$40,000 DAMAGE SUIT.

Action of Fred. A. Shields Against Salt Lake Herald for Libel.

Boiler Burst in Academy Building—Disastrous Result of a Blast of Lime Rock.

OGDEN, - - APRIL 27, 1900.

A complaint has been prepared by Geo. M. McCormick, attorney for Fred. A. Shields, against the Herald company of Salt Lake City, for $40,000 damages; alleged to be due because of the publication in defendant's paper on April 25, 1900, of a report of certain papers that had been filed in the Second district court, which, among other things, charges the alleged defalcation of moneys belonging to the R. J. Hill estate, and conspiracy to defraud said estate of its rightful assets.

The complaint sets forth that said publication was and is false and defamatory; and that by reason of this the plaintiff has been damaged in the sum sued for.

Mr. Wattis, the Ogden representative of the Herald, was seen about the matter. He says that no summons has been served on him, and so far as he could learn none has been served on any other representative of the company. "There was," he says, "no malice whatever in the preparation of the report; it was a conscientious piece of work. The paper from which the report was taken was filed for record and therefore had become a public document; and in the future his paper will continue to publish such matters of news."

BOILER BURST.

Yesterday the boiler of the Weber Stake Academy blowed up, causing considerable damage. The boiler burst open and the boiler room was considerably damaged, and for that reason the academy building is very chilly this cool weather. The man who runs the furnace was ill and some of the students had been running the heating apparatus, and not having much knowledge of that kind of work let the boiler run dry, with the above results. It will cost the institution about $100 to put the boiler and room in good condition again.

DISASTROUS ROCK BLAST.

Yesterday afternoon some blasting was being done up near the lime kiln in Ogden canyon, and when one of the shots went off it threw a rock weighing several tons down the mountain side. The rock rolled and struck the city water works main steel pipe, smashing a large hole in it, and then rolled a short distance further, breaking down one of the power company's poles, and breaking the electric wires. The water from the water works pipe gushed out, causing quite a cut in the canyon before it could be shut off. A number of men were taken up the canyon last evening to repair the pipe and pole and to fix up the washout.

A marriage license was granted to Wm. W. Snell, 38, of Butte, Montana, and Miss Catherina H. Page, 38, of St. Joseph, Missouri. They were united in bonds of holy matrimony by Judge M. A. Breeden, at his office.

PROVO.

STATE VS DR. F. H. SIMMONS

Now being Heard — Arrowsmith Divorce—Mrs. Thompson Arraigned.

Special Correspondence.

Provo, April 26.—The greater part of the day has been taken up in the Fourth district court with the case of the State vs Dr. F. H. Simmons, charged with failing to properly label poison, to wit: carbolic acid, which was sold to and caused the death of George Choules in January last.

Dr. Simmons is 70 years of age and has practiced medicine for a great number of years in Provo. At the time in question he was employed as druggist at the Elkhorn drug store. The prosecution contends that George Stagg was sent by Mr. Choules to get 25 cents worth of gin, and instead of the doctor giving the gin, substituted carbolic acid and failed to label the same a poison. The bottle was taken to Mr. Choules, who drank from it, and in about 30 minutes died from the effects.

The defense claims that Stagg called for carbolic acid and it was given to him and properly labeled, but that in putting the bottle on the inside pocket the label did not stick and was rubbed off.

All the testimony was taken and the case argued, but will not go to the jury until tomorrow morning.

WANTS TO BE LIBERATED.

Henry Arrowsmith has filed a suit in the fourth district court for divorce against Sarah L. Arrowsmith. The complaint alleges that on March 21 the defendant committed adultery with one Amasa Smith and continues to meet him and commit said crime. The plaintiff prays for a divorce and custody of four minor children. The couple were married in Provo in 1884.

CONDEMNATION SUIT.

Utah county has field an action against Thomas Boardman to secure a right of way over defendant's land for a pipe line and reservoir site, to get water from plaintiff's spring to the county infirmary.

SUIT ON A DEBT.

L. E. Hall has commenced action against Anthony M. and Elise Sophia Nelson on two causes of action, for the recovery of moneys due plaintiff, aggregating $393.04.

WANTS JUDGMENT SETTLED.

Pierpont & Heaton, foundrymen, have instituted proceedings against J. E. Armitstead, to have a judgment cancelled, alleging that the same has been fully paid. Plaintiffs ask that defendant be compelled to release the judgment or that it be done so by an order of the court.

COMMITTED TO THE ASYLUM.

Edwin Aston, of Pleasant Grove was today committed to the asylum by Judge Booth. The examination was conducted by Drs. Robison and Allen. Aston was an inmate of the institution some years ago.

MRS. THOMPSON ARRAIGNED.

Mrs. Amanda Thompson was this afternoon arraigned before Justice King on the charge of adultery with one F. A. Dutcher. The defendant waived preliminary examination and was bound over to the district court without bail.

BEAVER.

RECEPTION TO EXPEDITION.

Two Days Entertainment, with a Grand Banquet and Ball.

Special Correspondence.

Beaver, Utah, April 26.—After a weary journey through mud and slush from Kanosh, the Brigham Young Academy South American expedition, arrived in this city at 5 o'clock on Tuesday the 24th inst. and was met a few miles out of town by a large representation of the citizens. Upon arriving near the meeting house square, where a huge concourse of people were assembled to do the travelers honor, our visitors were greeted by Mayor F. D. Farnsworth, who in a neat little speech extended the freedom of the city to them, an appreciative response was made by Prest. B. Cluff, Jr., accepting the courtesy in behalf of his "boys." The company then proceeded to the school, the Beaver branch of the B. Y. A., as the guests of the faculty and students. An entertainment consisting of the drama, "Earnest Maltravers," followed by a farce "Her Choice Between Them," was the order of the evening, which was generously patronized and appreciated.

Wednesday the 25th was Beaver's day to entertain the members of the expedition, and certainly she surpassed herself upon the occasion. The Opera House was the scene of the festivities and was decorated with bunting, flags, flowers etc., in a gorgeous manner. A banquet sufficient to satisfy the demands of an army had been prepared, and after the assemblage was seated, the first part of an elaborate program was rendered. This consisted of a speech of welcome by Master of Ceremonies J. F. Tolton and response by Prest. Cluff, after which a number of quartets, duets, solos, etc., were rendered, it would be invidious to particularize the merits of the various numbers, as all were good, a song by Miss Lucy Fotheringham, entitled, "I'll return," and a duet for cornet and piano, by Prof. Geo. W. Woodhouse, and Miss Vie Christian are worthy of especial mention.

The banquet was partaken of with gusto, and after it was disposed of the balance of the program was rendered. No effort was spared to make the enjoyment of our guests complete. A dance for the benefit of the expedition was given in the evening. The affair all through was a pronounced success. Today the company will be banqueted and feted at the school, and tomorrow will move on to Parowan.

When things are "the best" they become "the best selling." Abraham Hare, a leading druggist, of Belleville, O., writes: "Electric Bitters are the best selling bitters I have handled in twenty years. Electric Bitters tones up the stomach, regulates liver, kidneys and bowels, purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves, hence cures multitudes of maladies. It builds up the entire system. BRIGHAM CITY.

VOTE ON SCHOOL SITE.

Main Street Location Selected — Death of William Knudsen.

Special Correspondence.

Brigham City, April 26.—Wm. Knudson, an aged and respected citizen of this city, passed away Friday, April 20. He had been ailing for some time past but was not considered seriously ill and death came as a shock to his large family and many friends. He was the father of the well known produce dealers Knudson Bros. Funeral services were held in the Second ward meeting house Saturday April 21st.

VOTE ON SCHOOL SITE.

Yesterday the taxpayers of this city decided to build their new central school on the square west of the tabernacle. At the meeting held in the court house before the voting began, all the available sites were discussed but the contest narrowed down to the one by the tabernacle and the small square east of the court house. Considerable interest was taken in the voting. Those favoring the Main street site, fearing there would be considerable opposition, turned out in force and the result was that 177 votes were cast in favor of the tabernacle square as against 39 for the other location.

Edward H. Anderson, of the Y. M. M. I. A. general board, was in Brigham last Sunday and delivered two most excellent discourses in the tabernacle, one in the afternoon and another in the evening, under the auspices of the local Mutual Improvement Associations.

GONE TO BIG HORN.

Last week Heber Perry, a prominent citizen of Three Mile Creek, sold out his property and left for the Big Horn in Wyoming.

HARDSHIP ON IRRIGATORS.

The farmers of Bear River Valley using water from the big canal have received notice that their contracts with the former owners are null and void, and if they wish to have a valid water right they must enter into new contracts with the present owners who will ask $15 per acre for the water right, together with some extra yearly rentals. As many of the farmers have already paid large sums for water, this extra assessment does not come kindly to them. A meeting of the farmers interested has been called for next Saturday at Fairview to consider what can be done in the matter.

Millions Given Away.

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern which is not afraid to be generous. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, have given away over ten million trial bottles and have the satisfaction of knowing it has cured thousands of hopeless cases. MORGAN.

DASHED TO DEATH.

Further Particulars of the Killing of George Staker.

Special Correspondence.

Morgan City, Morgan Co., April 24.—Saturday last in the afternoon, as a U. P. freight train was pulling out of Morgan, a young tramp was seen to swing onto a break beam and was as quickly put off by Geo. Staker, the caboose brakeman, but he managed to get on again, and Staker did not know which car he got under, so to make sure of his man he mounted the cars and proceeded to the forward car and commenced the search. By running down the ladder on the side of the car and peering under, in this manner he proceeded the length of the train without locating the genus tramp. The train being a long one, it appears that it reached the first bridge after leaving Morgan about the time he got ready to go down on the last car, just going onto the bridge, when he must have lost his hold or missed his footing in the hurry, and went headlong into the river, breaking his neck. He was not missed by the balance of the crew till Echo was reached, enquiring for him, the tramp said he saw something drop into the river at the first bridge from Morgan, and a search was at once instituted, resulting in finding the dead body a few rods down the river. He leaves a wife and five children.

Justice of Peace S. Francis just held an inquest on the body. Thos. F. Welch, Jas. R. Stuart and D. A. Robison were summoned as jurors, and a verdict of accidental death returned.

We are having beautiful spring showers.

WASHINGTON.

Bounteous Rains — Silk Prospects Good—Schools Closing.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, Washington Co., April 24.—The primary department of the district school closed on the 20th inst. and the scholars had an enjoyable time in the grove south of our city.

A cold wave swept over the country Saturday morning, 21st inst.; clouds also came and in the afternoon it began raining. It rained most of the night, also on Sunday and Monday, but is clearing up today, and is pleasant. There has been no heavy frost yet.

The silk worms are growing fast and getting fat, the leaves being more juicy and palatable to them this season than last, and cocoons this year are likely to be much superior.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

SODA SPRINGS, IDAHO.

Promise of Good Crops — Getting Ready for Tourists.

Special Correspondence.

Soda Springs, Idaho, April 26.—Crops and grain are growing fine. We have prospects for the finest crops we have ever had here, as so far there has been no frost.

Our little village is improving, several new buildings have gone up and more are under way. The fine Idanhoe house that has laid dormant for some time, is being repainted and repaired, and Landlord Woodall expects to open up May 1st, when he will be prepared to entertain the seeker after health and rest in royal style. Our friend, L. Suhrke, has cleaned out the Woodruff Spring and it is now running full of the finest soda water that ever man drank; the other springs are all booming, and when the weather settles, Soda Springs will be in good order to receive the weary and thirsty traveler, who while drinking the life and health-giving water, which is free to all, can at the same time, be breathing the purest air that man ever inhaled, and can now live as his purse will permit.

Our Church organizations, Sunday school, Mutual Improvement and Theological classes have all been well attended and much good will result therefrom.

IDAHO.

Crop and Weather Conditions.

Boise, Idaho, April 24.—In the western counties the temperature averaged considerably above the normal and no frost occurred; light wind prevailed, except on Sunday, when it increased in force from the northwest; practically no precipitation occurred in the southwestern counties and in the northern districts it was light. In the eastern counties the character of the weather was showery and cool; the precipitation was in excess of the normal; no frost occurred. For the whole State the sunshine was exceptionally deficient.

FRUIT.

Fruit trees have commenced to bloom in the extreme eastern counties under favorable conditions; late blooming fruit trees are in bloom in the southwestern counties and the progress of bloom was undisturbed in the northern counties. In Ada, Canyon and Elmore counties apple trees and strawberry plants are in full bloom, and peach and apricot bloom is in condition to withstand light frost without suffering injury. The weather having been mild and cloudy, fruit trees made exceptionally rapid progress, and if favorable conditions continue, the crop will be unusually large.

GRAIN AND GRASS.

Except in sections of Bear Lake and Kootenai counties, the spring grain crop has been sown. Light rains that occurred in the eastern counties favored germination; in sections where the grain has sprouted the stand is unusually good. Fall grain looks well in all sections of the State. Grass on the range continues to improve and all hay crops give promise of large yields.

GARDENS.

Planting of early vegetables is being completed, and lettuce, radishes, onions and peas are in market in some sections; potatoes were extensively planted last week. A larger acreage of melons is under cultivation and the plants are making good growth.

STOCK.

Stock continues in excellent condition and the weather has been favorable for young lambs. Sheep shearing is about one-third done and the wool clip is of good quality.

EMILE ZOLA ON WAR.

Emile Zola, the French novelist, who, two years ago, added lustre to a name already famous by his scathing and effectual arraignment before the world of a cabal of military chiefs, who had conspired to sacrifice the honor and the life of an innocent man in order to conceal infamies for which they were responsible, contributes to the April number of the North American Review a brilliant article on "War." M. Zola declares himself the enemy of war, and while he deplores the fact that the purposes and the energies of the nations are to a large extent directed toward preparations for war, he finds compensation in the probability that, were a great conflict to occur, the exhausted world would have to turn itself to the pursuits of peace. As to his own country, M. Zola would not counsel disarmament so long as neighboring peoples are armed to the teeth; but he longs for the time when France shall live by her men of learning, by her thinkers, and when she shall realize that it is by fostering labor, by hastening the advent of a state of society in which justice will reign, that such a nation as France can make herself mistress of the future. M. Zola thinks the growth of the military spirit in England is an ominous fact. Referring to England's apparent desire to make herself mistress of the most important posts in the world, he says:

"Such is England's dream, and her symptoms in this regard are indeed alarming. Therefore is Rudyard Kipling the most popular English novelist: it is no longer Diskens, the charming narrator, that the nation reads; no, Kipling is the author now winning loudest applause, Kipling, who is almost a soldier, a bugle sounding the charge. He fan's all England's warlike passions, chooses his types from the new generation, and these types are those of men ready for war, putting in war their only hope, developing themselves morally and physically for war—in fact, having naught else in view but fighting and conquest. Until now, England has escaped the military spirit, in the sense that she has not had conscription. She has had no experience of the blood tax, for she always had, and still has, paid troops. But the possibility of establishing military conscription in England, as it now exists in France and Germany, has already been discussed in the house of lords and commons. And this fact is singularly significant. After the battle of Waterloo and the defeat of Napoleon, England was wise enough not to be intoxicated with the glory of victory, and was satisfied with an army of hired soldiers; but today she is prone to introduce the system of military conscription."

PRES. M'KINLEY AND THE TWINS.

When my turn came to pay respects to the President, Colonel Loeffler, the doorkeeper, motioned to me, and a delegation of sturdy, honest looking country people sitting near by thought he had intended that official wave of his arm for them. As they had started, it was thought best not to tell them of the mistake, for they had waited a long time. As we entered, the gentleman leading the party was asked his name for the introduction. He was so excited that he could only mutter:

"I'm from Indiana—I—I—forgot. This is my—"

He had forgotten his name, and the others, in looking about in open-eyed wonderment, were also struck dumb for the time, but when they had hold of the President's hand they were soon at ease chatting in a pleasant way, and the names were recalled. As they passed out I explained matters, and the President replied in a hearty, cheery manner: "Oh; that is all right. These are the kind of people I like to meet." On coming out, I was accosted by my friend from Indiana.

"By Jinks, I was excited! The President's just the kind that makes a fellow feel at home, ain't he? Say, I forgot to tell him what we cum for—we've got twin boys, named William and McKinley. I tell you, they're busters! She's the mother of 'em," he whispered to me, pointing to his wife. There was an honest look of affection and pride in his eyes; and it is these sincere people—close to the soil—sturdy and patriotic—who are the bulwarks of the nation's strength.—Joe Mitchell Chapple in "The National Magazine" for April.

SOME FACTS ON THE WAR.

During the war with the United States, Spain had in Havana about 100,000 trained soldiers, commanded by the best officers in the Spanish army, and all wildly impatient to put an end to their long idleness and strike a blow in aid of their country. With such a force, behind such defenses, it was little wonder that some of General Blanco's officers actually wept when told of the peaceful surrender of Cuba to the Americans. Five hundred and twenty Spanish soldiers held General Lawton and his army at bay at Caney for ten hours, and only yielded when over two hundred and fifty of them had been killed or wounded and eighty had retreated. Less than one thousand Spanish soldiers on the hill of San Juan brought heavy loss, confusion, and dismay to General Shafter's army. American officers familiar with the surroundings of Havana now believe that the defenses of that city could not have been successfully stormed by an American army of less than 100,000, assited by the navy, and that even then the loss to the American side would have been at least twenty thousand men.—Harper's Weekly.

UNCLE SAM AND CHINA.

American trade with China has trebled itself in the last seven years. Counting in the exports to Hongkong it is at the present moment worth about $25,000,000 a year. What it will be worth in the future depends entirely on the personal efforts of American merchants backed up by the administration. Except Japan, the United States stands in a better geographical position than any other country to supply China with the goods she needs. The resources are here, the inventive skill is here, too, and every year finds the home market less and less sufficient to the American artisan, as it long has been to the farmer. To no nation does the opening up of China promise better things—provided a fair field and no favor is still maintained.—Harper's Weekly.
