Utah's State Performs a Political Somersault—Teddy Roosevelt Gets There With Both Feet—New York Gains Twelve Democratic State's Congressmen—Vote is Light.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Interest in the election only centered in the political complexion of the next House, the Senate being considered to be Republican.

Although Chairman Babcock of the Republican congressional committee did not join in Republican cards after the polls had closed, he was back again early in the morning and claimed by telegraph and telephone to be back again in the fight for all he is worth. Mr. Babcock made this morning what he termed an ultra-conservative estimate in which he claimed a majority of doubtful districts. His estimate gives the Republicans 166 members in the next House, a majority of 12 over all. The source he is most relied on to hear from are Illinois, Indiana and Pennsylvania. Last night he claimed the defeat of Boutelle in Illinois. This morning he says he finds that the Cook county contest has yet to be decided, but he says he is quite sure of Williams in the Peoria District. The stars claimed in California telegraphed that six candidates were elected in that state on the probability of the defeat of Davis, Democrat, which would give the Republicans a total Congressional delegation of six Republicans from California. Not caring to be fooled in Texas this time he says it is safe to say, as Mr. Babcock only stood on his Republicans from California last night.

Chairman Sickles, stated that Kansas was sure for Republicans and that he had detailed Congressman Curtis, who is a member of the Republican congressional committee, to go to Kansas and stump the state for Republicans. Curtis left last night for Kansas. Mr. Babcock claims that the Republicans will gain a member from Texas, but Mr. Sickles said yesterday that the Republicans had no hope in Texas while the claim is made that the Republicans will gain a member from Texas, and that we may look for that when the returns come in. Sickles claims that the Republicans will gain a member in Nebraska
