The last Sunday supplement of the Examiner has a full page devoted to Great Salt Lake, with startling head lines stating that in 25 years the lake will be as dry as the Sahara desert, and containing enough salt to supply the world. Col. Holmes in commenting on this article, characterizes it as wrong and foolish to publish such things. There is nothing to show the lake will dry up, and the bathing there is now as good as could be desired.

Local stockmen are remarking that the continued uncertainty in the eastern strike situation will result in cheaper home fresh beef. The reason is that the multitude of small shippers are now holding back their fat stock, as the disposal of them at the eastern packing centers is an indeterminate quantity, thus throwing the stock on the home markets. This will cause a drop in prices. However, pork and pork products are likely to become scarcer and scarcer so that for at least a year, prices will remain firm with constant tendency to rise.

John Rhoades, who died in the county infirmary last Monday at the age of 91, was a man of more than usual interest. Twenty years ago he came here and worked as a teamster. He was very frugal in his habits, and most of his money went to charity. He befriended many a family in those days, but finally came to his end as a public charge. He has been blind and destitute for several years. Six years ago he was taken to the infirmary. Before his death John Rhoades expressed the wish that old friends would see that he did not fill a pauper's grave. And they will see to it.

CAN SHOOT SOME.

Logan Boys Win First Prize in Inter-Collegiate Rifle Contest.

That Utah has marksmen second to none in the entire country, is evident from the fact that in a recent rifle shooting contest the cadets of the Agricultural college, Logan, won first prize as against marksmen from the best colleges in the United States. This word has just been received by Capt. H. D. Styer, military instructor at the Utah school, who entered the contest feeling that he had a splendid chance to win out. His men scored 432 points, while the second prize was captured by the University of California.

DID CLARK BORROW FROM HETTY GREEN?

Montana Senator Credited With Negotiating Loan of Twelve Millions for His Road.

STRANGE STORY FROM 'FRISCO.

Tale of Big Loan, However, Sounds Somewhat "Off Color"—Construction on Moffat Road.

The San Francisco Chronicle to hand prints a strange story anent the rumors in regard to the Salt Lake Route. In brief it says that Senator W. A. Clark, who is credited with an income of nearly seven figures a month from his copper and other properties, has been forced to borrow money to complete construction on the Salt Lake Route. Those who are familiar with the copper king's methods, the enthusiasm displayed by him on the occasion of his visit here last week and the way he filled a note book with copious jottings on his inspection trip are firm in the opinion that he still has the railroad project at heart and proposes to push it through to completion. A portion of the column story indicated is reproduced for what it is worth:

"A story is being passed around by persons interested in the affairs of United States Senator W. A. Clark and his Salt Lake railroad project which suggests that the Montana copper king is embarrassed for ready money and that E. H. Harriman is taking advantage of the circumstance by forcing him to relinquish control of the new transcontinental road. The story, which has been pretty well circulated in local financial and railroad circles during the past day or two, sets forth that Senator Clark has been forced to borrow $12,000,000 within the past six months to continue the construction of his railroad, and that he obtained the money from Hetty Green of New York, giving as security bonds of the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad. It is told with much detail and circumstantiality that the indebtedness incurred by the Montana senator was evidenced by a note for the amount mentioned, the bonds of the Salt Lake road being put up as security. Then Harriman is said to have bought the note from Hetty Green over her verbal promise to Clark not to dispose of it, and by this means is said, in the language of the street, to have gotten Clark "in the jam of the door," wresting from him the control of the new line that is to afford direct rail connection between Los Angeles and Salt Lake.

SUIT FOR RAILROAD TIES.

"Some people have been trying to find a connection between this story of Clark's financial distress and the suit recently instituted by the Empire Construction company, which company was brought into existence by Clark to build the Salt Lake road, against Bender Brothers, on their contract to supply the road with ties. So far as can be observed, however, the suit has nothing to do with this latest tale of Clark's affairs, nor does the story have any bearing on the suit. Bender Brothers were sued, according to the complaint of the Empire Construction company, because they failed to fulfill the terms of their tie contract, judgment being asked by the construction company in the amount of $37,571.50.

So far as Harriman's interest in the Salt Lake road is concerned, it has been generally understood for some time that upon the completion of the road it would be found to be either a part of the Southern Pacific system or a favored connection. Senator Clark had not progressed very far with his plans to build his Salt Lake road when he became embroiled in a bitter fight with the Oregon Short Line, one of the Harriman lines."

MOFFAT ROAD.

Judge E. F. Colborn Tells of Situation as Viewed in Denver.

Judge E. F. Colborn, who recently returned from a trip to Denver, stated this morning that over in Colorado the Moffat road is considered to be a sure go and the general opinion is that there will be more contracts for construction let within a short time. "I talked to a number of prominent citizens," affirmed the judge, "and in every case the firm conviction was forthcoming that the project was essentially a Burlington extension scheme. The line will be over the range by Oct. 1, where the contractors are now building a switchback."

Plans for the building of large shops and roundhouse at Utah Junction, three miles out of Denver, have been perfected by Engineer Sumner and his associates. The Burlington and Colorado Southern meet at Utah Junction and the Moffat trains run into Denver from there. There is also a large force of engineers at work at a point on Morrison Creek beyond Middle park and the Colorado-Utah state line, who are trying to find a still shorter route to this city than that first anticipated.

Engineer Blount, who had charge of the survey through Bear River canyon, near Vernal, last winter, is now running a survey through the Flattop mountains from Tonopas to Meeker. Toponas is due east of Meeker in what is known as Egeria park in the southeastern part of Routt county, Colo. In crossing the Gore range from Middle Park to the Yampa or Bear River valley, Toponas wil be the first point on the line of the Moffat road.

CARSON & COLORADO.

Revival of Rumors That Nevada Road is To be Extended.

The San Francisco newspapers are reviving talk of the project to extend the Carson & Colorado railroad. One of them has the following: "The Southern Pacific company is considering the project of building one hundred miles of railroad to connect Mojave and Keeler in southern California. Surveys for this line were made several years ago and abandoned, but the recent development of Tonopah and the completion of the Tonopah railroad have induced Harriman to consider the project favorably, since it brings the rich mining district in direct connection with Los Angeles and the southwestern county. The Southern Pacific road was completed to Keeler in 1889, when the intention was to continue to the Colorado river, but the work was never accomplished. Keeler, in Inyo county, is the southern terminus of the Carson & Colorado railroad, which extends from Carson south through Nevada and skirts Death valley in California. On this line, ninety miles northeast of Keeler, is Sodaville, the junction of the Carson & Colorado and Tonopah roads. The new map of the Southern Pacific company shows the Mojave-Keeler link printed with the lines of the California system."

HILL NEEDS TIDE LAND.

Suit for $1,000,000 Against the Waterways Company at Seattle.

Papers are being prepared in Seattle for an action for damages amounting to $1,000,000 and to cancel state contracts for filling in Seattle tide lands held by the Seattle & Lake Washington Waterway Co. The suit will be brought in the United States court by the Great Northern Pacific and allied interests. The city of Seattle will take part in the proceedings in so far as any action may be required to prevent the waterway concern from taking another yard of dirt from the side of Beacon Hill and to vouchsafe the repair of the thousands of dollars' worth of damage the corporation has already done at that point. This course has been determined upon after a conference between President Elliott of the Northern Pacific, Chief Counsel Bunn of the Northern Pacific, General Western Counsel Gilman of the Great Northern, General Western Counsel James McElroy of the Northern Pacific, J. D. Farrel, president of the Northern teamship Co., and James J. Hill, western representative, and city officials of Seattle.

He is a Traveler.

W. H. Prickett, general traveling agent for the St. Joe & Grand Island, at St. Joe, is numbered among the visiting railroad men in this city. To Mr. Prickett belongs the proud distinction of having more territory to cover than possibly any other railroad official in the country. He is always on the go, as he need be for he has only 30 states included in his territory.

SPIKE AND RAIL.

The Rio Grande and the Oregon Short Line both ran excursions to Salt Lake today for the circus.

Cloudbursts on the desert in southern Utah and Nevada are causing train crews to keep their eyes open.

Tracy Cummings, freight and passenger agent for the Illinois Central in San Francisco, is in the city today.

The Rio Grande handled about 2,500 people at Provo yesterday for the circus. The San Pedro also had some very heavy trains.

The reduction of rates on steel rails and sugar to points west of the Missouri river, according to the New York Commercial, may mean a rate war.

President Frank Trumball of the Colorado Midland and C. & S., is expected to arrive in Salt Lake next week. Mr. Trumball and family are at present making a tour of Yellowstone Park.

Yellowstone Park business is simply immense this year. All previous records for business during July and August have gone glimmering when this season's traffic is taken into consideration.

C. H. Gregg, superintendent of the dining car service of the Rio Grande, came in yesterday afternoon from Pueblo. He says that within an hour after the railroad horror the creek had dwindled down to a mere thread of a stream again.

Loss of Appetite

Is commonly gradual; one dish after another is set aside till few remain. These are not eaten with much relish, and are often so light as not to afford much nourishment.
