Early this morning Officer Milner arrested Ed Turner for drunkenness and assault and battery. Turner seemed to have a grudge against everybody he met and took great delight in punching them. He will explain matters to Judge Tummony tomorrow.

COUNCIL DECIDES TO SEEK NEW BIDS

Construction of East Side Reservoir is Again Postponed.

PUBLIC WORKS SUSTAINED.

Heated Discussion of the Question During Which Politics Cut a Figure—Other Matters.

The proposed construction of the Thirteenth East street reservoir was made the subject for another heated discussion at last evening's session of the City Council, resulting in the arrival at a decision to readvertise for bids, which means another delay of from three to four weeks.

The board of public works, at a meeting held last Saturday evening, received two bids for the construction of the reservoir. They were from A. G. Glaugue and P. J. Moran. The former's figures were $36,263 and the latter's $34,832.07. Moran's bid was the lowest, but was nearly 6,000 in excess of the estimate furnished the Council by City Engineer Kelsey. The board concluded to reject both bids and last evening informed the Council of its action, at the same time recommending that new bids be advertised for.

Fernstrom opposed the recommendation of the board and moved the acceptance of the Moran bid.

Gemmell thought the board had done right in rejecting the bids "Only two bids," he said, "were received and from the looks of things I believe there was a combination between the two. I am opposed to letting the contract, for the reason that the lowest bid is $6,000 higher than the engineer's estimate. The board should be permitted to readvertise for bids and take another thirty days if necessary.

TOO MUCH DILLY DALLYING.

Hartenstein did not believe in dally-dallying; if there was going to be any benefit derived by consumers of water this summer work would have to be commenced at once.

Tuddenham expressed similar views.

Beatty did not believe thirty days was going to make much difference.

Howe (C. R.) hoped Fernstrom's motion to adopt would prevail. The bids were more comprehensible than any he had yet seen. The reservoir was an urgent necessity—there was no question about that. To put it off meant that much more delay.

Robertson said he had urged these improvements as much as anyone, but he did not propose to see the city held up by anyone. The bid was at least 10 per cent too high all around.

CAN ONLY SPEAK ONCE.

Howe (C. R.) was about to speak to the motion again, when Robertson raised an objection on the ground that the member had already spoken once. Howe (Edgar) not having spoken to the motion gave his time to the member from the Third, who, upon being given the floor, said he was not talking politics. He was honest in his advocacy of the improvements and wanted to see the work begun at once.

Fernstrom said the objection to the lowest bidder was because he happened to be a Democrat. For one he did not go much on the engineer's estimates anyway and thought Mr. Moran ought to be given the contract.

Buckle—Do I understand you, Councilman Fernstrom, to say you would pay a Democrat $6,000 more than you would a Republican?

Fernstrom—I don't say I would do that; but I will not sit here and see a man's bid turned down because that man happens to be a Democrat.

THE NOVEMBER ELECTION.

Continuing, Fernstrom said contractors would not bid while Mr. Kelsey was in office, because they regard him as being "over technical." He believed that the city would have to pay 25 per cent on all work where the engineer was concerned because contractors would not bid as long as Mr. Kelsey had anything to do with it. "If you want to put it off until election, so as to bring in the hoboes to vote, why dont you say so, and be done with it?" he said. The speaker concluded by saying that if the contract was not let now the work could not be done this summer. It was worth more than the extra cost to have the work done at once.

Robertson moved as an amendment to Fernstrom's motion that the bids be rejected and that the board of public works be instructed to re-advertise for bids. The amendment carried by the following vote. Ayes—Beatty, Canning, Cottrell, Gemmell, Robertson, Thomas, Whittemore and Buckle—8.

Noes—Fernstrom, Hartenstein, C. R. Howe, Edgar Howe, Reid and Tuddenham—6.

Absent—Hewlett—1.

SHEETS IS ELEVATED.

Chief of Police Hilton notified the Council that he had appointed George A. Sheets city detective. On motion of Thomas the appointment was confirmed by a unanimous vote.

Chief Hilton also notified the Council of the appointment of Joe W. Bush and John B. Furster as two extra police officers. On motion of Cottrell the matter was referred to the police and prison committee. The appointees are at present acting as guards of the city prisoners on the rock pile.

THE HOBO ELEMENT.

Land and Water Commissioner Westerfield reported that the house on the Decker ranch in Parley's canyon was the rendezvous for tramps, who nightly hold high carnival in the basement. No sooner was one gang expelled by Mr. Westerfield's deputy, before another crowd would follow. It was suggested as a remedy that the building be removed. Mr. Westerfield also recommended that the springs in City creek above the high line tank be cleaned so that the water could be directed into the creek. It was further stated that there were two large snow slides across city creek, which have brought down into the creek a large amount of stumps trees and debris that will have to be cleared away as soon as the snow melts. The commissioner asked for the appropriation of $350 for the cleaning out of the springs and clearing away the logs and debris. Referred to committee on waterworks.

WANT DAM REPAIRED.

David M. Whittaker and nine others, owning property west of the Jordan river between Ninth North and North Temple streets, petitioned the Council to have the dam on Ninth North street repaired, or a new one put in before June next. Petitioners say the original dam was constructed by property owners of that section, but it was blown out by the city in the spring of 1897. Unless the dam is repaired, or a new one constructed, before the irrigation sets in, petitioners claim that great damage will be done to crops in that locality. Referred to committee on irrigation.

Thomas H. Morrison offered $120 for a three cornered piece of land, situated near the Warm Springs, adjoining a lot owned by A. P. Anderson. Referred to committee on public grounds, with land and water commissioner associated.

SALT PALACE HEARD FROM.

The Salt Palace Exposition company, by F. S. Murphy, secretary, petitioned the Council for a license to conduct its business from June 4th for a period not to exceed four months. Referred to committee on license with instructions to report next meeting.

The requisition of Superintendent of Waterworks Hines for 407 water meters was referred to the board of public works, with instructions to advertise for bids.

Howe (C. R.) offered a resolution providing that the board of public works shall, before accepting any bids for water meters, consult with the committee on waterworks and the superintendent of waterworks, in order to make sure that a suitable kind of meter be bought. The resolution was adopted.

George G. Doyle & Co. offered to submit samples and prices of water meters, understanding that the city contemplated purchasing a number of them. The communication was referred to the committee on waterworks.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

Beatty introduced two resolutions, one directing the police to give special attention to the enforcement of the law providing for the punishment of persons guilty of cruelty to animals, and the other providing that the fines imposed upon such persons as are found guilty of such offenses shall go to the Humane society to aid in the prosecution of its work. The first resolution was adopted and the latter was referred to the city attorney for an opinion regarding its legality.

On recommendation of the committee on streets, the chair appointed Thomas, Robertson, Fernstrom, Tuddenham and Buckle to confer with the Rio Grande Western Railway company in regard to the proposed removal of the railroad tracks from Eight and Ninth South streets and from the line of the city canal in the southeastern part of the city.

Orson Rogers and others residents and property owners on the Canyon road end of Third street petioned the Council to cause the superintendent of waterworks to make connections between two "dead ends" of a water main, one running down Canyon road and one down Third street, in order that the residents of the petitioners may have water even when it is being rapidly drawn off in the lower parts of the city. Referred to waterworks committee.

The petition of Albert W. Casey asking that Tenth East street be opened as far as Spruce street, was referred to the street committee.

THE PLUMBING INSPECTOR.

Thomas offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, that the sewer committee be instructed to make a report next Tuesday night upon the petition of David Evans and others, to have the office of plumbing inspector transferred from the city engineer's office to the board of health office."

The meeting of the committee on municipal laws and streets to consider the petition of the Salt Lake Valley Railroad company for a franchise, which should have been held today, was postponed until Friday at 4 p. m., in Councilman Whittemore's office.

TREE-PLANTERS CAUTIONED

Circular Sent Out, Asking Them to Refrain from Planting Infected Trees.

J. A. Wright, secretary of the Utah State board of horticulture, has issued a letter to all tree planters, cautioning them against the planting of trees that are infected with gall or crown gall. Following is the address:

Numerous reports having come to the State board of horticulture of the finding of root gall or crown gall in fruit trees received from nurseries, it is deemed advisable to caution all persons against planting any trees so infected. It is now well settled that the crown gall is a disease that is contagious, so that infected trees are not only worthless in themselves, but are a menace to healthy trees in the same orchard or vicinity. The disease is usually distinguishable by the appearance of knots or swellings on the main root of the tree near where the smaller roots branch out. Sometimes the knots are quite small and are distributed over the whole root system. It is often contended that the swellings are the work of the aphis, but this would render the trees scarcely less objectionable. It is, therefore, advised that all nurserymen discard all trees showing any knots or swellings, and that persons receiving such trees at once destroy them, since such trees are not only worthless, but a positive damage to the premises where they may be planted. This warning is issued in the interest of the planters of fruit trees as well as of the nurserymen, since all such infected trees found by inspectors will be destroyed, thus entailing needless expense upon the shippers of such stock. Very respectfully,

J. A. WRIGHT,
Secretary Utah State Board of Horticulture.

Ogden, Utah, April 17, 1900.

A Testimonial from Old England.

"I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best in the world for bronchitis," says Mr. William Savory, of Worrington, England, "It has saved my wife's life, she having been a martyr to bronchitis for over six years, being most of the time confined to her bed. She is now quite well." It is a great pleasure to the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be able to publish testimonials of this character. They show that great good is being done, pain and suffering relieved and valuable lives restored to health and happiness by this remedy.

UTAH VS. IDAHO SHEEP RAISERS.

Former Deny Charges of the Latter Regarding Scab.

SEC'Y CALLISTER TALKS.

Says Fight is Against Utah Sheep Whether Clean or Unclean—Takes Inspector Chattin to Task.

The issuance of the proclamation by Idaho's governor prohibiting Utah sheep from crossing the line from this side promises to bring about a pronounced renewal of hostilities between the sheepmen of the two States. The question is attracting a good deal of attention both here and in Idaho, and several prominent Utah sheep men expressed themselves in no unmistaken terms today when interviewed regarding certain statements attributed to State Sheep Inspector Chattin, of Idaho, which appeared in yesterday's Boise Statesman, which arrived in this morning's mail. The Statesman article is as follows:

"R. P. Chattin, State sheep inspector, was in the city yesterday from Mountainhome. Mr. Chattin says he recommended the quarantine on sheep from Cache and Boxelder counties, Utah, on account of scab, many protests having come from stockmen who live in sections adjoining Utah. Utah, he said, had no scab law, and his information was to the effect that scab was very general there. It was his opinion that the quarantine should be leveled at that entire State.

"Speaking of the conditions in this State Mr. Chattin said there was very little scab among the sheep. In some sections it had appeared but prompt steps had been taken and spread of the disease had been stopped. If the Idaho sheep were protected from scab from the outside, he said, there was no danger. He and his deputies were doing their utmost to keep scab out.

"A short time ago, Mr. Chattin related, a band of 4,000 sheep belonging to the Swift concern was driven into Owyhee county from Nevada. Many of the sheep were scabby, but they reached Cassia county before they were stopped. The deputy inspector in that county arrested the man in charge of the sheep and quarantined the band as provided by law.

"Mr. Chattin said it was much better to quarantine against scabby sheep in other States than to quarantine them after they reach Idaho. He cited Malad valley as an example, saying there was only enough feed there for the local sheep during the dipping season. It is just at that time that Utah sheep men desire to drive their sheep into Idaho, through Malad valley. Should they be allowed to come in they would be quarantined at once, and during the quarantine period would graze to the serious loss of the Idahoans in the business there."

A representative of the "News" made it a point to interview a number of Salt Lake sheep men today with a view to ascertaining whether or not that the claim made by Mr. Chattin that Utah sheep were being kept out of Idaho on account of scab and whether scab really prevailed here to the extent that Mr. Chattin's remarks would indicate. They emphatically denied that there was any considerable amount of scab in the State, and all agreed that there was less this year than last when Utah sheep were freer from the disease than were those of Idaho. Secretary Callister of the Utah Wool Growers' association summed the situation up from the Utah man's standpoint as follows:

SECRETARY CALLISTER TALKS.

"The reason for keeping Utah sheep out of Idaho is very plain and deceives no one. When the inspector of that State declares that there is no other reason for keeping out Utah sheep than that they are scabby he simply does not state the facts. The truth is that the governor's proclamation keeps out all Utah sheep, whether clean or unclean. I know it is claimed that the clean sheep are being kept out for the reason it is said that they have roamed over the same ranges upon which heards afflicted with scab have been grazing. If Idaho could get the taxes of the Utah sheep men without their sheep it would be all right, but it is well known that the Idaho sheep men desire a monopoly on the ranges of that State, that is the spring and summer ranges. They have little or no winter ranges of their own and when Idaho sheep are not driven over into Utah to winter, they must be fed. It seems all right to the Idaho sheep men to winter his herds on Utah ranges, but it appears to be all wrong for Utah herds to summer on Idaho ranges. Strange what a difference it makes, isn't it?

IS AN OLD FIGHT.

"Utah sheep men are simply having the same fight over again that they have had with men of the same business in Idaho for years. It will be remembered that the Utah men recently fought the case through the State courts of Idaho and that they were beaten in the supreme court of that State. The case is now on appeal before the Supreme Court of the United States, and ex-Senator Brown of Utah, who represents the Utah sheep men, declares most positively, and his clients fully believe him, that the ruling of the supreme court of Idaho was unconstitutional and that the Supreme Court of the United States will so hold. The appeal was taken about two months ago and the case has not yet been set for hearing at Washington.

UTAH SHEEP GENERALLY CLEAN.

"As to Utah sheep having scab, I want to say that reports indicate that there is as little if not less of the disease in Utah than in any other State of the Union. It is true that Utah has no scab law and it is true that it is getting along very well without one. It had such a law, but it was repealed at the request of the sheep men upon whom it worked a shardship by reason of the fact that under it every county had its inspector to whom fees had to be paid, and that, too, when his inspection often amounted to nothing for the reason that the herds were clean. Why should there be scab among the sheep of Utah? It is to the advantage of every owner of sheep to dip them and he does so because he knows that by doing so he will have cleaner flocks and will get better prices for his wool and mutton. This is so self-evident that it needs no argument to contradict it. The fact is that this cry about Utah sheep being scabby is all a subterfuge and needs no further contradiction."

REPUBLICAN MEETING.

A League Convention Called to Meet in Salt Lake on May 10.

The following official call for a State convention of Republican league clubs has been issued from the headquarters at Ogden:

"In accordance with the call of the National Republican league, dated March 1, 1900, a Republican State league convention of Utah is hereby called to convene in Salt Lake City on Thursday, the 10th day of May, 1900, at 10 o'clock a. m. sharp, at the Salt Lake Theater.

"Said Republican State league convention is called for the purpose of electing ten delegates and ten alternate delegates to the National Republican league convention, to be held in St. Paul, Minn., July 17, 1900, and to elect a president, a vice president, a secretary, a treasurer and an auditor of the Republican State league of Utah and to consider such other business as may regularly come before the convention.

"The presidents of the several Republican league clubs are requested to call a meeting of the clubs on the same evening that the regular Republican primaries are held.

"The Republican league clubs are entitled, first, to two delegates for each club, and, second, to one delegate for each fifty members, or majority fraction thereof, enrolled on the club rolls.

"It is recommended that those clubs residing some distance from Salt Lake City shall elect as near as possible those ladies and gentlemen as delegates who are also selected as delegates to the Republican State convention, which meets on the same date in Salt Lake City, in order to insure a full attendance.

ABOUT FARMERS' CONGRESS.

B. F. Clayton, One of the Leaders of Congress, Talks.

Hon. B. F. Clayton of Indianola, Ia., and his wife, are in the city, the guests of Mr. Clayton's nephew, E. F. Clayton, at 437 east Third South street. Mr. Clayton has been connected for many years with the National Farmers' Congress, being at present the chairman of its executive committee, and while he is visiting with friends and relatives, he will devote much of his time to the interests of the Farmers' Congress. Mr. Clayton says that the organization is absolutely non-political, and must not be confounded with the Farmers' Alliance or the Grange movement. Its object is to formulate such measures as the agricultural interests of the country may need, and then asking Congress to enact them into laws. Also to further the literary and educational interests of the farming population by providing good programs at its meetings and by aiding in the arrangements of the courses of study in agricultural and other schools.

Mr. Clayton was secretary of the Farmers' Congress, and its president four years. The congress is made up of one representative from each State agricultural society, all agricultural colleges, and State horticultural societies. It also has two representatives at large, corresponding to United States senators.

The twentieth annual meeting of the Farmers' Congress will begin at Colorado Springs the 21st of August next, for a four days' session. It is expected that a one fare rate for the round trip will be secured from all parts of the country although that concession has never been made before. Mr. Clayton expects Governor Wells to appoint the best posted man in Utah to give an address on irrigation and the handling of arid lands before the coming meeting at Colorado Springs. He is taking advantage of the meeting of the governors of the semi-arid States, and is working up considerable enthusiasm in the West for his organization. Mr. Clayton is president of the board of trustees of the Simpson College at his home, having held that position for fifteen years.

COUNTY COURT.

The county commissioners met at 2 o'clock yesterday and opened the bids of the three daily papers for publishing the list of county real estate to be auctioned off during May. The property is mostly made up of outlying pieces, acquired in the past by the county for the non-payment of taxes, and the law calls for the list to be published five times. The commissioners asked each paper to bid on five publications, once a week, and required each to fill a statement of its circulation in Salt Lake county for the past thirty days. The Herald's bid was 20 cents for each name. Its total circulation was stated at 7,828, of which about one-half was in Salt Lake county.

The Tribune made no bid, stated that its total circulation was 9,956, but gave no figures for Salt Lake county.

The "News" bid was 16 cents for each name, for five publications in its Saturday issue, the Salt Lake county circulation of which was stated at 4,145. If the Semi-Weekly issue were used, the circulation would be about 1,200 additional.

The Tribune requested that bids be solicited on the basis of each 1,000 of circulation, but the board denied the request and awarded the publication to the "News." The first insertion of the list will be given Saturday next.
