brought up by her father in poverty and suddenly introduced into a family of aristocratic relatives in England. Her appearance shocks her high born relatives, and her unfamiliarity of ways of the aristocracy leads to many humorous situations.

The play is brimful of clever wit and humor interwoven with a thread of love and action. The management have mounted the production in lavish style and Director Sterrett has been very careful as to detail. All the favorites of the Orpheum players including Leona Powers, Minor Watson, James J. Hayden, Ruth Lee, Joseph Destefani, Jane Gilroy, Helen Keers, Donald MacMillan, and Lee Sterrett are all congenially cast.
