LOCAL BRIEFS.

The Young Woman's Christian Temperance union will hold its regular meeting at the Y. M. C. A. parlors on October 25, at 3.30 p. m.

Marriage licenses were today issued to Soren P. Never Jr., 19, and Anna Jensen, 18, both of Salt Lake City; August W. Ryting, 40, and Inga A. Nelson, 25, both of Salt Lake.

A meeting of the teachers in the grammar grade of the county schools will be held in the City and County building on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Superintendent Ashton will be present.

The first of a series of select social parties will be given in the Central school building, Friday evening, by the Sugar Ward Amusement committee. The proceeds go toward the erection of a ward amusement hall.

An entertainment of considerable merit will be given at the Heath Methodist church on the corner of Third South and Eighth West streets this evening. The program will consist of music, recitations and an original poem and other enjoyable features.

The Tabernacle organ recitals that are being held every morning from 11 till 12 o'clock will be discontinued within about two weeks on account of the cold weather, it being deemed too expensive to heat the building for a one-hour recital.

Bids were opened yesterday by the board of public works for the contruction of the four proposed new valve houses in connection with the Thirteenth East street reservoir. For the reason that a doubt existed in the minds of the members as to whether the lowest bidder fully understood the terms of the specifications, no awards were made, neither were the bids made public.

John B. Palst, an aged resident of Murray, was arrested today on the charge of insanity. Complaint against him was made by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. A. C. Heinback, who says the old gentleman's mind is so seriously affected at times that he becomes dangerous to himself and those who come in contact with him. The unfortunate man was booked for a hearing this afternoon.

According to the Denver Republican, Secret Service Agent Walker, of that city, feels that he has been imposed upon. The iron paraphernalia used by the Moss Brothers in making up their bad money was put in a large box and sent to Mr. Walker by the government officials of Salt Lake. Walker doesn't know what to do with it, he is afraid if he buries it it will go to making money and will soon have Denver overrun with the bad coin. If Mr. Walker can't do anything else he can send it on.

Six new cases of smallpox have been reported to the local health authorities. The victims are the children of John Larson, residing at No. 279 Fourth street, where three cases exist, and Thomas E. Jeremy, of North Sixth West street, who also has three children down with the disease. The Larson children were, today, taken out to the isolation hospital, but the afflicted ones in the Jeremy household could not be sent there owing to the fact that the institution has twenty-five patients, all it can accommodate.

The sociable given in the Third ward meeting house last night in honor of Bishop Samuel Browning, prior to his departure to his old home in Ogden, was a largely attended and highly pleasant function. A musical program was rendered, games played and refreshments served. A feature of the affair was the presentation to Bishop Browning of a large autograph album containing sentiments and signatures from members of the ward. Also a handsomely bound Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants. The presentation speech was made by First Counselor T. J. Curtis and the response by Bishop Browning himself.

Tom McCoy, it will be remembered, sold Miss Ramson, the race mare to a man from Brigham City, in June last. The price paid was $400. Her new owner recently disposed of her to a Baker City horseman at the Idaho State Fair for $775. This is what yesterday's Boise Statesman has to say of the transaction: "It is now stated that the Baker City man who bought Miss Ramson during the fair here simply invested in a gold brick. At Lewiston she did not win either first, second or third money in any event in which she started, and a well-known horseman said last night that her running days were over. He also said she was brought to Boise and doctored up for a big race early in the meeting for the purpose of making a sale."

MRS. ANN MAXFIELD DEAD.

Remains Coming from Idaho on This Evening's Train.

Mrs. E. Thomas, of 557 West First North street, Sixteenth ward, received a telegram today announcing the death of her mother, Mrs. Ann Maxfield, at Indian Valley, Washington county, Idaho, on Sunday last, and further stating that the remains would reach here on the 7:50 train from the north this evening. The cause of death is not stated. The body will be taken to the undertaking parlors of Joseph William Taylor where arrangements for the funeral will be made.

The deceased formerly lived at Mill Creek, Salt Lake county, and, with her husband, James R. Maxfield, moved to Idaho to make a new home. She was 50 years of age.

SALT LAKER'S SAD DEATH.

"Ray Raymond," Who Was Well Known in Newspaper Circles, the Victim.

Fell from the Window of His Hotel in Illinois, to be Found Later Unconscious.

News comes to this city of the tragic death of Joseph E. Tallis, better known here as "Ray Raymond," the name by which he was more generally known among the newspaper fraternity of this city. He was a familiar figure upon the streets of this city and around the newspaper offices here five years ago. During his sojourn in this city he at different times was a member of both the Herald and Tribune staffs in the capacity of a reporter and special correspondent, and articles bearing the signature of "Ray Raymond" were a feature of the front page of the former paper at stated intervals. He had a large acquaintance among railroad men, having been employed years ago in the operating department of some of the leading railroads in the East. During the latter portion of his presence in this city "Raymond" indulged in protracted spees that finally cost him his standing in the community. He leaves a wife, from whom he is separated, and two small children.

The Macomb (Ill.) Journal of October 22 has the following account of the sad affair:

Joseph E. Tallis, better known in this city probably as "Ray Raymond," was found dead in the alley just back of the Occidental hotel about 6 o'clock yesterday morning, with his skull crushed. He was clad in his night clothes, and had been dead several hours when found.

Tallis, for the past year or more, made this city his headquarters. He was raised in the vicinity of Tennessee, this county, and all his life his ambition was to be in the newspaper business. He corresponded for the Macomb Eagle years ago under the nom de plume of "Tracy." He went west something like fifteen years ago, and was employed on some of the leading newspapers of the West as a traveling correspondent, and also held a local position on several of the papers.

He returned to this State about two years ago, and has since made this city his home the greater part of the time. He came back to start a law suit with his sister in regard to the division of the land left by his father, and has been here since awaiting the settlement of the suit. It has been before the court for several terms, but just what stage of settlement it had arrived at is not known.

While here he has been acting as correspondent for the Quincy Journal from this and surrounding points. He has traveled extensively over this part of the country, acting in his capacity of correspondent, especially since the campaign began.

He left Friday afternoon with Henry McMillan of near Tennessee, leaving in a buggy. They drove to Tennessee and from there Tallis went some place down the road. He returned on the up train Saturday evening as far as Colchester, and then boarded a south-bound train which arrives at Colchester about 7:20 and went to Quincy. According to reports he had been drinking some when he boarded the train last evening. He went to Quincy and went to the hotel spoken of above, where he procured a room and retired. That was the last seen or heard of him until his remains were found the next morning.

Whether his death was an accident or premeditated will probably never be known. While he had been in hard luck of late he was never despondent, as far as could be noticed. He drank some, but never to the extent of becoming intoxicated. There are two theories which are about evenly supported among his friends. One is that he undressed and sat in the window of his room, fell asleep and tumbled to the ground. The other is that he became despondent and while somewhat under the influence of liquor deliberately raised the windows and threw himself to the ground below. One thing that opposes this latter theory is the fact that he was clad only in his underclothes when found.

Deceased has a sister living at Fountain Green and a niece at Tennessee. They were at once informed of his death and asked as to the disposal of the remains.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SINGING CLASSES

A Few Important Hints to Parents and Singers—Great Need of More Unity in Musical Matters.

As this move on the part of the Sunday schools of the Salt Lake Stake is a new one, it is important that the parents of children consider well its meaning and usefulness. As to the teacher and the instructions little or nothing need be said.

Professor Stephens and his work has been before the public too long to need comment. Every one knows at least something of the result of his past efforts, if they needed present proofs one need only point to the Tabernacle choir and its record, as a living proof of his past efforts. Then we know of his constant strivings and attentions to the progress of music, educationally, and otherwise all the world over. He has recently returned from a ten thousand mile search after pointers. We too, know his happy faculty of interesting the students, young or old, so that it is a mere matter of placing them in his charge to interest them in the study. But it is the school and the public side of the question we want to consider, and that without delay. What do the Sunday schools and you, and your children gain by them? The schools, simply greater efficiency in the musical part of their work, hence greater life, greater vigor, a more harmonious and effective use of the musical exercises, a deeper and more lasting impression of the thoughts sung, a more intelligent body of young singers to bring inspiration with their songs, all serving to make every session more interesting, impressive, pleasant and instructive to us all.

The parents and children? A practical, useful musical education, directed in the channels of usefulness in a church capacity, and at the smallest expense. Musical instructions are so expensive that they are generally placed among the luxuries. A simple private lesson costing all the way from ten dollars down to one. Class instructions from five to one dolair per term. We are now enabled to get these latter at about one-fourth the cheapest mentioned by taking hold of the matter as an organization. Class instructions properly given will make private lessons many times more comprehensible should the extraordinarily talented ones wish to take them later in life. Indeed, the best teachers care only to take such as are well educated musically to teach at any price, as they alone can well grasp musical ideas. So, if your child is musical and you wish them to receive instructions, it is a saving of from three to fifteen dollars a year to you on each child to have the work thus done under the auspices of the Sunday school. The gain in private lessons cannot be computed.

Then, too, if you feel that your child has this talent, is it not all important that it learns to associate this divine gift with the organizations and things that tend to uplift it, and keep it in such channels and associations as you desire your children to grow up among? For remember, music leads into other than the higher paths, if used with associations tending to lead downwards. So let the musical education serve to weld the interest of the youth with such organizations as we have for their upbuilding.

When a father or mother feel that God has endowed their children with this gift, their highest ambitions and desires sould be to see them use it in God's service, in the Sabbath school, the Improvement associations, in the various meetings and assemblies of the Saints, and in bearing the Gospel message to the world in their songs as well as their sermons. If this is to be, the training must be closely associated with our Church organizations. Hence the interest of the Sabbath school workers in this move.

Now, consider all this well, and bear in mind that to give or receive systematic instructions in an art or science such as music, there must be a systematic beginning as well as of continuing the instructions. And that means the imperative necessity of starting at the beginning of the term or not at all. So have your children report at once to their Sunday school if you wish them to be enrolled. Let them be in at the first lesson, and if possible, never miss one, that they may grasp every step naturally, and lose no links in the educational chain. Let the schools keep in close touch with the class work, and by using every acquired ability of the scholars for the benefit of the school; teach them of what practical good every step of this training is; thus keeping them bright in their accomplishments, and ever desirous of attaining more. Noting that none over fourteen years of age can be admitted to these day classes. The idea forces itself upon us that there should be similar classes at once organized for those over that age, that continuous progress may be effected until maturity is reached, and a practical perfection is attained, which will serve through after life. These adult classes should include the M. I. A. singers, for really why should there be any separation of the musical training and work of Sabbath school workers, and M. I. A., or ward choirs,—either for that matter. Are they not all the same class of workers? Is it not almost suicidal to the best interest of all that these different organizations work so separately as at present? One musical organization for adults, and one for children, with a head somewhere to direct their progress, and a wide awake conductor, and a good organist to lead at the meetings ought to result in a far happier state of musical affairs for each ward, than the present method of trying to keep three or four different kind of choirs up—one for each organization—each in the desire of self-preservation overlooking the need of the others, one generally made up of aged people, another of young people, seldom uniting together as they should. Ask a member of one why he doesn't sing in the other and he will tell you his own takes all his time. Why not all unite and form one choir and let that choir furnish all choir music, with an occasional selection only. And let the entire assembly sing the hymn, then if the strength or the select of each ward choir including its director and organist form the body of our Tabernacle choir as the head organization, there would be system, unity of action, each administering to the need and strength of the other. The training of the leading members at the Tabernacle in the new selections would make it an easy matter for the ward choir to master the same at their one rehearsal a week.

Why not practice a little "co-operation" in this work?

I hear every day young men and women who have recently been appointed leaders of M. I. A. choirs say, "What shall I do? I am incapable of conducting!" Why not bring yourselves under the protecting wings of your ever willing old teacher, Stephens. Have your young singers brought into a training class to systematically master both reading and singing, train them in the selections too, and then give your attention in your special line for a half an hour or more at the close of each lesson? It could be arranged for the mere expenses as these juvenile classes are being done under the Sabbath schools. Thus all could grow in efficiency under the guilding influence of one who has been through the mill and proved successful. One word more to all organizations. Don't keep in position as leaders or members anyone old or young, who is not active in the full sense of the word in progressing and keeping your music alive. ONE INTERESTED.

BURTON FAMILY REUNION.

Held Today in Commemoration of the General's 79th Birthday.

The 79th birthday of General Robert T. Burton is being pleasantly commemorated in a family reunion at his residence, corner of First South and Second West streets this afternoon.

The general's children and other descendants, to the number of 110, were in attendance to do honor to their venerable progenitor. Among the relatives present were a nephew, Judge Shipley, and two daughters who are on a visit here from Missouri. Judge Shipley is an interesting character himself and bears an almost startling resemblance to General Burton himself. Although not as old by a good many years as his uncle, the difference in age does not appear so great as it really is. But then the judge had an experience in his youthful days that came near costing him his life. His escape was by such a narrow margin as to make it easier for the finger of fate to trace lines and leave ineffaceable marks, than if he had not been called to pass through the ordeal. He was a Union soldier and passed through the horrors of both Andersonville and Libby prisons. When he fell into the hands of the Confederacy he weighed 198 pounds and his fine figure of more than six feet was as straight as an arrow. When he was paroled he barely tipped the scales at 97. He has ten children and has brought two of them to Utah on his first visit. They have been here six weeks and would have returned home sooner but were induced to remain until the anniversary celebration today.

The festivities commenced at 3 o'clock and were preceded by many a filial handshake and caress bestown upon the aged recipient who looks younger by many years than he really is. Considering the early hardships, Indian campaigns and other struggles through which he has passed time has dealt most kindly with him. That the evening of his life may be spent in restful quietude as she well earned reward of an exceedingly active and useful career, is the wish, not only of his own immediate family and posterity but of the entire community as well.

BIG SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

Mrs. Mary Judge Buys Valuable Property on Second South for $65,000.

There was more Silver King money invested in real estate in Salt Lake City yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Mary Judge, through her agent, W. J. Halloran, purchased the three-story building on Second South situated between the Morlan block and the Cullen hotel, the consideration being the sum of $65,000. The property is at 21 to 25 west Second South, covered by 55 by 247½ feet upon which Jones' ticket office, the Comstock saloon and Simon's restaurant are situated. Every room in the building is occupied and the buy is looked upon as being a very sound and remunerative investment. The property was purchased from Aaron Keysor and Albert Fisher.

The other properties recently purchased by Mrs. Judge are the Henderson block, the Karrick block and the building now occupied by the R. K. Thomas dry goods store, all East Temple street propositions. Mrs. Judge is said to have already invested $200,000 in realty in this city and will further extend such investments in the near future.

TRAFFIC IS NOW FALLING OFF.

Railroads Have Experienced a Banner Year for Business.

SIXTEEN CREWS LAID OFF.

During the Lull That Has Set In, Union Pacific Reduces Its Working Force.

Traffic upon the various railroads is beginning to feel the presence of winter approaching and as a consequence the rush and hustle of the season just drawing to a close is subsiding somewhat all along the line. At the same time business continues to be remarkably good for this time of year.

Word comes from Laramie to the effect that while the Union Pacific is doing a big business nevertheless three train crews have been laid off on the sixth district during the past week. It is further reported that on the seventh district that thirteen crews have also been laid off pending developments. With the first real snap of cold weather the coal consignments will be moved briskly along, which will give employment to a number of railroad men. Already all roads are beginning to ship coal in large quantites.

Taken all in all the season now drawing to a close has been a banner one for the railroads of the West, and for that matter throughout the country.

Harriman is Silent.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—E. H. Harriman, chairman of the board of directors of the Chicago and Alton, was in this city yesterday attending a conference of directors and officials of roads in which he is intersted and has returned east. Before leaving he would neither deny or affirm the report telegraphed from New York that the control of the Pacific Mail Steamship company had been secured by a syndicate headed by himself and W. K. Vanderbilt. He stated emphatically, however, that he would not be president nor hold any other official position with the Pacific Mail Steamship company.

Mr. Harriman also took occasion to deny the report that the Kansas City Southern (formerly Kansas City & Gulf) road would be amalgamated with the Chicago & Alton.

It is said that Mr. Harriman came here to consult with John W. Gates regarding the transfer of the stock held by Mr. Gates in the Kansas City Southern to the Harriman syndicate.

The report that the road would be amalgamated with the Alton is not generally believed. Mr. Harriman, it is said, has decided that the independent organizations of the Alton and Kansas City Southern must be maintained for an indefinite period, but that the two roads be more closely allied by having the Alton assume the fixed charges of the Kansas City Southern road.

The Union Pacific and Missouri, Kansas & Texas roads, which are members of the Harriman-Alton syndicate, are said to have objected to the consolidation of the Chicago & Alton and Kansas City Southern, as they are competing directly with the latter road.

It Happened in a Drug Store.

"One day last winter a lady came to my drug store and asked for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock," says Mr. C. R. Grandin, the popular druggist of Ontario, N. Y. "She was disappointed and wanted to know what cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her that I could freely recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and after giving it a fair trial if she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I consider that a very good recommendation for the remedy." The remedy owes its great popularity and extensive sale in a large measure to the personal recommendations of people who have been cured by its use.
