The tax collections so far have been up to the average and it is expected that between now and Wednesday evening there will be the usual rush. In order to save the advertising costs the taxes must be paid by closing time on Wednesday.

At the Latter-day Saints University this morning, Prof. Schettler and one of his pupils, Miss Cogle, furnished some very bewitching music in the form of mandolin and guitar duets. The first selection was "My Idol," the second, the "Boston Ideal March." The third was a guitar solo, "Old Kentucky Home," by Mr. Schettler. Prof. Paul then announced the formation of a mandolin and guitar club for members of the school.

DILWORTH OBSEQUIES.

Another Utah Pioneer Laid to Rest in The Silent Tomb.

The funeral services over the remains of the late John Taylor Dilworth were conducted Sunday morning, Nov. 12, from the residence of his sister, Mrs. George Nebeker, Elder William W. Riter officiating.

Those who spoke on the occasion were the companions of the deceased, who were associated with him in the earliest days of his pioneer work. They were Elders A. Milton Musser, Angus M. Cannon, Hiram B. Clawson and Joseph E. Taylor, all of whom referred to his kindly disposition and his sterling integrity to what he deemed to be his duty to God and to his fellowmen. The opening and closing prayers were made by Bishops Alfred Solomon and John Neff respectively.

The deceased had been a great sufferer during the latter years of his life, having been rendered partially helpless from a stroke of paralysis, which occurred about seven years ago.

The floral tributes were profuse and very beautiful.

A quartet composed of Messrs. Whitney, Pyper, Spencer and Fairbourn rendered feelingly the selection entitled, "We Need Thee Every Hour," "O Love Divine" and "Refuge of the Weary," which added materially to the impressiveness of the occasion.

The pallbearers were composed of six of the eldest sons of the deceased's sisters, namely, William W. Riter, Chas. Harper, C. D. Brigham, Amos H. Neff, George D. Nebeker and Walter D. Nebeker.

The remains were followed to the cemetery by a large cortege of carriages filled with sorrowing relatives and friends. After the dedictory prayer, which was offered by Elder John L. Nebeker, the casket bearing the remains was deposited in a grave made in the beautiful lot of his daughter, Mrs. Marion Beatie Edwards, which is very pleasantly situated in the city cemetery. A wife has not far away, the body of his loving wife, Mrs. Josephine Morsford Dilworth, who preceded him some 23 years and who was the mother of his three children, Mrs. Marie Beatie Edwards, Mrs. Frank Russell and John Dilworth, the latter having also preceded him about 25 years.

HIS DEATH A MYSTERY.

Decomposed Remains of Private Dynes Found at Fort Douglas.

A ghastly discovery was made back of the target range at Fort Douglas Saturday afternoon, by Sergt. Betts of H company, Twenty-ninth infantry, when he discovered the skeleton of Private William Dynes of the same company, who disappeared last July, and had been posted as a deserter. The clothing in which the skeleton was clad clothed the remains. The deceased was 28 years of age, and had been very dissipated. At the time of his disappearance Dynes took his rifle with him, but this was missing when he was found, and if he had taken any other article of any value it was carried off by some one. He had just re-enlisted in July, and whether the death was one of suicide or accident can hardly be ascertained. Dynes was formerly in the Old Soldiers home at Washington, having served in the civil war, but the old white haired veterans made so much fun of him that he left and re-entered the service. The remains will be buried [illegible]
