MUSIC AND DRAMA

The work in theatrical circles has been without particular incident. The Theater has been dark with the exception of the six night engagement of Hilliard Bond in The Professor, last week, strong. The Island has been still mostly peopled. Continuous and the Lyceum has seemed somewhat of a success in the presentation of Uncle Fife is virtually the last act of the season and it must be an extraordinary attraction that will serve to bring the people out to the theaters. A general drive or bicycle ride in the moonlight these essential evenings has a strong hold to resist and the theaters suffer in consequence. With the coming of the warm weather, theater patrons and all others who can afford it, do themselves to the lake resorts and bathes in the enjoyment of fresh air, and not until the chill of the fall winds are felt and the leaves of the trees are turned upon the ground, do they think of returning to parlor and theatrical entertainments. Some of the greatest attractions of both Europe and America will be seen here next season and the Salt Lake playgoing public will be favored to their hearts content.

Camille at the Grand.

Camille will be the bill at the Grand next week, and the company are making extra efforts to give it a production worthy of the successful season, that is said to have to an end. Dumas' great play, is full of heart interest, giving opportunity to almost every one in the cast to do something well. Well known and heavy stands as one of the plays that live, and which can always find a friendly hearing, by intelligent people. Miss Kendark will play Camille, Mr. Charles Bricker, who will make his first bow to a Grand audience Monday, will be the Armand and Mr. Cook will have a good opportunity in Baron Duvernoy. Mr. Blakeslee, to whom most of the comedy falls, will play Gaston, Mlle Trixie Nadette and Miss Henry Nanier, Mr. Gorse will be the DeVarville, Mr. Lorraine Barrett and Mr. King the elder Duval.

The Lyceum.

The curiosity attending the initial score of the farce comedy Uncle Fife at the Lyceum has determined the management of the house to present for next week's bill another well known farce comedy—Two of a Kind. The cast is given below:

Baron Rudolphus	Joe E. Post
Lieutenant Count Adolphus Von Stolzenberg	Julian Walker
Lieutenant Count Ernest Von Stolzenberg	Fred Lennox
Jack Ashton	Harry Grant
Jack Wilde	Max Ehrman
Mr. Ed Green	Willis Bond
Mr. Tom Green	Charles Bond
Mr. Harry Green	Jay Taylor
Mr. Bob Green	Charles Bond
Mr. Sight-Seer	Frank Bond

Lowlight Fashion.

At the matinee to be given by Miss Charlotte Tittell at Unity Hall next evening, a choice array of talent will be seen and heard, including Miss Nora Anderson Gemmell, Miss Jessie Kennedy, Miss Sybil Anderson, Miss Hazel Eldridge, Miss Lorine Levy and others.

A recent arrival from Salt Lake is reported as being anxious to secure the Grand Street theater for the summer and put in a stock company recently playing in the City of Saints—Music and Drama. This must be Mr. Sheldon who is trying the most backing Mr. Brigham Royce's company which includes Jessie Kennedy and her husband, Chas. Lothian, Sarah Truax, Helen Henry, Blakemore, King and others of the Grand stock company.

Sarah Bernhardt was kicked from her wheel by another wheelwoman in Chicago, and came near being run over.

Handel was a monstrous eater, particularly of veal steak pie. One of these pies weighed from two to three pounds, and the conqueror of the "Messiah" would often consume a whole pie at a sitting.

It is announced that the distinguished English dramatic critic, Clement Scott, has written a one-act drama, having for its subject a phase of life in Middlesbrough.

Agnes Booth, Helen Modjeska, Mrs. John Drew and Clara Morris started out as ballet dancers.

Barton is now sixty-four years old, wrinkled and bald pate, but in his sinistic step and brilliant eye as youthful as a boy. He is said to have earned $1,000,000 from his plays.

Ada Rehan has a summer house in Cumberland, England, on the Irish sea, and she will pass her vacation there this year.

Diary book says that he should be passed down to history as the original third man of the heller in Evangeline. He was Mr. Jefferson and Richard Golden was the blind man.

The Heavenly Twins, a dramatization of the popular novel, will shortly be produced in London.

The Dramatic Mirror says, "Henry E. Dixey's right name is Dixon." His father and mother were Mr. and Mrs. Litchfield, and before Harry was born he or she was named William. How we have gotten received.

Henry S. Alward, who was two years business manager of the New Park, will assume the same duties Alex Salvini's continuous tours of Maurice, Uncle and Daniel Frohman.

Miss Ellen Terry has bought from Mr. Rose Wagner the English rights to his one-act play, Austria Dove, in which he and Mrs. Wagner have been appearing all this season. Leaves for Fair Virginia. As this will be the first American play in which Miss Terry will appear and that Mr. Irving will appear, in its production it will be a great triumph for the young American actor and dramatist.

Manager Leonard Grover's son, William L., resides in a cottage at the Montauk theater in Brooklyn, with which he is connected, which cost $1,000 in the bank account.

The bill of the star cast at The Rivals scene is to Julie Marlowe, according to the Eastern papers.

Miss Hilda N. Clark has been engaged as prima donna for the Bancroft opera company. She is the Richard who was engagement as the Princess Bonnie in the play of that name, and formerly was the soprano in Mr. Clark's church.

Lily Langtry has become a permanent tenant, she received $5,000 from the Bank of England for storing her jewels in its care a large crowd immediately commenced to photograph. She is known among the bobbies as "Mr. Jones."

The sum total of American cash taken away during the past season by Irving, Henry Irving, Duse, Salvini and other foreign stars would fill an into the millions. If they were to pay in silver, five million would prove to be a political question and become a necessity. So says an exchange.

The celebrated Odessa prima donna, Mme. Lydia Lemnitz, will give a series of recitals in this country next season, when she will have the assistance of Harry Sherbrooke, L. Hermann. It was believed at one time that Mme. Lehmann would have as a member of Mme. Abbey and Grau's opera company, but their abandonment of the opera has made this idea impossible.

Lost in Siberia is the title of a big scenic production which Thomas H. Davis and William T. Newell are planning for the season of 1896-7. The play will depict Siberia in its active life today, and among other interesting things will show the new Siberian railway across Siberia. The author is a prominent newspaper man, who is already in Siberia obtaining data for the locations and sketches of the scenes to be represented. He also intends to write a book giving an account of his travels and observations.

Good by Magnetic Music.

The Parisians will be relating soon to their doctors of a patient who was recommended to go to Mont Genevre, and to go near the orchestra of the immortal. The doctor accompanied his patient and sat beside him. All of a sudden, we will the latter sprang to the musicians was at the house, but not just found he could hear. "I can," he almost shrieked, "I can hear!" The doctor took his patient, "I hell you, friend," repeated the man in ecstasy, "you have saved me. I have recovered my hearing." Both the doctor was cured. He had become deaf himself.

If Utah Should Secede.

"Never, never on earth," says Cutre, "should a woman show sure enough to be business and right upon the stage with his wife. If hate his wife enough attitude she is all for her, proprietor his feelings. It moves him an object of jealousy, whether he sees it, or not. If then, why should he permit his wife to gain her own money? If poor, should the worse, she is on the stage supporting herself is an sole of trying pantomime to make money for him. Give up. Bad degrading, immoral. I could not play it married. Besides, a woman who loves right cannot give the necessary attention to stage life."

To Be Feted by Kendry.

Stanley Morris and Hilary Bell's drama of New York life, The Social Trust, will be produced by the Fanny Stock company in San Francisco about the middle of July. Manager Frawley will put it on in San Francisco including Frank Worthing, T. D. Frawley, Maurice Armanie, George Osborne, Maxine Elliott, Blanche Bates and Joyce Rose, besides one of the most popular leading men now on the stage, whose engagement will be announced later. Mr. Morris, who comes with Stay Irwin next season, has almost completed a new comedy which will have a production next fall.

Sarkey's Has a New Play.

Allen Lanegan has accepted a Southern pastoral comedy from the pen of Robert Drouet, entitled Col. Bob, and will give it the initial production at Hooley's theater, Chicago, early next November. Mr. Lanegan says he has an idea Southern gentleman, a man of the world—in a congenial way, and he expects to make a success with it. The play is said to possess exceptional merit.

The salary list of the great company playing The Rivals is said to be $13,750 per week, and Brooks and Jefferson, whose vacation it is, are confident that thirty-two performances will give them a clear profit of $20,000.

West Side Dramatic Company.

The West Side Dramatic and Literary company gave a creditable presentation of the Sweet temperance drama Broken Promises, in the Fifth ward meeting house last evening. The house was well filled and the players acquitted themselves in a creditable manner satisfactorily to those in attendance. Tonight the performance will be repeated and the young equipment for dramatic honors will bring their season's work to an end. The company is made up of young people of the ward and during the winter months they have given quite a number of such entertainments all of which have been marked with a good degree of success.

At the Union Hall.

The Thespian association of this city will appear at the Union Hall next Thursday evening, June 4, when they will present a comedy in two acts entitled A Naval Engagement. This will be followed by the rendition of an old, exceedingly amusing and comic and character sketch, entitled which the extremely laughable farce, Turn Him Out will bring the evening's entertainment to a close.
