Local forecast for Salt Lake City and vicinity:

Fair tonight and Saturday.

Forecast for Utah, made at Denver, Colo.:

Fair tonight and Saturday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

A great area of high pressure, with its crest over the northern Rocky Mountain slope, covers the country west of the Mississippi river. This "high" has relieved the stagnant condition of the atmosphere in this vicinity, and the long period of dense fog will now be followed by a period of bright sunshine. Not a trace of precipitation is reported. Temperature changes have been slight.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

It looked very much today as though the regular January thaw had set in.

Lloyd T. King left this morning for Colorado Springs to go to the bedside of his brother Van H. King, who is seriously ill with pneumonia.

Mrs. Lena Lyons of Butte, Montana, is recovering from the effects of the operation she underwent at the Salt Lake private hospital yesterday.

Secretary Beatty of the state board of health is distributing culture tubes among the physicians of the state for the testing of suspected cases of diphtheria.

The Twenty-second battery at Fort Douglas has now received twenty horses, so that two section drill can be held. The full complement is 126 horses.

Ernest Grugerspeiner, late of California, underwent an operation for appendicitis yesterday afternoon, at the Holy Cross hospital. The patient is getting on favorably.

Daniel Bain, the painter who was operated upon the second time at the Keogh-Wright hospital on Wednesday, is in an extremely critical condition, and his life is despaired of.

The St. Paul's church organ motor has arrived and is being put in. The organ builders at Chicago have been notified to send on a tuner who will get the instrument into shape for early use.

George McLaughlin, a Bingham miner, is at the Keogh-Wright hospital, suffering from a compound fracture of the right ankle. The injury was the result of a cave-in in the Mascot tunnel of the Dalton & Lark mine.

It is reported from down the valley that there is now only 400 feet of water running into Utah lake daily, and that it is doubtful if the lake can be raised higher this season than to within one foot of the compromise point.

Rev. Louis G. Reynolds will deliver a sermon at the Jewish synagogue this evening at 8 o'clock. On Friday evening of next week, Rev. Mr. Reynolds being absent in California, Rev. Phillip S. Thacher will conduct the services at the synagogue.

A former Salt Lake telegraph operator holds that wireless telephony might be made to work by a delicate adjustment of instruments so that in sending a message from the central station, only the subscriber's instrument would respond for which the sending instrument had been adjusted.

The next session of the Economic league will be held on February 10, when Prof. Frank Parsons of Boston university, one of the highest authorities in the world on economic subjects, will deliver a lecture on "Government Ownership." Prof. Parson is said to be a very engaging speaker and has just returned from Europe, where he has been studying the economic and social conditions in the foreign countries. The next speaker will be Prof. F. C. Hicks of Cincinnati university, on the "Distribution of Wealth."

Main street presented a peculiar appearance at 9:15 this morning. The fog was lifting and shifting, and as it changed great masses of fog and smoke dropped down into the street between First and Third South streets until one could not see a hundred feet. Then the vapors partially lifted, letting the sunlight from the southern part of the street shine through and giving a weird and very wild appearance to the view. The scene resembled the shifting of the vapors over the crater of a volcano with the sun's rays struggling through in spots.

The people of Murray and Taylorsville are making an effort to raise money for the relief of the widow and orphans of Alfred Moses, who was recently crushed to death in the Highland Boy smelter at Murray. Nearly all of the smeltermen have donated a day's wages towards lifting the mortgage from the Moses home, and a subscription is being circulated in Taylorsville for the same object. The Mutual Improvement association of South Taylorsville will give a show in the Murray opera house on January 18, entitled, "A Woman's Honor," the proceeds to go to the same benevolent object.

When this morning opened with the fog apparently as bad as ever the general public gave a great gulp of disappointment, and settled down with a sigh to an eighth day of gloom. But by 8 o'clock the weather clerk relented, and the fog began to lift. It was some time making up its mind, but finally it moved, and there were expressions of relief everywhere. Section Director Murdoch said later that there was a great area of high pressure from the northwest, and then centering over the northern Rocky Mountain slope. He stated the prospects were now for several days of sunshine and pleasant weather.

There has been such a great rush for handsome calendars that the supply is in many cases exhausted. People who are calendar hunting appear to want not merely gaudy affairs that are one mass of colors of the rainbow, but for such as run towards fine art, particularly in the way of landscape and marine views, or where the figures stand for some intelligent conception of art. "The nude in art" is not sought after, and one representative of a California business house who brought on a lot of handsomely colored calendars with a nude female figure in recumbent position as the artistic attraction, has experienced difficulty in getting merchants to accept his calendars, and even then they are laid aside after the traveling man had gone.

The first semi-annual election of the Christian Endeavor society of Fort Douglas was held last night, in the post chapel, where these officers were chosen: President, Edward Pulley, Twelfth battery; vice president, Wade Randolph, Twelfth battery; secretary, O. M. Daniel, Twenty-second battery; corresponding secretary, Samuel High-Smith, Twenty-second battery; treasurer, A. Blaver, Twenty-second battery; look-out committee, Richard Roach, Twelfth battery; prayer meeting committee, Edward Lee, Twelfth battery; social committee, Eighteenth infantry. Special effort will be made to bring more of the infantry boys into the society. Chaplain and Mrs. Marvin are taking a very active interest in the endeavor work and are present at every meeting to encourage and assist.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. COOP.

Well Known Ogden Resident Stricken Down by Heart Disease.

Mrs. Martha Hurst Coop, mother of Squire Coop, one of Utah's eminent young musicians, died in this city yesterday morning of an affection of the heart. She had been suffering for several weeks, but her trouble did not assume a fatal aspect until a few days ago. Squire, who was in Berlin pursuing his musical studies, was notified of his mother's grave condition and at once started for home. When Mrs. Coop died the sad tidings were sent to Liverpool, and Squire will know nothing of the death of his mother until he reaches that city.

Mrs. Coop was born in Yorkshire, England, about sixty-nine years ago, and emigrated to Utah in 1879, with her family. She settled in Ogden, where she was a most highly esteemed resident, winning friends by her kindly and benevolent nature. Two years ago she took up her residence in Salt Lake, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Coop also has two daughters living in Idaho, and they were attending her at the time of her death. The remains will be shipped to Ogden Sunday for burial.

REMARKABLE CURE OF CROUP.
A Little Boy's Life Saved.

I have a few words to say regarding Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It saved my little boy's life and I feel that I cannot praise it enough. I bought a bottle of it from A. E. Steere of Goodwin, S. D., and when I got home with it the poor baby could hardly breathe. I gave the medicine as directed every ten minutes until he "threw up" and then I thought sure he was going to choke to death. We had to pull the phlegm out of his mouth in great long strings. I am positive that if I had not got that bottle of cough medicine, my boy would not be on earth today.—Joel Demont, Inwood, Iowa. SHOCKING CASE OF CRUELTY.

Laundry Horse is in a Terrible Condition.

DR. BEATTY INTERFERES.

Afflicted With a Raw Sore on the Back That Reached Nearly to the Bone—Arrest May be Made.

A shocking case of cruelty to animals was brought to light this morning through the watchfulness of Dr. Beatty, and a warranty will be issued, if it has not already been, for the arrest of Mr. Matthews of the American laundry, and one of the delivery men.

Dr. Beatty saw the horse being driven about this morning and noticing a cloth underneath the harness saddle suspected that the horse had a sore back. He stopped the wagon and proceeded to investigate. His suspicions proved correct, for beneath the saddle was a large running sore, and the flesh was raw almost to the bone. The constant getting out and in of the wagon caused the saddle to rub on the raw place and the sufferings of the poor animal must have been something terrible.

Dr. Beatty ordered the driver to go at once to the police station where a number of witnesses were called out to examine the horse. The doctor would not allow the horse to be driven another foot and the driver was ordered to take it to the barn at once.

Dr. Beatty said he was not sure he would prosecute the case today, as he wanted to look up the law in the matter of fines. He thinks the fines should go to the Humane society, and as soon as that point is determined he will have a warrant issued.

Mr. Matthews of the laundry professed ignorance of the fact that the horse was being used in that condition. He said the matter had not been reported to him and that the driver used the horse entirely on his own responsibility. It may be that the driver will be the one to suffer the consequences.

LOOKING FOR RELATIVES.

Joseph Stanford of England Here for That Purpose.

Mr. Joseph Stansfield, woolen felt manufacturer, of Waterfoot, near Manchester, England, and of Amsterdam, New York, is in the city and is very desirous of ascertaining the whereabouts, if alive, of his aunts, Mrs. Helen (Emmett) Moran and Susannah Emmett, formerly of Bury, Lancashire, England. Mrs. Moran was the wife of Henry Moran, who, it is believed, was killed by Indians about two years after he came to Utah, in 1850. His aunt, Susannah, never married. The last time Mr. Stansfield heard from his Aunt Helen was in 1882. If this notice should be brought to the attention of either of his aunts, or any of their friends, they are respectfully requested to correspond with him, care of President Jos. F. Smith, Box B., Salt Lake City.

AMUSEMENTS.

Last night was one of rare brilliance at the Theater. People who thought the days of fashionable concerts had gone by in Salt Lake, had their eyes opened when they gazed upon the magnificent turnout which assembled to do honor to Miss Emma Lucy Gates.

The young singer had had her reception and made her triumph in her two concerts at the Tabernacle. The success of last night's gathering, therefore, is all the more a tribute to her, as it showed that she has the power to draw an audience simply on her merits as an artist. No musical event of recent years has given so much pleasure as the concert she provided. It recalls the best days of the old Careless orchestra, when Mrs. Careless was featured as the soprano, and Prof. Careless and Mark Croxall surrounded her with the strongest instrumental ability the town could bring together.

Miss Gates last night more than confirmed the decided impression she made in her Tabernacle appearances. She had the added advantage of singing in a smaller building and of coming face to face with her audience, a circumstance of great advantage to her, as it enabled her to exercise the undoubted individual charm of manner she possesses in addition to her gifts as a vocalist. Her friends and the musicians who have watched her most closely knew that she was not at her very best last night. The dense fog of the day had effected her upper tones slightly, and it is wonderful that she made the triumph she did. She was undoubtedly nervous at the beginning, but this wore off and she constantly improved until at the finish she was in her very best form, and she laughingly said after the concert that she now felt just ready to begin her night's work.

The program was filled with so many charming selections that it is hard to select one as being entitled to the palm. The Rigoletto aria, with its superb orchestral effects, was probably the nearest degree the one perfect number; but she fairly stormed her auditors with her three dainty "rose songs," and it would be difficult to imagine anything more exquisite than the "If I Knew," and the delightful "Favorite Flower." The most difficult number of the night was doubtless the "Echoried" in which she had to touch high "D" sixteen times. The "Ave Maria," with obligato by Mr. Weihe, Mr. McClellan at the piano, and Mr. Carrington at the organ, was most soulfully rendered, in spite of the fact that the violinist and organist were too far back on the stage. The other "Ave Maria," in the "Rusticana" overture, with a full orchestral accompaniment, was simply divine. Miss Gates' always favorite number, and the one which must storm the heart of the coldest critic, "Sing Sweet Bird," was reserved for the close. She was at her best in this and the effect on the audience was electrical. Everyone in the house remained seated and called her back several times, and she finally responded by seating herself at the instrument and singing as if she were singing with all her heart, "Comin' Through the Rye."

The audience was a most representative one and included the Governor and many other officials. Many ladies stood up back of the rear row the entire evening and even the second gallery was well filled. The money receipts were close to $900, an altogether phenomenal record. It is pleasant to note that the sum to be handed the young singer who is so soon to leave us, will not be far from $700.

Miss Gates sings in Ogden next Monday night and this will probably be her last appearance in Utah as she and her mother leave for New York about the 20th. Her initial performance on the night of February 4th in Carnegie Hall with Emil Pauer's great orchestra of seventy-five accompanying her, will be an event that would repay traveling a long way to hear.

* * *

A special word must be devoted to last night's orchestra. Nothing in the way of support for Miss Gates' talents could have been conceived that would better lend prestige and importance to the occasion that the organization of a body like that which Mr. Weihe brought together. As soon as the curtain arose and disclosed the thirty performers, with four young ladies among the violinists, a round of hearty applause went up, and before the evening was over, the verdict of the audience was one of most genuine enthusiasm. Considering that the players were brought together solely for this event and that their rehearsals have been so limited, their playing was marvelous. It was easy to see that the strings especially, had been retained by a master of the art, and nothing more exquisite could be imagined than the tone of the violins and the precision of their attack in such numbers as the "Rusticana" overture and the minuet by Bocherini. An immense encore greeted this number and Mr. Weihe's stringed instruments responded with an equally delicate rendering of the "Traumerei." The flute and the clarinet work in the accompaniment to the "Rigoletto" aria was equally beautiful, and the part that Mr. McClellan gave this instruments in his arrangement showed exquisite taste.

Mr. McClellan was the pianist of the evening and conducted the orchestra for Miss Gates' numbers; his orchestration throughout can not be too highly praised. Mr. Weihe made the utmost of the orchestra in conducting the beautiful Egmont overture. It will be a thousand pities if this orchestra is allowed to separate after having given us so handsome a taste of what our musicians are capable of.

A MUSICIAN'S OPINION.

Prof. Haydn Evans, the Eisteddfod adjudicator, who passed through the city yesterday, sent the "News" the following:

"I attended Miss Gates' concert and was delighted with her work in every respect. Utah, indeed, may feel proud of her singer, and her musical talent in general.

"Miss Gates certainly has a bright future, and I trust that I shall have the pleasure of hearing her again while on her coming tour in the east.

"I was also surprised and pleased to know that you had an orchestra which could play so creditably as it did, such a masterpiece as Beethoven's magnificent overture "Egmont."

"I am told that this is not a permanent organization. If this is true, I want to express the hope that it will be made permanent. There is in this body of musicians the foundation for a good symphony orchestra.

"Again thanking for your kindness,
"I remain,
Very truly yours
"HAYDN EVANS."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

The Pan-Hellanic banquet at Beardsley's last night was a most elaborate success, if merriment, song, eloquence, feasting and general good cheer and good will are to be considered elements of success. Fifty guests sat down to the bounteous spread, and spent three hours of unalloyed enjoyment. The event was a memorable one, and will doubtless figure as the forerunner of many other as delightful occasions.
