JOHN FRANCIS GLYNN, PRISON POET, IS IN TOWN
 Will Appear in Person at Zelta Theater With the Prison Film "The Right Way."

A few months ago the prison rates at Stillwater swung outward and a man stepped through them to a hardwon freedom.

That man is John Francis Glynn, author of a book of verse—"Songs from the Silence"—and editor of a paper, called "The Convict."

Mr. Glynn will lecture at the Zelta theater just before Thomas Matt Osborne's prison film—"The Right Way" is thrown on the screen.

The film will run for one week, beginning Saturday—on this day Mr. Glynn will speak on "The Crucifixion of our Boys."

While absent from the theater, Mr. Glynn hopes to be given the opportunity of speaking to the many club women and religious organizations of Duluth.

Under the pen name of "Apache," John Francis Glynn conducted a double column in the Prison Mirror. His verses and paragraphs won favor, and were reprinted in virtually every newspaper in the state.

Doctor Burton's introduction to Glynn's book is worthy of reprint:

Introduction

Less than two months after the author was set free from the prison at Stillwater, Minnesota, I met him and he put his poems into my hands. Reading them, I had a poignant sense of beauty and pathos; the beauty that is song, the pathos of human fate. I felt like one who finds a flower, dewy and fragrant, beside a dusty road. The wind blows where it listeth. There are lyrics in this book, so truly lovely, so unfeignedly simple and sincere, with such an infectious lilt and shine of color, that one's heart melts before them. I mean such things as "Unfettered," "Rose Petals," "Song," "Rube Robin," "Dust Sanctuary," and others yet.

of entrancing melody, thrusts into the drops of living. They have the unmistakable ring, the lyric cry that makes music in the ear, and goes to the universal heart of man. The voice is so authentic, the vision often so spiritual in its homely, disarming way, that it matters little if there be an occasional stammer in the utterance; I almost think it adds to the charm.

And so I wish the book the good luck it deserves, and predict that many will be grateful for this gift. That it comes out of a prison cell, lends a wistful quality to its note; but that appeal, save as it begets a sympathetic mood to receive the message, is not to be over stressed. Mr. Glynn's work can stand on its own merit; and it will.

It is not given to ever convict the faculty of creating his own environment, and that is why Mr. Glynn's "Little Cell O' Dreams" holds such charm.

Little Cell O' Dreams
 O little cell of six by ten,
 You're as a shrine to me,
 I take my place in ranks of men
 As the guard turns the key.
 The magic of my yesterdays
 Through the bars nightly streams
 —You wait me to a boyhood white,
 O little cell of dreams.

O little cell where visions, rise
 And fairies hold full sway,
 Bringing new splendor to the eyes
 That knew but fear all day.
 I think a God must count you part
 Of Love—You hold its beams.
 You are my solace through the night,
 O little cell of dreams.

The Labor World wishes success to this "Peddler of Dreams" now among us, for he is working for a tribe that has been long misunderstood.

Where moonshine comes from is a secret still.

CONTRACTORS EXPLOIT PUBLIC WHILE BLAMING 'HIGH WAGES'

New York, April 6.—The excessive cost of labor in building construction was placed on contractors by Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the Lockwood committee, in a letter to Walter Strabler.

The latter is a life insurance official and head of a self-constituted "public" group which is "fussing around" in an effort to prove that labor is responsible for high building costs.

Attorney Untermyer gives Strabler something to think about—and to act on, also, by reminding him of testimony developed last year by the Lockwood committee, and which is ignored by those who blame labor for high building costs.

This testimony shows that contractors charge the public 60 and 70 per cent more than they actually pay their workers, and in some instances charge two and three times more than they pay them. The contractors, of course, assure the customer, that "the union is responsible" for the high rates he is forced to pay.

"About the worst case of exploitation," said Mr. Untermyer, "is that practiced by the architectural iron association, which charged $144 a week for the services of finishers and helpers, whose total wage was $47. The customer was charged $72 a week for a blaster, but the wage for that work was $45. A marble setter and helper, jointly received $16 a day, but the customer paid $26.75. A marble polisher was paid $8.50 a day, but this work cost the customer $13.75 a day.

Electrical contractors charged $17.60 a day for foremen who actually receive $10 a day. The customer is charged $14.40 a day for electrical journeymen, who are paid $9 a day.

Hearing and piping contractors charge $22 a day for a steamfitter and helper, whose combined wage rate is $12 a day.

The layers and helpers who together received $14 a day were charged for at the rate of $3 per hour or $24 a day.

The ornamental bronze and iron association charged at the rate of $3.50 an hour or about $147 a week for draftsmen, who are paid $60 a week. Foundry molders who were paid 90 cents an hour were charged for at the rate of $3 an hour. Helpers, receiving 52 1-2 cents an hour, were charged for at $2.25 an hour.

"These are illustrative cases," concluded Attorney Untermyer. "I think that demonstrates clearly where the chief responsibility lies for the excessive item of labor in building construction."

MOONEY'S FREEDOM IS NEAREST REALIZATION DUE TO APPEAL COURT

California Court of Appeals Grants New Trial to Brady, Another Perjury Victim.

BY RICHARD ROHMAN

San Francisco, April 2.—An important and far-reaching precedent has just been established by the California District Court of Appeals which is likely to obtain the freedom of Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings, militant labor leaders who were condemned to life imprisonment upon perjured testimony.

Almost coincident with the filing of Tom Mooney's appeal, before the same court, seeking to upset the decision by a lower court denying a writ of audita querela, came the Court of Appeals' decision ordering a re-trial in the case of Thomas Brady, convicted of assault in the notorious Howard Street case. Brady had been convicted on perjured testimony which District Attorney Matthew I. Brady had sought to conceal. Today Brady is free on very nominal bail, pending a re-trial which is certain to clear him of the crime charged.

The only difference between the status of the Mooney-Billings defense and that of the Howard Street defendant, from a purely legal point of view, is that perjury in the Mooney case was not discovered and established until after the statutory period for applying for a new trial had expired. In the case of Brady, it was discovered during the progress or shortly after the trial.

But, as Byron C. Parker, attorney for Mooney, convincingly points out, perjury in perjury and the victim, no matter how much time has elapsed, is entitled to a remedy. In the Howard Street case, the remedy was obtained under the law; in the Mooney frameup, the relief is sought in equity.

It will be extremely difficult for the District Court of Appeals to deny the petition for Mooney in the face of its decision in the Brady case. The jurists, Langdon, Sturtevant and Nourse, were quite violent in their condemnation of the lower court for ruling out, during the process of the trial, evidence to show perjury by a prosecution witness. In upsetting the conviction, the Court of Appeals invoked with an unusually religious fervor the "rights of man" and so on.

The Suit for Your Boy

Marble time teaches the necessity of having two pairs of knickers with the boys' suit and fortunately the price of suits with the extra pair is now a great deal less than in recent years.

At $8.75 we show a good gray or brown mixed, well lined, well made and fine fitting Two-Pant Suit of the latest model.

At $10.75 a real blue Serge Suit in a dark shade. Strictly all woolen and all around satisfactory. Also with two pairs of pants.

At $12.50 we have the latest styles with two pants, mohair lined, in good selections of gray, brown and green mixtures.

At $15 the greatest variety of patterns in suits of excellent material—all with two pairs of pants—strictly all woolen and made for real hard wear. All guaranteed by the makers as well as by us.

SPRING COATS for the boys in as handsome new styles as we've ever had the pleasure of showing. Blue serges, black and white checks, gray and brown mixtures and beautiful imported fabrics. For all ages from one to ten and at every price from $7.50 and $8.50 up to $18.

JACKIE COOGAN hats and tams in gray tweed, navy, tan and brown. $1.75, $2 and $2.50, and Jackie Coogan caps in tweeds and novel mixtures at $1.50 and $2. Other caps start at 50 cents.

TWO-PLATOON LEGALIZED
 Albany, N. Y., April 6.—Governor Miller has signed the Blakely bill confirming the two-platoon system for firemen now existing in New York and other first-class cities.

"The bill is opposed," said the governor, "by the conference of mayors solely as a matter of principle on the ground that it violates home rule. This bill merely gives legislative sanction to the system already adopted."

SIGN OLD AGREEMENT
 Elizabeth, N. J., April 6.—The Painters' union has renewed an agreement with organized contractors. Rates of $3 a day will continue.

UNIONIZE FUR SHOPS
 New York, April 6.—The several unions of fur workers in this city are making a joint movement to unionize the hundreds of independent shops.

WATER COMPETITION DRIVES RATES DOWN

The people are paying vast sums for permitting their magnificent water ways to remain undeveloped, said Congressman Newton who showed to the house of representatives at Washington recently, why railroads oppose the maintenance of navigable rivers and harbors.

Railroads will haul 100 pounds of paint from Boston to Seattle, a distance of 3,258 miles, for $1.53, because water competition exists around through the Panama canal, while they charge $1.06 for hauling the same amount of paint a distance of 916 miles, across the prairies from St. Louis to Denver, where water competition is not possible.

"In other words," said Congressman Newton, "the people of the valley are compelled to pay $1.06 to have 100 pounds of paint hauled 916 miles across a level country, while the railroads haul the same amount of paint a distance of 2,342 miles across the mountains of this country for the sum of 77 cents and all of this is done under authority conferred upon the railroads by the interstate commerce commission."

Here are two reasons why the national association of manufacturers favors the anti-union shop:

"Make it possible for the worker to get paid according to what he produces, instead of being held to a dead level of efficiency. The incentive and opportunity for increased efficiency and earning power are both present.

"As output per dollar increases and manufacturing costs are lowered the manufacturer can lower his prices and enlarge his market. He will be able to work his plant more readily, which means an increased demand for labor."

LAW MAKERS CONDEMNED.
 Trenton, N. J., April 6.—A bluff investigation of the coal situation and a disregard for the welfare of wage earners is the record of the recently adjourned state legislature, says the executive board of the state federation of labor.

The law makers are condemned for repealing the full-crew bill "thereby endangering the safety of the traveling public and railroad employees" for defeating a bill that would regulate night work by women and for increasing the number of state cossacks.

NO REDUCTION IN FOOD PRICES CAN BE FOUND

According to the bureau of labor statistics the retail cost of food remained practically stationary between January 15 and February 15. Seven cities reported decreases, but on investigation it is found that the decrease averaged less than 1 per cent. Kansas City led with a 4 per cent decrease. Little Rock, Pittsburgh, Providence and Washington all reported a 1 per cent decrease and Louisville and Jacksonville less than five-tenths of 1 per cent.

Of the cities reporting increases Minneapolis and St. Paul lead with 2 per cent. In Baltimore, Indianapolis, Milwaukee and St. Louis there was an increase of 1 per cent; in Detroit the increase was five-tenths of 1 per cent.
