strength is found to give the electoral votes of those states to the silver association.

Prof. P. A. Walker of the Boston School of Technology—"The union of international timetables is the means of civilization. The monometallization of silver was, in the first instance, a disastrous mistake, and every step taken in that direction has brought fresh evils."

W. H. Grenfell, ex-Governor of the Bank of England—"The fight against falling prices and stock depreciation is an impossible one. Men are holding on in hopes of better times, but the better times can come in good countries where gold appreciates. The pitiable array of the unemployed must increase therefore so long as gold is dear."

Assistant County Attorney Harrington says a great many of his friends, notably those living in Sanpete county and the south, are urging him to accept a congressional nomination on the Republican ticket. Mr. Harrington is of two minds as to acceptance of such a nomination if offered him with enough encouragement to warrant a very shorty.

MINOR MENTION.

L. U. Culbeth filed his bond today as chairman of board of public works at $15,000, with Allen G. Campbell and George M. Hunt as his sureties.

The preliminary hearing of Joseph W. Fermont, who shot his wife on Wednesday night, will take place before Justice Wagner on Monday next. Meanwhile the defendant languishes in the county jail, being unable to furnish $2,000 bonds.

The board of education for the first time in its history adjourned last night without a quorum. The members present were Doty, Cotton, Hanser, Alf and Westerfelt. The adjournment was until this evening, at which time the list of teachers employed for the coming school year will be given out.

Mr. J. Stanley Anderson of this city, in the employ of F. W. Hatch, failed to materialize at his post of duty yesterday morning, but this morning he made his appearance with broad smiles on his face. Asa reason for not presenting himself yesterday, he stated that his wife had presented him with an eight-pound baby boy.

Where Are the Children?

Chief of Police Pratt received the following letter lately from the Val. Blatz Brewing company, Kansas City, Mo:

Dear Sir—One of our employes named Peter Dale died a few days ago. We are desirous to know anything about the relatives, but letter addressed to his trunk in Ogden there were some children of his living in your city about three years ago. Mr. Dale declined to say anything about family affairs, consequently we are at a loss to know to whom we can send his effects. Will you kindly make such inquiries as you consider advisable and let us know the result.

The letters we referred to were written about three years ago from Idaho Falls, Idaho, by his wife, and among other things says that the children were both at Salt Lake City, Utah, and was nearly blind, and that she had neither "money nor clothes to go to her darlings." Mrs. Dale, we understand, is dead, and as there is a small sum of money here, it would be doubtful if very welcome to the children.

If you can possibly give us any information concerning the children, we would appreciate it very much.

Relief Society at Saltair.

The Relief Society excursion to Saltair yesterday afternoon, though not as largely attended as it would have been in fine weather, was nevertheless one of the most pleasant events which has been witnessed at the beach this season. Five thousand or more persons present enjoyed themselves thoroughly. The program was specially interesting, and its rendition was in all a success, when Counselor John Q. Cannon called the audience to order. Prayer was offered by Zina D. H. Young after which Governor Wells in a selection and appropriate address. The chief executive of the State was followed by Senator Cannon who paid a beautiful tribute to the Pioneer women of Utah and their worthy successors, the women of the present day.

Counselor John Q. Cannon read several letters written especially for the occasion by ladies who found it impossible to be present. Among the letters were those of W. C. Dunbar, rendered a feature of pleasing selections and Mrs. McFarlane gave a very interesting recitation.

HUTCHERSON DISCHARGED.

He is Not Going Now Who Sets Him Down as Guilty of $500.

On Saturday last Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fabian of Bingham went out to Garfield Beach to enjoy a plunge in the lake. When they arrived at the bath-rooms to which they had been assigned, Mrs. Fabian called her husband's attention to the fact that she had forgotten to deposit her diamond ring and earrings at the office before leaving the pavilion, whereupon her husband said that he would take them and place them in the safe-deposit of his hat, which he did.

When they had donned their bathing suits, they left the bath-house and went into the lake, remaining there for some time, after which they returned, when to their great astonishment and regret they found that the lady's diamond valued at $500 had been stolen, by whom they knew not.

Mr. Fabian kept the matter as much of a secret as possible, but when he arrived in town, he quietly reported the loss to the police officers, with the result that they set to work on the case at once. They had very little show upon which to work but they used their utmost endeavor to land the culprit in jail and this they finally succeeded in doing.

Yesterday the officers learned that the disappointment was in Ogden and they quickly communicated the information to the Junction city authorities with the result that word came from there last evening that he had been arrested while attempting to dispose of the stolen stone near the residence of Mr. Fabian's father.

Detective Sheets immediately took the train for the Junction City and arrived on the accompanying train with a young man named Harry Hutcherson in charge. The prisoner was about 18 years of age and has in his possession the diamond earrings and a ticket on Friday, the Salt Lake pawnbroker, stating that the ring had been pawned there for $5.

Detective Sheets visited Mr. Fabian's establishment today and recovered the ring, which the latter says the boy left with him yesterday, when he came in and asked for the loan of $5 on it until Saturday. Mr. Fabian thought the boy all right and gave him the money, thinking that he would certainly return for such a valuable piece of jewelry.

Young Hutcherson has lived with his parents in this city for a period of three years. He has been working at late for the Union Pacific company under the direction of J. H. Young. It appears that he happened to be out at the beach last Saturday and had a bath-room next to the Fabians. He heard the conversation that passed between them regarding the jewels and thought that it would be a splendid opportunity to "fly his kite." He did so and the aforementioned is the result.

The boy was very penitent when arrested and to Chief Pratt the latter stated he related his whole story. He said that after he had taken the jewelry he was prompted to return it, but was afraid to do so lest he might be dealt harshly with. It was the first offense of the kind he had ever committed and his promises faithfully that it would be the last.

Inasmuch as Mr. Fabian had recovered the stolen articles and the boy felt extremely sorry and penitent for what he had done, he was given his freedom this afternoon, with the understanding, however, that if ever found committing such thieving acts again, he would be handled to the fullest extent of the law.

Defends "Schooner Jim."

To the Editor:

In your issue of last evening I see that "Schooner Jim" was run in as a vagrant. To my mind the police might be better employed than interfering with your Jim, lying and fomenting James Bollard. It is said complaints had reached police headquarters, but the police have been known to ignore complaints before now. What kind of person or persons was it who made complaints, and what was the motive? Schooner Jim has ever known "Jim" to harm, molest or interfere with anyone?

Persons who would become frightened at concerts at his machine and who walk or close fancy twists which he only can put on should take a trip into the mountains until the warm weather is over. Why there is not a man, woman or child in the city but knows the only original "Schooner Jim."

The children love to see him—He made them laugh. They want to see him every time a circus parade or Dan, the clown dog in Gentry's circus.

DEWSNUP.

Saltair Beach Notes.

The Tabernacle choir and their friends are at Saltair today.

Tomorrow (Saturday) the Utah Commercial Travelers will celebrate at Saltair. A fine program—embracing all kinds of sport—has been prepared and a big crowd is looked for.

The weather yesterday interfered some with yesterday's attendance at Saltair. The Relief Society and women's day and those who went out seem a most delightful time. Governor Wells and Senator Cannon made short addresses, in addition to that there were a variety of 1,000 people present.

The Utah Kindergarten excursion is the first for next week and it comes on Tuesday.

Mrs. Taylor Discharged.

Mrs. Taylor against whom a charge of unlawfully diverting water was filed by C. H. Crow, was tried in the police court this afternoon on discharges, the evidence being insufficient to warrant a conviction. Mr. C. R. Stewart acquitted as counsel for the defendant.

Star Valley.

AFTON, Wyo., Aug. 18, 1896.—The sixteenth quarterly conference of the Star Valley Stake of Zion convened in the Afton meeting house, Afton, Wyoming, on August 15 and 16, 1896.

At 10 a.m. on Saturday, conference opened in that Stake, with Elder John Henry Smith of the Council of Twelve, Ezra Clark of Farmington, Utah, the Stake Presidency and quite a number of noted residents of Star valley on the stand, and a goodly congregation in attendance.

The usual reports customary at conference were displayed with, as the Stake was reported in good condition at our last Priesthood meeting, so the program was entirely the preaching of the Gospel. Several speakers were called up and all exhorted the Saints to live humble and be charitable and kind toward all.

Elder J. H. Smith spoke very strongly on the necessity of being willing to acknowledge the hand of God in all things; sore faith in Him should be our first thought, and that we would have no fear of death, as it was only a change to another sphere of action.

In the afternoon several reports were given, the time very profitably, all encouraged the Saints to do right and live in accordance with the mind and will of God.

Sunday morning, in addition to our visiting of yesterday, adjournment on the stand were Elder Seymour B. Young of the First Council of Seventies, also Elders Charles Bridge and Noah Hogan of Montpelier, Idaho, who contributed of their large store of knowledge to the edification of the Saints.

Elder Seymour B. Young felt a joy and satisfaction in having the privilege of meeting with the Saints of Star Valley; spoke on the favorable circumstances which we were surrounded; was pleased to note the improvements which have taken place since our visit six years previous; advised cheerfulness in the home as the Saints proved plainly that if mankind would be happy they must live for it, be true to each other. He spoke strongly against the sin of blasphemy.

Elder John H. Smith made a soul-stirring appeal to the young men present to prepare themselves for work in the missionary field and to study the first principles of the Gospel for the Gospel must be preached to all the world as a witness.

Mark Hurst and company sang; I now thank my Redeemer liveth.

President George Osmond and Counselors W. W. Burton and Aneth V. Call, encouraged the Saints in performance of their duties.

Several other speakers also took part in our worship.

We had an special outpouring of the Holy Spirit and all went to their homes with renewed determination to keep the commandments of God.

Elder John H. Smith says the prospects for good crops is excellent.

Bear Lake Stake.

PARIS, Idaho, Aug. 19, 1896.—The regular quarterly conference of Bear Lake Stake was held on the 8th and 9th inst.

Elder John Henry Smith of the Twelve and Elder Seymour B. Young of the Seventies, also Elders Muir, Ezra Clark and Joseph Clark of Farmington, Utah, were our distinguished visitors.

After the opening exercises on Saturday President Wm. Budge addressed the Saints followed by Elders Wm. H. Maughan, C. F. Sutton, Jos. Thomas Minson and Joseph Clark who made brief remarks expressive of their feelings and desires to continue faithful in all good works of the Lord.

Elder John Henry Smith congratulated the Saints upon their faith in coming to Conference. He said we have been encouraged this morning to keep the commandments of God. Some have things to discourage them but we should look upward and put our trust in the Almighty. There is a variety of operations of spirits. "Judge not, lest ye be judged." We should be slow to offer words of censure or judgment, realizing our own weaknesses. We do not know the conditions that operate with each other and we should be careful how we speak words that may discourage others in the battle of life. We should cultivate a love for nature and draw from it lessons of wisdom, cultivate the fights that gladden and cheer the heart. Let us help one another as brothers and sisters and let love rather around us seeds of light and joy; if we bring fear we have the light of the Holy Spirit to galvanize. Some are entirely ignorant of the nature of spirits, and nothing seems to encourage them. They do not know what humble means. Others are organized differently they are discouraged and are always very sad; becoming despondent, unhappy and unable to cope with the change which has come upon them. He said an instance of a body who gave way to intense grief, so much so that it threatened his life, when a friend wrote her a letter calling her attention to the sacred duties she had upon her and the great work which were open for her to do, thus distracting her intense grief and giving her an object in life for indiscriminating love. Some are like Noah's dove. There are some who make the battle for a livelihood a failure and when meeting people they only open their mouths and disgusting air of a broken heart. Others view their failure with cowardly and make their presence sleeping stones to their associates. Thus we are led to say that we are not all an active alike, therefore let us be charitable and helpful to our best for better of others, we are the stronmanages and surroundings are as born to judgment.

The Elders standfeared the Saints in the afternoon were Wm. A. Hymas, Elder Muir, Bishop A. Findlay, Jr., C. Nelson and J. H. Smith.

On Sunday morning the speakers were Ezra Ezra Clark, Cos. Ezra Jas. H. Hart, Wm. L. Rich and Elder S. B. Young.

In the afternoon President William Budge spoke upon the advantages which the Church Academy in course of election would bring to the people of this State.

Elder Charles Dunn read from the Doctrine and Covenants, here testimony to the divine mission of Joseph Smith. He spoke of the Saints being finding fault and speaking evil of their servants. Elder John Henry Smith occupied the remainder of the time. He usefully combined the remarks of Elder Budge in regard to building the Church academy. The action of the Saints in eliminating from our schools any and all religious training has been discussed by many of our southern brethren to be a mistake and they suggest if a daily train from under their wardcare according to their religious views and convictions. We think the same principle. We considered the Christian population of the United States were in a measure to blame for allowing laws to be passed which joined Atheistic ideas upon our children. He favored the idea of building a school wherein the name of our God and Savior should be spoken with reverence; was not in favor of sending our sons and daughters into the old world to prepare them to become good citizens in the new world. We are the sovereign government and it is our right and duty to place within reach of the youth that education that will preserve the interests of the commonwealth. We desire the proper development of all our Father's children, in capacity fit to live in the high and exalted duties of life. Let us be charitable, forbearing and kind to our fellowmen and give them credit for honesty and truthfulness of purpose.

President Budge thanked Brother Smith and his sisters for their earnest labors; asked for our united and faithful Saints would have the Gospel in and faith to carry out the valuable instructions given during this conference which was then adjourned for three months.

Benediction by Patriarch Hugh Findlay.

The 21st Academy Notes.

The Journal of Education has been collecting votes for the constitution of the ideal academy of 40 Englishmen of letters. The results are somewhat surprising and can only be accounted for on the theory that the people of England are mighty uncertain in their opinion. At the head of the list is made up by the majority of the votes stands Mr. Rosebery, who is already considered more as being something more than a declining influence. But it is more surprising still to find Mr. Lecky and Mr. Swinburne tracked in equal seconds. Herbert Spencer appears to be nearly as popular as Mr. Meredith, and a little more so than Mr. Moberly, while Mr. Arthur Balfour, on the strength of his metaphysical output, finds himself on the same level as his newly appointed pert laureate, Alfred Austin. Mr. Bryce, whose great book on America, one would have thought might have secured him a better fate, is on a par with the John Lubbocks, and the Duke of Argyll finds some one upon their heels. Anthony Hope and Dean Farrar are tied up together, while at the bottom of the list there struggle in a curious assortment, including Mrs. Humphry Ward, Mr. Fraser, the dramatist and Lord Rosebery, all men in the world. It is interesting to note that a few years ago the same journal pursued the same course, and that half of the 40 of 1886 are all near dead, including nearly all the great men, such as Tennyson, Matthew Arnold, Browning, Froude, Freeman and Cardinal Newman, while George Meredith, who being omitted the fourth place upon the list, was then only sixth from the bottom of it.—New York Mail and Express.

The Desire to Leave a Name Behind Us.

We have an involuntary reverence for all winners of history, be they animate or inanimate, men, animals or stones. The desire to leave a work behind is in every man and non-child, from the street sweeper who plants his name in a nation's glory and teaches unborn generations to know him to the boy who carves his initials upon his desk at school. Few women have it. Perhaps the wife to be remembered is what fills that one chance or so of matters by which modern statisticians assert that the average man's brain is heavier than the average woman's. The wish to leave a name is respect the satisfaction of it which is the few obtain. Probably few men have not secretly longed to see their names set up for ages, like the "Pandan V. Berghesing" over the middle of the portico of St. Peter's. High above the entrance to the grand and monument of human hands to existence. Modesty commands the hope of many, but it is egotismness that appeals to almost all mankind. But Pandan laughed.

"The corner in Peter's, but the whole front in Paul's."

What then?

Not some Peter's, the whole house is built to Paul.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Stock market opened never most the exception of four opening prices were generally lower, but the depression was dissipated in subsequent and operations. Manhattan fell to 93c. Western Union gained 1. Burlington and Quincy advanced fractional per share and Northern Pacific preferred five per cent each. Sugar fell 2 and the market advanced a great deal, sugar and Manhattan recovered most of their loss, and the market closed fairly active and strong at the opening. Sales included the above special prospects and Louisville and Nashville. Offers of the Louisville syndicate were considered the decline. Expectations of the monetary situation, coupled with further accumulations of gold, are increasingly favorable evidence in foreign exchanges, and the market closed at the top for the session.

Bond prices for sterling were strengthened and a lead for long and short bills by a trading drawer. Business at 11 o'clock was in an unusual volume with the decline considerably recovered.

TURNING GRAY

AND THREATENED

WITH BALDNESS

The Danger is Averted by Using

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

"Nearly forty years ago, after some weeks of fever, my hair turned gray and began falling out so rapidly that I was threatened with immediate baldness. Hearing Ayer's Hair Vigor highly spoken of, I commenced using this preparation, and was so well satisfied with the result that I have never tried any other kind of dressing. It stopped the hair from falling out, stimulated a new growth of hair, and kept the scalp free from dandruff. Only an occasional application is now needed to keep my hair of good, natural color. I never hesitate to recommend any of Ayer's medicines to my friends."—MRS. H. M. HOUGH, Avon, Wis.
