SYMPATHY THAT COUNTS MUCH.

One Touch of Nature Makes Both Camps Kin—Generous Deeds Of Scofield and Winter Quarters Miners—Give Substantial Aid to Hanna Sufferers.

The poetic aphorism that one touch of nature makes the whole world kin, has found expression in a most substantial way with the miners of Scofield and Winter Quarters on the one side and the families of the victims of the Hanna mine disaster on the other. This is clearly set forth in a letter received this morning by the Deseret News from Winter Quarters, Carbon county, Utah, under date of July 9, and reading as follows:

"To the Deseret News, Salt Lake City, Utah: Please find enclosed a list of the names of the donors for the relief of the sufferers of the Hanna disaster in Wyoming, which the committee kindly asks to have published in your valuable paper.

"(Signed) C. H. MUHLESTEIN,

"JOHN L. PRICE,
"Relief Committee."

It is only a few years ago since the Scofield horror occurred—a horror that caused thousands to shudder and mourn. The magnificent and generous manner in which relief funds and provisions were poured in upon the people of the stricken camp, is still fresh in their minds, and in the memory of the goodly charity that ministered to their wants in those days they have gone quietly to work and raised the sum of $642.30 for their unfortunate fellow sharers in sorrow in the state of Wyoming. There were many things in common in the two disasters, and in each the loss of life was around 200. The names of the donors follow:

NAMES OF THE DONORS.

We, the undersigned, residing at Scofield and Winter Quarters, Carbon Co., Utah, take pleasure in appropriating the amount placed opposite our names, for the immediate relief of the sufferers of the Hanna disaster of June 30, 1903:

FOR SMALLER FLOCKS.

Washington Sheep Owners, Like Those Of Utah, Reduce Holdings.

Special Correspondence.

Butte, Mont., July 10.—The shipments of Washington sheep to the larger ranges of Montana and Wyoming has commenced and is likely to be followed by many large shipments. The Washington ranges are becoming more restricted every year, first by forest reservations, and second, by the rapid settlement of lands heretofore used for cattle grazing. Range area has become so restricted that many sheep owners are willing to sell their herds entirely. Chicago buyers bought 20 carloads of lambs at Cleallum, Wash., yesterday, according to a report. Chas. McAllister is shipping three carloads of blooded bucks from Wenatchee to Montana, for sale to the sheepmen of this state.

These shipments form the commencement of a general movement to reduce the size of the flocks in the state of Washington, and according to the opinion of prominent sheepmen, sheep raising in this section of the west has seen its best days.

Safeguard for Children.

Notwithstanding all that is done by boards of health and charitably inclined persons, the death rate among small children is very high during the hot weather of the summer months in the large cities. There is not probably one case of bowel complaint in a hundred, however, that could not be cured by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Mr. Frank Riggs, of Franklinville, N. Y., in speaking of this remedy said: "I have found it expedient to have a supply of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand. It has been a family safeguard and while especially beneficial to children, it is equally good in adult cases. I recommend it cheerfully and without reservation." For sale by all druggists.

The barbarous practise of rolling a person over a barrel to permit the escape of water supposed to be in the lungs has ceased to exist as a treatment for drowning; no water gets into the lungs. In "Accidents," one of the series of medical handbooks being issued by The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, full directions are given for reviving persons supposed to be drowned. The book will be sent on request to any who address the Home Office of the company, New York City.
