Grand Duchess Vladimir Defies an Order of the Czar.

"AUNTIE" WILL NOT OBEY.

He Forbade Baccarat and Roulette, and She Says She Will Have Them in Society.

New York, Sept. 4.—A dispatch to the Journal and Advertiser from Berlin says:

A very serious quarrel has broken out between the czar and his aunt, the Drand Guchess Vladimir, which has had the result of causing her husband, the grand duke, to tender the resignation of his office as commander of the metropolitan military district of St. Petersburg and of the imperial guard.

The whole trouble has not only set Russian society by the ears, but it has also perturbed several foreign courts, including that of Emperor William. It is due to a question of baccarat and roulette.

Last spring the czar, alarmed by the extraordinary increase of the scandals at court, in society, in the army band, even among the high clergy, due to high play, issued an edict strictly forbidding baccarat or roulette.

This ukase followed almost immediately the startling discovery made by Emperor Nicholas that the chamber of one of the principal churches of the metropolis had pawned the church plate and jewels to pay gambling debts contracted at baaccarat and roulette.

By the army and clergy, the emperor's commands have been obeyed, and baccarat has been stopped at the yacht and other leading clubs.

But society has treated the imperial edict with something very much akin to derision, and largely owing to the attitude adopted by the Grand Duchess Vladimir.

The latter, a German princess by birth, and the only foreign lady who has declined to change the faith she was reared in for that of her husband, on marriage to a Russian duke, is passionately addicted to games of this character.

To her is due the introduction of the roulette table as an article of furniture in the saloons of most of the palaces and mansions of St. Petersburg, and the edict of her nephew in no way modified her openly proclaimed determination to visit no house and to attend no entertainment where roulette and baccarat were not provided for her amusement.

On discovering the manner in which his orders were defied and the part which the grand duchess has played in the matter, the czar intimated to her that unless she set an example of obedience to his request he would reluctantly be compelled to visit her with a public token of his displeasure by banishing her for a time from court and depriving her of the use of the imperial liveries and of imperial honors.

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

Lieut. Von Krohn Tells of the First Effort to Reach Pekin.

Had to Contend Against Tremendous Odds—Attacked by Froops and Boxers—Hard Fighting.

San Francisco, Sept. 4.—Lieut. Von Krohn of the German navy, who was with one of the relief columns under Admiral Seymour, which made a futile attempt to rescue the beleaguered foreign legations at Pekin in June, has arrived here on the steamer Doric, much the worse for his experience at the hands of the Boxers. He lost an eye in the retreat to Tien Tsin and is on his way home on sick leave.

Speaking of his experience Lieut. Von Krohn said:

"Our serious troubles began after we left Tien Tsin for Pekin. The Boxers destroyed the railroad in front of us and behind us; and, in spite of our precautions, cut off our line of communication with Tien Tsin. Provisions began to run short, and, as the only means of preservation from total annihilation, Admiral Seymour determined to turn back.

"That march back to Tien Tsin was a terrible experience. We had been out eight days, had been subjugated to a galling fire during the entire period, and had run short of ammunition. We were not prepared for a siege campaign, or we could have made it more interesting for the Boxers, and, I might add, for the imperial troops. It was not until we started on our retreat that we realized that the imperial troops were supporting the Boxers. Troops from Pekin, armed with modern weapons, and apparently well-drilled, closed in on us, and throughout our retreat we had to contend against tremendous odds.

"Our most eventful experience was during the night of the 22nd, when we were attempting to make a long night march under cover of darkness. We reached Chee Ku, which is about seven miles from Tien Tsin, at 4 o'clock in the morning, and there ran into a formidable body of troops holding a fort on the opposite side of the river. We could see the Chinese soldiers, less than 100 yards away, standing by their guns, but as they did not shoot on our approach we presumed they were not going to molest us. One of our officers stepped forward and asked if any of their number could speak English, and, as if this were the signal for the beginning of hostilities, they opened fire with machine guns and rifles. The fire was galling, but it caused the column to swerve for only a moment. Then we sought shelter and began picking off the gunners by rifle fire. Then a dash was made across the river. The German troops captured two guns and the English took another, and no time was lost in turning them upon the Chinese, who were soon put to flight. We were subsequently informed that the fort was garrisoned by 8,000 imperial troops and Boxers. They were routed through sheer pluck and bravery. After that eventful experience we managed to reach Tien Tsin with little difficulty."

Cotton Commission Law.

New York, Sept. 4.—The new cotton commission law, recently adopted by the Cotton Exchange, will go into practical effect today. The law was to become operative on September 1st, but as that day was made an extra holiday and yesterday was Labor day, the new rule is really in force from today. The law, in substance, makes it obligatory on the part of brokers and commission houses charging those not members of the exchange a commission at the rate of $10 per hundred bales for the round turn in the purchase and sale of contracts of 100 bales each.

Quite a controversy has arisen over a ruling of the committee on commissions, providing for one-half commissions on open contracts entered into prior to September 1st. The committee has ruled that on such contracts the commission charge for each purchase or sale shall be at one-half of the rate for the round turn prevailing between the parties in interest prior to September 1st. But the charge for closing such transaction after September 1st shall be in accordance with the by-laws. This is to apply to both members and non-members' business. For example, assuming the prevailing rate for a non-member prior to September 1st was $5, covering both the purchase and sale of the contract for 100 bales and the transaction is closed after September 1st, then the charge would be one-half of $5 for the initial part of the trade, and one-half of $10 for closing the same, thus making the total charge for the round turn on that transaction $7.50.

This ruling has placed many brokers in something of a dilemma, since they previously had agreed with their customers to execute these open orders at $2.50 per round turn. The ground taken by the committee is that either to buy or sell cotton in the open market after September 1st, be it to close an outstanding interest, is nevertheless a new transaction, and thus comes under the new commission law.

Vanderbilt for Congress.

New, York, Sept. 4.—Cornelius Vanderbilt, fourth of his name in the Vanderbilt family, would not be unwilling to run for Congress, according to a dispatch to the Times from Saratoga. He is a delegate to the Republican State convention from the Twenty-fourth New York district.

In response to a question, Mr. Vanderbilt said:

"I have not thought of office-holding, yet I should not be averse to representing a constituency in Congress or in any other legislative body. But I am not seeking any office. I simply want to do my duty as a citizen. I do not care to say much on this subject. I am only a novice."

"Would you like to go to Congress?" was asked.

"Certainly," he answered, "but it is not for me to pass upon that sort of a question. If called on I shall respond."

MUST HAVE AMERICAN AID

Britain Cannot Settle the Chinese Question Without It.

Disappointed at America Wanting to Withdraw from Pekin—Hopes to Beat Russian Game.

New York, Sept. 4.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says:

Explanations of the American circular note, which have been cabled here from Washington, have caused general astonishment. Whatever the state department may have meant to convey, Downing street understood the United States government to be supporting Russia's proposal for immediate retirement from Pekin.

The British foreign office has received two disagreeable surprises in the last week. It was justly annoyed at finding that Russia, after all her declarations of affection for the international concert, had calmly given orders for the retirement of the Russian troops and legation, without even waiting to hear what the other powers thought of the movement.

But the attitude of the United States was almost equally disconcerting. The British government thought it was entitled to rely on American support in the endeavor to settle the Chinese question effectually. The British official view is that this retirement from Pekin is only advantageous for Russia, which kills three birds with one stone. In the first place she has her troops free for use where she wants them just now, namely, in Manchuria; second, she limits the expenditure of money, which, in the present condition of her finances, is highly desirable; third, she prevents the possible removal of the Chinese seat of government from Pekin, where, for reasons of her own, she particularly desires that it should remain.

But, in general, non-Russian interests believe the withdrawal is a mistake, since the Chinese will simply believe the powers are afraid of them. There will be no reorganization, no permanent safety for foreigners and no guarantee of an "open door."

If Great Britain, in her effort to secure a durable settlement once for all, could rely on solid American backing, she could put herself at the head of a combination of at least four powers, and so defeat the Russian project. Were England and America united on this point, Japan certainly, and Germany probably, would join them; but without the United States the combination would fall through and England's effort to arrange the eastern question without partitioning China or without leaving that empire in a condition to invite future intervention, may have to be abandoned.

English statesmen thought that they had a right to count on American aid in pursuing an unselfish policy which is for the common benefit of the civilized world, and they will be deeply disappointed to find that they are mistaken and that American regard for the "open door" and Chinese integrity is limited to words. The moment the United States is asked to accept some amount of responsibility, it hastily effaces itself and executes a precipitate retreat.

Active communications are now passing between London and Washington and London and Pekin. The final decision of the British government can be easily predicted. Unless some prospect is held out of active support of the non-retirement policy by the United States, it is probable the Russian example will eventually be imitated by all the other powers. France, in any case, will follow Russia. Germany may do the same, though with great reluctance, sooner than separate from her eastern and western neighbors. England, under these circumstances, will naturally feel that she is not called upon to incur the risks and burdens of a winter occupation of Pekin, and will also withdraw after a vigorous protest and attempt to convince the allied governments of the grievous mistake that is being made.

It should be recalled that with Taku harbor closed by ice and Russia holding the northern railway it would be very difficult to convey supplies to an army of occupation in winter without Russian co-operation.

Before sending a circular to the queen's representatives abroad, giving them a definite outline of the British policy in the situation that has now arisen, Lord Salisbury will wait to hear the opinion of Sir Claude Macdonald. This has not been obtained in full, owing to interruption of telegraphic communication.

LABOR DAY AT VARIOUS RESORTS

Big Crowds Turn Out and Enjoy Themselves Thoroughly.

CLAM BAKE AT THE LAGOON

Saltair Attracted 4,000 People, Who Spent the Day in Dancing and Bathing.

The resorts yesterday attracted large crowds although in number, perhaps, they did not approach the large attendance that marks the holidays in midsummer. This state of affairs is to be accounted for in the fact that the season is drawing to a close and the people apparently have had practically sufficient of the various resorts for the time being. Nevertheless fully 10,000 people availed themselves of the Labor Day holiday and hied themselves to the various resorts.

Saltair was the rendezvous for a big crowd to the number of 4,000, while Lagoon also drew a crowd of very large proportions. The celebration of Labor Day passed off quietly without any accidents or unpleasantness of a character usually associated with big holiday crowds.

CROWD AT SALTAIR.

Four Thousand People Went Out to the Lake Yesterday.

Despite the fact that the Lake season is practically over a multitude took advantage of the Labor Day attractions yesterday and went out to Saltair. There have been bigger holiday crowds handled by the railroad and beach companies this year, but, all things taken into consideration, it was a splendid and orderly gathering. It is estimated that fully 4,000 people went out to the lake yesterday, out of which number fully 1,000 enjoyed the pastime of disporting in the water or rollicking upon the sand bars that have been left high and dry by the action of the sun during the past drouth. The water was of a pleasant temperature—just warm enough to be pleasant—and many people were heard to express themselves that it was the bath of the season.

In addition to the varied amusements of the day those who went out in the evening were regaled to an unrehearsed pyrotechnical display on the part of nature upon lines seldom seen in this State. After beautiful effects across the sky in the way of lighning, the storm broke across the lake in all the wild splendor attached to a heavy squall on a tropical sea. Those who witnessed the grand sight afterwards expressed themselves as being perfectly contented with the wetting they received on their homeward trip and thought it cheap at that price. Owing to the summer weather which still prevails in all probability the lake season will be prolonged for another two weeks.

AT LAGOON.

Federated Trades Regale on Baked Clams a la Bamberger.

Clams a la Bamberger was the menu out at Lagoon yesterday and so infatuated did some of the pleasure seekers become with the attractions of that pretty resort that some did not return to town until after one o'clock in the morning, when the last train pulled into the city.

Truly it was a great day and a fitting close to the most successful season that that popular resoft has as yet witnessed. The Federation of Labor held the boards from dewy morn till rosey eve, and still later. There were 1,000 pounds of clams which came all the way from Portland to regale the excursionists that flocked to the resort. But then 1,000 pounds of clams baked, boiled or otherwise, do not last very long among four times as many healthy appetites. At a conservative estimate there were fully 4,000 people who spent the day at Lagoon, disported upon the grass, rode on the merry-go-round, danced in the pavilion and generally made merry and enjoyed themselves.

There were field sports and athletic contests in shoals. The principal event of the day being a road race. In the afternoon the nines of the Bricklayers' Protective association and the Painter and Decorators' union crossed bats upon the classic diamond. When the dust of strife had ultimately cleared away it was found that the bricklayers had wrested the laurels from the brow of their opponents to the tune of 17 to 15. Then the Building Laborers' Protective association and the stone cutters sailed in and gave a spirited tug of war for the delectation of the spectators, with the result that the stone cutters reired from the fray discomfitted.

The sports commenced at 1 o'clock and lasted until 5 p. m., when the odor of baked clams greeted the nostrils of all concerned. A few moments later Chief Sydney Bamberger, his aids and allies, requested the Philistines to "fall on," which they did with extreme gusto and in a fashion calculated to increase the medical fraternity's work for the next week.

When there was nothing left but the shells and the fond recollection of devoled clams, Samuel Bryson was duly declared to hold the prize for the oldest man on the grounds. As his age was 85 he won out in a canter. To Mary Nicholson, aged 78, was awarded the palm for the oldest lady present.

Taken all in all the people enjoyed themselves to the top of their bent; even Steve Tyne found time during his arduous duties as master of ceremonies to indulge in youthful hilarity at stated intervals throughout the day.

WATER TURNED IN.

New Reservoir on First South Gets Its Christening.

At 7 o'clock last night City Engineer Kelsey turned the water into the new reservoir at the head of First South and Thirteenth East street. For eleven hours and a half the greater portion of Parley's canyon creek poured its volume into the big receptacle, after which it was turned off for the day. Tonight it will again be diverted into the reservoir and the flow kept up from night to night until it is filled. Two million gallons were emptied into it last night, and probably as much more will go in tonight. Its capacity is five million gallons.

City Engineer Kelsey said today that a neat house would immediately be erected over the big valve, and a watchman stationed therein. A six foot board fence will also be built at once.

THEY DID NOT MEET.

Conference of Councilmen and Board Failed Last Night.

Councilman Davis, chairman of the waterworks committee, and City Engineer Kelsey were the only two who put in an appearance at the Council chamber last night to attend the meeting of the committees on municipal laws and waterworks, to consider the engineer's protest against the board of public works in the matter of the revision of his specifications for contract work and ignoring him in the matter of supervision of contract jobs connected with projected improvements.

Just why the rest of the councilmen did not put in their appearance was not apparent unless they were taking a holiday incidental to Labor Day or whether Councilman Thomas expressed intention of having the committees meet with the board instead of vice versa. Councilman Davis last night, after waiting around the corridors for an extended period, expressed himself to the effect that this idea would not go into effect, and that the board must meet with the committees, and not the committees with the board. Just how this will terminate remains for the future to bring forth. In the meantime the outcome will be watched with interest.

DR. TALKS OF FOOD,

Pres. of Board of Health.

"What shall I eat?" is the daily inquiry the physician is met with. I do not hesitate to say that in my judgment, a large percentage of disease is caused by poorly selected and improperly prepared food. My personal experience with the fully cooked food, known as Grape-Nuts, enables me to speak freely of its merits.

"From overwork, I suffered several years with malnutrition, palpitation of the heart, and loss of sleep. Last summer I was led to experiment personally with the new food, which I used in conjunction with good rich cow's milk. In a short time after I commenced its use, the disagreeable symptoms disappeared, my heart's action became steady and normal, the functions of the stomach were properly carried out and I again slept as soundly and as well as in my youth.

"I look upon Grape-Nuts as a perfect food, and no one can gainsay but that it has a most prominent place in a rational, scientific system of feeding. Any one who uses this food will soon be convinced of the soundness of the principle upon which it is manufactured and may thereby know the facts as to its true worth." W. B. Conway, M. D., pres. Athens, Ga., Board of Health.

LONG DROUTH IS NOW BROKEN.

So Says Weather Clerk Murdock This Morning.

MORE RAIN STORMS COMING.

Shower Last Night Was Distributed Over the Entire State, but Was "Patchy."

At last the protracted drouth has been broken, and, as a consequence, smiling faces are the fashion from Cedar City on the South to Brigham City on the North.

It cannot be said that the shower last night was of such large proportions, for to be exact but 15-100ths of an inch has fallen during the last twenty-four hours, but the edict has gone forth from the [illegible] of weather Clerk Murdoch, in the Dooly block to the effect that the back of the protracted spell of warm summer weather is broken, and that henceforth intermittent showers and cooler weather may be expected. This especially holds good for the next twenty-four hours in this section.

While the welcome storm seems to have been generally universal throughout the State, at the same time the storm may be designatd as belonging to the "checker-board" variety, to the extent that there was a heavier rainfall in some districts than in others, as illustrated last night when the welcome shower was coming down in the proverbial streams upon the devoted heads of the holiday makers in this city there were trans-Jordan spots whereon Jupiter Pluvius bestowed sparse tears. Taken all in all it rained on the just and the unjust as a well regulated storm should do.

Prior to the clouds depositng their surplus moisture upon the parched and grateful earth, mankind, personified in those holiday makers who were abroad last evening, was regaled with one of the most elaborate electrical displays of many moons. From Saltair pavilion the pyrotechnical display over the horizon was extremely beautiful, and the only dissatisfied man out there was Excursion Agent Mann, who regretted that he had not been advised in advance of the show so that he could have featured it as the star attraction.

Precisely at 8:25 p. m., by Mr. Murdoch's chronometer, the first splash of rain visited Salt Lake, followed by others of the same family and attended by a most undignified stampede of millinery and lawn dry goods for friendly awnings and places of shelter.

The shower lasted until 10:20 p. m., by which time the excursionists from the resorts and outside points were storming the street cars and hurrying home, having absorbed more or less moisture in their holiday attire.

The rainstorm did much damage to feathers, muslin and straw hats, but these calamities are offset by the fact that the farmers will now be enabled to indulge in fall plowing, and that the householder henceforth will not live under the ban of a threatened water famine.

No one will regret that the long and serious drouth is now a thing of the past.

There was a slight increase today in the volume of water that comes into the city's distributing system, though no measurement had been reported up up a late hour this afternoon.

MRS. HARRISON'S DEATH.

She Dies Suddenly in a San Francisco Hospital.

The Friends Shocked and Indignant at the Statements Published.

News was received in this city last night to the effect that Mrs. Ardella Young Harrison, daughter of President Brigham Young and Mrs. Emeline Free Young, had passed away in St. Winifred's hospital, San Francisco, from the effects of a bad case of blood poisoning.

The news came as a severe shock to the numerous relatives of the deceased in this city, who, though aware that Mrs. Harrison had been in a precarious state of health for years past, did not anticipate such a sudden termination of the life of the lady afflicted.

It appears that Mrs. Harrison has been under treatment for some time for her particular ailment at the Salt Lake Private hospital. Last Wednesday, without saying anything to any of her friends, she went to San Francisco with the object of being operated upon in that city. The first notification of her intention as received by her relatives being the sad intelligence that she had died from the effects of the operation.

In speaking of the unhappy occurrence this afternoon a brother of the deceased lady said: "We have been aware of her condition for years past and she has been under treatment for the same on a number of occasions. The only reason that I can assign for her going to San Francisco to obtain relief is the fact that she has been there before on other occasions, and has a number of friends there who are medical men and with with whom she became acquainted through her husband, Dr. Frank H. Harrison."

The dispatch as published in a morning paper, which hinted at a criminal operation, was today the cause of considerable grieved indignation among all those who knew the deceased lady, who has always borne an unimpeachable reputation in this city. In Auerbach's store, where Mrs. Harrison has been employed for the past year in the cloak and mantle department, the same indignation was manifested, as Mrs. Harrison's trouble was well known to those of her fellow clerks in whom she had confided and had frequently stated that she intended to undergo an operation.

In course of conversation this morning Mr. Adkins, the manager of the store, stated that during the months in which she had been under his personal observation Mrs. Harrison had always struck him as being one of the most modest and ladylike clerks in the employ of the firm. As to there being a breath of suspicion against her name, he said, such a thing was not to be thought of.

Mrs. Harrison, who some years ago, was seperated from her husband to whom she entrusted her share of the Young estate, and through whom it was lost, leaves two daughters, Ella, aged 12, and Marguerite, aged 10, to mourn her untimely end.

The body will be shipped from San Francisco to this city, for interment, tomorrow morning.

BOYS IN BLUE IN ENCAMPMENT

Utah State Militia is Taking Its Annual

MILITARY PARADE TODAY.

National Guard March Out to Their Camp With Band Playing and Colors Flying.

The seventh annual encampment of the Utah National Guard commenced this morning at the lower parade grounds of Fort Douglas, upon the same site that was occupied by the guard last year, when the camp was known as Camp Wasatch.

Bright and early this morning the members of the Guard instead of going to their different places of employment, donned their blue uniforms and hastened to the State Armory, from where the march to the comp was commenced at about 8:30 a. m. headed by Held's band.

At 10:30 camp was reached where the tents were already erected.

Upon arrival at the camp General Cannon issued order No. 1, in which he announced that the comp is to be known as Camp Liscum in honor of the late Emerson H. Liscum of the Ninth infantry who recently died for his nation, and who was well acquainted with Utah, especially Fort Douglas and surroundings. The flag pole was soon in place and the stars and stripes furled to the wind.

The following are the companies that compose the camp: Company A of Salt Lake under Lieutenant Charles G. Forsiaund; B company Salt Lake, Captain O. H. Hassing; company C, Salt Lake, Lieutenant James Terry; company D of Woodruff, Captain Jas. Hatton; E company, Bountiful, Captain Heywood; company F, Manti, Captain Fred Kamerman, and G company of Salt Lake under Captain O. R. Grow.

All of the above companies excepting D company from Woodruff marched to the camp this morning.

Owing to the O. S. L. train being late the Woodruff men did not reach the camp until noon. Ther are about 300 officers and men now comfortably located.

Coptain Kamerman of company F is officer of the day, and Lieutenant Reley officer of the Guard.

Major Williams, who looked after the appetites of the Utah boys while at Manila, is in charge of the commissary.

No drills were held this morning but the men were put to work cleaning up the grounds.

The following is the program issued from the adjutant general's quarters and which will be carried out daily for the next eight days:

Reveille, 1st call, 5:45 a. m.; reveille, 5:55 a. m.; assembly, 6 a. m.; mess call, 6:15 a. m.; fatigue, camp, police and inspection, at 7 a. m.; sick call, 7:30 a. m.; guard mount, 8 a. m.; adjutant's call, 8:05 a. m.; assembly, 8:10 a. m.; drill assembly, 8:35; drill assembly, recall, 10 a. m.

Second Drill Call—Assembly 10:50 a. m.; drill recall, 11:50 a. m.; mess call, 12 noon; officers' call, 12:45 p. m.

Third Drill Call—Assembly, 1:20 p.m.; drill recall, 2:45 p. m.

Fourth Drill Call—Assembly, 3:35 p. m.; drill recall, 4:30 p. m.; mess call, 5:15 p. m.; retreat parade, 5:45 p. m.; guard mount, 6:35 p. m.; adjutant's call, 6:45 p. m.; tattoes, 9 p. m.; call to quarters, 9:15 p. m.; taps, 9:30 p. m.

From the above it will be noticed that four drills are to be held daily, two in the forenoon and two in the afternoon. Beside the drills, the order calls for a daily parade, which will be of interest to the city folks who wish to see the boys drill. The signal corps under the direction of Captain Greenewald expect to practice signal sending by means of the flash light tomorrow morning.

During the encampment the men will engage in target practice.

NOTES.

All the commissioned officers are wearing crape upon the handle of their swords in mourning for Col. Thos. J. Stevens, who died at Ogden last week.

General Cannon announces that no officer or man is to leave the post without his consent.

Private Green of company G was chosen as orderly for General Cannon, for the day.

The members of company G are now about the camp as the "Dudes." This title the boys appreciate.

The mess call that was to have been sounded at 12 o'clock was not heard until late in the afternoon.

The camera fiend was on deck this afternoon and the commanding officer and his staff posed before him several times.

Col. Glendenning supervised the planting of the flag pole this morning.

GEO. W. HEINTZ RETURNS.

JUDGE TIMMONY'S COURT.

Those who habituate the gilded palace of justice over on the corner missed the classic features of Chris. Dight today. The reason thereof is that Chris is in Provo.

His place was occupied by Dana Smith.

First on the docket was John Kelly, drunk. He had been in jail since Saturday and his honor concluded that his punishment was sufficient and he was told to remove himself.

Mrs. Kline, who had the appearance of having looked long upon the wine when it was red, answered to two charges, one of drunkenness and the other immorality. To both she pleaded not guilty. After the testimony of Detective Sheets, the court held the defendant guilty of the latter charge and sentenced her to pay a fine of $10. Not having the necessary $10 she was locked up.

Mary King said she had been with Mrs. Kline and had some beer, when asked to plead to the charge of drunkenness. "We had some whisky, too," said the woman; "it was in a bottle but we didn't have a chance at it because the officers took us away." She had been in jail since Saturday and the court let her depart.

Billy Hogan, and S. J. Obrey, Sunday drunks, were fined $5 each.

Geo. Burton denied being drunk yesterday. Officer Chase, however, testified that Burton was so intoxicated that he occupied the entire sidewalk while coming up Commercial street.

"Did you say I was coming up?" he asked.

"I did," replied Chase.

"No, sir," said Burton emphatically, "I was going down!"

Burton next declared that Chase was not the officer who arrested him, but the court knew better and Burton was fined a V.

Bob Smith and Andrew Lundre showed their familiar faces in court again today and were assessed $3 each for yesterday's celebration.

Jessie Robinson and Bill Nixon were arraigned on the charge of grand larceny and pleaded not guilty. It is alleged by Detective Sheets that they robbed F. W. Parkins of $56 while the latter was drunk in the Mascot saloon. The case was continued until tomorrow at 2 p. m.

R. R. Hudson and L. Peck were charged with cruelty to animals, but not being ready for trial the cases were continued.

A KENTUCKY HEROINE.

Miss Ada Mayo Railey Saves Five Persons from Injury or Death.

'Bus Without a Driver, and Horse Running Away, She Climbs Out and Stops Them.

New York, Sept. 4.—Five persons were saved from injury or death last night by Miss Ada Mayo Railey, daughter of Col. Charles L. Railey, a well known horseman of Lexington, Ky.

A. H. Calef of New York, secretary and treasurer of the Missouri Pacific railroad, with Mrs. Calef and their guests, Miss Alice Neale and Mrs. Winston Barret of Chicago, and Miss Railey, had driven in an open 'bus from Mrs. Calef's cottage at Seabright to Pleasure Bay, and were returning when, after having gone some distance, they discovered that the coachman was not on the box and that the horses, a pair of powerful animals, were running away.

Mr. Calef jumped in an effort to grab the horses' heads, but was thrown on the ground and the team dashed on every moment gaining speed.

Miss Railey, who is known throughout Kentucky as a horsewoman of remarkable skill, climbed through a window scarcely large enough to admit her slender body sidewise, to the box, and, gaining a footing on the whiffletrees, managed to get hold of one line and threw
