WITH THE OLD FOLKS

Big Meeting in the Tabernacle Last Evening.

ADDRESS BY PRESIDENT WOODRUFF

Veterans Welcomed by President Geo. Q. Cannon—Inspiring Strains of Music—Today's Program.

It was a picture long to be remembered that presented itself to the Tabernacle last evening when several thousand old folks and their friends assembled in that spacious building to listen to the rendition of exercises that had been prepared for the occasion. The veterans occupied the front seats in the auditorium, and the intense interest which they took in the proceedings showed that they were there for the full enjoyment of all that was in store for them. Five thousand carnations, donated by R. K. Evans, the florist, were distributed to the silver-locked veterans by a committee of ladies composed of Mesdames Savage, Empy, Jensen, Stayner and Halling. The sweet-smelling flowers being of red, white and pink colors lent a fragrance and beauty which could not but be appreciated by all gathered together. Many of the features marking the old folks' gathering of former years were brought into play. Brother Dunbar was there with his dulcitone; happies; the Old Folks' choir with its Auld Lang Syne, as well as the Tabernacle choir with its choice hymns and anthems, and Hebe's band, which dispensed choice selections. Then there was the music of the Deseret Guitar and Mandolin club, together with an address of welcome by President George Q. Cannon, remarks by Elder George Goddard and a prepared address by that venerable Prophet who has passed the eighth milestone, President Wilford Woodruff, whose presence was greatly appreciated by the honored guests.

EXERCISES COMMENCED.

At 7:30 o'clock President George Q. Cannon called the assemblage to order and the Tabernacle choir sang: Glory and Love to the man of God. Prayer was offered by Elder George Goddard, who invoked the benediction of the Father upon all who had contributed to the entertainment of the Old Folks. He referred to the importance of the day—the occasion of Queen Victoria's jubilee and the 104th anniversary of the birth of Bishop Edward Hunter. The choir sang: O my Father, Thou that dwellest.

PRESIDENT CANNON'S WELCOME.

President George Q. Cannon delivered an address of welcome. He could truly say, said he, that the old folks of all ages were very welcome in our midst. He thought that Salt Lake was highly honored by the presence of so distinguished a company of people, and it truly was an honor to be privileged to gaze upon a gathering of so many who had passed life's seventieth milestone. President Cannon noted his pleasure at being allowed to address such an audience and was pleased to know that there were people willing to lend a helping hand to the entertainment of the old folks. Their labors were certainly appreciated by all classes of people, and the kindness of the railroad companies and all who had in any way rendered assistance, would be cherished in the hearts of all good people as long as they were permitted to live upon the earth. The Lord had been merciful unto His people and had blessed them in divers ways. Those assembled had been blessed with health and strength, vigor of mind and body and were all of activity seldom found in people who had reached such advanced ages. The great majority of them as participating in the old folks' enjoyment were people who had lived to serve the Lord and keep in common unison as they obeyed the laws that have bestowed upon them the blessing of longevity, so the exercises that would take place on every their silver anniversaries, and one of the invited been prepared to see the century mark. They had yielded obedience to the injunctions of the Father and their days had accordingly been long upon the earth.

REMINISCENT OF BYGONE DAYS.

Hebe's Band responded in inspiring style a medley of patriotic and sentimental airs, some of which seemed to awaken in the minds of the veterans thoughts of bygone days when they were young and full of the fire of youthful vigor. The piece called with its quick dance time, illustrating the firing of guns by Indians during the progress of the dance.

PRESIDENT WOODRUFF'S ADDRESS.

President Wilford Woodruff, one of the few who has passed the seventh milestone of life, was on the program for an address, but being the oldest man in a hot cold, his address was a prepared one which was read by Elder David McKenzie. It was as follows:

My Dear Friends—I thank God that I have lived to see this day. I rejoice to behold the faces of so many of my friends gathered together in this great Tabernacle. We who have been upon this earth from seventy to ninety years and upwards have passed through one of the most interesting generations of the children of men. What marvelous changes have occurred in our lifetime! We see things today and look upon them without wonder that in our early days would have been considered miraculous. When I was a small boy we had just emerged from under the blue laws of Connecticut—to greater freedom of thought and action. The ducking-stool and other forms of punishment built to the bad people still stood. Women were no longer hanged or burned at the stake as witches. Greater religious liberty was enjoyed. Women were allowed to kiss their husbands, husbands their wives, on the sabbath day, which being punished for it. I to my took an oath of office from the good, sitting even then he might be published for it, he was not in danger of being sold as a slave, as in former days. The improvements of all things had just been brought about when I came into the world, but greater and more wonderful changes have been accomplished since that time. In my boyhood every acre of grain was cut with a sickle in New England. The first advance made in that direction was when the hand cradle came into use. The reaper and the binder were never dreamed of in those day. If such things had been brought into the wheatfields then, the people of the land would have almost thought the millennium had come. And there has been rapid advancement in almost every department of life.

I need not take up your time in detailing the many changes and improvements that have been made. We live today amid the wonderful powers of steam and electricity, by which such marvelous things are being accomplished. All these things have been brought about in our day, and I feel to thank God for what he has done for the children of men in bringing them so far has done. Manand have great cause for thankfulness to our Father in heaven because of the many blessings he has bestowed upon them in this day and generation.

We who live in Utah have special cause to thank and praise His holy name for the blessings we enjoy. I have spent fifty years in these valleys of the Rocky mountains, and have passed through all the phases of a territorial government until we have arrived at full statehood, and I feel it a great privilege to meet with so many of my friends and citizens of the State of Utah, and I consider it proper here to make some reference to our arrival as pioneers, and the commencement of our labors in this great American desert. And I should be remiss in my duty and justly place myself under some reproof did I not give the honor and glory to our great prophet, seer, revelator and pioneer, President Brigham Young, who, under God, led the footsteps of toiling the pioneers, and the barren American desert from its sterility into the fruitful and noble State of Utah as we find it today. President Young was inspired to come here, and he was inspired to work after he got here, and when Samuel Brannan, who took the ship Brooklyn from New York to San Francisco, landed with Latter-day Saints, came to this barren country and met with the pioneers, he looked upon the desolation and barrenness, and felt with all the power he had to persuade President Young not to stop here, but to go on to California. I heard President Young give his answer to Samuel Brannan in the following language, striking the same into the soil: "No, sir; I am going to stop right here. I am going to build a city here. I am going to build a temple here, and I am going to build up a country here." And by the help of God he lived to see all this fulfilled. He dedicated the foundations of the Salt Lake Temple, and dictated the building of the Temple up to the time of his death. He directed the building of the St. George Temple, and he moved a great mountain to get a place to set him upon which to erect the Manti Temple. He pointed out the place on which to build the Logan Temple, and he did a great deal toward its erection. He built the big Tabernacle in Salt Lake City, and he dictated to the architects nearly all that is upon the Temple block. There is hardly a city or town in Utah that was not laid out under his direction.

I brought President Young into the valley in my carriage. This was the first time he had ever seen the place, except in vision, and as we came round the bend where we could have a good view of the valley, he wished me to turn the side of the carriage so that he could have a better view, when I did, having a door opening on the side of the carriage. After viewing the valley awhile he said: "That will do, drive on; this is the place. I have seen this valley before in vision." President Young had been sick for several days on the Weber river, and several of the Pioneers had gone ahead and on the morrow I was asking my prayers, and had formed a camp and commenced breaking ground, but it was so very dry that it was difficult to break it until it was watered. I arrived at the camp at 11:30. It was a little mistake of where the Knickerbocker hotel now stands. I had in my carriage a bushel of potatoes, and I remembered that I would not eat or drink until the potatoes were planted in the earth. I hoeing, getting some of the brethren to help me, and soon had my potatoes planted. Other brethren also planted some, and from these few cases all my Utah potatoes until the railroad was built.

Although we were on Mexican soil we planted the American flag soon after our arrival here. We immediately went to work, and as a protection against Indians, surrounded a one-acre plot on three sides with a ten-foot adobe wall—in the month of July, the hottest time. Immediately we went to dig ditches and get water to our crops or nothing would have matured. With our surveyor's chain and compass President Young went to work to lay out Salt Lake City. Just as we see it today, with its broad streets and sidewalks, in the midst of dry, parched sagebrush, with scarcely a man's house within a thousand miles of us. I assisted in all that work. Many of you who are before me have also contributed and added to build and beautify this country and make it what it is today. You know what we have had to pass through in all this. But God has been with us. He has crowned our labors with success. He has blessed the land and made it fruitful and we have been able to surround ourselves with pleasant homes and many of the comforts of life. Therefore, I say, we have great cause to be thankful to our Father for the blessings we enjoy.

God bless the aged sisters and mothers of Utah. They have performed a mighty work in this land. They have worked and toiled, and sought to do good in the earth, and they are worthy of respect and honor in their old age. We ought to do all we can to make them happy while they live upon the earth. I hope you who have come together here, on the old folks' excursion, will have a good time while you are here. I pray God to bless you all, and to comfort your hearts. We do not know how much longer I shall carry with you, but while I remain I want to do all the good I can. This should be the desire of all of us. Many of us have lived a long time on the earth, and have sought to serve God and to carry out His purposes, and we should continue to do this until we are called to the other side of the veil. God bless you all. God bless our children, that they may grow up to follow in the footsteps of their fathers and mothers, and to take up the work that will devolve upon them when we shall pass away. I feel to bless you and all the people, and ask God to bless you, in the name of Jesus. Amen.

TWO KINDS OF MUSIC.

The Deseret Mandolin and Guitar club, composed of young ladies and gentlemen, helped to add a feeling and harmonious strain a beautiful selection, after which the Old Folks' choir under the leadership of Elder William H. Foster sang Auld Lang Syne, the Tabernacle choir joining in the chorus.

THE BAPTISTS WERE THERE.

A feature which cheered the old folks and lent a enthusiastic spirit to the occasion was the playing of the Scottish baptists by Elder William C. Dunbar—a part of the program on the occasion at every old folks' gathering. This was followed by a few remarks from the ever pleasant and agreeable personage, Elder George Goddard, who called attention to the annual festivities of the old folks and the exertions made of them—that they be 70 years of age or over. Elder Goddard introduced Elder C. R. Savage, who gave the honored veterans instructions for today's exercises.

HONORED PRESIDENT WOODRUFF.

President George Q. Cannon announced the omission of some of the numbers on the program owing to the approaching lateness of the hour, and also stated that by request of some of those assembled President Woodruff would arise during the dismissal that all might be privileged to gaze upon him. This the venerable President did, the audience arising and waving their handkerchiefs in his honor.

The choir sang the anthem Hallelujah and the audience dispersed.

TODAY'S PROGRAM.

Bright and early this morning the feeble veterans were seen making for the street cars, lunch baskets in hand, on their way to Garfield Beach, where they spent the day. At the beach exercises suitable to the occasion were carried out and all enjoyed themselves immensely. Not many of them ventured into the water, but they took delight in watching the billowy waves dash to and fro against the shore of the great inland sea and exchange reminiscences of early days in the valleys of the Rocky mountains. Tooele county was on hand with her tea and coffee pots and everything was done that could be done to make the old people happy, most of whom returned from the Lake on early trains. Those living in outside districts leave for their homes this evening, there to cherish a kind and loving remembrance for the Old Folks' committee and all who helped to entertain them. For the next celebration of this kind many doubtless will have passed to the other side, there to remain until the trump shall sound and the dead in Christ shall rise.

THANKS TO ALL.

The Old Folks' committee feels a deep debt of gratitude to all who so kindly assisted them in this year's laudable undertaking. To the Oregon Short Line and street railway companies too much cannot be said, while to the citizens of Salt Lake in general, and particularly those who so kindly opened their homes and extended hospitality a hearty vote of thanks is given. R. K. Evans the florist is also remembered due to fact that when he any way contributed to making the occasion memorable to the old folks' exercises successful.

Strawberries and Ice Cream

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be given by the Y. L. M. I. A. of the North ward, at 375 east, Fourth south street, Friday evening, June 24th.

Mrs. Hamilton's Trial.

It was learned at the county attorney's office today that the trial of Mrs. Hamilton on the charge of killing her husband will not take place until the next term of court.

BUSINESS CONGRESS.

Good Prospects of a General Representation.

INTERESTING DATA PREPARED.

Secretary Calvin's Work—Best Sugar Paper—Coming From Alaska—Many Acceptances.

Secretary W. H. Culmer has prepared a paper for the Commercial Congress to be held in this city on July 14 and the three following days, which gives some most important commercial data of the Trans-Mississippi region. The preparation has required a great amount of careful labor and is a task never before undertaken. Mr. Culmer has spent much of the past winter in gathering official information from governors of the interested states and in segregating data relating to the Trans-Mississippi states from the general data of national records.

After stating the objects of the congress, what it has accomplished in years past and what it can be expected to accomplish in more years, Mr Culmer gives detailed computations regarding the economic condition of the states and territories that do not seem represented. Only the general table can be given here. Of the 62,979,766 population of the United States (census 1890) 16,819,676 or 26.76 per cent were in the trans-Mississippi states; the $65,037,091,197 wealth in 1890 $20,888,775,450 or 31.27 per cent was in the West; of the $46,810,000,000 produced in 1895, $40,211,545 or 99.14 per cent came from the West; of the $72,031,000 silver, $71,994,418 or 99.87 per cent came from the West; of the $11,261,000 gold $9,257,633 or 81.49 per cent was produced in the West; of the $40,545,629 of copper, $26,036,824 or 60.28 per cent came from the West; of the $197,790,043 of coal $28,754,787 or 14.54 per cent came from the West; of the $18,219,084 of iron $3,912,811 or 21.48 per cent came from the West; of the $348,284 of sulphur, $335,496 or 96.34 per cent was from the West; of the $237,995,998 of wheat, $130,550,782 or 57.39 per cent was raised in the West; of the $367,509,100 of corn, $258,149,070 or 45.48 per cent was raised west of the Mississippi; of the $199,055,000 of oats, $72,229,743 or 36.13 per cent was raised west of the Mississippi; of the $393,185,615 of hay, $155,994,959 or 39.68 per cent was raised in the West; of the $1,727,999,084 of farm animals in 1896, $541,795,807 or 30 per cent were owned in the West; of the 9,276,435 miles of rivers gathered in 1894, 4,047,223 or 43.64 per cent was in the West; of the 165,449,289 the wool produced in 1895, 80,704,884 or 48.45 per cent was western; of the 128,024,998 lbs. of cane sugar manufactured in 1890, 107,626,680 or 84.7 per cent was west of the Mississippi, which the annual importation of Hawaiian cane sugar 1 California, which it is refined, approximate 200,000,000 lbs.; and of the 79,240,000 lbs. of beet sugar, in 1895, 79,240,000 or 100 per cent was produced in the Trans-Mississippi states.

NOTES.

Alfred L. Black, of the law firm of Black & Lewis, has written saying he will be present at the congress. Mr. Black may come as a delegate of the San Francisco chamber of commerce. Many other acceptances have been received, and a number of letters expressing regret have also come in. One letter, from Gov. Sheakley of Alaska, states that the mining season is on in his territory, and as it is about at rest, none of the delegates will be able to be present at the congress. Mr. Culmer, however, has acceptances from two already.

Neat badges are being prepared for the delegates and visitors to the convention and for the committee and guests. The metal parts of the badges are emblematical of the desired union of silver and gold. On the upper part is a neatly wrought sego lily and below a representation of Salt Lake, a description of the result on the back. A printed ribbon is attached to the metal and the color of this designates the office of the wearer. The delegates have blue ribbon, the visitors rose pink, the committee cream colored and the press ruby colored.

Mr. H. V. Maloy recently sent out a circular letter to the appointed delegates asking them to come to the convention supplied and requested to the best sugar industry. He says that they simply reserve their judgment until they hear the side in favor of the beet industry. In this connection it may be said that Henry Ramnick, a sugar expert, from St. Louis, has written saying that he would read a paper on that sugar at the convention. Mr. Hindmarsh comes from the cane sugar district of America, and it is doubtful whether his paper will be forthcoming or not.

NUMBER OF DELEGATES.

The following list shows the proportion of states and territories who have up to the present time accepted the invitation to be present at the congress:

Name of State.	No. Appointed.	No. Accepted.
Alaska,	2	2
Arizona,	6	4
Arkansas,	18	5
California,	72	15
Colorado,	56	19
Idaho,	16	4
Indian Territory	2	2
Iowa,	51	9
Kansas,	20	4
Louisiana,	13	4
Minnesota,	6	2
Missouri,	58	17
Montana,	16	4
Nebraska,	46	12
Nevada,	12	4
New Mexico,	14	8
North Dakota,	18	2
Oklahoma,	10	3
Oregon,	8	2
South Dakota,	12	4
Texas,	46	22
Utah,	60	60
Washington,	32	9
Wyoming,	16	4
Total,	518	274

Mr. Culmer states that many will leave the formal accepting of the position until in last week, when he expects that acceptances will rain in on him.

SUES ON A NOTE.

Case of Lucinda A. Lobecher Against George C. Lamb et—Notes.

A jury in Judge Norrell's court is engaged today hearing the case of Lucinda A. Lobecher vs Geo. C. Lambert. Plaintiff in this case sues to recover $800, with interest, on a certain promissory note alleged to have been executed and delivered by defendant to David Lobecher, May 11, 1892.

Defendant in answering says that David Lobecher agreed to lend for him some views of a certain quality and that the note was given in consideration. It is then alleged that the views never grew and that David Lobecher refused to replace more, but failed. The note, defendant says, was then transferred by David Lobecher to his wife (the plaintiff) subject to all defenses that defendant had against Mr. Lobecher.

Attorney H. B. Shepherd appears for the plaintiff and Attorneys Cannon and Smith for defendant.

Court Notes.

Margaret Elliot filed a suit for divorce against Peter Elliot, in the third district court today, alleging desertion. The parties were married at Lehigh in July, 1884. There are three children of the union, whose ages are eleven, eight and four.

In consent by consent for $235, with interest and costs amounting to $41.60, was rendered today by Judge Cherry in the case of W. G. Foot vs G. Foote et al.

In the case of David H. Sherman vs Rasmus Rasmussen, Judge Cherry gave judgment today for plaintiff in the sum of $500.

John L. Lawson filed a suit in the third district court today against the New American Gas and Fuel company, and prays for judgment in the sum of $10,000 for an alleged breach of a direct letter relating to issue to plaintiff 20,000 shares of the aforesaid company.

Judge Hiles is engaged today hearing arguments in the case of the West Point Irrigation company vs the Moroni and Mount Pleasant Irrigation company, which was heard by him at Manti last week. The dispute is over certain water rights. Attorneys Wm. K. Field and Thurman & Wedgewood represent the plaintiff and Valles, Williams, Van Cott & Sutherland the defendant.

Elder Parkinson Recovering.

A message was received from the Holy Cross hospital this afternoon that Samuel R. Parkinson of Idaho, who was operated on for appendicitis Sunday night, is improving and is now that to be out of danger. The case was a most difficult one on account of the age stoutness of the patient. It is a pleasure to the many friends of Elder Parkinson to learn that he is now safe.

Married Today.

Samuel D. Winter of the News job department and Miss Marie Weir were married in the Salt Lake Temple today. The News joins with the couple's many friends in wishing them bon voyage.

Railway Notes.

General Agent W. J. Shotwell of the Denver and Rio Grande was in the city today. Mr. Shotwell who is the agent for the Denver and Rio Grande in this city (formerly has been in Denver and is returning to his post at San Francisco.

The Rio Grande Western has prepared a mining map which maps out all the mining districts of Utah. The court is very neatly designed affair and will prove very useful to mining men for reference.

About 2,000 people went to Garfield today. Of course most were old folks but many others went also to visit and listen to the program prepared for the veterans.

The passenger department of the Oregon Short Line will be invaded early next week to the Masonic Hall.

Today is Caledonian day at Logan, and Highander John with the men from the Lowlands in stirring memories of their native Scotland.

The Norden Literary society lives an excursion tomorrow; the Seventeenth ward goes Friday; and the Fourth Presbyterian Mission schools, Saturday.

The Bishops' Sunday are at Saint today, and one of the main attractions is the hypnotic performance of Prof. Hal Clawson. It is claimed that Mr. Clawson's efforts are equal if superior to those of Professor Quimby, who recently passed through the city.

On Friday the M. I. A. of the Stake will be entertained at the big resort.

OREGON SHORT LINE ITEMS.

The Montana editors leave Butte this evening for their pleasure trip. The special train is under the charge of Traveling Passenger Agent H. E. Dunn. They will reach this city Thursday morning and preparations are being made to give them a hearty welcome.

Between 400 and 500 people came down from Ogden over the Oregon Short Line to spend yesterday at the Lagoon. They went up from here to the Davis county resorts to meet just their friends.

D. E. Tarbet, traveling freight agent, is in Idaho.

Mr. Ford, a lady place at present E. on duty on the Short Line, is stationed at the Ogden Short Line.

Wedding Bells.

Fred Mugele, assistant cashier of the Utah Commercial & Savings bank of this city, and Miss Gertrude Rose, the accomplished daughter of Superintendent W. P. Rose of the Salt Lake Street Railroad company, were united in marriage in the Temple at noon today. The young couple have a host of friends in this city with whom congratulations will be extended. At the residence of the bride's parents, N. 735 third street, this evening, the groom will leave for a mission to the Southern States in the near future. Mr. and Mrs. Mugele will start on life's journey with bright prospects for the future. The News trusts that these prospects will never be blighted and that the journey will be safely and pleasantly made.

JUBILEE COMMISSIONERS MEET

A Large Amount of Business Disposed of at the Afternoon's Session—Piano Presentation.

At today's session of the Pioneer Jubilee commission Chairman Cannon, Mrs. George Y. Wallace, Mrs. Cora Hooper, Miss Emily Richards, Messrs. Moritz, Colburn and Williams were present and disposed of an unusual amount of routine business.

The $250 subscription of the Operative Wagon and Machine company reached the Jubilee treasury.

The assistant adjutant general's department of the Colorado National Guard, A. L. Wilson, has informed the commission that if nothing unforeseen should occur to prevent the attendance of the Colorado contingent, will take pleasure in complying with the request that a troop of cavalry from Fort Douglas shall accompany the Salt Lake Guard.

The Salt Lake Saddlery company has added $15 to the Jubilee fund.

PIANO PRESENTATION

The following letter was received from the well known firm of D. O. Calder & Sons, and it appears, a handsome contribution will be given to the Jubilee fund:

June 15th, 1897.

D. O. Calder's Sons, Salt Lake City, Utah. Gentlemen—We are in receipt of your of the 12th regarding the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the arrival of the Pioneers in the Great Salt Lake Valley, and beg to say that it will be a pleasure to our company to contribute an substantial way to the furtherance of the Jubilee by contributing through you, P. O. B. one Chickering, one style Kimball piano, to be sold by you and the proceeds turned over to the proper officer conducting the celebration. The writer holds in very kind memory the founder of your house, Mr. D. O. Calder, and it seems quite fitting that our company should take a small hand at least in helping further the interests of this celebration.

Very respectfully,
W. W. RITCHIE CO.
E. M., Secretary.

LOGAN.

LOGAN, June 22 1897

TEACHERS OF THE STATE.

The Convention Not Largely Attended—Addresses of Welcome.

The number of teachers attending the State convention at Logan is very discouraging. Preparations were made here to accommodate between 800 and 1,000 teachers from outside points, and less than a hundred have come. Notwithstanding this, the association has gone to work in earnest and this promises to be a very successful convention.

Last night the visitors and hundreds of people of Logan packed the Opera house to listen to addresses of welcome from the mayor and others, and to the responses of the visitors. The Opera house was most beautifully decorated. The stage was set with fine scenery and hung with three immense star spangled banners, a wilderness of flowers of the sweetest bloom were there, and in the midst of the wilderness sat President Kerr and Chairman of our two colleges, President Orson Smith, Superintendents Oldham of our county schools and Hubbard of our city schools, Superintendent Milnaspaugh of Salt Lake schools, Superintendent Allison of Ogden schools, Prof. George Brimhall of Provo and others. President Kerr presided, and after President Smith had offered the opening prayer, Mayor N. W. Kimball stepped to the front, and in the following well chosen language welcomed the teachers of Utah to our city:

"Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen: I assure you it gives me great pleasure in behalf of the people of Logan to extend to our visitors and friends a hearty welcome. I believe I voice the sentiments of every man, woman and child of this community, when I say you are welcome; and we will endeavor to prove to you the truth of what we say. We have looked forward to this visit with a great deal of pleasure, and our only regret is that a larger company of you did not come, as we have made preparations to receive and entertain a great many more.

We feel proud of our schools and of our teachers, both here and throughout the State, and I question if there is a state in the Union that has made more rapid strides in educational matters than Utah has; for people are serious of encouraging the highest and best education.

Ladies and gentlemen, it will be a pleasure to entertain you, and we will try in every possible way to make your visit a pleasant one, and again we say, you are welcome.

President Tanner and Superintendent Oldham and Hubbard followed with great speeches of welcome to which Professor Brimhall, Dr. Millard, and Superintendent Allison replied. Miss Beatrice Moorehead sang Easton sang a Shepherd's song by Dr. Easton, and late [illegible] Miss Eastman, Lark From Three [illegible]

Much applause was awarded the speakers, which, of course, [illegible]

Horses Kick

In self-defence. It is their most vigorous form of protest against the abuse of Spill Nails. Horses are not the only ones that kick on their shoes. Blacksmiths, too, are such, only in ignorance of the danger that is liable to follow.

This is what happens: One nail comes out, when it should be clinching the other goes into the tender quick, and results are the result of the Cold-Rolled and by which the fibres of metal are separated and can often be pried apart with the fingers. Spill Nails are not so, and can be easily distinguished by the rough edge along the side near the point.

Putnam Nails

are exclusively Hot-Forged and Hammer-Pointed, precisely like the old-fashioned hand-made nail. This process makes the nail perfectly tough, and cut up into a compact, firm nail that cannot split, Silver or Break out in Absolutely Safe.

Examine the nails in your smith's shop. The Putnam Nail is the only one with the sharp length wise ridge on the flat. Insist on having the Putnam. If you cannot get of this clinch nail, write direct to us, and we will see you are supplied.

Mention this, when at least, mailed on receipt of 10c cents, in stamps or silver.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

BACK VOLUMES

—OF THE—

DESERET WEEKLY.

The sixth volume of the DESERET WEEKLY in the present form is now bound. A limited number of copies of these six volumes can be obtained at the DESERET NEWS Office, Salt Lake City, in bound form at $2.00 per volume. It is the best history of current events to be obtained, and by far the cheapest, and the time is not far distant when they will be eagerly sought after by students of history, anxious to be informed of the stirring events which have transpired within the past three years—the most interesting period of the history of the Latter-day Saints. Every person who can afford it should secure these volumes while they are to be had for future reference, and especially should they be obtained for every Sunday School, Improvement Association and Ward library. Apply early to make sure of getting them.
